Any statement made, views expressed or conclusions drawn in this report are wholly the responsibility of the author alone in his personal capacity and do not necessarily represent the views of the Government.

Arunachal Pradesh is a thinly populated hilly tract lying roughly between the latitudes 26°28′ N and 29°30′ N and the longitudes 91°30′ E and 97°30′ E on the North East extremity of India, comprising roughly of 83,578 kilometre squares of area, bordering the international boundaries of Bhutan, Tibet, China and Burma. The Pradesh is known to be rich in flora, fauna, power and mineral potential.

When the 1971 Census was taken in Arunachal Pradesh, the area was known as the North East Frontier Agency (NEFA in short) which was constitutionally a part of the State of Assam. At that time NEFA was directly administered by the President of India through the Governor of Assam as his agent, who was assisted by an adviser. The office of the Adviser to the Governor of Assam was situated at Shillong, the capital of the Assam State.

On the 21st. January, 1972, NEFA has been made into a Union Territory under the provisions of the North Eastern Areas (Reorganisation) Act, 1971 (81 of 1971) and placed under the charge of a Chief Commissioner with his headquarters at Shillong, now the capital of the State of Meghalaya.

INTRODUCTION

Introductory Note

This volume gives the economic tables thrown out by the 1971 Census with respect to Arunachal Pradesh.

The different regions of Arunachal Pradesh were included in the districts of Assam prior to 1914. In 1914, these areas were made into separate 'Tracts' called the North East Frontier Tracts by a Government of India notification with the following administrative units,

(i) The Western Section,

(ii) The Central and Eastern Section and

(iii) The Lakhimpur Frontier Tract.

Entry of a British subject or of a foreign resident into the North East Frontier Tracts, was regulated by an 'Inner Line' which was prescribed by the then Lieutenant Governor of Assam in exercise of the special powers conferred upon him under the provisions of the Regulation V of 1873 (Regulation for the peace and government of certain districts on the eastern frontier of Bengal). The purposes of the enactment were (1) 'to bring under more stringent control the commercial relation of the British subject with the Frontier Tribe' ; (2) 'to prevent operation of speculators in caoutchouc' and the spread of the gardens beyond the fiscal limits of settled Mahals, and (3) to lay down rules for possession of land and property beyond the 'Line'. A number of notifications were issued by the Government of India defining the exact extent of the Inner Line from 1875 to 1954.

In 1919, the Western Section was renamed as the Balipara Frontier Tract and the Central and Eastern Section was renamed as the Sadiya Frontier Tract. In 1921 Census reports, data relating to the Balipara Frontier Tract, the Sadiya Frontier Tract and the Lakhimpur Frontier Tract were published. But these data suffered from the limitation of coverage. The erstwhile British Government left the area alone as much as possible because it yielded no revenue and bringing it under an effective administration was too expensive. The limitation remained unchanged till 1961 when the independent India affected a complete coverage of the area under census with a determination and purposefulness. The country was keen to develop the hitherto neglected area and bring it at par with the rest of the country. In the mean time, lots of administrative changes had taken place in the Frontier Tracts. In 1943, a Tirap Frontier Tract was created by carving out some portions of the Sadiya Frontier Tract and of the Lakhimpur Frontier Tract. In 1946, the Balipara Frontier Tract was divided into Se La Sub Agency and Subansiri Area. In 1948, the remaining portion of the Sadiya Frontier Tract was bifurcated into two separate administrative charges, namely, the Abor Hills District and the Mishmi Hills District.

In 1954 some portions of the Frontier Tracts were transferred to the administrative jurisdiction of the Government of Assam and the remaining portion was called the North East Frontier Agency. Under the regulation of 1954, the following administrative units of the North East Frontier Agency were constituted with redefined boundaries,

(1) Kameng Frontier Division,
(2) Subansiri Frontier Division,
(3) Siang Frontier Division,
(4) Lohit Frontier Division,
(5) Tirap Frontier Division, and
(6) Tuensang Frontier Division.

In 1957, Tuensang Frontier Division was excluded from the North East Frontier Agency.

Prior to conduct of the 1961 Census, the North East Frontier Agency Administration covered the entire Agency with a 'Human Population Survey' and prepared the estimates of population for meeting the administrative requirements. 1961 Census largely followed the methodology of the 'Human Population Survey' and covered the entire Agency with a non-synchronous census using a simplified household schedule instead of the Individual Slips canvassed in the remaining parts of the country. However, on an experimental basis, Individual Slips were canvassed over an extended period of time. This experiment turned out to be of immense value while planning the 1971 Census.

In 1965, the Frontier Divisions of the North East Frontier Agency were renamed as districts and the Political Officers, through whom the district administration was carried out, were renamed as Deputy Commissioners, Additional Deputy Commissioners, Assistant Commissioners and Extra Assistant Commissioners.

1971 Census :

At the time of taking of 1971 Census, the North East Frontier Agency was a part of Assam administered directly by the President of India through the Governor of Assam as his agent. The Governor of Assam was assisted by an adviser. The office of the Adviser to the Governor of Assam was located at Shillong, the capital of the Assam State. In 1972, the Agency was made into a Union Territory and renamed as Arunachal Pradesh under the provisions of the North-Eastern Areas (Reorganisation) Act 1971, (81 of 1971). A Chief Commissioner was appointed to act as the Administrator of the newly created Union Territory. The headquarters of the Chief Commissioner of Arunachal Pradesh is located at Shillong, the capital of the Meghalaya State.

1971 Census covered the entire Arunachal Pradesh with all India schedules of enquiry and methodology. However, the coverage of the Pradesh under census was nonsynchronous, like in 1961 Census. The census enumeration in the snow-bound and inaccessible areas of Arunachal Pradesh started by the first day of October, 1970, although the bulk of the enumeration work was carried out as close to the all India period of enumeration as possible.

The conduct of enumeration work in 1971 Census was planned to be carried out from the twentieth day of February, 1971 to end by the sunrise of the first day of March, 1971 which was fixed as the reference day for 1971 Census. But, because of the exigency created by the mid-term poll for the Parliamentary Constituencies, the reference day was later changed to the sunrise of the first day of April, 1971 and the actual work of enumeration was carried out from the twentieth day of March, 1971 onwards. Revisional rounds were carried out for three days after the reference date. However, it was not possible to carry out the revisional rounds in Arunachal Pradesh except in the circle, the subdivisional and the district headquarters. Therefore, the figures yielded by the 1971 Census with respect to Arunachal Pradesh, are dejure in character and not extended defacto like other parts of the country.

Schedules

The census data are required to be used by the divergent bodies engaged in research and development of the country. The requirements of research and development of the country do not stay stationary, and therefore, it is necessary that the concepts and definitions of various terms used for census, and the census schedules of inquiry, are reviewed by the data users and the administrative machinery responsible for carrying out of the census prior to taking of a decennial census. With this in view, the Registrar General, India drafted his census questionnaires after consulting the Planning Commission, Ministries of the Government of India, Chambers of Commerce, Statistical Organisation and other users of census data. These draft schedules were tested all over the country to appreciate their suitability. The results of testing were again reviewed in consultation with the data users. After taking everything into consideration, the schedules were drafted for a second time and again tested in the field. Arunachal Pradesh also took part in the second testing of the draft schedules, utilising the good offices of the district authorities. The comments of the field agency conducting the second test was reviewed by the Registrar General, India and other data users, which led to finalisation of the schedules to be canvassed in 1971 Census.

The main schedules consisted of the following :

(1) Individual Slips,

(2) Houselist, and

(3) Establishment Schedules.

In addition to these, the following important subsidiary schedules were also finalised :

(1) Population Record,

(2) Enumerator's Abstract,

(3) Enumerator's Daily Posting Statements, and

(4) Houselist Abstract.

The Individual Slip

The Individual Slips contained 17 main questions and covered the following with respect to each individual.

(1) Name,

(2) Relationship to head of household,

(3) Sex,

(4) Age,

(5) Marital status,

(6) For currently married women only,
   (a) age at marriage,
   (b) any child born in the last one year,

(7) Particulars of birth place : (a) place of birth (b) rural/urban differentiation (c) district of birth (d) state or country of birth,

(8) Particulars of last residence (a) place of last residence (b) rural or urban (c) district (d) state or country,

(9) Duration of residence at the village or town of enumeration,

(10) Religion,

(11) Name of the Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe if the persons belonged to one,

(12) Literate or illiterate,

(13) Highest educational level attained,

(14) Mother tongue,

(15) Other languages known,

(16) Main activity

(a) Broad category,

(i) In case of an economically active worker, if the person was a cultivator, agricultural labourer or engaged in household industry or doing other work,

(ii) In case of a non-worker, if the person was engaged in household duties, or was a student, or a retired person, or a rentier or royalty receiver, or a dependent such as infant or disabled, or a very old person, or a beggar or vagrant, or an inmate of a penal or charitable institution, or others not employed,

(b) Place of work,

(c) Name of establishment,

(d) Nature of industry, trade, profession or service,

(17) Secondary work,

(a) Broad category such as cultivator, agricultural labourer, engaged in household industry or other work,

(b) Place of work, etc., as in Question 16(b) to (f).

The Individual Slip is a fairly comprehensive schedule which attempts to collect all essential demographic, social and economic characteristics of every individual that can possibly be collected at an operation of this nature. Any attempt to collect more would be beyond the capacity of the census agency as it is constituted now. The concepts have to be as simple as possible and such as can be easily understood and applied by the census enumerator who is basically a Primary School Teacher. The census questions should also be such as would not require deep probes.

The new features of the 1971 Census Individual Slip as compared to that of the 1961 counterpart are : (i) an attempt is made to collect data on current fertility, (ii) migrational particulars with reference to the place of last residence are collected, and (iii) considerable departure is made in respect of the economic questions. The main activity of a person was ascertained according as he spent his time basically as worker producing goods and services or as a non-worker. For regular work in industry, trade or services, the reference period was the week prior to the enumeration and for seasonal work such as agriculture, the last one year. The person was categorised according to the main activity returned by an individual. Where a person who was basically a non-worker, such as a student or house-wife, did make some marginal contribution to work, that secondary work was recorded in question 17. Experience of the 1961 Census had shown that census was not a proper agency to collect reliable data on unemployment as such. Therefore, the 1971 Census did not ask a question on unemployment directly but the unemployed were expected to fall in the residuary category of non-workers and data in respect of them would be provided to be utilised subject to its limitations.

The other schedules of inquiry will not be discussed in this volume as this volume presents only the tables prepared in respect of the questions 3, 4, 12, 13, 16 and 17 of the Individual Slips. The instructions given to the enumerators for recording answers to the above questions of the Individual Slips, may be seen in the "Instructions to enumerators for filling up the Individual Slip", which appears as Appendix II to this volume.

DISTRICTS

There are five districts in Arunachal Pradesh. In the western part of Arunachal Pradesh, Kameng District covers an area of 13,724 kilometre squares roughly between 91°30′ to 93°22′ E longitudes and 26°54′ to 28°01′ N latitudes. Its northern boundary passes through the high peaks of the Himalayas that forms the boundary between India and Tibet. In the East lies the Subansiri District of Arunachal Pradesh. The southern boundary adjoins the Darrang District of Assam. The western boundary of the district demarcates Bhutan from India.

Subansiri District lies East of the Kameng District covering approximately 14,797 kilometre squares of area. This district is situated approximately between latitudes 26°53′ N and 28°23.5′ N and longitudes 92°41′ E and 94°22′ E. It is bounded by Tibet in the North, Siang District in the East, the Assam State in the South and Kameng District in the West.

In the central part of Arunachal Pradesh, Siang District covers an area of 23,723 kilometre squares lying roughly between 93°11′ to 95°35′ E longitudes and 27°32′ to 29°20′ N latitudes. It is bounded by Tibet in the North, Lohit District in the East, the Assam State in the South and Subansiri District in the West.

In the Eastern part of Arunachal Pradesh, Lohit District covers an area of 24,427 kilometre squares roughly between 95°15′ to 97°30′ E longitudes and 27°33′ to 29°30′ N latitudes. It is bounded by Siang District in the West, Tibet and China in the North, China and Burma in the East and Tirap District and the Assam State in the South.

The district of Tirap covers an area of 6,907 kilometre squares and lies roughly between the latitudes 26°28′ N and 27°33′ N and longitudes 95°10′ and 97°11′ E. The district lies on the south-eastern corner of Arunachal Pradesh, bounded in the North by Lakhimpur District of Assam and Lohit District of Arunachal Pradesh, in the East and the South by Burma, and in the West by Nagaland and Sibsagar District of Assam.

The district of Siang contains the largest population (121,936) whereas Lohit District contains the smallest population (62,865). The following table gives the districtwise population of Arunachal Pradesh with sex break-ups.

Lohit	62,865	35,461	27,404
Tirap	97,470	51,774	45,696

The distribution of population amongst the districts of Arunachal Pradesh is not uniform. The Arunachal Pradesh Administration has subdivided the districts into smaller units and placed them under the charges of Additional Deputy Commissioners who function more or less independently within their respective jurisdictions for the purpose of administrative convenience.

SUBDIVISIONS

The district of Kameng has been divided into three subdivisions, namely, Bomdila, Tawang and Seppa. Bomdila Subdivision is placed directly under the charge of the Deputy Commissioner, Kameng District. The other two subdivisions are under the control of two Additional Deputy Commissioners respectively.

The district of Subansiri has three subdivisions, namely, Ziro, Daporijo and Koloriang. Ziro Subdivision is placed directly under the charge of the Deputy Commissioner.

An Assistant Commissioner is in charge of Koloriang Subdivision, who is responsible to the Deputy Commissioner, Subansiri District. The position of Daporijo Subdivision requires some explanation. The boundary between the Subansiri and the Siang districts is defined by the mid-stream of the Subansiri river. This definition is geographically logical as the river Subansiri forms a fixed and natural object between the two districts. However, the people of both the districts, by custom, live in villages situated at about mid-heights between the high mountains and the river valleys for various reasons. In fact, the high mountains separate the tribes. Thus, both the banks of the Subansiri river and its tributaries are well populated with similar people. This fact forced the Administration to take some areas from Subansiri District and some from Siang District to form an independent subdivision called "Daporijo" and place it under the charge of an Additional Deputy Commissioner. At the time of taking of 1971 Census, Daporijo Subdivision was administratively treated as a part of Siang District. As such, enumeration was done by treating it as a part of Siang District using the location code of Siang District. However, at the time of tabulation, the correct legal boundaries between the Siang and the Subansiri districts were reflected and as a result, this subdivision and five of its circles appeared as 'Parts' under both the districts.

The district of Siang has been divided into five subdivisions, namely, Along, Mechuka, Tuting, Daporijo and Pasighat. Along, Mechuka and Tuting subdivisions are placed directly under the charge of the Deputy Commissioner, Siang District. Daporijo Subdivision and the Pasighat Subdivision are placed under the charges of two separate Additional Deputy Commissioners.

The district of Lohit is divided into three subdivisions for administrative purpose. They are Dibang Valley Subdivision, Hayuliang Subdivision and Tezu Subdivision. Dibang Valley Subdivision is under the charge of an Additional Deputy Commissioner who is more or less independent of the Deputy Commissioner, Lohit District, stationed at Tezu, the district headquarters. The charge of Tezu Subdivision is held by the Deputy Commissioner, Lohit District, whereas the charge of Hayuliang Subdivision is held by an Assistant Commissioner who is responsible to the Deputy Commissioner, Lohit District.

The district of Tirap has been divided into two subdivisions, namely, Khonsa and Niausa (now renamed as Longding). Khonsa Subdivision is placed directly under the charge of the Deputy Commissioner, Tirap District. The other subdivision is uader the control of an Extra Assistant Commissioner who is responsible to the Deputy Commissioner, Tirap.

*Daporijo Subdivision is created by carving out parts of Subansiri and Siang Districts. As the area carved out of Subansiri District is more than that of Siang District, Daporijo is shown under Subansiri District.

CIRCLES

The lowest unit of administration is a circle which is looked after by a Circle Officer or an Extra Assistant Commissioner. A circle is defined as a group of villages and not as a territorial unit.

The administrative set up as was available for taking census and defined by the Administration's Order No. GA/APTT/288/65 dated 22.12.1966, is given below in summary.

Urban areas

For recognition as an urban area, a place during 1971 Census was required to be either Municipal Corporation area or Municipal area or under Town Committee or Notified Area Committee or Cantonment Board. That is, the foremost consideration given by the 1971 Census to regard a place as urban was the administrative recognition of urban status of a place, and by towns were meant all places declared by the Government as urban and the civil administration of which were entrusted to local bodies. There was, however, provision for treating some places which did not enjoy the statutory label of administration as towns but exhibited definite urban characteristics to be included in the list of towns. The norm applied for 1971 Census to determine whether a particular area could be treated as urban notwithstanding the fact that the place did not receive an official recognition of the administration as a town, were as follows: (a) The minimum population of 5,000 (estimated for 1971) ; the density not less than 400 per square kilometre i.e., 1,000 per square mile ; (b) $\frac{3}{4}$th of the occupations of the male working population are to be the outside agriculture ; and (c) the place should have a few pronounced urban characteristics and amenities. No place in Arunachal Pradesh satisfied the necessary criteria to be included in the above two categories of towns namely, (1) declared as town by the Government and (2) considered suitable to be treated as urban area because of their population, density etc. In 1961 Census, the entire Arunachal Pradesh was treated as rural. But the districts and the subdivisional headquarters of Arunachal Pradesh were found to be possessing distinct urban characteristics in 1971. These areas had separate territorial identities against the villages that surrounded them. These places were mainly inhabited by Government servants and other worker who had migrated from outside. In consideration of their pronounced urban characteristics and the occupational pattern of the population, it was decided that the district and the subdivisional headquarters that recorded a population of 2,500 persons during 1961 Census should be treated as towns for the purpose of taking of 1971 Census. Accordingly, Along, the headquarters of Siang District; Bomdila, the headquarters of Kameng District; Pasighat, the subdivisional headquarters of Pasighat Subdivision of Siang District; and Tezu, the headquarters of Lohit District, were treated as towns during 1971 Census.

The urban characteristic that have developed in the above towns are the results of the administration efforts rather than any other tangible economic, cultural or social factors. That is why these towns fail to show some of the usual urban trends and fall short of some of the basic urban amenities like hotels and eating places, places for entertainment and worship. Although a number of other headquarters of the districts and the subdivisions were not included in the list of the towns for 1971 Census in consideration of the smallness of their population, these headquarters exhibited the same characteristics of the townships of the Along, Bomdila, Pasighat and Tezu. But the 1961 population of these places did not justify their treatent as towns according to the criterion adopted.

The urban population of Arunachal Pradesh is only 3.7% of the total population. The proportion of rural and urban population is approximately 96:4.

Of the total population of 467,511 of Arunachal Pradesh, 450,223 are rural and only 17,288 are urban. Of the total rural population of 438,855,500 of the entire country, the rural population of Arunachal Pradesh is 0.10 per cent only. Of the total urban population of 109,094,309 of the entire country, the urban population of Arunachal Pradesh is only 0.02 per cent.

The rural population of Arunachal Pradesh is less than the rural population of any State. However, amongst the Union Territories, the rural population of Arunachal Pradesh is next only to Goa, Daman and Diu. Other Union Territories have a lower size of rural population compared to Arunachal Pradesh.

The urban population of Arunachal Pradesh ranks last in the country both amongst the States and the Union Territories excluding Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Laccadive and Amindivi Islands which did not have any urban population at all. It had been stated that only 4 places in Arunachal Pradesh were treated as urban. Of these, 2 towns belonged to Siang District, one to Kameng and one to Lohit Districts. Subansiri and Tirap Districts of Arunachal Pradesh did not have any urban area.

Stages of taking census in Arunachal Pradesh

The conduct of 1971 Census in Arunachal Pradesh passed through the following stages :

STAGE-I : Location of the villages and collection of primary data to determine the number of schedules etc., to be used.

The shifting nature of the villages of Arunachal Pradesh presents a major difficulty in carrying out a large scale administrative operation like census. The people of Arunachal Pradesh largely practise the shifting cultivation which is commonly known as 'Jhum'. Jhum consists of clearing of a patch of land after a number of years that comprises the 'Jhum Cycle', by cutting and burning the overgrowth, and then growing of a mixed crop therein usually for one or two seasons, after which the patch is abandoned and another patch is opened for the next year's cultivation. The 'Jhum Cycle' or the number of years after which a patch of land is cleared for cultivation, varies from 7 to 10 years depending upon the availability of land and population. As a result of this, the people have to carry out their cultivation work over a wide area and consequently, have developed a tendency to shift their habitations as close to the cultivation field as the circumstances permit. In addition to this, the traditional insecurity of the tribes as a result of the inter-village and inter-tribe feuds had developed the habit of large scale internal migrations of the people. The shifting nature of the villages renders the job of keeping track of the inhabited villages rather difficult. Therefore, the first effort directed towards conduct of 1971 Census was to compile a list of the existing villages of Arunachal Pradesh. The job was started in 1968 and could be completed in about 18 months. The district authorities utilised the agency of the Village Level Workers and listed all the villages under their jurisdictions. In doing so, they also prepared a notional map of the village, counted the number of houses and the persons living in each village. These information became extremely useful at the stage of planning the field work by providing a firm frame for carrying out the 1971 Census enumeration, and also for estimating the requirements of schedules and instructions booklets.

It may be mentioned here that in Arunachal Pradesh only the districts are defined as territorial units. The administrative set ups below the levels of the districts are not defined as territorial units. A subdivision is a group of circles and the circles are a group of villages, whereas the villages are the groups of houses recognised by tradition and custom as villages.

The administrative set up of Arunachal Pradesh is defined by an administrative circular of 1966. In this circular the circles and the subdivisions under the districts are defined by the names of the villages contained in each. The list of the villages were not exhaustive and in many cases the district authorities were given the discretion to work out a fuller list of villages under the circles. This circular formed the basis upon which 1971 Census was taken in Arunachal Pradesh. A good number of marginal adjustments had to be done in defining the circles with the names of the villages in consultation with the district authorities.

STAGE-II : Building up of the census hierarchy and other preparatory work.

The legal basis of taking census is provided by the Indian Census Act (Act No. XXXVII of 1948). Under the provision of this act, the Deputy Commissioners of the five districts of the Arunachal Pradesh were appointed as the District Census Officers and the five Additional Deputy Commissioners were appointed as the Subdivisional Census Officers by the Governor of Assam. Under the provisions of the North East Frontier Agency (Construction of References to the State Governments) Regulation 1965, a reference to the State Government is to be constructed to be reference to the Governor of Assam. These Census Officers were assisted by the Deputy District Census Officers and the Assistant Subdivisional Census Officers. The Assistant Commisioners and the Extra Assistant Commissioners incharge of more than one circle, were appointed as the Charge Superintendents (Senior). The Circle Officers and the Extra Assistant Commissioners incharge of circles were appointed as the Charge Superintendents. Each administrative circle was treated as a 'Census Charge'. Under the Charge Superintendents, a number of enumerators carried out the actual census work supervised by the supervisors.

The preparatory work consisted of redrawal of the village notional maps using as conventional symbols as possible so that they could be used by the general run of the enumerators ; procurement of schedules and instruction booklets from the Registrar General, India and their despatch to the districts and the out posts ; training of the Census Officers at all levels ; and making special arrangement for enumeration of special establishments functioning in Arunachal Pradesh.

STAGE-III Housenumbering and houselisting, and census enumeration.

The housenumbering, the houselisting and the census enumeration were carried out in Arunachal Pradesh during a single visit of the enumerator to a village. The census enumerator carried with him a ferro-printed copy of the notional map of the village drawn by the Village Level Workers about 2 years back. On arriving at a village, the enumerator checked the notional map of the village with the layout of the village and corrected it by introducing new house symbols wherever a house was found to have been constructed after the notional map was prepared, and encircling and crossing out the houses that were found to have been dismantled since then. After he had satisfied himself that all the houses of the village were correctly recorded on the notional map, he started numbering the houses from a convenient point preferably from the south-west corner of the village if it was possible and convenient. At the same time, he marked on the map the number he had put on the house aganist the symbol of the house appearing on the map. After he had satisfied himself that all the houses were correctly numbered, he went round the village canvassing the Houselist forms and also the Establishment Schedule whenever necessary. After completing canvassing of the Houselist and the Establishment Schedule, he went round once again, this time canvassing the Individual Slips. After completing canvassing of the Individual Slips, he made specific inquiries as to whether any house or houses existed within the village boundary in isolated hamlets. In case of a reply in affirmative, he visited the hamlets and the field huts and collected the required information in all the schedules. Simultaneously with filling in of the Individual Slips, the enumerator filled in the subsidiary schedules like Population Records, the Enumerator's Daily Posting Statemens and finally the Enumerator's Abstract and the Houselist Abstract.

The enumerator kept the copies of the filled in schedules inside a polythene paper bag supplied to him for the purpose, and handed them over to the supervisor or the Charge Superintendent concerned in a lot.

STAGE-IV : Provisional population total

The Charge Superintendent totaled the figures given in the Enumerator's Abstract and communicated the provisional population totals with respect to his Charge by utilising the available telegraphic or wireless facilities, or by sending a special messenger, to the Deputy Commissioner or the Additional Deputy Commissioner and simultaneously to the Director of Census Operations, Arunachal Pradesh. The Additional Deputy Commissioner consolidated the population totals reported to him by the Charge Superintendents and communicated the same to the Deputy Commissioner and the Director of Census Operations, Arunachal Pradesh. The Deputy Commissioners consolidated the information received from the Additional Deputy Commissioners and also from the Charge Superintendents placed directly under his charge and communicated the provisional population totals with respect to their districts to the Registrar General, India and to the Director of Census Operations, Arunachal Pradesh. The Director of Census Operations, Arunachal Pradesh consolidated the information received from the Deputy Commissioners and compared them with the information received directly from the Charge Superintendents and the Additional Deputy Commissioner, and communicated the provisional population totals for Arunachal Pradesh to the Registrar General, India. The Registrar General, India, consolidated the information received from all other States, Union Territories and other areas, and arrived at the provisional population total for the country and released the same to the press and other users. The provisional population total figures for the States, Union Territories and other areas were released by the Director of Census Operations immediately afterwards. On the 20th April, 1971 the booklet called 'Paper I of 1971—Provisional Population Totals' was taken out by the Director of Census Operations, Arunachal Pradesh which was followed by a supplement released on the first day of May, 1971.

BASIC CONCEPTS OF ECONOMIC CLASSIFICATION OF POPULATION

Workers and non-workers

The population can be broadly divided on the basis of the activity of the people as those who are engaged in economically productive activities and those who are not.

changes in concept of worker

Unfortunately, it has not been always possible to clearly define who is an economically productive worker. The concept has varied from census to census. At each census, on the advice of the data users and economic experts, the concept was sought to be improved upon to give what was expected to be a truer picture of the economic activity of the population. This sometimes led to a loss of comparability of the data between censuses.

1951 concept

In the 1951 Census, a significant change was made in the presentation of census data at the village or town level. In the 1941 and earlier censuses, religion was adopted as the basis upon which primary sorting and tabulation were done and the population classified by religion and sex, thus obtained, was given in the village statistics. In 1951 Census, economic classification substituted the classification based on religion. For this purpose, the population was divided into eight livelihood classes and in each livelihood class the self-supporting persons and their dependents were included. The eight livelihood classes were framed with reference to the means of livelihood returns at the census.

In the 1961 Census, the concept of dependency was abandoned for the purpose of economic classification of the population.

1961 concept

Primary classification of the population at the village and town levels was made on the basis of the following ten 'Industrial' categories in which included were the non-workers as a separate category :

I. Working as cultivator,

II. Working as agricultural labourer,

III. Working in mining, quarrying, livestock, forestry, fishing, hunting and plantations, orchards and allied activities,

IV. Working at household industry,

V. Working in manufacturing other than household industry,

VI. Working in construction,

VII. Working in trade and commerce,

VIII. Working in transport, storage and communications,

IX. Working in other services,

X. Non-workers.

In 1971 Census, every individual was required to declare himself what according to him was his main activity. If his answer indicated that he was economically active worker, he was classified as working as a cultivator or as an agricultural labourer or in mining, manufacture, trade, transport, services, etc. If a person returned himself basically as not engaged in any economic activity, such a person was required to state if he or she was engaged in household duties, or was a student, retired person or a rentier, a dependent, a beggar or vagrant, an inmate of a charitable or penal institution, or other non-worker such as being an unemployed person.

1971 concept

In addition, a question was also asked so as to elicit information on the marginal contribution to work made by persons who had declared themselves basically as housewives or full-time students etc., and even by the 'workers' who augmented their income by secondary work.

The Planning Commission set up a committee of experts under its Resolution No. LQE(E) 12-7/68 dated August 19, 1968 to "go into the estimates of unemployment worked out for the previous plans and the data and methodology used in arriving at them and advise the Planning Commission on the various issues connected therewith, in particular the alternative methods of analysis, computation and presentation that may be adopted for the Fourth Five Year Plan (1969-74) in the ten years perspective of 1969-70". The committee was headed by Professor M. L. Dantwala of the University of Bombay. While summarising the overall problems of estimating the labour force and the unemployment situation, the committee observed as under in their report :

"5.2 At the outset, it is important to recognise that many of the limitations of the estimates of labour force, employment and unemployment are inherent in the socio-economic conditions of our country and cannot be wholly overcome by conceptual refinement or improvements in the technique of estimation. We appreciate the desire on the part of the lay public for precise estimates in the vital problems of employment and unemployment. It should, however, be made clear that, in the nature of the socio-economic situation, such precision is not possible. Of course, this should not be an excuse for neglecting the task of compiling and presenting the relevant information as intelligently and precisely as is possible under the circumstances. Incidentally, even in a country like Japan with her pronounced predilection for quantitative estimates, "it is difficult to find a single estimate of the rate of unemployment." The Japanese planners go on changing even the definition of labour shortage as the economy progresses. Indeed it has been observed the "that Japanese regard westernstyle unemployment statistics as nonsense".

"5.3 Basic to the issue of unemployment is the very concept of labour force. It is now realised that the concept as adopted in developed economics is preponderance of self-employment and production within household enterprises. Attempts made towards refinement of the concept to make it more appropriate for our economy e.g. by asking those who are not seeking work, whether they are 'available' for work have not solved the basic difficulties. The main problem is that a sizeable proportion of labour input in household enterprises is provided by some members of the family who have only a partial attachment to the labour market in the family enterprise, without receiving any wage. The work on family farms and similar enterprises as and when required, and when they do so, technically they become part of the "labour force" but when there is no such work they generally revert to household work. In all probability, many of them would neither seek work nor be available for "outside" work. Thus, while their inclusion in labour force and in the calculation of unemployment becomes misleading, their total exclusion would also fail to reflect the reality of the economic situation".

Regarding, the data thrown out by census, the committee observed as below :

"5.4 The censuses are usually conducted during the slack season of the year to minimise the chance of omission of individuals from the count. In the circumstances, the use of a short reference period for collecting information on industry, occupation, class of worker, place of work and the secondary activity of those who are normally engaged in economic activity would not be quite appropriate, except for those whose characteristics remain essentially unchanged throughout the year. It is, therefore, necessary to modify the basis of identification of the labour force, used in these censuses, for the collection of data on the economic activity of the population. Indeed, awareness of this particular problem is the basis of the use of a dual reference period by the 1961 Census and also for the proposed 1971 Census. According to the information conveyed to us by the office of the Registrar General, in the 1971 Census, an attempt will be made to collect information on the main activity of every individual and this will form the basis of the distinction between workers and non-workers. The reference period will be 'one week prior to the date of enumeration' for those working regularly in trade, profession, service or business and 'last one year' for those engaged in seasonal activities which are not carried on throughout the year. The question of secondary work will be asked also to those persons who are classified as non-workers in response to the question about their main activity. This approach has the advantage that it might provide a complete inventory of even part-time workers whose main activity might be household work or studies. One would have the opportunity to exclude or include such part-time workers from consideration, depending on the objectives of the analysis. It is however possible that the enumerator might try to lighten their workload by classifying a person as 'non-worker' and overlook asking the question about the secondary work performed by such a person. Due care must be taken to prevent such omission."

Planning Commission on 1971 Census concept

On May 24, 1969, the Planning Commission held a meeting of some eminent scholars and data users under the Chairmanship of Professor D. R. Gadgil, Deputy Chairman, Planning Commission and an economist of wide repute, to consider the 1971 Census programme, when it was observed as below :

"The concept of worker and non-worker came up for detailed consideration. The reference period proposed for the 1971 Census was one week for regular work and last working seasons for seasonal work. For regular work, an individual would be classified as worker if he had put in gainful work on any one day of the previous week. For seasonal work, an individual was proposed to be classified as worker if he had put in regularly at least half normal day's work during the major part of the last working season. At the 1961 Census, the reference period for regular work was a fortnight and for seasonal work a person was deemed a worker if he put in at least one hour work a day during the major part of the working seasons.

It was felt that the concept of worker at the 1961 Census tended to inflate workers as persons who were basically non-workers like housewives, students etc., were included in the category of workers even though their participation was very marginal. The concept of half a day's normal work proposed for 1971 Census for seasonal work was also considered not realistic. While the reference period of one week was all right for regular work, what was essential was that every person should be basically classified according to his/her main activity, particularly those not engaged in regular work. Certain activities like cultivation, agricultural labour etc., are not carried out throughout the year. Therefore, a person enumerated should be asked to state what his main activity was and even if he was not engaged in that activity during the reference period of one week, if he had engaged himself in the main activity reported by him in the course of the last one year that shall be treated as his main activity. In the case of persons who are basically occupied as house workers, students, rent receivers etc., they should be classified as such for their main activity. If they engaged in some economic activity, obviously not to the same extent as full-time workers, that activity should be ascertained under the head of secondary work. The secondary work, if any, of those who are basically classified as workers will also be ascertained."

Concept and definition for 1971 Census and instructions to enumerators

The question numbers 16 and 17 of the Individual Slip used in 1971 Census, were devoted respectively to record the details of the 'main activity' of the 'workers' and the 'secondary work' performed by the persons who were 'workers' or 'non-workers' according to their main activity. The instructions given to the enumerators in this regard are reproduced below which will clarify not only the methodology but also the concepts and definitions involved.

"QUESTION 16 : MAIN ACTIVITY

Every person will be asked what his main activity is, that is, how he engages himself mostly. For the purpose of this question, all persons will get themselves divided into two broad streams of main activity namely, (1) as workers and (2) as non-workers according as the type of main activity that the person returns himself as engaged in mostly.

'WORKER' DEFINED : A 'Worker' is a person whose main activity is participation in any economically productive work by his physical or mental activity. Work involves not only actual work but effective supervision and direction of work.

REFERENCE PERIODS : The reference period is one week prior to the date of enumeration in the case of regular work in trade, profession, service or business. If a person had participated in any such regular work on any one of the days during this reference period and this has been returned as his main activity, the person will be categorised accordingly. A person who normally works but had been absent from work during this reference period on account of illness or travel, holiday, temporary breakdown, strike etc., the person should be treated as engaged in regular work in which he would have otherwise been employed but for his temporary absence. Persons under training such as apprentices with or without stipends or wages should be considered as economically active and recorded as working. A person who has merely been offered work but has not actually joined it, is not to be treated as engaged in work.

There are certain types of works which are not carried on throughout the year such as cultivation, livestock keeping, plantation work, some types of household industry etc. A person's main activity should be ascertained with reference to such work in the last one year even if he was not economically active in the week prior to enumeration. It is likely that even when a person is engaged in some other work during the period of one week prior to the date of enumeration, the main activity of the person may be cultivation, agricultural labour or some other work attended to normally by him in the course of the year. Care must be taken to see that the main activity is properly ascertained in such cases. For example, a person's main activity may be agricultural labour and in the week prior to enumeration he may be engaged as a sugarcane factory labourer or as a road coolie. He should be categorised for his main activity as agricultural labourer only as returned by him as he engages mostly in that work and the other work should be treated as his subsidiary work.

A man or woman who is engaged primarily in household duties such as cooking for own household or performing ones own household duties or a boy or a girl who is primarily a student attending institution, even if such a person helps in the family economic activity but not as full-time worker should not be treated as a worker for the main activity. On the other hand, if a person is primarily engaged in some economic activity but at the same time does also attend to some household chores or attends a night school etc., he or she should be treated basically as a worker for the main activity and categorised accordingly.

A person who merely received an income such as a rent receiver or a pensioner who does not have to work for receiving the income, will not be treated as economically active unless the person is also in some economic activity and if that activity is returned as the main activity of the individual.

Q. 16(a) Broad Category (i) Worker (C, AL, HHI, OW) (ii) Non-worker (H, ST, R, D, B, I, O.)

The main activity returned by the person will entitle him to be categorised either as a worker in 16(a)(i) or as a non-worker under 16(a)(ii).

Q. 16(a)(i) Worker (C, AL, HHI, OW)

Where the main activity of a person qualifies him to be treated as a worker he should be further categorised according to the type of work and one work and one of the appropriate abbreviations indicated against this question should be entered in the box provided for the purpose. If the person is not engaged in any economic activity an 'X' should be noted in the box. The abbreviations to be used for workers are explained below :

C : CULTIVATOR

For a person who returns his main activity as working as a cultivator, the abbreviation 'C' should be used.

Definition of Cultivator : For purposes of the census a person is working as Cultivator if he or she is engaged in cultivation by oneself or by supervision or direction in one's capacity as the owner or lessee of land held from Govt. or as a tenant of land held from private persons or institutions for payment of money, kind or share.

Cultivation involves ploughing, sowing and harvesting and production of cereals and millet crops such as wheat, paddy, jowar, bajra, ragi etc., and pulses, raw jute and kindred fibre crop, cotton etc., and other crops such as sugarcane, groundnuts, tapioca etc., and does not include fruit growing, vegetable-growing or keeping orchards or groves or working of plantations like tea, coffee, rubber, cinchona and other medicinal plantations.

A person who merely owns land but has given out land to another person or persons for cultivation for money, kind or share of crop and who does not even supervise or direct cultivation of land, will not be treated as working as cultivator. Similarly, a person working in another person's land for wages in cash, kind or share (Agricultural Labourer) will not be treated as cultivator in this question.

AL : AGRICULTURAL LABOURER

A person who returns his main activity as engaged as agricultural labourer, the abbreviation 'AL' should be used in the box.

Definition of an Agricultural Labourer : A person who works in another person's land for wages in money, kind or share should be regarded as an agricultural labourer. He has no risk in the cultivation but he merely works in another person's land for wages. The labourer could have no right of lease or contract on land on which he works.

HHI : HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY

For a person who returns his main activity as engaged in some production, processing, servicing or repair of articles of goods such as, say, handloom weaving, dyeing, carpentry, bidi rolling, pottery manufacturer, bicycle repairing, blacksmithy, tailoring etc., it has to be ascertained if it is a household industry, and if so, it should be indicated by the abbreviation 'HHI' in the box.

Definition of a Household Industry : A Household Industry is defined as an industry conducted by the head of the household himself/herself and/or mainly by the members of the household at home or within the village in rural areas and only within the premises of the house where the household lives in urban areas. The industry should not be run on the scale of a registered factory.

The main criterion of a Household Industry is the participation of one or more members of a household. This criterion should apply to urban areas too. Even if the industry is not actually located at home in rural areas there is greater possibility of the members of the household participating even if it is located anywhere within the village limits. In the urban areas where organised industry takes greater prominence, the Household Industry should be confined to the precincts of the house where the participants live. In urban areas even if the members of the household by themselves run an industry but at a place away from the precincts of their home, it will not be considered a household industry. It should be located within the precincts of the house where the members live.

A Household Industry should relate to production, processing, servicing, repairing or making and selling (but not merely selling) of goods. It does not include professions such as a pleader or doctor or barber, musician, dancer, waterman, dhobi, astrologer etc., or merely trade or business, even if such professions, trade or services are run at home by members of household. A list of a few typical Household Industries is appended to these instructions at Appendix III :

Sometimes it is likely that the person who may not be working in his own Household Industry may be working as a petty employee in another Household Industry. You should, therefore, enquire whether the person who is not working in his own Household Industry is working in any other Household Industry as an employee and record as per instructions given above.

OW : OTHER WORKERS

If a person gives his main activity as engaged in any other work which is not cultivation, agricultural labour or household industry, this may be indicated by merely noting 'OW' in the box. The type of workers that may come under the 'Other Workers' category are factory workers, those working in trade or transport, all Government servants, municipal employees, teachers, mining workers, political or social workers, building labourer etc., etc. In effect, all types of economic activity not covered by cultivation, agricultural labour or household industry will come under this residual category. Workers engaged in plantation or forestry should not be treated as cultivators or agricultural labourers but as 'Other Workers'.

Further details pertaining to this 'Other' category of workers, as also those engaged in household industry, will be recorded in the subsequent subparts (b) to (f) of question 16.

Q. 16(a)(ii) Non-worker (H, ST, D, B, I, O.)

As was stated earlier, question 16 is intended to ascertain the main activity of every individual whether he or she is economically active or not. While 16(a)(i) helps to broadly categorise all those who have returned some work as their main activity, 16(a) will help to categorise those whose main activity is not engaged in any economically productive work, but are basically non-workers. These may be categorised under seven broad heads whose abbreviations are indicated against this question. The appropriate abbreviation will have to be entered in the box provided. The abbreviations are explained below :

H : HOUSEHOLD DUTIES

This covers all those persons basically engaged in unpaid home duties doing no other work, or even if such a person may also be participating in some other work, it is not to the same extent as a whole-time worker and if the person has returned his or her main activity as attending to household duties. The main activity of such a person should be entered as 'H'. If a person whose main activity is attending to household duties, also engages oneself in some other economic activity such as helping in family cultivation or preparing cowdung cakes at odd times for sale etc., that economic activity will be covered as secondary work under question 17. On the other hand, a woman who works primarily as a factory worker or a plantation labourer or an agricultural labourer or in some office or shop etc., and also attends to household duties, obviously her main activity will be the economic activity in which she is mostly engaged in and should not be categorised as 'H' for her main activity in this question. She should have been treated basically as a worker and her main economic activity should have been recorded against 16(a)(i).

ST : STUDENT

This refers to those whose main activity is returned as a student. This will cover all full-time students or children attending school. Even if such persons participated in some work but not to the same extent as a full-time worker, by merely helping casually as an unpaid family worker in family cultivation, household industry, trade or business, they should be treated primarily as students, if that is their main activity. 'ST' should be entered in the box. The other economic activity, if any, that such persons attend to will be reflected under question 17 as secondary work.

R : RETIRED PERSON OR A RENTIER

A person who has retired from service and is doing no other work i.e. not employed again in some full-time work or does not engage himself in some other work as cultivation, in business, trade etc., or a person who is a rentier or living on agricultural or non-agricultural royalty, rent or dividend, or any other person of independent means for securing which he does not have to work, will come under this category. 'R' should be noted in the box for a person coming under this category.

D : DEPENDENT

This category will include all dependents such as infants or children not attending school or a person permanently disabled from work because of illness or old age. If a girl or an old woman attends to household duties she should be categorised under 'H' for her main activity rather than 'D'.

Dependents will include all non-workers even if able-bodied who have no other activity coming under any of the categories of non-workers and who are not seeking any work either but are purely dependent.

B : BEGGARS ETC.

This will cover beggars, vagrants or such cases as independent women without indication of source of income and those of unspecified sources of subsistence and who are not engaged in any economically productive work.

I : INSTITUTIONS

This will cover convicts in jails or inmates of a penal, mental or charitable institution, even if such persons are compelled to do some work such as carpentry, carpet weaving, vegetable growing etc., in such institutions. An under-trial prisoner in a jail should not, however, be brought under this category but has to be indicated according to the main activity he was engaged in before he was apprehended. Inmates of such institutions will be noted as 'I'.

O : OTHER NON-WORKERS

This will include all non-workers who may not come under any of the six categories above but are seeking work, they should be noted as 'O' in the box. A boy or a girl who has completed education or has stopped studying and is seeking work, will come under this category. If a person is merely spending his time at home as a dependent and is not doing any work and is not seeking any work will come under 'D' rather than 'O'. A person irrespective of age and whether educated or not, if he reports that he is not engaged in any other activity but is seeking work will come under this category.

If the main activity of the person who is enumerated does not qualify a person to be treated as a worker and he does not fall under any of the four broad categories of workers covered by 16(a)(i) and an 'X' has been put in the box against that question, then he must necessarily be categorised under any one of the seven broad types of non-workers and the appropriate abbreviation entered in the box opposite to question 16(a)(ii). Conversely if a person has already been treated as a worker and his main activity has been indicated in the box against question 16(a)(i), then question 16(a)(ii) will not apply to the person and an 'X' should be put in the box against question 16(a)(ii). Thus 16(a)(i) and 16 (a)(ii) are mutually exclusive.

Q. 16(b) to 16(f)

These sub-parts of question 16 will have to be filled only to describe the details of the household industry or other work indicated against question 16(a)(i). If the main activity has been shown as 'C' or 'AL' against question 16(a)(i), there is no need to give the details of the cultivation or agricultural labour in these sub-sections.

Similarly, if the main activity of an individual has been returned as a non-worker against question 16(a)(ii), sub-sections (b) to (f) will not apply and a 'X' may be put right across all these questions.

Q. 16(b) : Place of work (Name of village/town)

Ascertain from each person who is already taken as a worker other than in cultivation or agricultural labour i.e. question 16(a)(i) has been answered as 'HHI' or 'OW', the village or town where he or she works. If the place of work is the same as the village or town of enumeration write 'PL'. In all other cases you should write the name of the place fully. If a person has no fixed place of work such as, say, a travelling vendor of vegetables or a pedlar or a rickshaw puller who may go from one village or town to another, note 'No fixed place of work'. If he works in one particular town or village that should be noted.

Q. 16(c) : Name of Establishment

This question and the subsequent sub-sections of question 16 need not be answered for cultivators and agricultural labourers who are already noted as 'C' or 'AL' against question (16)(a)(i).

Record here the exact name of the factory, firm, workshop, business house, company, shop, office etc., and in respect of public offices you should clearly indicate whether they are Central or State Government or local body offices, etc. If the establishment does not have any definite name such as, say, in the case of a household industry like hand pounding of rice, gur making, bee keeping, handloom weaving, potter's house, blacksmithy etc., note 'No particular name'.

Q. 16(d) : Nature of Industry, Trade, Profession or Service

The answer to this question will have to be adequately precise to enable proper classification of the sector of economy in which the person is working. The sector of economy in which a person works may relate to (i) Plantation, Forestry, Fishing, Livestock etc., (ii) Mining and/or Quarrying (iii) Manufacturing (iv) Construction (v) Electricity, Gas or Water Supply (vi) Transport and Communications (vii) Trade and Commerce (viii) Professions and Services. Full details of the type of industry, trade, profession or service in which the person is engaged will have to be recorded here. To help you to appreciate the details that may have to be furnished to classify the economic activity appropriately, substantial description of various economic activities are furnished in Appendix IV, categorised under certain broad classifications. The list in Appendix IV is not exhaustive. You shall have to describe the nature of Industry, Profession, Trade or Service whatever it is, in as precise a detail as possible.

Q. 16(e) : Description of work

This question has to be filled up for all persons for whom the main activity is shown as 'HHI' or 'OW' in question 16(a)(i) and for whom you should have also to answer the other sub-sections of question 16. Under this question, the description of the actual work that the person enumerated is doing is to be recorded irrespective of which type of industry, trade, profession or service he may be working and which is already recorded under question 16(d). His actual work should also be given in sufficient detail. If for example a person is merely recorded as say, clerk with no other details, it will be impossible to properly categorise him as to the type of work he does. He may be a clerk attending to correspondence or book-keeping or accounting. Similarly, if a person was merely to be recorded as a mechanic, it will not help to determine what type of mechanic-electrical mechanic, or a motor mechanic, or a locomotive mechanic etc., he is. The description of the actual work done by a person should be ascertained in adequate detail and recorded against this question.

To guide you in answering question 16(e), the types of particulars that need to be ascertained in respect of a few typical occupations are given in Appendix V.

Appendix V is by no means exhaustive. This just illustrates the need to ascertain the full details of the particulars of work performed by an individual for being recorded against question 16(e).

It has been found in the past that substantial number of persons are recorded merely as general labourers. It is necessary to make a probe and find out in which type of work he is mostly engaged as a labourer such as, say, a road coolie, a loader or unloader at a market, a construction labourer etc.

For those in Military service it is enough if it is merely noted as 'in the service of the Central Government'. Other details need not be given.

General :

There need be no confusion as to the scope of questions 16(d) and 16(e). Question 16(d) would represent the nature of industry, trade, profession or service i.e. the field of economic activity in which a person is engaged in work and question 16(e) represents the occupation or the actual work that the person does in the industry, trade, profession or service in which he is engaged. Thus, for example the answer to question 16(d) may be, say, Cotton Textile manufacture and the answer to question 16(e) may be Chemical Engineer in that industry or a clerk or an accountant in that industry or a labourer in that industry or a truck driver or the managing director of that industry and so on. Similarly in question 16(d) the nature of service may be some department of the State Government Service and in question 16(e) the description of work may be a clerk or an accountant, a Director of the Deptt., jeep driver in the Deptt. etc., etc. Again say, against question 16(d) the answer may be private medical practice and in question 16(e) may cover orthopaedic surgeon, or nurse or a sweeper etc., working in that private medical practitioner's nursing home. The sample answers furnished in the specimens (Appendix VI) at the end of this book, the Industrial and Occupational lists in Appendices IV & V and the instructions given by your superior Census Officers may help you to clear any doubts you may have in your mind regarding the scope of questions relating to nature of Industry, Trade, Profession or Service covered by question 16(d) and the description of actual work of the individual enumerated covered by question 16(e).

Q. 16(f) : Class of Worker

For a person who is ;

(i) an Employer, that is, who hires one or more persons in his work described in question 16(e), write .. ER

(ii) an Employee, that is, who does his work described in question 16(e) under others for wages or salary in cash or kind, write .. EE

(iii) a Single Worker, that is, who is doing his work described in question 16(e) without employing others except casually, and without the help of other members of the family except casually and a participant in work as members of co-operatives, write .. SW

Acc. 26212
17-5-80

(iv) a Family Worker, that is, who is doing his work described in question 16(e) in a family enterprise alongwith other members of the family without wages or salary in cash or kind, write. .. FW

For a person for whom an 'X' is put in question 16(d) and 16(e) put an 'X' in this question also.

Explanation :

An Employer is a person who has to employ other persons in order to perform the work entered in question 16(e). That is to say, such a person is not only responsible for his own personal work but also for giving work to others in business mentioned in question 16(e). But a person who employs domestic servants for household duties or has subordinates under him in an office where he is employed by others, is not an employer, even if he has the power to employ another person in his office on behalf of his own employer or employers.

An Employee is a person who usually works under some other person for salary or wages in cash or kind. There may be persons who are employed as managers superintendents, agents etc., and in that capacity employ or control other workers on behalf of their own employers. Such persons are only employees, as explained above, and should not be regarded as employers.

A Single Worker for the purpose of question 16(f) is a person who works by himself. He is not employed by any one else and in his turn does not employ anybody else, not even members of his household except casually. This definition of a Single Worker will include a person who works in joint partnership with one or several persons hiring no employees, and also a member of a producer's co-operative. Each one of the partners or members of such producers' co-operatives should be recorded as 'Single Worker'.

A Family Worker is a member who works without receiving wages in cash or kind, in an industry, business, trade or service. For example, the working members in a family of Dhobies where they all participate and each does not receive wages separately will be family workers. There may be family workers in industry, trade or professions as well. For the purpose of this definition members of a family may be drawn from beyond the limits of the household by ties of blood or marriage. The family worker may not be entitled to a share of the profits in the work of the business carried on either by the person or head of the household or other relative.

Members of the household who help solely in household duties should not be treated as family workers.

In the case of persons engaged in household industry i.e., in the case of persons for whom the answer to question 16(a)(i) is 'HHI', there will be three classes of workers viz., Family Worker, Single Worker and Employee. There will be no Employer. Household industry by its very definition is conducted by the head of the household himself or/and other members of the household, the role of hired workers being secondary. If the head alongwith the members of the household is working in a household industry employing hired workers, the head and other members who are working should be treated as 'Family Workers'. If the head alone is working with the assistance of hired worker (s) whose role would be secondary as indicated above, he would be treated as a 'Single Worker'.

Some illustrations for filling the questions 16 or 17 are given in Appendix VI.

QUESTION 17 : SECONDARY WORK

This question should be asked of every person whether he has returned some work as his main activity against question 16(a (i) or had returned himself under any of the basically non-working categories against question 16(a)(ii). As was noted earlier, question 16(a)(ii) will cover cases like persons performing household duties or students who may not be engaged in any other economically productive work at all, as also those who, though basically are performing household duties or students etc., for the purpose of their main activity, still participated in some other economic activity such as helping the household in several items of work as in cultivation or in household industry or in looking after the cattle, in attending to family business etc., but not to the extent as a full-time worker. Such participation will be considered as secondary work of these persons.

Ask of each person if, besides what he had already returned as his/her main activity against question 16(a)(i) or 16(a) (ii), he/she participated in any secondary work. A number of unpaid family workers participating in the household enterprises, who might have returned themselves mainly as 'H' or 'ST' or 'R' under question 16(a)(ii) for their main activity will be netted here for their economic activity which is subsidiary. Mere rendering of service for ones own home or production of goods for purely domestic consumption are not to be treated as economic activity. For example, a servant who works as a cook in his or her employer's home for wages will be considered economically active but, a housewife, even if she may work much more than a paid servant, in having to cook for the family or looking after the household will not be treated as economically active for the purpose of this classification. Similarly, women who may produce cloth on a loin loom at home for domestic consumption will not be treated as economically active unless the products are sold and the household derives an income. Participation in work that goes to augment the income of the household will only be treated as economic activity. A boy whose main activity is shown as a student under 16(a)(ii), can have the secondary work of say, cultivation if he helped the head of the household in the family cultivation during some parts of the season. But if a girl student, whose main activity is shown as 'ST' under 16(a)(ii), also helped in weaving cloth purely for domestic consumption on a loin loom at home, or helped in attending to household chores, she will not be treated as having any secondary work. Secondary work will be reckoned only if the person is engaged in some economic activity even if marginal in addition to whatever is the main activity under question 16. A person whose main activity is shown as, say, a clerk in a Government Office or a teacher under question 16, also attends to some cultivation by his direct supervision or undertakes some tuition, this will be shown as secondary work under question 17. A person's main activity may be cultivation in question 16 and his subsidiary activity money lending in question 17. Again main activity may be agricultural labourer and subsidiary work sugar factory labourer and so on and so forth.

The instructions for the usage of abbreviations in categorising workers under 16(a)(i) and filling in the details under question 16(b) to (f), will apply mutatis mutandis to question 17(a) to (f), except that while question 16(a)(i) will cover the main work, question 17 (a) is intended to cover secondary work which may be possibly part-time. It may also be noted that the non-working categories of activity will not be reported as secondary work under question 17.

A few slips showing specimen entries appear as Appendix VII and some illustrations for recording answers against question 16 are given in Appendix VI. You are advised to study these specimen entries and illustrations before starting actual enumeration and also consult these and the instructions whenever you are in doubt in recording any answer during field operation."

Those who were basically, non-workers and who did some marginal work, were treated as economically active persons at par with the regular workers, in some earlier censuses as in 1961. But in 1971 Census, these persons were categorised according to the main activity indicated by them. In 1971 Census the marginal contribution to work by the persons who were basically non-workers, was sought to be netted under 'secondary work'. Under the conditions prevailing in Arunachal Pradesh, it does not appear that the enumerators really succeeded in netting all such secondary workers. Some communities in Arunachal Pradesh partly cultivates land and partly collects food from the environment usually wholly for self-consumption. In such cases it appeared difficult for the enumerators to define the 'secondary work' of the community as gainful economic pursuit. Moreover, such vocations as occasional carrying of headloads for wages by the members of the predominantly agricultural communities could not always be netted by the enumerators. To that extent, possibly, the 1971 concept had the effect of depressing the economically active persons, particularly the family workers. But it is estimated that such depression was not large in volume and did not vitiate the over-all economic condition of Arunachal Pradesh, as pictured from the incidence of work participation of the people, to a very great extent.

The 1971 workers' categories are as under :

(I) Cultivators,

(II) Agricultural labourers,

(III) Livestock, forestry, fishing hunting and plantations, orchards and allied activities,

(IV) Mining and quarrying,

(V) Manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs,

(a) Household industry,

(b) Other than household industry,

(VI) Construction,

(VII) Trade and commerce,

(VIII) Transport, storage & communications,

(IX) Other services,

(X) Non-workers.

The main differences between the 1961 and the 1971 workers' categories are two, firstly, the mining and quarrying workers were separated from the workers engaged in livestock, forestry, fishing and hunting etc., and secondly, the household industries were reflected as parts of the manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairing category ; the household industries did not maintain a separate identity of their own.

The historical background of economic classification of the population adopted in this and previous censuses, is given as under :

Every person was asked as to what his main activity was, that was, how he engaged himself mostly. For the purpose of this question, all persons were dichotomised as workers and non-workers according to their main activities.

A 'worker' was a person whose main activity was participation in any economically productive or by his physical or mental activity. Work involved not only actual work but effective supervision and direction of work.

The reference period was one week prior to the date of enumeration in the case of regular work in trade, profession, service or business. If a person had participated in any such regular work on any one of the days during this reference period and this had been returned as his main activity, the person was categorised accordingly. A person who normally worked but had been absent from work during the reference period on account of illness or travel, holiday, temporary breakdown, strike etc., was treated as engaged in regular work from which he had temporarily absented himself. Persons under training such as apprentices with or without stipends or wages, were treated as workers. A person who had merely been offered work but had not actually joined it, was not treated as engaged in work.

Certain types of work, like cultivation, livestock keeping, plantation work, some types of household industry etc., are not carried on throughout the year. A person's main activity was ascertained with reference to such work for the last one year, even if he was not economically active in the week prior to enumeration. It was likely that even when a person was engaged in some other work during the period of one week prior to the date of enumeration, the main activity of the person might be cultivation or agricultural labour or some other work attended to normally by him in the course of the year. Care was taken to see that the main activity was properly ascertained in such cases.

A man or woman who was engaged in household duties such as cooking for own household or one's own household duties or a boy or a girl who was primarily a student attending an educational institution, even if such a person helped in the family economic activity but not as a full-time worker, was not treated as a worker. On the other hand, if a person was primarily engaged in some household chores or attended a night school etc., he or she was treated basically as a worker.

A person who merely received an income such as a rent receiver or a pensioner who did not have to work for receiving the income, was not to be treated as economically active unless the person was also engaged in some economic activity and if that activity was returned as the main activity of the individual.

The basis of work was satisfied in the case of seasonal work like cultivation, livestock, dairying, household industry etc., if the person had some regular work of more than one hour a day throughout the greater part of the working season. In the case of regular employment in any trade, profession, service, business or commerce, the basis of work was satisfied if the person was employed during any of the fifteen days preceding the day on which the household was visited. A person who was working but was absent from his work during the fifteen days preceding the day on which he was enumerated or was absent from work for a period exceeding fifteen days prior to that day, if the same was due to illness or other such causes, was treated as worker. A person who had been offered work but had not actually joined work, was treated as non-worker. Work included not only actual work but effective supervision and direction of work.

Persons under training as apprentices with or without stipend or wages were regarded as working.

An adult woman who was engaged in household duties but doing no other productive work to augment the family's resources, was not considered as working for the purpose of this question. If, however, in addition to her household work she engaged herself in other gainful work such as rice pounding for sale or wages, or in domestic services for wages or minding cattle or selling firewood or making and selling cowdung cakes or grass etc., or any such work, she was treated as worker.

Persons like beggars, pensioners, agricultural or non-agricultural royalty, rent or divident receivers, who might be earning an income but who were not participating in any productive work, were not treated as working unless they worked in cultivation, industry, trade, profession, business or commerce.

A public or social service worker who was actively engaged in public service activity or a political worker who was also actively engaged in furthering the political activity of his party were regarded as worker.

The 1951 Census ascertained the economic status and the means of livelihood of every person. Every person was lebelled either as a "self-supporting person" or an "earning dependent", or "non-earning dependent". Where a person was in receipt of an income, and that income was sufficient at least for his own maintenance, then he or she was recorded as a 'self-supporting person'. All persons other than the 'self-supporting persons' were 'dependents'. A dependent may be either an 'earning dependent' or a 'non-earning dependent', the test was whether or not a person secured a regular income. Where the income which the person secured was not sufficient to support the person, the person was an 'earning dependent'. A person who did not secure any income either in cash or in kind was a non-earning dependent.

Each person was classified into the following categories :

A person who has no income in cash or kind was 'wholly dependent'. A person who contributed in cash or kind towards the support of the household without being definitely capable or supporting himself, was 'partly dependent'. A person who was not dependent on any other person was an 'independent worker.'

1931

In 1931, the population was divided into three classes. The 'earner' was defined as a person with permanent and regular work for which return was obtained in cash or in kind which helped to augment the family income.

A 'working dependent' was classified as a person who assisted with work of the family and contributed to its support without actually earning any wage.

A 'non-working dependent' was one who did not work or had no occupation.

1921, 1911 and 1901

One of the main features of these censuses was the dichotomy of population into 'actual workers' and 'dependents'.

The term 'actual worker' included all persons who actually did work or carried on business whether personally or by means or servants or who lived on house-rent, pension etc. The persons who were not 'actual workers' were 'dependents.'

TABLE B-I PART A

WORKERS AND NON-WORKERS ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY
CLASSIFIED BY SEX AND AGE GROUP

This is a basic economic table that gives the distribution of the entire population according to their main activity by sex, broad age groups of 0—14, 15—19, 20—24, 25—29, 30—39, 40—49, 50—59 and 60+ and rural/urban differentiation upto the level of the districts. The workers are further classified into 9 broad industrial categories.

Sex ratio

The sex ratio for the Arunachal Pradesh comes to 861 as per 1971 Census. The best sex ratio is to be found in Subansiri District where there are 931 females per 1,000 males. The lowest sex ratio of 773 females per 1,000 males is found in Lohit District. In Kameng District the sex ratio is 805, in Tirap District the sex ratio is 883 and in Siang District it is 878. The observed low sex ratio in Arunachal Pradesh and in the districts can be related to the non-indigenous population of Arunachal Pradesh who have come to work in the Pradesh leaving their families behind. The sex ratio of the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh is quite different. The sex ratio of the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh is 1,007 which is a fairly balanced ratio. For Siang and Lohit districts the sex ratio of the Scheduled Tribes comes to 1,018. For Subansiri District, the ratio for the Scheduled Tribes is 1,015. For Tirap and Kameng districts, the ratio is 996 and 984 respectively. The following table shows the sex ratios of the total and the Scheduled Tribes population by the districts.

The 1971 Census shows a sex ratio of 930 females per 1,000 males for the whole country. The position of Arunachal Pradesh in the overall sex ratio is fairly low amongst the States and the Union Territories of the country. All the major States show sex ratio higher than that of Arunachal Pradesh. The States of Haryana, Punjab and Nagaland, with the sex ratios of 867, 865 and 871 respectively, come closest to the Arunachal Pradesh sex ratio. Amongst the Union Territories, the Andaman and Nicobar Islands shows a lower sex ratio than in Arunachal Pradesh. Two predominantly urban Union Territories of Chandigarh and Delhi also show sex ratios lower than that of Arunachal Pradesh. No country in the world shows as low a sex ratio as in Arunachal Pradesh.

The sex ratio of the rural population of the country is 949 whereas the same for the urban population is 858. The rural sex ratio for Arunachal Pradesh is 881 and the urban sex ratio is 457. The States of Haryana, Nagaland and Punjab show sex ratios of the rural population lower than that of Arunachal Pradesh. Amongst the Union Territories, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Chandigarh and Delhi show rural sex ratios lower than in Arunachal Pradesh. The urban sex ratio of Arunachal Pradesh is the lowest in the whole country. The urban sex ratio of the State of Nagaland comes close to that of Arunachal Pradesh. Arunachal Pradesh is not comparable with any other State or Union Territory of the country with respect to the urban sex ratio.

Changes in sex ratio

In 1961, the sex ratio for Arunachal Pradesh was 894 which has reduced to 861 in 1971. Lohit District, accounting for the maximum percentage of 'other' migrants, accounts for the maximum drop in the sex ratio. In 1961 the sex ratio of this district was 893 which has come down to 773 in 1971. Lohit District is closely followed by Tirap District. Here, the sex ratio in 1961 was 947 which has come down to 883 during 1971. Kameng and Subansiri districts, where the incidence of migration had been the least, have registered an improvement in sex ratio. In 1961, there were 802 females per 1,000 males in Kameng District which has become 805 in 1971. The 1961, sex ratio of Subansiri District was 915 which has become 931 in 1971. Siang District has registered a fall in sex ratio. The ratio has come down from 918 of 1961 to 878 in 1971. The following statement gives the facts.

Sex ratio of the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh was 1,013 in 1961 which reduced to 1,007 in 1971. This reduction is not very significant but some districts show a greater degree of variation. As for example, Kameng District which shows an increase in the sex ratio of the total population, shows a reduction by 24 females for every 1,000 males during the decade for the Scheduled Tribes population. On the other hand, Siang District showing a reduction in the sex ratio by 40 females for every 1,000 males during the decade for the total population, has shown improvement in the sex ratio of the Scheduled Tribes by 16 females per 1,000 males. Lohit District has shown a drop in the sex ratio by 120 less females for every 1,000 males for the total population in 1971, but, for the Scheduled Tribes population, the sex ratio reduced by only 43 females per 1,000 males during the same period. So is the case with Tirap District where, as against the 64 females counted less for every 1,000 males over the decade for the total population, the Scheduled Tribes females reduced by only 13 females per 1,000 males between the period from 1961 and 1971. Subansiri is the least affected district in the case of change of sex ratio during the decade. The following table gives the changes in the proportion of the sexes between 1961 and 1971 amongst the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh.

Age structure

The age data returned in 1971 Census can not be said to be very reliable. Like most other backward areas of the country, the people of Arunachal Pradesh do not keep accurate account of their age. Usually the enumerators had to help the respondents to make a statement of their age. For this purpose, the district authorities compiled a dated list of the local events of the circle areas, and the same was provided to the enumerators for the purpose of referring to it as an assistance provided to the respondents to state their ages. The list contained such events like major earthquakes, other natural calamities, epidemic, opening of an Out Post or Block Development Office, visit of important persons, posting and transfer of Circle Officers and the like. The dated list of the local events proved to be a great help to the enumerators. But even so, in many cases the age of an individual was to be entered in the census returns with the personal judgement of the enumerators. This introduced individual bias of the enumerators into the age returns.

Subject to the limitations of the age data, it may be said that the males and the females of Arunachal Pradesh distributed over ten broad age groups, show different proportions amongst themselves for each age group. In the lowest group of 0—4 years of age, there is an excess of females for the total and the Scheduled Tribes population. The sex ratio drops considerably for the age groups 5—9 and 10—14 for the total and the Scheduled Tribes population. The age group of 15—19 shows an excess of females over the males again for the total as well as for the Scheduled Tribes population. After that age group, the sex ratio of the total population drops sharply but of the Scheduled Tribes continue to show excess of the females over the males upto the 39th years of age and thereafter the male population shows excess over the females. At the age group 60+ the sex ratios for the total and the Scheduled Tribes population improve, but still remain low.

The excess of the females in the age group 0—4 and the excess of males in the age group 5—9 and 10—14 both for the total and the Scheduled Tribes population is significant. The aggregate of the total and the Scheduled Tribes population upto the 19th years does not result in an excess of the females, although the age groups at both ends namely 0—4 and 15—19 show excess of the females over the males both for total and the Scheduled Tribes population. It appears as if the mortality of the lower age groups are selective by sex. The age group 15—19 shows an excess of the females over the males both for the total and the Scheduled Tribes population. The excess of the females over the males can be entirely explained by the sudden drop of the population of male youth belonging to the Scheduled Tribes of this age group. The Scheduled Tribes male youths continue to be absent in the next higher age group of 20—24. This age group registered the highest sex ratio for the Scheduled Tribes population. Inspite of the excess of the females over the male Scheduled Tribes population in this age group, the overall sex ratio drops very sharply from 1,050 of the previous age group to 744, and continues to decrease for the next higher age group of 25—29 to the value of the ratio at 726. The overall sex ratio remains low for all other higher age groups to improve suddenly for the age group 60+. The causes for this can be traced to the large number of outsiders who have come to serve in Arunachal Pradesh living their families behind. The improvement of sex at the age group 60+ can be explained by the same factor because at that age the persons in service or business retire and outmigrate to their homes usually situated outside Arunachal Pradesh.

However, the Scheduled Tribes population continues to show excess of the females over the males up to the 39th year. Above the 40th year, the sex ratio drops suddenly to improve again at the age group 60+. It is quite plausible that the understatement of age by persons in the age group 40—49 and overstatement of age by the persons belonging to the age group 50—59, were the causes of the observed decline and the abrupt increase in the sex ratio. But the underenumeration of the elderly females for various reasons and the sex selectivity of mortality cannot be ruled out.

The districts of Arunachal Pradesh show the same trends of age specific sex ratio. However, Kameng District shows a lower incidence of sex ratio when compared to other districts. The following table gives the sex ratio of the total and the Scheduled Tribes population for Arunachal Pradesh and the districts, by ten broad age groups.

About 58% of the total population of Arunachal Pradesh are workers. Male workers are about 63% of the total male population and the female workers are about 51% of the total female population. The highest work participation rates are found in Kameng (about 62%) and Subansiri (about 61%) districts. Siang comes next with about 56% of the total population cotegorised as workers. The work participation rates in Lohit and Tirap districts are about 54%. The work participation rates for the male population is about 69% in Kameng and 64% in Lohit. Subansiri shows about 63% of the male population as workers, Siang about 61% and Tirap about 60%. The work participation rates for the female population is about 60% in Subansiri, about 53% in Kameng, about 51% in Siang about 48% in Tirap and about 41% in Lohit.

Work participation rates not comparable with past data

The figures of work participation rates presented in this volume are the first of their kind for Arunachal Pradesh. The 1971 Census has brought this particular information out of the hills of Arunachal Pradesh for the first time under the identical set of schedules, method of inquiry, concepts and definitions, rendering them comparable with the rest of the country. They are not comparable with any past data. Even with the information available from 1961 Census with respect to Nagaland where the percentage of workers came close to what was observed in Arunachal Pradesh in 1971, a direct comparison will not be possible because, not only a larger part of the population of Nagaland has taken to permanent methods of cultivation since sometime past as against the shifting cultivation of Arunachal Pradesh, but also for the reason that the very concept and definition of 'worker' of 1971 Census differed from those of 1961 Census. As for example, the reference period of work in 1961 Census was 15 days whereas the same was 7 days in 1971. Moreover, the workers of 1971 Census belong to the very restricted category of the ones who returned a gainful economic pursuit as their main activity, and thus exclude those who returned their main activity as ungainful but their subsidiary work as gainful. In 1961 both these categories were taken together as workers. Moreover, whereas the 1971 Census is more conservative in defining a worker in general, it is more liberal than 1961 Census while defining a worker engaged in seasonal work. In the 1961 Census, a seasonal worker was required to have some regular work of more than one hour throughout the greater part of the season. In 1971 Census a mere statement that the respondent was engaged in seasonal work was enough to treat him as a worker. On the other hand, the 1961 Census definition of agricultural labourer with the reference period of the last or the current cultivating seasons, was more liberal than that of the 1971 Census that allowed the period of reference of only one year. However, it may be stated here that the inter-censual period of 10 years is fairly long in the economic life of the country and the concepts of work, worker and other connected terms cannot remain stationary and have to change to be able to reflect the current trends and the need of the community. Therefore, the census data should be read more with an understanding of the background of the prevailing social and economic conditions than as an extension of the data collected in the past censuses. Even the Committee of Experts on Unemployment Estimates (Dantwala Committee) set up by the Planning Commission in 1968, while anguishing over the lack of data on employment and unemployment and non-comparability of the census figures on the size of labour force, and reviewing the 1971 Census programme, had not recommended an absolute comparability of figures to be attempted by the Indian Censuses, but had, on the other hand, indirectly encouraged the trend of changing of concept and definition to continue as the economy progressed, by quoting the Japanese planners.

The non-workers reporting secondary work were 1,019 in number. Their distribution by districts is given below :

The non-workers reporting secondary work are too few in number to make any impact on the overall economic or employment situation. But their mere existence in so limited a field of economy as in Arunachal Pradesh may perhaps be considered to be of some significance. However, probably no such significance need be attached with the phenomenon. Out of 1,019 non-workers reporting secondary work, 767 were females and 252 were males. And it is really difficult to adjudge in rural Arunachal Pradesh whether a woman's main activity is household work or cultivation.

The following table gives the sex break-ups of the workers by main activity and non-workers reporting secondary work.

Workers by category of work

The percentage of the workers to the total population is very high in Arunachal Pradesh. As many as 57.65% of the total population, 63.14% of the male population and 51.28% of the female population are workers. Amongst the workers, as many as 78.34% are cultivators—66.76% of the male workers and 94.90% of the female workers belong to this category. Those who are cultivators, agricultural labourers and allied agricultural workers, are 80.44% of the total workers, 68.77% of the male workers, 97.12% of the female workers. They are 82.92% of the total rural workers, 72.30% of the rural male workers and 97.38% of the rural females workers. These high percentages of workers and cultivators are comparable only with other hilly terrains of the country like Nagaland and Himachal Pradesh. The main reason for this is that the agriculture, the main sector of the economic activity of the people, is more labour intensive in the hills than in the plains. Even such primitive devices like using a bullock drawn plough for cultivation, are yet to be introduced in most of the hills. The hill people still largely follow the neolithic patterns of agriculture. As for example, in Arunachal Pradesh, the agriculture is largely confined to the practice of 'Jhum'* or shifting cultivation which involves strenuous preparation of land, done mainly by the men-folk, by cutting a selected patch of jungle after a number of years or 'Jhum Cycle', burning of the cut jungle, dragging of the unburnt logs to the sides of the resultant clearing and building of strong fence around as a protection against the wild and semiwild herbivorous animals ; and such cultural operations, performed mainly by the women-folk, like dribbling seeds carried in a waist-basket into small holes made by poking a strong stick into the earth, and thereafter weeding by men, women and children together or turn by turn, weeding again and again, keeping watch over the ripening crop, mainly by the children during the day and anxiously by the adults at night ; and at last, cutting and bringing harvest home, utilising all the available hands, over the tortuous terrain. In such a society, customs usually uncommon in the thickly populated plain areas prevail and flourish. In Arunachal Pradesh, the women are economic assets who bear equal responsibility of producing food. That is the reason why her participation in the labour force is so complete ; and she carries a bride-price, a custom which is still prevalent in a symbolic manner amidst agrarian communities of the neighbourhood like that of the Assamese who lived in a not too thickly populated region not very long ago.

Next to agriculture, the 'services' is the popular sector for the workers. This is a domain of the male workers. About 18.54% of the total workers belong to this category. About 29.63% of the male workers and only about 2.66% of the female workers returned 'services' as their main activity.

The overall position of distribution of the workers by broad industrial categories resembles the rural sector very closely. In the rural sector, about 80.83% workers are cultivators. The rural workers with main activity as 'service' are 16.38%—26.62% for males and 2.44% for the females. Siang and Subansiri districts resemble with each other very closely so far distribution of workers by main activity is concerned. About 88% of the rural workers of Subansiri District belong to the sector of agriculture, whereas about 11% of the rural workers of Subansiri District and about 12% of the rural workers of Siang District belong to the sector of 'services'. Practically all the female workers of these two districts belong to the agricultural sector. Kameng and Lohit districts resemble with each other quite a lot so far the rural workers are concerned. The percentages of cultivators to the total rural workers are comparatively low in these two districts being about 70% and 84% respectively, whereas those in 'services' are about quarter of the total rural workers. These two districts show the trend of people being engaged as agricultural labourers. The agricultural labourers are about 5% of the total rural workers of Kameng District and about 4% of the total rural workers of Lohit District, as against about 2% of Arunachal Pradesh. Tirap District comes in between the picture presented by the above two groups of districts, but resembles with the Subansiri-Siang group more closely than the Kameng-Lohit group in the distribution of the rural workers by broad industrial categories. The following table gives the details.

Workers in urban areas

In the urban sector, the cultivators are only 5.50% of the total urban workers whereas the urban workers engaged in services are about 81.45% to the total urban workers. The trade and commerce engaged about 7.75% of the urban workers. The other sector that shows up its head, is the household industry. About 1.65% of the urban workers returned themselves as household industrial workers.

The sex distributions of the urban workers by the broad industrial categories are entirely different. The urban female cultivators are 43.38% as against 2.89% of the males. On the other hand, the urban female workers engaged in 'services' are 45.47% as against 83.93% of the males. The urban females are 2.27% in the household industry and 3.31% in the non-household industry, as against 1.61% and 0.37% respectively for the males. Clearly, the urban men-folk 'serve', whereas the urban women largely 'augment' family income by doing cultivation and working on a loin-loom or other such household and non-household industries.

The urban workers distributed by the broad industrial categories are very different between the districts which amounts to saying that the towns are different in the pattern of distribution of the urban workers by the broad industrial categories. Kameng District, that is the Bomdila Town, shows the least incidence of the urban workers in the agricultural sector. Even the urban female cultivators are only 17.69% in this town as against 43.38% for the urban Arunachal Pradesh. The urban workers of Bomdila Town engaged in 'services' are 88.83% to the total urban workers (males-91.61%, females—51.54%). A good percentage of the Bomdila female workers are engaged in household industries (6.15%) and in non-household industries (14.62%). Both these activities show incidence above the Arunachal Pradesh average. On the other hand the trade and commerce engage fewer workers in Bomdila than in other towns.

Siang District, consisting of the Along and Pasighat townships, shows a higher percentage of the urban workers as cultivators than the Arunachal Pradesh average. This district also shows a high incidence of urban agricultural workers (3.74% of the total workers), and the percentage of workers engaged in trade and commerce (8.21%) is at a higher bracket than the Arunachal Pradesh average. On the other hand, the percentage of urban workers engaged in 'services' shifts lower than the Arunachal Pradesh average. These possibly indicate a greater degree of participation of the people in the process of urbanisation of Along and Pasighat than in in Bomdila ; but perhaps the degree of urbanisation itself is more intensive in Bomdila than the other two towns. In this respect the Tezu township of Lohit District resembles Bomdila more than Along and Pasighat. This town shows a smaller percentage of urban workers engaged in the agricultural sector than in Along and Pasighat, higher percentage of those engaged in trade and commerce (9.49%) and a much higher percentage (4.36%) of the ones engaged in household industries, although the percentage of those engaged in 'services' is almost same as in Along and Pasighat. These indicate a different trend of urbanisation.

However, it is hurriedly added that the towns of Arunachal Pradesh are extremely small and that the derivatives of small numbers, such as percentages, are usually not reliable to arrive at a definite conclusion.

The following table gives the distribution of urban workers by broad industrial catgories.

Establishments

The Establishment Schedule, canvassed at the stage of Houselisting, contained questions regarding the size of the employment generated by the establishments.

An 'establishment' was defined as a place where goods were produced or manufactured, not solely for domestic consumption, or where servicing and/or repairing was done as a factory, workshop or household industry, or a place where retail or wholesale business was carried on or commercial services were rendered, or an office, public or private, or a place of entertainment or where educational, religious, social or entertainment services were rendered. It was necessary that in all these places one or more persons were actually working. Thus, an establishment would cover manufacturing, trade and other establishment where people work.

The utility of the data yielded by the Establishment Schedule is particularly significant in respect of the unorganised sector comprising of the unregistered workshop, household industry, small business houses and other establishments for which hardly any reliable data exist although they provide employment to a considerable section of the labour force. For Arunachal Pradesh the data yielded by this schedule is of special importance as bulk of the establishments belonged to this category. However, there are certain limitations of the data. Only the establishments located in buildings, that is, in structure with walls and a roof are covered. Open air establishments and itinerant vendors were not covered by the inquiry.

Employment data thrown out by establishment schedule

The employment data thrown out by the Establishment Schedule, have a special significance. Here the information was collected from the 'establishments' and not from the individual workers as was done during the census enumeration. The 'establishments' during houselisting and the 'individuals' during census enumeration were covered, almost as a rule, by different enumerators. It appears that while canvassing the Individual Slips, the workers got underenumerated for the industrial classification groups 'manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs' and 'trade and commerce'. The data thrown out by the Establishment Schedule are more reliable for these groups.

Ordinarily, one would expect very close relationship between the employment data yielded by the Establishment Schedule canvassed during the houselisting and by the Individual Slips used during the census enumeration. For Arunachal Pradesh, such an expectation is further strengthened by the fact that houselisting and enumeration was carried out by an enumerator during his single visit to the Enumerator's Block. But unfortunately such expectations are not realised. The two ways bias of the respondents as well as of the enumerators regarding ambiguous returning of a worker as being engaged in 'services' when just a few more recorded words could enable the tabulation workers to classify them more appropriately under different industrial classes, had been responsible for this. The phenomenon did not stay confined to 'services' alone, though that particular group of the National Industrial Classification got distorted to the greatest extent. The establishments and the workers were not necessarily located in the same Enumerator's Block. Notwithstanding the fact that some establishments possibly returned erroneously the 'capacity' or the 'requirement' of the establishments to employ workers instead of returning the persons actually on employment during the reference period, it may be said that the establishment approach was superior to the individual approach in determining the size of employment in some specialised sectors of the economy. The enumerators visiting the households did not always meet the workers themselves to record their activities. They often met their dependents, friends or visitors. These respondents could have genuinely been unaware of the exact place, nature or the category or establishments wherein the workers had employment. The results were the vague entries in the Individual Slips like, 'service', 'labourer', 'peon', 'driver' etc., as description of activity: Government Office, Deputy Commissioner's Office etc., as places of work, and finally the inaccuracy in the field of industrial analysis of employment. The establishment approach yielded bigger size of employment for trade or business and manufacturing establishments. The individual approach missed or misrecorded some individuals. On the whole the establishment approach resulted in a better picture of the size of employment if not that of the employees. The discrepancy, however, does not relate to a very large section of the workers.

Employment in establishments

The establishments generated employment for 18,792 workers who are about 7% of the total workers of Arunachal Pradesh. About 5.63% of the total rural workers and 46.16% of the total urban workers are employed in establishments. The inter-district variations of these percentages are considerable. The workers engaged in establishments are 10.48% to the total workers in Lohit District, whereas the same is only 2.57% of the total workers in Subansiri District. The district of Siang also shows a high percentage (9.62%) of the establishment workers to the total workers. The districts of Kameng and Tirap, however, are close to the Arunachal Pradesh average in this respect.

The establishments were categorised into three broad types : (i) manufacturing, processing or servicing, (ii) trade or business and (iii) others. About 61.3% of the establishments belong to the last type. About 32.8% belongs to the type of trade or business and only about 5.9% to the manufacturing, processing or servicing type. About 83% of the establishments belonging to the manufacturing, processing or servicing type, 85% belonging to the trade and business type and 91% belonging to the other type, are located in the rural areas. The Table I.A(11) given below shows the details.

Establishments in district

The districts of Arunachal Pradesh differ with respect to distribution of establishments by broad types also. The district of Kameng shows the highest incidence of manufacturing, processing or servicing establishments. The districts of Subansiri and Lohit together follow Kameng in this respect, followed further by Tirap District. The district of Siang shows the least incidence of this type of establishments. In the trade or business type of establishments also Siang tops the list followed closely by Kameng. Other three districts are more or less similar in this respect and fall below the first two districts. More than two third of the establishments of Lohit and Tirap belong to the 'other' types followed closely by Subansiri District. About 58% of the establishments of Siang District and about half the establishments of Kameng District fall in this type. The table below illustrates the details.

Manufacturing, processing and servicing establishments

Arunachal Pradesh is practically confined to handicrafts so far as the manufacturing, processing and servicing establishments are concerned. There are a few saw mills in Arunachal Pradesh. The Arunachal Pradesh Administration runs a few training-cum-production centres for handicrafts in the district and subdivisional headquarters. In the circle headquarters also, a few similar centres are run at a much smaller scale. There are a few Government workshops for repairing of Government vehicles. But most other manufacturing, processing and servicing establishments are in the private sector turning out handwoven textile products, hand-carved wooden and bamboo articles, furniture, rudimentary blacksmithy and silversmithy products like matches, crude swords, smoking pipes and ornaments. Pottery is practically unkown. The Monpas of Kameng District and the Momba and Khamba of Siang follow the traditional arts of woodcarving of face-masks and idols, carpet making, and peculiarly enough, making of crude paper without using any imported chemicals. These products find a ready market both as curios as well as utility objects inside and outside Arunachal Pradesh.

However, the census returns do not really reflect the extent of engagement of the people of Arunachal Pradesh in their traditional arts and crafts. Turning out of the traditional products of art and craft is a way of life of the people of Arunachal Pradesh and mostly they use themselves what they produce. Every family weaves its own clothes and make the wooden and bamboo utensils and other implements. Blacksmiths and silversmiths set up their open air workshops during the dry season when they are comparatively free from their usual agricultural persuits. These activities have not been adequately reflected in the census returns. These avocations differ widely by tribes, and the inter-tribe differences are reflected in the observed differences between the districts. Kameng District, inhabited by the Monpa, Sherdukpen and other artistic tribes that produce wood carvings, carpets, woollen clothes etc., on a commercial basis, accounts for the maximum number of this type of establishments. Kameng is followed by Tirap where the Wancho and Nocte tribes excel in their peculiar wood-carving products. Siang, inhabited by the Adi group of tribes that excel in textile products, comes next. Subansiri and Lohit, inhabited by the Apatani, Nissi, Mishmi and other tribes, who, although capable of turning out textile products of very high qualify, are yet to take to the craft on a commercial basis, account for the least number of establishments belonging to this type. One restrictive factor of the handicraft products of Subansiri and Lohit districts is that, unlike those of the Kameng District, they do not find a ready market outside the district. The textile products of Siang District also suffer from the same restrictive factor though to a lesser degree.

Trade or business establishments

The traditional trade or business was carried out in Arunachal Pradesh by the barter system. The closest resemblance to money was provided by the semi-wild livestock called *methun (Bos frontalis), old Tibetan metal prayer bells without handles, genuine rare stone beads, Tibetan swords, utensils, and salt, Assam silk mostly Eri. Sufficient amount of these could buy practically everything in Arunachal Pradesh, including a wife or indemnity and settlement against criminal acts such as murder. In such a society, trading establishments were not a necessity. Everybody carried out trade or business by oneself buyer reaching the seller in latter's house (and vice-versa), often driving a mithun in front, or carrying prayer bells in the inside layers of the clothings or even being followed by an attendant, mostly wife, carrying a screaming pig tied like a basket on the back. With the opening of the area, trade goods started pouring in. The braves observed the new spotless matchets, torch lights and other likeables, the beauties spotted the gleaming aluminium vessels, brightly coloured yarns, mill made clothes, cosmetics and soon saw that they needed them. Tobacco, tobacco products, sea salt, matches, cheap cosmetics, soap, mill made clothes, leather goods, hurricane lamps and many other outside products were added to the list of daily necessities of the tribes. The society needed money. But their traditional wealth had no exchange value. Their agricultural products would have had a ready market, but the production was not even sufficient to feed all the mouths of the tribes. It was necessary for the Administration to import from outside all the cereals, lentils etc., required by the Government officials, oftens resorting to the expensive process of air dropping. At this stage, large scale alienation of land and devastating exploitation of the forests by outsiders would have taken place leading to permanent impoverisation of the Arunachal Pradesh tribes, as had happened in case of some other primitive societies of the world. But the Arunachal Pradesh Administration mercifully did not permit this to happen. Therefore, the tribes had to depend upon the Government works for money supply. They carried head-loads, pony-loads, built bamboo-huts, maintained foot-tracks, cleared jungle, interpreted and served the administration in other subordinate positions. Soon they saw the value of education. The problem of inadequate supply of money became acute. The areas that had the tradition of trading with the plains of Assam, were the least affected. More remote an area was, more acute was its problem of money supply. The factors of demand and supply never displayed a more pronounced effect on price anywhere else. A chicken would cost Rs. 10/- at Pasighat, the old established trade town of Siang District; Rs. 40/- at Koloriang, the subdivisional headquarters of Subansiri District at 10 days' marching distance from the nearest jeepable point; Rs. 70/- at Anini, the headquarters of the Additional Deputy Commissioner of Dibang Valley Subdivision of Lohit District, situated at a distance of 17 days' march from the nearest jeepable point. The inadequacy of money supply sometimes ever created social problems. As for example, lure to earn money by carrying head-loads by the young girls, who needed cosmetics and other luxuries, nearly ruined many marriages. The sale of the handicraft products supplied money to a limited number of persons.

* 'Mithun'—Dr. V. Elwin.

Under such a restrictive economy that has yet to strike a balance between the old values and the emerging monetisation, the growth of trade or business has to remain at a rudimentary level. But, though the level is low, the rate of growth is opined to be very high.

The statement I.A(14) gives the comparative picture of the employment as revealed by the Establishment Schedule and the Individual Slip respectively for four groups of workers.

@ Daporijo Subdivision is carved out of Subansiri and Siang districts. This subdivision partly belongs to Subansiri and partly to Siang. Daporijo circle belongs wholly to Subansiri and Dumporijo circle belongs wholly to Siang. The circles with asterisks (*) partly belong to Subansiri and partly to Siang. For the purpose of this table the Daporijo Subdivision and the circles are shown as wholes. The district totals of Subansiri and Siang include parts of Daporijo Subdivision.

Work participation rates in circles

It will be seen from the above table that number of circles reporting a very high or very low work participation rates are not many. The work participation rates for an average circle is about 59.53%. More than two third of the circles show work participation rates between 55 to 69 per cent.

The percentage of the agriculture to the total rural workers, on the other hand, is found to be less than 65 per cent only in 9 circles. The average for the circles comes to about 81.61%. The circles reporting more than 95% of the rural population as agriculturists are as many as 18 in number, that is, about 23% of the total number of circles. The circles having 85% to 94% of the rural workers as agriculturists are 24 in number, which is about 31% of the total number of circles.

The following table gives the two way distribution of the circles by work participation rates and the percentage of agriculturists to the rural workers.

Age distribution of workers

The workers will be analysed in the following age groups :

Age groups	Abbreviation
Less than 14 years,	0—14
15 to 19 years,	15—19
20 to 24 years,	20—24
25 to 29 years,	25—29
30 to 39 years,	30—39
40 to 49 years,	40—49
50 to 59 years, and	50—59
more than 60 years	60+

It is generally expected that in the first and the last age groups, namely, 0—14 and 60+, would contain no workers and in a sophisticated compilation of labour force, the workers belonging to these age groups are generally excluded. However, the conditions prevailing in Arunachal Pradesh will not permit a similar exclusion till such time as the people of Arunachal Pradesh are freed from the shackles of 'jhum' cultivation with the help of scientific, technological, administrative and political efforts. Now, the participation of 0—14 and 60+ aged workers in cultivation is essential for the community and both of these groups together account for about 11.12% of the total workers and about 11.44% of the rural workers, although they are only about 1.66% of the urban workers, who do not require their too old and too young to keep weeding the 'Jhum' fields and watch against birds and wild animals during the day.

The practice of 'jhuming' is a great leveller of men and women. The lady of rural Arunachal Pradesh can hardly patronise a beautician and more often than not, her suitor and his folks judge her looks along with her prowess in the fields of cultur of the land and the yield of the spindle. She is an economic asset. The society sees that she remains so and prepares her for the event early. The total female population in the age group 0—14 is 88,076 and the male population in the same group is 90,878 ; but the female workers are 9,851 and the male workers are 8,074 for the age group. At the age group 15—19 the women of Arunachal Pradesh, probably because they develop greater charms and command, manage to work only as much as the men do. At the higher age groups the nature subjects the women to a greater rate of mortality and morbidity and the men have to take up the greater share of the responsibility towards work, which they certainly do like a 'man'.

The following table distributes the workers of Arunachal Pradesh by age groups.

Work participation rate by age groups

The three age groups from 25 to 49 years shows the highest rates of work participation. For the age group 25—29 the work participation rate is about 92% and the same is about 94% for the age groups of 30—39 and 40—49. The work participation rates of the males for these three age groups is about 99%, whereas the same for the females is about 82% for the age group 25—29 and about 87% for the remaining two groups. The lowest work participation rates are shown by the age group 0—14. About 10% the total population, about 9% of the males and about 11% of the females belonging to this group are workers. The age group 15—19 shows work participation of about 77% for the total population, males and females. For the age group 20—24, the work participation rates are about 88% for the total population, about 78% for the females but as high as about 96% for the males. The age group 50—59 shows work participation of about 85% of the total population, 95% of the male population and about 72% of the female population. The workers in the age group 60+ are about 55% of the total population, about 68% of the male population and about 42% of the female population. The statement I.A(18) gives the details.

The rural population exhibits work participation rates very similar to the overall population. The work participation rates of the rural male population within the age groups 25 to 49 is very high, being about 99%. It may be stated in general that the work participation rates of the rural population, though similarly distributed, are slightly higher than that of the total population. The overall work participation rate for the rural population is about 58% like that of the total population. The following table gives the details.

Amongst the urban population, the workers belonging to the age groups 0—14 are only about 1% of the total population, males and females. In this respect the work participation rates of the urban population is quite different from the rural population. In the next higher age groups of 15—19 also the rates are low, being about 30% for the total urban population, about 48% for the urban male population and only about 9% of the urban female population as against about 79%, 79% and 80% for the rural population. In the next age group, the work participation rates of the urban population is about 69%, 93% and 17% for all persons, males and females respectively, as against about 90%, 97% and 81% of the rural population. In the higher age groups the urban participation rates are comparable with the rural participation rates for the male population but very low for the female population bringing the overall urban rates down by about ten points when compared to the rural population. The overall work participation rate for the urban population is about 52% as against 58% of the rural population. The following table gives the details.

Work participation rates by age-group and category of workers

The following table distributes the workers by broad age groups for each industrial category and with sex break-ups, as an aid to read the three tables presented subsequently on the distribution of 1,000 workers in the similar manner for the total, rural and urban population separately. It may be noted that the figures in some of the lines are less than 1,000 although they will be brought to that level in the subsequent tables.

It has been stated that agriculture and services account for the large majority of the Arunachal Pradesh workers. Practically, everybody who are in services are within the age range of 20 to 60 years. Those who are less than 20 years old, are about 6% of the workers of this category and the ones more than 60 years old constitute only about 1% of the category. On the other hand, the age group 30—39 shows the highest incidence of the agricultural workers, which tapers off on both sides, slowly for the higher age groups upto the 50th year of age, then a sharp decline; and more rapid but steady decline for the lower age groups. For the agricultural labourers the decline for the higher age groups is much sharper than the cultivators, but for the lower age groups the same is less rapid and more steady. The following table distributes 1,000 workers in each industrial category by age group.

TABLE B-I PART B

FEMALE WORKERS AND NON-WORKERS ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY CLASSIFIED BY MARITAL STATUS AND AGE GROUPS

This table is an innovation of 1971 Census and is intended to show female workers and non-workers according to the main activity classified by marital status and nine age groups. The increasing participation of female workers in the country's economy necessitates study of the female workers in greater details.

The female population, like the total or the male population, is classified into two broad economic classes of 'workers' and 'non-workers' and into nine broad industrial categories of the workers. Each category of worker is classified into eight age-groups viz, 0—14, 15—19, 20—24, 25—29, 30—39, 40—49, 50—59, 60+ and in six groups of marital status, namely,

(1) All marital status,

(2) Never married,

(3) Married,*

(4) Widowed,*

(5) Divorced or separated,*

(6) Unspecified status.*

(*excludes figures for the age group 0—9)

The figures are presented with rural and urban breakups.

The question number 5 of the Individual Slip relates to the marital status of an individual. The instructions given to the enumerators in this regard are reproduced below :

"QUESTION : MARITAL STATUS

In answering this question use the following abbreviations :

NM : Never Married M : Currently Married

W : Widowed S : Separated or Divorced

For a person who has never been married at any time before write 'NM', for a person currently married whether for the first or another time and whose marriage is subsisting at the time of enumeration with the spouse living, write 'M'. Write 'M' also for persons who are recognised by custom or society as married and for the persons in stable defacto union. Even if a marriage is disputed in the locality write 'M', if the person concerned says he or she is unmarried or is in stable defacto union. For a widowed person whose husband or wife is dead and who has not been married again, write 'W'. For a person who has been separated from wife or husband, and is living apart with no apparent intention of living together again or who has been divorced, either by a decree of a law court or by an accepted social or religious custom but who has not remarried, write 'S'. For a prostitute return her marital status as declared by her."

Work participation rates for females

Out of the total population of 467,511 persons of Arunachal Pradesh, 251,231 were males and 216,280 were females. The total workers were 269,542 or about 58% of the population. The male workers were 158,623 or about 63% of the male population and the female workers were 110,919 or about 51% of the female population. The highest work participation rates for the males (about 64%) and the lowest work participation rates for the females (about 41%) are found to be in Lohit District, which incidentally contains the highest proportion of the population not belonging to the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh and the lowest overall work participation rate of about 54% amongst the districts of Arunachal Pradesh. The highest work participation rate for the females occurs in Subansiri District (about 60%) followed by Kameng (about 53%) and then by Siang (about 51%). The following table gives the details.

Female workers and non-workers by age

About 52% of the rural female population and only about 11% of the urban female population are workers. The agriculture, as practised in Arunachal Pradesh, requires participation of the females at work almost to the same extent as of the males. The urban area is inhabited by largely non-agricultural communities where the participation of the females at work is at a much lower bracket. Most of the female workers belong to the age group 15 to 60. In all age groups, the participation of the rural female workers is higher than that of their urban counterparts. The non-workers are largely found in the age groups below 14 and above 60. The following table gives the details.

Marital status of the females

About 48.6% of the female population were 'never married,' about 43.9% were 'married,' about 70% were 'widowed' and about 0.42% were 'divorced or separated.' The rural female population presents practically the same distribution by marital status. But amongst the urban female population, about 51.64% were 'never married,' about 45.50% were'married', about 2.32% were 'widowed' and about 0.54% were 'divorced or separated.' Apparently, most of the widowed urban females belonging to the communities other than that of the Scheduled Tribes of Arunachal Pradesh, migrated out of the Pradesh after their widowhood. The highest incidence of the married females wereintheage group 20 to 50, which is self-explanatory. Above the age of 50, the state of widowhood is significant. The age group 40—49 also shows a high incidence of widowhood. Beyond the age of 25, the divorced and the separated females become proportionately more numerous. The proportion of the urban divorced and separated females becomes much higher than their rural counterparts beyond the age of 30. The following table gives the details.

Female workers by marital status

The distribution of 1,000 female workers by age, marital status and urban/rural differential is given in the table below. It will be seen that amongst the female workers, 'married' is the most predominant marital status. The incidence of 'unmarried' female workers drops abruptly after the age group 20—24, and that of the 'widowed' increase suddenly beyond the age of 40. The overall distribution of the female population by marital status explains this along with the presumption that the widowed females have to participate more in work after their widowhood. The incidence of divorced and separated females amongst the female workers remains generally unsteady and attain the highest values between the ages 20 to 40.

Female workers by broad Industrial Categories

The distribution of female workers by the broad industrial categories and their percentages to the urban/rural totals in various age groups are given in the following Statement I.B(5). For the purpose of comparison, the same information for the male workers are given in Statement I.B(6). It will be evident from these statements that most of the male and female workers are cultivators, but whereas about 66.8% of the male workers are cultivators, the female cultivators are 94.9% of the total female workers. About 29.6% of the male workers are engaged in 'other services' as against 2.7% of the female workers engaged in this category of work. The representation of the males and the females in other types of work is negligible.

TABLE B-II

WORKERS AND NON-WORKERS IN CITIES AND NON-CITY URBAN AREAS ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY CLASSIFIED BY SEX AND AGE GROUPS

This table gives the basic details regarding the urban workers. It has been said that the urban areas in Arunachal Pradesh were only four in number.

Out of 8,916 urban workers, 8,342 were males and only 574 were females. About 81% of the urban workers are engaged in 'Other Services'. About 84% of the urban male workers and about 46% of the urban female workers are engaged in this category of work. The cultivators and the agricultural workers comprise of about 8% of the urban workers. About 5% of the urban male workers and about 46% of the urban female workers work as cultivators or agricultural labourers, but whereas the male cultivators are about 3% of the total urban male workers, the female cultivators are about 43% of the urban female workers. The trade and commerce accounts for about 8% of the urban workers, about 8% of the urban male workers and about 3% of the urban female workers.

The manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs engage about 2% of the total urban workers and male urban workers as against about 6% of the urban female workers. From these it may perhaps be summarised that the urban males 'serve' whereas the urban females 'augment' the income of the family. This fact will be further evident from the fact that the rate of participation of female workers in cultivation and manufacturing increases with age in general. The participation of the male workers in these categories of work, increases after the pensionable age.

The following table gives the details of distribution of urban workers by age, and category of work in summary as an aid to reading Table B-II.

TABLE B-III

CLASSIFICATION OF WORKERS AND NON-WORKERS BY EDUCATIONAL LEVELS

This table gives the detailed literacy and educational levels of the population in the urban and rural areas of Arunachal Pradesh under the 10 categories of workers and non-workers. The table is presented in two parts. The Part A gives the information for the urban areas only. The Part B gives the information for the rural areas. These tables have been prepared out of the answers given by the respondents to the questions 12, 13 and 16 of the Individual Slip.

In 1961 Census, Arunachal Pradesh was regarded as entirely rural. Considering the population, civic amenities and the occupational pattern, the three district headquarters, viz. Bomdila, Along and Tezu, and the subdivisional headquarters of Pasighat in Siang District were treated as urban areas in 1971 Census.

For 1971 Census, a person who knew both reading and writing with understanding in any language, was treated as literate. But a person who could merely read but could not write, was not treated as literate. It was not necessary that a person should have received a formal education or passed a minimum educational standard to be called 'literate'. Children of the age of 4 or less were treated as illiterate even if the child had started to go to school and might have picked up reading and writing a few odd words.

The educational levels adopted in 1971 Census differ from that of 1961 in some respects. As for example, the middle school standard has been introduced in 1971 Census for the areas where that level of education exists. Similarly, the graduate and the post graduate degrees are shown separately in 1971 Census. Likewise, the engineering and technology has been shown as a single level. The agriculture, the veterinary and the dairying were also treated as one level.

The following were the educational levels.

(i) Literate without educational level,
(ii) Primary,
(iii) Middle,
(iv) Matriculation or Higher Secondary,
(v) Non-technical diploma or certificate not equal to degree,
(vi) Technical diploma or certificate not equal to degree,
(vii) Graduate degree other than technical degree,
(viii) Post Graduate degree other than technical degree
(ix) Technical degree or diploma equal to degree or Post Graduate degree,
(x) Engineering and Technology,
(xi) Medicine,
(xii) Agriculture, Veterinary and Dairying,
(xiii) Teaching and others.

At the time of enumeration a "Degree-holders and Technical Personnel Card" was also canvassed. This card was handed over to the graduates, the post-graduates and those with a technical degree or diploma, by the enumerators. The person concerned was to fill this card in by themselves and return the same to the enumerator. In Arunachal Pradesh 1,149 such cards were filled in. These cards being processed in the Registrar General, India's office along with about 2.2 milion cards so collected from all over the country. A copy of the degree holder and technical personnel card is appended to this volume. About 11.29% of the population of Arunachal Pradesh are literates. Amongst the males, the literacy is about 17.82% and amongst the females the literates are about 3.71% only. About 9.79% of the rural population are literates. About 15.77% of the rural male population and about 3.00% of the rural female population are literates. As against this, the urban literacy is about 50.46%. About 59.28% of the urban males and about 31.18% of the urban females are literates. About 8.92% of the population had their educational level as primary or middle. Amongst the males the percentage is about 13.88% and amongst the females the percentage is 3.16%. The bulk of the rural literates have primary and middle as their educational achievements. Amongst the urban population, about 24.61% have primary as educational level, about 11.89% have middle as their educational level and about 8.40% have passed matriculation or higher secondary examinations. Details of the distribution of population by educational level are given in the following table in percentages.

With the above picture shown by the general population, the workers of Arunachal Pradesh can not but be mostly illiterate. The following table gives percentage distribution of the workers according to their educational levels. It will be seen that as many as about 87.20% of the total workers are illiterates. Amongst the male workers the illiterates are about 79.15% and amongst the female workers they are about 98.72%. The illiterate workers in the rural sector form about 88.97% of the total rural workers. The male rural workers who are illiterates are about 81.71% and the female illiterate workers are about 98.85% of the rural male and female working population respectively. As against this the urban illiterate workers are about 35.58% of the total urban workers. About 32.97% of the urban male workers and about 73.52% of the urban female workers are illiterates. The workers having primary as the educational level are about 6.64%. The rural workers having primary as the educational level are about 5.94%, and the urban workers having primary as their educational level are about 27.04%. The workers with educational level as 'middle' are 2.64% of the total workers. Amongst the rural workers the ones having 'middle' as their educational level form about 2.21% of the rural workers and in the urban sector the workers having 'middle' as their educational level are about 15.21% of the total urban workers. The workers with matriculation or higher secondary as educational level, are 1.95% of the total workers, about 1.56% of the rural workers and about 13.46% of the urban workers. The urban workers having 'graduate degree' and above as their qualification, are about 3.98% as against about 0.37% of the rural workers and about 0.49% of the total workers.

It will be seen that the bulk of the non-workers are illiterates. The primary level of education contains the bulk of the literate non-workers for the rural and the urban sectors, and Arunachal Pradesh as a whole.

'N' Stands for negligible, '..' stands for nil.

The information given earlier pertains to literates and illiterates together. The illiterates being much larger in number than the literates, the distribution of the literates by educational level becomes almost microscopical. The same information will be presented now excluding the illiterates so that the distribution of the literates by educational level becomes magnified. The other reason for this exercise is that the urban population with a much smaller base than the rural population and a much higher percentage of literacy perhaps gives a picture of percentage distribution by educational level which is not readily comparable with the rural percentages. The reduction of the base to the literates only while calculating these percentages at different levels of education, renders the percentages comparable between the rural and the urban sectors.

The following table gives the percentage distribution to the literate population according to the educational levels. The literates with no educational level are about 6.52% for the total population, 6.72% for the rural population and about 5.56% for the urban population. The literate population having 'primary' as educational level are about 63.53% for the rural population and about 48.76% for the urban population. The literate population having 'middle' as the educational qualification are about 17.92% for the total population, about 16.80% for the rural population about 23.57% for the urban population. The literate population having matriculation or higher secondary as educational level, are about 11.19% for the total population, about 10.11% for the rural population and about 16.64% for the urban population. The graduate degree and above are held by about 2.73% of the total literate population, about 2.36% of the literate rural population and about 4.56% of the urban literate population.

It may, therefore, be seen that the sharp rural urban differential at different levels of education observed when the entire population is taken into account, smoothens out when only the literate population is considered. This is due to the fact that the bulk of the literate population of Arunachal Pradesh belong to 'outsiders' who are mostly in service possessing educational qualification commensurating with their position required in services that follows a stable pattern whether they are posted in the rural or in the urban areas. The literates amongst the indigenous people are yet to acquire higher educational qualification and their largely rural existence inflats the primary level of education in the rural sector.

Just like the overall population, the distribution of literate workers by educational levels differs from the distribution of all the workers in the same manner. In this case also the urban/rural differential reduces itself in magnitude. As for example, for all the workers those having 'primary' as educational level are about 5.94% of the rural workers and about 27.04% of the urban workers. These percentages become 53.88% for the rural literate workers and 41.97% for the urban literate workers. Similarly, for the workers as a whole, the ones with 'middle' as the educational qualification are about 2.21% of the rural workers as against about 15.21% for the urban workers. These become about 20.04% of the rural literate workers and 23.61% of the urban literate workers. The trend continues for all levels of education. The following table gives the details.

The literate non-workers distributed according to educational level present certain interesting features. The literate rural non-workers with 'primary' as their educational levels, are about 81.65% of the total rural literates as against about 61.85% for the urban sector. It may be recalled that the position was different when the non-workers as a whole were considered. The rural non-workers having 'primary' as educational level were about 6.60% of the total rural non-workers and the same category of educational level in the urban sector contained about 22.01% of the urban non-workers. The situation is, however, largely arithmetical in its origin. About 91.92% of the rural non-workers were illiterates as against about 64.41% of the urban non-workers. The exclusion of the illiterates eliminated comparatively a higher proportion of non-workers from the denominator in the rural sector than in the urban sector. As most of the literate rural non-workers have 'primary' as their educational qualification, the percentages of rural workers in this group have been inflated. Similarly, the rural/urban differential for those non-workers having 'middle' as their educational qualification were roughly of the order of 1:9 which has become roughly about 1:2.6 for the literate non-workers. The following table gives the details.

The distribution of literate workers by educational level and the category of the workers are given in the following table with sex break-ups. The literate cultivators and the agricultural labourers mostly have 'primary' as the educational level. The literate workers engaged in livestock, forestry, fishing, hunting etc., are represented almost equally in the educational levels of 'primary' and 'literates without educational level'. The literate workers engaged in household industries and in industries other than household industries are mostly represented by those having 'primary' and 'middle' as educational levels. The representation of the literate workers in trade and commerce by educational levels are more or less similar to those engaged in industries. Same can be said also about the literate workers engaged in construction with the difference that for this type of workers the graduate degree holders are slightly in excess. The literate workers engaged in transportation and storage have the lowest educational level as 'middle'. This group of workers have the distinction of having the maximum proportion of 'graduate and above' and the highest proportion of 'matriculates etc'. amongst all other categories of workers. Those who are engaged in 'other services' mostly have 'primary' as their educational qualifications followed by the 'middle' and then by 'matriculation or higher secondary'. Excepting the category of transportation and storage, the 'other services' have the maximum proportion of graduates; and practically this is the only group that includes 'non-technical and technical diploma or certificate holders' in their fold. The details may be seen in the table.

The percentage distribution of urban literate workers by category and educational level are given in the following table. The 'other services' contain practically all the literate urban workers having post graduate and technical degree and only the 'trade and commerce' contains a small percentage of technical degree holders. The highest percentage of matriculates are to be found amongst the 'transport, storage and communication' workers followed by the 'other services'. The proportion of workers having 'middle' as the educational qualification is the highest amongst the 'construction' workers followed by 'trade and commerce' and then by 'manufacturing, processing and repairs'. It is interesting that the persons having 'middle' as their educational qualification bear quite a high percentage to the agricultural labourers. The bulk of the urban literate workers have 'primary' as their educational level in all the categories of work. The details may be seen in the table.

The rural literate workers follow more or less the same norm set up by all the literate workers when distributed by the educational level. Those who have educational level higher than 'matriculation' are practically wholly confined to 'other services'. This category of workers contain the highest proportion of the 'matriculates' also. The transport, storage and communication sector contains half the workers having 'middle' as educational qualification and the other half having 'graduation' as the educational level. The workers with 'middle' as the educational level are about one fourth of the workers engaged in 'other services' and 'trade and 'commerce' and more than that proportion for those engaged in 'household industry' and 'construction'. The cultivators and agricultural labourers, however, contain a much lower proportion of workers having 'middle' as their educational qualification. The 'primary' is the most predominent educational level for all categories of workers. The literate rural workers without educational level bear the highest proportion for workers engaged in the agricultural sector and a lower proportion of 'other services'. This educational level is proportionately the most predominent amongst the workers engaged in 'construction' and 'trade and commerce'. The details may be seen in the table.

TABLE B-IV

PARTS A, B, C & D

The parts of these tables are as under :

TABLE B-IV PART A : INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION OF PERSONS AT WORK OTHER THAN AT CULTIVATION AS MAIN ACTIVITY BY SEX AND DIVISIONS, MAJOR GROUPS AND MINOR GROUPS

APPENDIX

DISTRIBUTION OF WORKERS IN MANUFACTURING, PROCESSING, SERVICING AND REPAIRS BY HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY AND NON-HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY

TABLE B-IV PART B : INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION OF WORKERS IN MANUFACTURING, PROCESSING, SERVICING AND REPAIRS ON HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY BASIS AS MAIN ACTIVITY BY SEX AND CLASS OF WORKERS

TABLE B-IV PART C : CLASSIFICATION OF WORKERS IN NON-HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY, TRADE, BUSINESS, PROFESSION OR SERVICE AS MAIN ACTIVITY CLASS OF WORKERS, AGE AND SEX

TABLE B-IV PART D : INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION BY SEX AND CLASS OF WORKERS OF PERSONS AT WORK IN NON-HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY, TRADE, BUSINESS, PROFESSION OR SERVICE AS MAIN ACTIVITY

The main feature of these tables is the classification of the workers by 'industrial' classes as revealed by the main activity of the workers.

The industrial classifications are used for classifying the economically active population for the purpose of presentation of statistics relating to industrial production and distribution, labour, national income, and the like. The problems related with the comparability and the usability of the statistics obtained from various sources demand standardisation of the system of industrial classification.

The National Industrial Classification (N.I.C.) 1970, followed in 1971 Census, attempts at grouping together the economic activities which are akin in terms of the process adopted by the ownership, or the type of ownership, or the type of economic organisation. Also, except in cases like textile production where the traditional process of production is sufficiently in vogue, the National Industrial Classification does not distinguish the modes of operation like use of power or otherwise, small-scale or large-scale production, or operation, by household or by factory.

The N.I.C., 1970, is reproduced as an appendix to this volume.

The basis of classification being the nature of economic activity carried on in an establishment, it follows that the unit for classification should be an establishment. The term 'establishment' may be defined as an economic unit which is engaged in one or predominantly one kind of activity usually at a single physical location under single ownership or control. A firm or enterprise may have more than one establishment either on the same location or on different locations engaged either in the same economic activity or in different economic activities. In either case, each establishment is to be counted separately and classified appropriately. It is also likely that some establishments are engaged in more than one economic activity. To the extent possible, it is desirable to treat each technical unit, or ancillary unit or welfare unit, engaged in a different type of activity as a separate establishment. Examples of technical units are the departments of textile mills which spin yarn, weave cloth, and dye the cloth, or departments of a meat packing plant which produce lard, cure bacon or can meat. Clearest examples of ancillary units are central administration offices, warehouses, garages, repairshops and electric power plants which primarily serve their parent units. Examples of welfare units are schools or dispensaries run by, say, steel mills for the benefit of their employees. Where it is not possible to separate technical, ancillary and welfare units from their parent establishments, the establishment will have to be classified into one or other of the minor groups in the classification according to the major activity of the establishment. The major activity of the establishment should generally be ascertained by reference to value added by the production of different products or services rendered or net revenue derived from the various activities. Where such an assessment is not possible, the classification may be determined in terms of gross revenue attributable to the products or services put by the establishment, the number of persons employed on various activities or the proportion of labour-cost assignable to those activities whichever may be convenient and appropriate. Where the integration of activities in an establishment and in the case of a factory producing pulp as well as paper, the classification will have to depend on the final product irrespective of the magnitude of the value added at different levels of production. In the Indian economy, it sometimes becomes necessary to classify by industry persons who are own-account workers, as in the censuses of population and sample surveys of households. In such cases, the distinction between industrial and occupational classifications becomes blurred. In the case of such own-account workers, it is desirable to classify them under industries appropriately akin to their occupations.

The National Industrial Classification (N.I.C.) 1970 consists of :

10 Divisions (at the first digit level) ;

66 Major Groups (at the second digit level) ; &

386 Minor Groups (at the third digit level).

While adopting the N.I.C.,1970, the office of the Registrar General, India, have made a modification in the classification of 'Repairing' or 'Repair-service'-establishments.

In the N.I.C.,1970 'Repair work' has been included in 'Manufacture' in some cases like, Minor Groups ;

'351—Manufacture and repair of drills, coal cutting machines, etc., etc'. and

'359—Manufacture and repair of non-electrical machinery etc., etc.'

While in case of the repairing establishments, such as 'repair of footwear and leather goods etc., electrical repair shops, repair of motor vehicles and motor cycles, etc.,' these have been classified under Major Group 97- "Repair Services" and yet another Division 'Y and Major Group 'YO' as 'Repair Service (if not included under Major Group 97)', has been provided.

It was felt that 'Repairs' should be assigned to 'Manufacturing or Processing' activity under Divisions '2 and 3' which incidentally makes for comparability of classification at the 1961 Census. Accordingly a Major Group '39-Repair' has been inserted under Division 2 and 3 with the following Minor Groups :

390—Repair of footwear and other leather goods.

391—Electrical repair shop.

392—Repair of motor vehicles and motor cycles.

393—Repair of watch, clock and jewellery.

394—Repair of bicycles and cycle-rickshaws.

395—Repair enterprises not elsewhere classified.

The N.I.C., 1970 incorporates some of the major revisions contained in the I.S.I.C. 1969, e.g., transfer of 'Restaurants and Hotels' from 'Services' to 'Trade', clubbing of banking, insurance, real estate, and business services ; transfer of veterinary service from agricultural services to medical and health services, treating sanitary services among community services etc.

The Table B-IV Part A is a straight forward 'industrial' classification of persons at work (other than cultivation) by their main activity as per N. I. C. Divisions.

The N.I.C. Divisions are different than the 'Industrial' categories adopted for 1971 Census data on which have already been presented in Primary Census Abstracts and other tables. A fuller discussion on the subject will be presented while introducing the Table B-V in various parts.

The distribution of the workers in the B-IV series of tables excludes the ones engaged in cultivation as their main activity. Excluding the cultivators, the largest concentration of workers is in the N.I.C. Division 9—Community, Social and Personal Services. This division contains about 93.34% of the workers. The N.I.C. Division 6—Wholesale & Retail Trade and Restaurant and Hotels accounts for about 2.92% of the workers. The N.I.C. Division 2 & 3—Manufacturing & Repair, accounts for about 1.76% of the workers. It is interesting that the proportion of the female workers in this division is more than that of the male workers, being about 4.07% for the female workers as against 1.25% of the males. The higher proportion of females when compared to the males is also predominant in N.I.C. Division 0—Agriculture, Hunting, Forestry & Fishing, with 3.67% females as against 0.49% males. The participation of women in agriculture and in household industry, has already been discussed. The following table gives the details.

The Appendix to the Table B-IV Part A distributes the workers in manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs by household industry and non-household industry.

Household industry : The household industry is defined as an industry conducted by the head of the household himself/herself and/or mainly by the members of the household at home or within the village in the rural areas and only within the premises of the house where the household lived in urban areas. The industry was not to run on the scale of registered factory.

The main criterion of a household industry was the 'participation' of one or more members of a household. This criterion was also applied to the urban areas. Even if the industry was not actually located at home in the rural areas, there was a greater possibility of the members of the household participating therein if it was located anywhere within the village limits. In the urban areas where organised industry took greater prominence, the household industry was to be confined to the precincts of the house where the participants lived. In urban areas

The Table B-IV Part B distributes the workers in manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs on household industry as main activity by industrial classification, sex, and class of workers. The class of workers were employer, employee, single worker and family worker.

Employer : An employer was a person who had to employ other persons in order to perform the work returned as main activity of the person. Such a person was not only responsible for his own personal work but also for giving work to others. But a person who employed domestic servants for household duties or had subordinates under him in an office where he was employed by others, was not an employer, even if he had the power to employ another person in his office on behalf of his own employer or employers.

Employee : An employee was a person who usually worked under some other person for salary or wages in cash or kind. There might be persons who were employed as managers, superintendents, agents etc., and in that capacity even if the members of the household by themselves ran an industry but at a place away from the precincts of their home, it was not considered a household industry.

A household industry related to production, processing, servicing, repairing or making and selling (but not merely selling) of goods. It did not include professions such as of a pleader or doctor or barber, musician, dancer, waterman, dhobi, astrologer etc., or merely trade or business, even if such professions, trade or services were run at home by members of household.

It was likely that the person who might not be working in his own household industry might be working as a petty employee in another household industry.

Out of the 933 workers engaged in manufacturing, processing, servicing & repairs, 830 are engaged in household industry and 103 are engaged in non-household industry indicating that a proportion of 8:1 exsists between the workers in household industry to those engaged in non-household industry. The details may be seen in the statement IV(2).

employed or controlled other workers on behalf of their own employers. Such persons were only employees, and were not regarded as employers.

Single worker : A single worker was a person who worked by himself. He was not employed by any one else and in his turn did not employ anybody else, not even members of his household except casually. This definition of single worker included a person who worked in joint partnership with one or several persons hiring no employees, and also member of a producer's co-operative. Each one of the partners or members of such producers' co-operatives were recorded as 'Single worker'.

Family worker : A family worker was a member who worked without receiving wages in cash or kind, in an industry, business, trade or service. For example, the working members in a family of 'Dhobies' where they all participated and each did not receive wages separately, were family workers. There might be family workers in industry, trade or professions as well. For the purpose of this definition, members of a family might be drawn from beyond the limits of the household by ties of blood or marriage. The family worker might not be entitled to a share of the profits in the work of the business carried on either by the person or head of the household or other relative.

Members of the household who helped solely in household duties were not treated as family workers.

The Table B-IV Part C & B-IV Part D, give information regarding workers in non-household industry, trade, business, profession or service as main activity. Amongst such workers the employers are about 8.72%, employees are about 87.68%, single workers are about 2.97% and female workers are about 0.63%. The details may be seen in the statement IV(3).

The distribution of workers engaged in non-household industry, trade, business, profession or service by age groups and class of workers, reveals some interesting features. The 'family workers' attain the highest proportion at the age group 0—14 and then diminishes sharply to attain the lowest values between the ages 20—49 and then rise gradually again to achieve a comparatively high proportion at the age group 60+. The single workers also follow the same pattern though at a higher curve that runs more smoothly than that of the family workers. The highest proportion of single workers at the age group 0—14 and 60+ are about double that of the family workers, but the lowest values between 20—49 are roughly about 4 times that of the family workers.

The employers indicate highest proportions in the age group 40—49 and the lowest in the age group 30—39. It is interesting that the proportion

Amongst the workers engaged in manufacturing, processing, servicing & repairs on household industry about 9.88% are employees and about 51.69% are single workers. The situation is practically same both for the rural as well as the urban areas although the incidence of urban employees is slightly higher when compared to the rural employees. of employers at the age group 0—14 and 60+ are considerable.

The net effect of age distribution of the employers, single workers and the family workers is realised in the large residual class of workers, namely, the employees. The employees follow a steady rising curve from about 68% at 0—14 age group to attain the highest value of about 92% at the age group 30—39, then decline more or less steadily but comparatively less sharply than the rate at which it reached the highest value from the starting point, to reach the value of about 76% for the age group 60+.

The details may be seen in the table below which gives the information by sex and also for the urban areas.

The following table will help in realising the difference between the distribution of workers by age group and by class of workers as percentages to the workers engaged in non-household industry, trade, business, profession or service as main activity, as against their distribution expressed in terms of percentages to the total population of each age group. The most predominant feature of this distribution is possibly the fact that the age group 0—14 and 60+ are really much less important than one would perhaps be inclined to believe from the foregoing statement. The other important fact revealed by this statement is that the age group 20—39 is the most important age group for the employees and that it is in the age group 20—24 that the employees attain the highest proportion to the overall population. The age group 20—29 and 40—49 are also important so far as the proportion of employers to the total population is concerned. The further details may be seen in the statement given below with the information broken up for sex and for the urban sector.

The Table B—V is presented in two parts given as under :

TABLE B—V PART A OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION BY SEX OF PERSONS AT WORK ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY OTHER THAN CULTIVATION

TABLE B—V PART B OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION BY SEX AND CLASS OF WORKERS IN NON-HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY TRADE, BUSINESS, PROFESSION OR SERVICE AS MAIN ACTIVITY

These tables base upon the occupational classification of the workers excluding those engaged in agricultural work.

In an occupational classification, the grouping of occupations has to base on the fundamental criterion of 'type of work performed'. Accordingly, occupations have been classified in the National Classification of Occupations, 1968, (N.C.O.) so that all the workers engaged on the same type of work are grouped together irrespective of the industrial classification of establishments where they are engaged. For example, all clerical workers have been classified in one occupational group ; whether they are engaged in a factory, mine, Government office or even a shop. Similarly, drivers have been grouped together, so also production process workers and those engaged in services, etc. The branch of economic activity (industry), in which a job occurs, has, thus, not affected the classification of occupations in N.C.O.

Effort has been made to avoid the use of titles similar to those used in the Standard Industrial Classification, in order that there may be no difficulty in distinguishing between an industry and an occupation. Nevertheless, some Groups or Families had to be described in words similar to those used for industrial classification for want of better terminology or nomenclature. For example :

Group 36 : Transport and Communication Supervisors

Group 77 : Food and Beverage Processors

Group 23 : Directors and Managers, Financial Institutions

Group 24 : Working Proprietors, Directors and Managers, Mining, Construction, Manufacturing and Related concerns

Group 25 : Working Proprietors, Directors, Managers and Related Executives, Transport, Storage and Communications

By and large, factors like materials handled, tools or machines used, standard of performance required, levels of resposibility involved, physical and social environments, industrial affiliations, and other abstract or associated factors (e.g. level of intelligence, manual dexterity, physical strength, initiative, adaptability, ability to supervise, level of education, vocational training etc.) have not affected the grouping or classification of occupations. Nevertheless, an occupational classification has to take into account not only the type of operations involved in the performance of a job but also factors like the types of qualifications, vocational and professional training, status (e.g. own-account worker, employer etc.) and levels of skill. Thus, while relating occupations to one another in a family, not only the general similarity of characteristics of work performed is determined, but also the qualifications and levels of skill required. Further grouping of occupational families into an occupational group is similarly based on affinity between such families inter se in terms of raw materials, equipment, process and techniques used, as well as the environments (factory laboratory, office, etc.) where the work is performed. An occupational division is essentially a convenient basis for combining homogenous groups of occupations.

Obviously, the fundamental criterion (viz., 'type of work performed') is easier to be applied at the 5-digit level of occupations. For the inclusion of 5-digit occupations in 3-digit families and 2-digit groups, this basic criterion has to be interpreted in a broad sense only. This implies that the more detailed the level of subdivision, the more homogenous will be the content of occupations in a family group from the point of view of 'type of work performed'.

N.C.O., 1968 attempts to group together occupations according to combinations of specific duties, tasks and work functions concerned with, while actually performing the same or closely related work. Consequently, job-definitions or descriptions given in N.C.O. represent only the average national picture of the various occupations. There could, thus, be variations in job-combinations or job-breakdowns, as also differences in job-titles of occupations, from establishment to establishment and State to State. Further, it is recognised, as only natural, that a group of persons engaged on the same occupation may inter se vary widely in such characteristics as level of performance, education, institutional training etc. Therefore, even though the revised definitions do not describe the level of education, training or work experience required for efficient performance of the tasks and functions in an occupation, broad inferences regarding qualifications etc. could be drawn from occupational grouping and indeed from the job description.

N.C.O., 1968 endeavours, hopefully, to standarise occupational nomenclature and average job-descriptions to couch the data and literature relating to various occupations, produced on an all India basis, in commonly understood and comparable terminology.

It may not be out of place to mention that in its application to the classification of population and individuals, there will always be two alternatives—an employed person may be classified according to the type of work for which he is qualified. Similarly, an unemployed person may be classified by the type of work for which he is trained or qualified or by the type of work he is looking for.

In practice, however, the administrative departments conducting population census or assisting employment seekers in job-seeking may apply either of the two alternatives to ensure uniformity of its (N.C.O.'s) applicability.

The following are the N.C.O. Divisions :

0 — 1	Professional, technical and related workers,
2	Administrative, executive and managerial workers,
3	Clerical and related workers,
4	Sales workers,
5	Service workers,
6	Farmers, fisherman, hunters, loggers and related workers,
7, 8&9	Production and related workers, transport equipment operators and labourers,
X	Workers not classified by occupation

The following two statements summarise the information contained in the two parts of Table B-V. From the Statement V(1) it will be seen that outside the sector of cultivation, the workers for each Division of N.C.O. belong to the Industrial Category of 'services. The N.C.O. Division 4—'Sales workers' contains about half the workers in the Industrial Category of 'trade and commerce' for obvious reasons. The N.C.O. Division 6—'Farmers, fishermen, hunters, loggers and related workers' are also found mostly in the sector of 'services', although the female workers of this division belong to the Industrial Category III—'livestock, forestry, fishing, hunting and plantations, orchards and allied activities'. The workers in the Occupational Division 7—'miners, quarrymen etc.' are also employed in the Industrial Category of V(a) 'household industries' and also in the Industrial Category VII 'trade and commerce'. The household industry also employs a number of workers belonging to the Occupational Group 8 which includes sawyers, carpenters, stone cutters, blacksmiths, motor vehicle mechanics, electrical fitters, radio mechanics, plumbers, welders etc. Apart from these practically all the workers outside the sector of cultivation belong to the sector of 'services'. Due to faulty field work, many workers had to be included in the sector of 'services'. An attempt will be made to redistribute the workers in the appropriate industrial categories in the subsequent paragraphs.

The Statement V (2) distributes the workers in non-household industry, trade, business, profession or service by the class of workers, that is, according as they were employers, employees, single workers and family workers. Practically all the workers in the N.C.O. Division 0, 1, 2, 3, 9 and X are employees. About 28 per cent of the workers belonging to the N.C.O. Division 4—'sales workers' are employers, about 15 per cent are single workers and about 6 per cent are family workers. The incidence of family workers in the urban areas is as high as about 21 per cent. In the Occupational Division 5—'service workers', about 19 per cent are single workers and about 17 per cent are employers whereas about 62 per cent are employees. In the Occupational Division 6—'farmers, fishermen etc.' only about 44 per cent are employees, about 28 per cent are employers, about 27 per cent are single workers. In the N.C.O. Group 7 of the 'miners, quarrymen, carpenters, spinners, weavers, food and beverage processors etc.' about half are employees, about ¼th are employers and about 1/5th are single workers.

It has already been stated in the fly leaf of the Table B-I Part A that the sector of 'services' became inflated in case of Arunachal Pradesh as the result of faulty field work. The person who should have been categorised in the sectors of 'construction', 'transport, storage and communications', 'trade and commerce' etc. were wrongly categorised under the sector of 'services'. An attempt is made in the following paragraph to modify the distribution of the workers by 'Industrial Classification' with the help of the information thrown out by the occupational structure of the workers and on the basis of official statistics available otherwise.

While proceeding to rationalise the industrial classification of the workers, the following rules of thumb were observed more or less arbitrarily :

(i) In the 'trade and commerce' sectors the information thrown out by the Establishment Schedule were accepted and the excess number of workers were pulled out from the classification of 'services'.

(ii) In the occupational 'family' ' '999-Labourers not elsewhere classified', there were 18,118 numbers of workers out of whom 17,995 belonged to the industrial category of 'services'. It was presumed that these 17,995 labourers were mis-classified and could belong only to two industrial categories, namely, 'transport, storage and communications' and 'construction'. The rough estimate of the persons engaged by the Government organisations in the sector of 'transport, storage and communications' was made at about 3,700 workers on the basis of available official statistics of various departments. It was, therefore, decided, more or less arbitrarily, that the remaining 14,295 workers could not but belong to the sector of 'construction'. This estimation more or less agrees with the impression one gathers about the strength of the unskilled or semiskilled labourers engaged by the Central Public Works Department directly or through the contractors, and also by other 'construction' organisations of the Central Government.

(iii) All the Central Public Works Department Divisions and other Central Government Departments engaged in construction of road, building etc., were treated to be in the 'construction' sector, and all the workers belonging to these departments, from the rank of the Executive Engineer (or equivalent) and downwards, were treated as workers engaged in construction. An exercise was done with the distribution of the workers by N.C.O. and N.I.C. to locate the probable mis-classification of the workers in N.I.C. groups. Those belonging to the industrial category of 'services' and to the N.C.O. group '02-Architect, engineer, technologist and surveyors', the N.C.O. family '240.10-Working proprietor, construction', 811.20-Carpenter, construction', '819.90-Carpenters, cabinet makers and related workers not elsewhere classified', '851.10-Labourers, general', '951.10-Workers supervisors, construction', '951.20-Brick layers, construction', etc. were pulled out from the industrial category of 'services' to the category of 'construction'. This resulted in transfer of 2,389 workers from the sectors of 'services' to 'construction'. These, along with more than 14 thousand workers pulled out from the sector of 'services' (as discussed at (ii) above) rendered 'construction' as the 3rd most important sector in the economy of Arunachal Pradesh.

(iv) The managers and supervisors of the Government farms engaged in agricultural production including production of the milk, poultry etc., were taken to the sector of 'agriculture' from the sector of 'services'.

The above resulted in a very different picture of the industrial categorisation of the workers than that was presented in the Primary Census Abstract. It may be recalled that the 'services' sector accounted for about 19 per cent of the workers. The exercise resulted in having only about 10 per cent of the workers, in the sector of 'services'. The sector of 'construction' included in the Primary Census Abstract only about 0.1 per cent of the total workers which now becomes as high as about 6 per cent of the total workers. The details may be seen in the Statement V(3):

TABLE B-VI

This table is presented in four parts given as under :

B–VI PART A(i)—OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF PERSONS AT WORK ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY OTHER THAN CULTIVATION CLASSIFIED BY SEX AND BROAD AGE-GROUPS IN URBAN AREAS ONLY

B–VI PART A(ii)—OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF PERSONS AT WORK ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY OTHER THAN CULTIVATION CLASSIFIED BY SEX AND EDUCATIONAL LEVEL IN URBAN AREAS ONLY

B–VI PART B(i)—OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF PERSONS AT WORK ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY OTHER THAN CULTIVATION BY SEX AND BROAD AGE-GROUPS IN RURAL AREAS ONLY

B–VI PART B(ii)—OCCUPATIONAL CLASSIFICATION OF PERSONS AT WORK ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY OTHER THAN CULTIVATION CLASSIFIED BY SEX AND EDUCATIONAL LEVELS IN RURAL AREAS ONLY

The workers according to main activity (other than those engaged in cultivation) are 53,090 in number, out of whom 44,886 are in the rural sector and 8,204 are in the urban sector. About half the workers belong to the age group 20-24 and 25-29. But the highest occurrence of these workers is in the individual age group 30-39. The age group 20-39 contains about 79 per cent of the workers. The age group 40-49 accounts for about 11 per cent of these workers, whereas the age group 15-19 contains about 5.5 per cent of the workers. In other words, about 95 per cent of these workers are within the age group of 15-49. Both rural and urban workers conform with this pattern more or less, excepting that the workers above the age of 30 are slightly in excess in proportion and the workers below the age of 25 are sightly lower in case of the urban workers.

Amongst the Occupational Divisions, those who are professional, technical and related workers ; administrative, executive and managerial workers ; clerical and related workers ; and workers not classified by occupation, are generally in the higher age group when compared to the other divisions. The sales workers and the service workers are comparatively more numerous in the lower age groups. The production and related workers, transport equipment operators and labourers conform more or less with the general trend although their incidence in the lower age groups is slightly above the overall picture. The farmers, fishermen, hunters, loggers and related workers follow a pattern of their own and for the urban workers about half are contained in the single age group of 30-39. The details may be seen in Statement VI(i) given next page :

of the workers. These two divisions also account for about 58 per cent of those workers who have passed middle, about 51 per cent of those who had passed primary and about 25 per cent of those who are literates without educational level. Taking all the workers together, these two divisions of occupation account for about 54 per cent of the workers. The workers in the occupational division of production or related workers, transport equipment operators and labourers, account for about 23 per cent of the rural workers outside cultivation. The graduate and above of these workers are about two per cent of the total graduates. About 9 per cent of the workers having matriculation or higher secondary belong to this group, about 22 per cent of the workers having middle as their educational level, about 29 per cent of the workers having primary as their educational level and about 50 per cent of the literates without educational level belong to this division of the occupations. The clerical and related workers are about 7 per cent of the rural workers outside cultivation. These workers account for about 12 per cent of the graduates, about 20 per cent of the matriculates, about 3 per cent of the middle passed workers. The details may be seen in the Statement VI (2) given below :

In the urban sector, the post graduates and above including graduates having technical qualifications practically belong entirely to the Occupational Division 0-1 (professional, technical and related workers) and Division 2 (administrative, executive and managerial workers). These two groups also account for most of the graduate degree holders other than the technical degree holders, although clerical and related workers and the workers not classified by occupation also account for about 29 per cent of the workers. The matriculates predominate the clerical and related workers (Division 3) and the workers belonging to the occupational Division 2, although they are also to be found practically in all other Occupational Divisions. Most of the primary and middle passed are to be found in the Occupational Division 2 and also in the Divisions 7, 8, and 9 (production and related workers, transport equipment operators and labourers). The incidence of the literates without educational level is more or less same for the Divisions 0-1, 2 and 3, slightly lower in 4 and 5 but very high (about 36 per cent) in the Divisions 7, 8 and 9. TABLE B-VIII

PERSONS CLASSIFIED AS NON-WORKERS ACCORDING TO MAIN ACTIVITY CROSS-CLASSIFIED BY SEX, AGE GROUPS AND TYPE OF ACTIVITY

The non-workers are divided into (1) students, (2) those attending to household duties, (3) dependents and infants, (4) retired persons, rentiers and persons of independent means, (5) beggars, vagrants etc., (6) inmates of penal mental and charitable institutions, and (7) others.

Data on unemployment was not collected in the 1971 Census. The unemployment and under employment present difficult concepts and data thereon can not be collected reliably through a quick mass operations such as the population census. The Planning Commission as well as the Dantwala Committee on unemployment were of the view that census should not attempt to collect data on unemployment lest it might give a misleading picture. In the present categorisation of non-workers adopted at the 1971 Census, the unemployed are likely to come largely under the category of non-workers, termed 'Others'. But there may be unemployed persons who may be merely pursuing their studies or doing house work in the absence of employment. Such cases of unemployed persons would not be reflected in the census returns. Similarly, there may be a large number of persons engaged in some family economic activity even if they are surplus to such need and may be available and actually looking for other employment. These persons would not also be reflected in the census returns. A special "Graduates & Technical Personnel" card was canvassed at the 1971 Census. Though the response was not complete, this card is expected to yield a fairly reliable picture on educated unemployed. Thus, it is for the first six categories of non-workers this table gives the complete coverage.

The dependents and infants constitute about 77% of the non-workers of Arunachal Pradesh. The non-workers engaged in household duties constitute about 13% of the total non-workers. The students are about 10% of the non-workers. The incidence of other categories of non-workers is not significant. The residual category of non-workers, the one that is supposed to contain the element of unemployment persons, contain only 127 persons i.e. about 0.1% of the total non-workers.

The percentage of female dependents and infants is less than that of the males. The students constitute about 6% of the female non-workers whereas for the male non-workers the same is about 14%. As is to be expected, about 1/5th of the female non-workers are engaged in household duties as against 5% of the male non-workers.

The districts of Arunachal Pradesh show some variations with regard to proportion of students to the total non-workers. The percentage of students to the total non-workers are the highest in the Siang District. About 13% of the non-workers of this District are students, the percentage of male and female students to the total male and female non-workers being 21% and 6% respectively. These percentages stand sharply against the picture presented by the Kameng and the Subansiri districts. In Kameng District, the students constitute 7% of the total non-workers, 10% of the male non-workers and about 5% of the female non-workers of the district ; whereas in Subansiri, about 7% of the total non-workers, about 12% of the male non-workers and only about 3% of the female non-workers fall in the category of students. The Tirap District presents the highest incidence of the female non-workers as students (about 9%). The overall percentages of the students to the total non-workers of the Tirap and the Lohit districts come to 10% and 9% respectively.

The Subansiri and the Tirap districts show 81% and 82% of the non-workers as dependents and infants. The male and female percentages of this category of non-workers is 85% and 76% for Subansiri District and 87% and 79% for the Tirap District. The Kameng, the Siang and the Lohit districts show about 73% of the non-workers as dependents and infants. For the males, about 75% and the total non-workers fall in this category for the Kameng and the Siang districts, whereas the same is about 81% for the Lohit District. For the females, the percentages are 71% for Kameng, 72% for Siang and 66% for Lohit.

The highest percentage of non-workers engaged in household duties are to be found in the Kameng District (19.5%) and the lowest in the Tirap District (7.1%). The Subansiri and the Siang Districts show 12% and 14%of the non-workers as engaged in household duties, whereas the same for the Lohit District is about 18%. What is interesting about Kameng District is that as many as about 14% of the male non-workers have reported to have been engaged in household duties as against 4.6% of Lohit, 4.1% of Siang, 3.2% of Subansiri and 1.2% of Tirap. The Kameng District, however, shows a high percentage of females also as engaged in household duties. About 24% of the females of this district are engaged in household duties which is second only to the Lohit District that shows that about 28%, Subansiri about 21% and Tirap about 12% of the female non-workers to be engaged in household duties.

The following table distributes 1,000 non-workers by their main activities.

About 81% of the non-workers fall in the age group of 0-14. All categories of non-workers expecting the inmates of penal, mental and charitable institutions, contain a very high percentage of non-workers in this age group. For dependents and infants, this age group contains 90% of the non-workers ; for the students about 79% ; and for those engaged in household duties about 34%.

For the next higher age group of 15-19, the percentage of non-workers drop down from 81% of the previous age group to about 4%, and thereafter decrease almost steadily showing a slight rise for the age group 60+. Even for the students, the percentages to the total drop down from about 79% of the age group 0-14 to about 16% of the age group 15-19 and then farther down, rather sharply, for the remaining higher age groups. For the dependents and infants, the distribution is sharper than this. The percentage of dependents and infants in the age group 15-19 drops down from about 90% of the previous age group to about 1% and thereafter remains insignificantly low for the remaining higher age groups till it reaches the age group 60+ when it shows a rise to about 5%. Those engaged in household duties, however, do not show a very similar distribution of non-workers over the broad age groups. For this category, about 34% of the non-workers in the age group 15-19, thereafter rise steadily to reach about 14% at the age group 30-39 and then decline slightly to maintain a steady level at about 9%. However, males engaged in household duties follow the norm set by the other categories of non-workers for all age groups excepting the lowest and the highest. The females, however, show a different trend and although the lowest group maintains the highest incidence of the female non-workers for this category also. the incidence of female non-workers actually show an increase afterwards to reach the next highest value at the age group 30-39 and then decline slightly for the higher age groups. The tables below give the details.

For the rural area, of Arunachal Pradesh, the distribution of 1,000 non-workers by broad age groups drops from 823 in the age group 0-14 to a mere 34 or about 1/24th value of 823 in the next age group and thereafter maintains a gentle decline with the increase in age to rise slightly again at the age group 60+. The distributions of 1,000 urban non-workers, on the other hand, starts with the value 605 at the age group 0-14, drops sharply to 111 or more than the 1/6th value of 605 and then declines gently at that level. This trend is mainly contributed by the entirely different distribution of the urban non-workers engaged in household duties when compared to their rural conterparts, although the other categories of the non-workers have also contribution to it. In the distribution of 1,000 rural non-workers engaged in household duties, 367 are in the age group 0-14 which drops to about 1/5th value in the next higher age group and thereafter maintains a rather eratic trend at that level. The distribution of 1,000 urban non-workers of this category, on the other hand, starts with 14 which rises to 178 and 256 in the next two age groups, to decline slightly to 242 and 217 in the next two age groups and then to drop sharply to 65, 16 and 12 for the last three age groups. With 27% of the total 8,372 urban non-workers behaving in this manner, the overall trend is effected. But even the urban dependents and infants that comprise of about 43% of the total urban non-workers are differently distributed than their rural conterparts who are about 78% of the rural non-workers, to be able to affect the overall distribution very greatly, and drop off sharply from a high value (904) at the age group 0-14 to maintain a steady curve at a level of no consequence thereafter. The urban distribution is smoother than this. The following table shows the age distribution of 1,000 urban non-workers.

TABLE B-IX

This table is presented in two parts given as under :

B-IX PART A—NON-WORKERS CATEGORISED AS OTHERS AGED 15 AND ABOVE CLASSIFIED BY SEX, BROAD AGE-GROUPS AND EDUCATIONAL LEVELS IN URBAN AREAS ONLY.

B-IX PART B—NON-WORKERS CATEGORISED AS OTHERS AGED 15 AND ABOVE CLASSIFIED BY SEX, BROAD AGE-GROUPS AND EDUCATIONAL LEVELS IN RURAL AREAS ONLY.

The table is intended for presenting the non-workers categorised as 'others' who are more than 15 years old, by age groups and educational levels. It may be recalled that this particular category of non-workers were expected to contain the bulk of the unemployed persons. For Arunachal Pradesh such persons are very few in number. They are 77 in the rural sector and 47 in the urban sector. Out of the 77 persons enumerated in the rural sector, 51 are illiterates. The details of the distribution of rural and urban non-workers can best be seen from the main tables themselves, because the percentages worked out from the breakups of these small numbers may mislead the reader.

Reference date and enumeration period

5. The reference date for the population Census of 1971 is the sunrise of 1st *March, 1971, i.e., the census is expected to provide a picture of the population of the country as it exists at sunrise of 1st *March, 1971. It is obviously not possible to ascertain the particulars of every individual throughout the length and breadth of the country at this fixed point of time. Therefore, the enumerator will actually commence his work of enumeration on 10th February, 1971 and end it on †28th February, 1971. You will, therefore, have to cover your jurisdiction and enumerate every person as will be explained in the succeeding paragraphs during that period of ††19 days. But in order to bring the picture up-to-date as at sunrise of 1st *March, 1971, i.e., the reference date for the census, you will have to quickly go round your jurisdiction again on a revisit from 1st to 3rd *March, 1971 and enumerate any fresh arrival in your jurisdiction who might not have already been enumerated elsewhere and also take account of any fresh births that might have taken place in any of the households after your previous visit and before the sunrise of 1st *March, 1971 and fill in fresh census schedules to cover such cases. As a corollary you will have to also cancel the census schedules relating to persons who may have unfortunately died since your last visit to a household but prior to the sunrise of 1st *March, 1971. Births or deaths and arrivals of visitors that had taken place after the sunrise of 1st *March, 1971 need not be taken note of by you.

Pad No. and Slip No.

6. The census charge officer or the supervisor would have issued the required number of enumeration schedule pads of individual slips to you. Some may be in pads of 100 schedules and some of 25. On the top of the pad, the pad number would have been noted prominently by the Charge Officer. Soon after you receive your pad, you should check them and note on the right hand corner of each individual slip, within each book in the space provided for the purpose, the Pad No. as given on the top of the

* later changed to April  later changed to March
To be followed in the cases where the above asterics are used

† later changed to 31st March †† later changed to 22 days cover and you should also allot serial number to each schedule. The serial number of the schedules will have to be given by yourself in one sequence starting with one on the first schedule of the pad and ending with 100 in case of pads of 100 schedules and ending with 25 in case of pads of 25 schedules. In some pads the actual number of schedules may by mistake be a little more or little less. The last serial number in such pads may, therefore, vary accordingly. The ultimate idea is that every slip should be allotted the pad number as well as the distinct serial number.

Location code and your jurisdiction

7. On the top cover page of each book you will also find the location code number of your village or town indicating the district number, the tehsil or thana or town number and the village number. You may find that the district No. and the tehsil No. have been already stamped on each slip in the rural pads. In the case of urban areas, the town No. may also be rubber stamped along with the district No. In rural areas you will have to note in addition the village No. and the enumerator Block No. and for towns ward No., if any, and enumerator Block No. But if on any slip, location code has not been stamped through oversight, you will have to note the combined location code No. made-up of the district No., tehsil or thana or town No. and the village/ward No. and enumerator block No. on each schedule on the left hand top corner in the space provided for the purpose. Elements of each code should be separated by oblique strokes. The enumerator block number may be noted within round brackets at the end of the location code. Please also see the instructions in para 22 below. You must get yourself fully acquainted with the complete code numbers allotted to your area. This will be intimated to you by your Census Charge Officer.

8. If you have, by any chance, been put in charge of more than one village or urban block, please make sure that you have separate pads for each village or urban block. Do not enumerate the population of a second village or a second urban block in continuation of the first in a common pad. The enumeration schedule pads of each village or urban block will have to remain separate.

9. Your appointment order would have defined your census jurisdiction. You must acquaint yourself with your jurisdiction immediately your appointment order is received. You should get to know the relevant house numbers of the houses which you are expected to visit for enumeration. Any new houses that might have come up within the limits of your jurisdiction for which no number had been allotted before, should be indicated by a sub-number to the adjoining house number. You should also know the dividing line between you and the adjoining enumerator. Make sure that he also knows the boundaries of your jurisdictions so that there is no ambiguity, and overlapping or omission. In case of any doubt you should immediately consult your Supervisor or the Charge Officer.

10. Immediately you are appointed a Census Enumerator please prepare a detailed sketch of the area allotted to you showing the streets, other prominent land marks and also the location of the actual houses that you enumerate. This sketch is important in order that your area may be identified by any one even at a later date. This sketch will also ensure complete coverage at the census. You will be required to give this sketch with your final abstract to your Supervisor immediately after the census enumeration is completed.

Persons to be Enumerated

11. While your appointment order may indicate all the houses that fall in your jurisdiction you will have to locate every household in your area. A household is defined as 'the entire group of persons who commonly live together and take their meals from a common mess unless the exigencies of work prevent them from doing so'. A household can be either an one person household, i.e., a person who makes provision for his own food or other essentials for living without combining with any other person to form part of multi-person household. It may be a multi-person household, i.e., a group of two or more persons who make common provision for food or other essentials for living. They may be related or unrelated persons or a combination of both. Households usually occupy a whole or part of not more than one housing unit but they may also be found living in camps, in boarding houses or hotels or other institutions or they may be homeless.

12. You will have to make note of the areas within your iurisdiction were there is a likelihood of houseless persons such as the pavement dwellers or nomads living. Those houseless persons should all be censused on the night of †28th February, 1971. You will also have to cover that night, persons living in boats, if any, in your jurisdiction.

13. All persons normally residing at a place within your jurisdiction during the census enumeration period are eligible for enumeration. A person is considered as normally residing there if he normally stays in that place during the enumeration period, i.e., 10th February till †28th February, 1971, and had in fact actually resided there during any part of the enumeration period. If a person had been away throughout the enumeration period he is not to be considered eligible for enumeration here. He will be enumerated wherever he is actually found during the enumeration period. Similarly, a person who would have normally resided at another place during the enumeration period but in fact was absent during the entire period from that place will be enumerated if he is to be found in any household in your jurisdiction as a visitor. Such persons should, however, be cautioned that they should not get themselves enumerated again in case they may move from this place.

14. Thus when you visit a household for the purpose of enumeration, you will enumerate the following persons :

(i) All those who normally stay and are present in that household during the entire period of enumeration, i.e., from 10th February to †28th February ; (both days inclusive).

(ii) Also those who are known to be normally residing, and had actually stayed during a part of the enumeration period (10-†28th February) but are not present at the time of your visit ;

(iii) Also those who are known to be normally residing and are not present at the time of your visit but are expected to return before 1st *March, 1971 ; and

(iv) Visitors who are present in household censused by you but had been away from the place(s) of their usual residence during the entire enumeration period. For the purpose of enumeration such visitors will be treated as normal residents of the place (household) where they were actually found during the enumeration period provided they have not been enumerated elsewhere.

15. You should plan out your work in such a way that you will be able to cover your entire jurisdiction in a systematic manner and you do not leave the work to be accumulated towards the end.

16. Your task is simple. You will be required to canvass only one simple Individual Slip containing 17 questions for each individual to be enumerated in your jurisdiction. You will have to later post some particulars on the Population Record and you have to also prepare an Abstract. You have to record the answers as laid down in the succeeding instructions briefly.

Census Schedule (Individual Slip)

17. The census schedule which is called the Individual Slip that you will be required to canvass is given on opposite page.

18. One slip will have to be filled for each individual in each household that you visit in your jurisdiction. You should first enumerate the Head of the household followed by the other members of the household in the most convenient order and ensure that none of the persons in the household is left out. Perhaps it is best that after enumerating the Head of the household, you cover the near relatives first such as, the wife, sons and daughters, son's wife and son's children, daughter's husband and their children forming part of the household, then distant relatives, and domestic servants or other boarders or visitors, forming part of the household and entitled to be enumerated here. Please make repeated enquiries about infants and very young children for they are often liable to be left out of count.

19. The various items to be canvassed on the Individual Slip are explained in the following instructions :

Pad No. and Slip No.

20. Make sure that the Pad No. and the Slip No. have been noted by you on the top right hand corner of each schedule against the item provided as already indicated earlier under the general instructions. The noting of Pad No. and the Slip No. is necessary for, you will be later required to tabulate in an Abstract certain items of information of each schedule on a separate form where you will have to indicate the Slip No. concerned against which you will be posting the data. The Pad No. is the number already furnished on the top of the enumeration schedule Pad and the Slip No. is the serial number that you will be giving for each schedule in this Pad. You are also advised to use Pads in a sequence starting with the lowest Pad number.

21. In case your jurisdiction covers more than one village or more than one urban block please ensure that you do not make use of a common pad of schedules for all the villages or urban blocks in your charge. There should be separate pads for each village or urban block even if there were a few blank schedules left over in the pad of a particular village or urban block.

Location Code

22. Though this has already been referred to generally earlier, it is worth elaborating. The location code is the method by which every village or town in a tehsil/taluk/police station/ anchal/Island in every district of a State is identified by a combination of numbers. For this purpose, every district, tehsil, taluk, police station, anchal or Island, village or town in your State would have been allotted code numbers. Your Charge Officer would have indicated to you the district, tehsil, taluk, police station, anchal or Island and the village or town numbers as also the ward number of the town pertaining to your jurisdiction. By a combination of these numbers one can exactly locate your village or town. Thus, a code number running as 10/3/46 would mean village No. 46 in Tehsil No. 3 of District No. 10 of a State, or a code number running as 6/II/5 would mean ward No. 5 in Town No. II of District No. 6. Note that the town No. is given in roman figure to distinguish it from rural code No. At the end of the location code you should add within round brackets the enumeration block number that has been allotted to you by your Charge Officer thus 10/3/46(60) or 6/II/5(4). You will be identified by enumerator's block number and this has to be entered in your Daily Posting Statement. (The enumerators' block numbers will be a continuous number for the tehsil/taluk/town, etc.).

23. Make sure that you know the correct location code of the area allotted to you. You should note down the location code on each blank individual slip immediately the enumeration pads are issued to you. This will save you the trouble of noting the location code number later when you actually visit each household within your block for enumeration. When you visit the household you may have to then note only the household number as indicated in the next para by the side of the location code number which you would have already indicated.

Household No.

24. The identifying household number of the household that you are covering at the Census should be noted within the square brackets provided for the purpose. As you may be aware, Houselisting and House-numbering operation was undertaken during 1970 with a view to numbering each census house and locating all households living in census houses. In the course of this operation, each census house was given a number and households found therein would also have been allotted a number. The census house-numbers would be painted on the houses at prominent place, like the pillar of the main gate, top of the main door, etc. Sometimes there may be more permanent house-numbering plates affixed. In the case of thatched houses, numbers may have been written out on a tin plate or wooden board and left with the households with a request to preserve the same. You should use this number.

25. It may happen that when you visit your area for census taking you may come across some census houses which did not exist at the time of houselisting and therefore, no numbers had actually been allotted to them. You should allot a number after consulting the order of numbering prevailing in your jurisdiction and locate the households living therein. For example, if in between buildings 9 and 10 another building has come up; you should allot the number 9/1 to this structure and in case more than one building has come up numbers like 9/1, 9/2, 9/3 and so on should be used for the new structures, then locate the census houses in accordance with the instructions and thereafter locate the households and allot numbers in the prescribed manner. The household number will be the same as the house number if only one household is living in a house. If there were more than one household then alphabetical sub-numbers within brackets as 19(a), 19(b), etc., will have to be added to the house number to distinguish each household. It may also happen that the number given at the time of houselisting has been obliterated. You should allot the correct number having regard to the preceding and succeeding buildings.

26. For the purpose of conveniently understanding the house-numbering system, the instructions governing the numbering of buildings, census houses and households are given in Appendix II (not reproduced).

27. If the housenold happens to be an institutional household such as a boarding house, hostel, hotel, chummery, etc., where a group of unrelated persons stay together then add 'INST' to the household number.

28. If you are enumerating the houseless persons, you should record 'O' boldly in the space provided for the household number.

29. In all the individual slips pertaining to the members of the same household, the household number will be repeated. You will then start recording the particulars of each individual against questions indicated in the Individual Slip according to the instructions that follow.

Note: Please do not write anything in the spaces enclosed by dotted lines in question Nos. 2, 3, 5, 6(b), 7(b), 7(c), 7(d), 8(b), 8(c), 8(d), 9—15, 16(a), 16(d), 16(e), 16(f), 17(a), 17(d), 17(e) and 17(f). These are meant for writing code numbers in the Tabulation Offices.

Question 1: Name

30. Write the name of the person enumerated. If a woman's name is not given out, describe her as 'so and so's wife, mother or daughter'. By custom if a woman finds it difficult to give the name of her husband and if the man is absent at the time of enumeration but his particulars have to be recorded write 'so and so's husband' if you have failed to ascertain the name even from the neighbours.

For newly born infants who have not yet been given the name write "baby" and add father's or mother's name.

Question 2: Relationship to Head

31. In the case of the Head of household write 'Head'. The Head of the household for census purposes is a person who is recognised as such in the household. He is generally the person who bears the chief responsibility for the maintenance of the household and takes decisions on behalf of the household. The Head of the household need not necessarily be the eldest male member, but may even be a female or a younger member of either sex. You need not enter into any long argument about it but record the name of the person who is recognised by the household as its Head.

32. In the case of institutions like boarding houses, messes or friends living together in one census house, which should be regarded as households of unrelated persons living together, which may be called institutional households, the Manager or Superintendent or the person who has administrative responsibility or who by common consent is regarded as the head should be recorded as the Head of the household.

33. The Manager or Superintendent who does not stay normally in the institution should be enumerated at his place of normal residence. You should make sure before filling up the slip for the Manager or Superintendent, etc., of an institutional household, that he/she has not been enumerated at any other household.

34. In the case of absence of a normal 'Head', the person on whom the responsibility of managing the affairs of the household falls, should be regarded as the Head.

35. All relationships in this question should be recorded in relation to the Head of the household. Write the relationship in full. Do not use words like 'nephew', 'niece' or 'uncle', but state whether brother's or sister's son or daughter (for nephew or niece) or father's or mother's brother (for uncle), 'son' will include 'adopted son' or 'step son'; similarly for a daughter. In the case of visitors, boarders, or employees, write 'visitor', 'boarder', or 'employee' as the case may be. In the case of institution, the members should be recorded as 'unrelated'.

36. If on the check of revisional round between 1st and 3rd *March, 1971 the Head of the household as recorded previously is found to have died, the person in the household who succeeds him by common consent as head should be recorded as Head and the relationships in all other slips will have to be suitably corrected. The slip of the deceased Head of the household will, of course, be cancelled.

Question 3 : Sex

37. For males write 'M' and for females write 'F' within the circle indicated against this question. Even for eunuchs and hermaphrodites, write 'M' only. Verify with reference to the name and relationship to Head against questions 1 and 2 respectively that you have noted the sex correctly.

Question 4 : Age

38. Record the age of the person in total years completed last birthday. Very often there is a tendency on the part of the individuals to return 'years running' rather than the 'years completed'. Make sure that only the actual number of years completed is recorded.

39. In respect of infants who might not have completed one year by the day of enumeration their age in completed years should be invariably shown as 'O' as they have not yet completed one year of age and add 'Infant' in brackets. As was stated under general instructions make sure that infants even if a day old are invariably enumerated. You should not enter the age in months. The age of an infant who has not yet completed one year should invariably be noted as 'O' only.

40. Age is one of the most important items of demographic data and you should ascertain the age with greatest care. Many persons particularly in the rural areas cannot give their age correctly. They should be assisted to state the correct age by stimulating their memory with reference to any historical event, etc., well known in the area. Sometimes the age can be ascertained with reference to the age of another person of a known age that may be in the same household or in the neighbouring household or that of a well known person of the village such as Headman of the village. A person can more easily say whether he was older or younger to such a person and by how many years. This will help you to record the age more accurately.

Question 5 : Marital Status

41. In answering this question use the following abbreviations :

NM : Never Married
M : Currently Married
W : Widowed
S : Separated or Divorced.

42. For a person who has never been married at any time before, write 'NM'. For a person currently married, whether for the first or another time and whose marriage is subsisting at the time of enumeration with the spouse living, write 'M'. Write 'M' also for persons who are recognised by custom or society as married and for the persons in stable de facto union. Even if a marriage is disputed in the locality write 'M' if the person concerned says he or she is married or is in stable de facto union. For a widowed person whose husband or wife is dead, and who has not been married again, write 'W'. For a person who has been separated from wife or husband and is living apart with no apparent intention of living together again or who has been divorced either by a decree of a law court or by an accepted social or religious custom but who has not remarried, write 'S'. For a prostitute return her marital status as declared by her.

Question 6 : For currently married women only

43. This question has to be answered in respect of all currently married women only, i.e., all women whose marital status is shown as 'M' against Q. 5. For all others a cross may be put through the two sub-parts of this question.

6(a) Age at marriage

44. Age at marriage : You should ascertain the age at which the currently married woman whom you are enumerating was married and record that age in completed years. If the currently married woman had been married more than once, the age at which she got married for the first time should be recorded.

6(b) Any child born in the last one year

45. Any child born in the last one year : You should ascertain if the currently married woman whom you are enumerating gave birth to a child in the last one year prior to the date of enumeration. Since it may be difficult for a person to reckon the exact year with reference to the English calender dates, the period of one year may be ascertained with reference to a well known festival day which falls close to February-*March, as determined by the Census Superintendent of the State. You should ask if a child was born on or after this festival day last year to the date of enumeration. Only if the child was born alive, even if the child had died soon after birth, should the answer be 'Yes', to this question. Still birth, i.e., a child which is born dead should not be taken into account for this purpose. So while you should make sure that every case of birth of child born alive, even if it is not alive on the date of enumeration, is reported, you should not reckon it if the child was born lifeless.

46. It is common experience that the birth of the child may not be reported readily if the child is not actually surviving at the time of enumeration. Infant deaths are still high in the country. There is a chance of a number of such cases being missed unless specifically questioned about them. It is necessary to record all live births even if the child had died soon thereafter or had not survived to the day of enumeration. Therefore where the initial answer to this question is 'no', you should ask a specific question if there has been a case of child having been born alive in the last one year and later dying before the enumeration date. This is a delicate question and should be asked with tact in a manner not to offend the sensibility of the respondent. Where a currently married woman first answers that she had no child born in the last one year, you may perhaps question her as follows :

"It has been found in some houses that a child was born and had died soon after or a few days or months later and such cases had not been reported. It is my hope that there are no such cases here. Am I right ?"

This may bring in the required response. If she reports 'no' then you can be sure that no birth has been missed. You have to make sure that any live birth that has occured to the currently married woman in the last one year is netted whether the child is surviving till the date of enumeration or not. Similarly, probe to eliminate still births may be necessary. For example, when the answer is 'yes' under question 6(b) the enumerator might ask if the child is here in this house. If the answer is 'yes', no further question is needed. If 'no', the enumerator might ask where he has gone. The answer may be 'dead' or he has gone elsewhere. If 'dead' then the enumerator might ask when did the child die and this will bring out the fact whether or not it was a still birth.

47. Write 'Yes', if the currently married woman had given birth to a live child from the prescribed festival day last year to the date of enumeration or 'No' if she had not. In case of twin or multiple births, write 2, 3, etc., as the case may be within round brackets after the entry 'Yes'.

Note :—You may find on your revisional round from 1st to 3rd *March, 1971 that a child is born to a married woman in a household after your last visit but before the sunrise of 1st *March, 1971. You will have to take this into account and correct the answer against the Q. 6(b) accordingly. You must enquire specifically if any such birth has taken place. While ignoring still births all other births where the child was born alive even if it did not survive long should be taken into account.

Question 7 : Birth Place

48. Answer to this question has to be filled with reference to the place of birth of the persons enumerated and the particulars recorded under the four sub-items of this question.

7(a) Place of Birth

49. Write 'PL' for a person born in the village or town where he is being enumerated. Where 'PL' is noted against this question put 'X' against sub-items (b), (c) and (d).

For those born outside the village or town of enumeration write the actual name of the place against sub-item (a) and fill the other details against sub-items (b), (c) and (d).

7(b) Rural/Urban

50. For those born outside the village or town of enumeration ascertain if the place of birth was a village or town at the time of his birth. To enable a person to determine whether the place was a town or village he may be required to indicate the status of the place of birth in comparison with a known town in the neighbourhood of the place of enumeration. You may mention some important urban characteristics to enable the person to make out if the place of his birth was rural or urban, e.g., existence of a local administrative body, Industrial townships declared as towns, etc.

For a person born in a village, write 'R'.

For a person born in a town/city, write 'U'.

For a person born in a foreign country put 'X' against this sub-item and also against sub-item (c). If all efforts to classify the place of birth as rural/urban fail, write 'not known'.

7(c) District

51. For a person born outside the village or town of enumeration but within the district of enumeration write 'D'. For a person born in another district of the State of enumeration, or other State/Union Territory in the country, write the name of the district. If the person cannot name the district, write 'not known'.

7(d) State/Country

52. For persons born within the State of enumeration write 'X' against this item. Make sure that the earlier entries made in sub-items (a), (b) and (c) are consistent with such an answer ; that is 'PL' might have already been written against sub-item (a) or 'D' is written against sub-item (c) or any other district of the State of enumeration is mentioned against sub-item (c).

53. For persons born outside the State of enumeration but within the country, write the name of the State/Union Territory where born.

54. For those born outside India, note merely the name of the country and there is no need to enter the name of the constituent State of the foreign country. Where a person cannot name the country, the name of the continent may be noted.

55. For a person born on sea, record 'born at sea', against this sub-item and put 'X' against sub-items (a), (b) and (c). If a person was born in a train, boat or bus, etc., within the country, write the particulars in (a), (b) and (c) with reference to the administrative territory where the event occurred or was registered.

Question 8 : Last Residence

56. Answer to this question will have to be filled in respect of every person if he had another place of normal residence irrespective of his place of birth, before he came to the present place where he is enumerated. Even if a person were born at the place of enumeration, by the nature of his work or for studies, etc., he had shifted subsequently to another village or town and had come back again to the place of enumeration, he should be deemed to have had another place of residence prior to his enumeration here.

The last previous residence is relevant only if he had been outside the village or town of enumeration and not simply in another house or locality in the same place. For example, if a person born in one part of Bombay City is found residing in another part of Bombay at the time of enumeration, the change of residence should not be treated as change of place of residence because both the areas are comprised in the same City of Bombay. Similarly, a person born in hamlet 1 of village Rampur and found in hamlet 2 of the same village at the time of enumeration, should not be deemed to have had any other place of residence than the village where he is enumerated. Where a person had merely gone out to another place or had been shifting from place to place purely on tour or pilgrimage or for temporary business purposes, he should not be deemed to have had another residence different from the place where he or his family normally resides but if the person had his normal residence, i.e., if his normal home had been elsewhere at any time before he is enumerated at his place of present residence, irrespective of where he was born, such place of his previous residence should be recorded here.

8(a) Place of last residence

57. For a person who had been in the village or town of enumeration continuously since birth (except for shifting to other places outside the village or town of enumeration for a purely temporary stay) write 'PL' against sub-item (a) and put 'X' against sub-items (b), (c) and (d).

For a person who had had his last previous residence at any place outside the village or town of enumeration (irrespective of his place of birth), write the actual name of the village or town where his last residence was against sub-item (a) and fill the other details against sub-items (b), (c) and (d).

8(b) Rural/Urban

58. For a person who had previously resided outside the place of enumeration ascertain if the place of last previous residence was rural or urban and record the answer. For a person whose last previous residence was a village write 'R'. For a person whose last previous residence was a town/city, write 'U'. For a person who last resided in a foreign country write 'X'. For a person whose last previous residence cannot be classified, write 'Not known'.

Rural or Urban status has to be determined with reference to the time of migration from the place of last previous residence to the place of enumeration.

For helping the person to determine whether a place was rural or urban, you may mention important urban characteristics as indicated in the instructions against item 7(b) in para 50.

8(c) District

59. For a person who had previously resided in another place, i.e., for whom 'PL' is not written against sub-item (a) you have to fill in this item in the manner indicated below :—

For a person who previously resided in another village or town within the district of enumeration write 'D'. For a person who previously resided in another district of the State/Union Territory of enumeration or of other State/Union Territory in the country, write the name of the district. If he cannot name the district write 'Not known'. For a person whose last previous residence was outside India write 'X' against this sub-item.

8(d) State/Country

60. For a person whose last previous residence was outside the village or town of enumeration but within the State or Union Territory of enumeration write 'X' against this item but if it was outside the State or Union Territory of enumeration but within the country write the name of the State/Union Territory. For a person whose last previous residence was outside the country write the name of the country and if name of the country is not forthcoming write the name of the continent.

For persons who had not moved out at all from the present place of enumeration from birth (except for purely temporary stay) this sub-item need not be filled and 'X' should be put in respect of persons against this sub-item.

Question 9 : Duration of Residence at the village or town of Enumeration

61. Note here the period of the existing continuous residence in the village or town where the person is being enumerated, in completed years. This will apply to even a person born at the place of enumeration. If he had left this village or town and had lived elsewhere for sometime, i.e., in Q. 8 another place of last residence is reported and has come back again to this village or town, then the duration of residence to be noted against this question is the period of the last continuous residence. But if a person had been away on a temporary visit or tour, etc., that should not be taken as a break in the period of his continuous residence here. If the person was born at the place of enumeration and also had no other place of last residence, i.e., 'PL' has been noted in Q. 8(a) then 'X' may be put against Q. 9.

For a person whose duration of continuous residence at the place of enumeration is less than 1 year, it should be noted as '0'.

Question 10 : Religion

62. In answering this question use the following abbreviations :

H : Hinduism
I : Islam
C : Christianity
S : Sikhism
B : Buddhism
J : Jainism

For others record the actual religion as returned fully.

63. If a person says that he has no religion it may be recorded accordingly. Do not mistake religion for caste which will not be recorded here.

Question 11 : Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe

64. You have been furnished with a list of scheduled castes and scheduled tribes notified for your State. Ascertain if the person enumerated belongs to a scheduled caste or scheduled tribe and if he does, then record the name of the scheduled caste or scheduled tribe which should find place in the list furnished to you. The answer should be recorded against the correct rectangle provided for the purpose against this question. For a person who is not a member of any scheduled caste or scheduled tribe write 'X' in both the rectangles.

65. If the person belonging to a scheduled caste or scheduled tribe returns his caste or tribe by synonym or generic name of a caste or a tribe it should be entered only if it finds a place in the list furnished to you. Do not write the names of scheduled castes in general terms as 'Harijan' or 'Achhut'. You should ascertain the name of the caste when it is returned and write it in the rectangle provided for recording the name. Similarly, do not write the names of scheduled tribes in general term as 'Adivasi'. You should ascertain the name of the tribe when it is returned and write it in the rectangle with broken lines provided for recording the same. If a person is negligent and insists on calling himself merely 'Harijan' or 'Achhut' or 'Adivasi' as the case may be, tell him that this description is not adequate for census purposes and persuade him to give out the actual name of the caste or tribe. You should make all efforts to ascertain the correct name of the scheduled caste or scheduled tribe as found in the notified list. If the person merely claims to be a scheduled caste or scheduled tribe but says that he does not belong to any of the notified communities applicable to the area, he will not be entered as a scheduled caste or scheduled tribe.

66. Scheduled Castes can belong only to the Hindu or Sikh religions. If a person belongs to scheduled caste, there will be either 'H' or 'S' in the answer to the question 10. Scheduled tribes may belong to any religion.

Question 12 : Litercy (L or O)

67. Definition of a literate : A person who can both read and write with understanding in any language is to be taken as literate. A person who can merely read but can not write is not a literate.

68. It is not necssary that a person who is literate should have received any formal education or should have passed any minimum educational standard.

69. For a person who is literate, i.e., who can both read and write, record 'L' in the triangle against question 12, If there is any doubt about a person's ability to read or write, the test that may be applied for reading is his/her ability to read any portion of the printed matter in the Enumerator's Instructions and similarly for writing he/she should be able to write a simple letter. Ability merely to sign one's name is not adquate to qualify a person as being able to write with understanding. If a person claims to be literate in some other language with which the enumerator is not aquainted, the respondent's word has to be taken as correct. Other members of the household may also be able to testify to the litercy of the person enumerated.

70. For a person who is illiterate, i.e., who can neither read nor write or can merely read but cannot write, in any language, write 'O' in the triangle against question 12. All children of the age of 4 years or less should be treated as illiterate even if the child is going to a school and may have picked up reading and writing a few odd words.

Question 13 : Educational level

71. This question will be asked of those for whom 'L' has been recorded against question 12. For a person who is illiterate and 'O' has been put against him in the answer to question

12, there is no advantage in ascertaining the educational level even if he had at some stage attended school and passed a standard and had relapsed into illiteracy. In such a case you should put 'X'. You have to ascertain and record the highest educational level attained by a person for whom 'L' is recorded in answer to question 12.

72. For a person who is still studying in a particular class, the highest educational level attained by him will be one that he has actually passed and not the one in which he is studying. For example, a person studying in the 1st year B.A. should be recorded as only 'PUC' or 'Higher Secondary', as the case may be. Similarly, a person studying, say, in the 4th year of 'MBBS' should not be noted as 'MBBS' but as 3rd year 'MBBS' which is the highest level he has actually attained. If you are not sure whether a person has passed Primary, Middle, Higher Secondary or other definite levels, you may record the actual standard passed such as say IIIrd standard, VIIIth standard, 1st year B. Com., etc.

The highest educational level attained by the person enumerated should be recorded. When a person holds both general and technical qualifications both of which are of equivalent level such as say B.Sc. (Zoology) and M.B.B.S. or B.A. (Maths.) and B.E. (Bachelor in Engineering), the technical qualification should be given preference in recording the highest educational level attained. Where the general educational level is higher than the technical educational level or where it is not possible to decide which of the two levels is relatively higher, the highest level of education as returned by the person concerned should be recorded.

In recording the highest educational level of a graduate or a post-graduate, subject of specialisation such as B.Sc. (Maths.), M.A. (Economics), M.Sc. (Botany), B.Sc. (Agriculture), etc., should be noted. You should not use abbreviations which are not in common use. In such cases, the degree or diploma should be spelt out fully.

73. Whenever you come across graduates or post-graduates as also those with a technical diploma or degree, you will have to issue him a "Degree-holder and Technical Personnel Card" and ask the person concerned to fill it. You should note the location code on the card while issuing it. Put a tick (√) after noting the educational level against question 13 immediately after you issue a card. When you collect it after some time but before you complete the enumeration of your area, cross the tick and put a circle as (√).

You will have to ensure that the card issued to all the graduates and the technical degree or diploma holders are collected back. The non-crossed tick, if any, against question 13 will show that the card has not been collected.

Questions 14 : Mother-tongue

74. Definition : Mother-tongue is the language spoken in childhood by the person's mother to the person. If the mother died in infancy, the language mainly spoken in the person's home in childhood will be the mother-tongue. In the case of infants and deaf mutes the language usually spoken by the mother shall be recorded.

75. Record mother-tongue in full whatever be the name of the language as returned and avoid use of abbreviations. You are not expected to determine if the language returned by a person is the dialect of another major language and so on. You should not try to establish any relationship between religion and mother-tongue. You are bound to record the language as returned by the person as his mother-tongue and you should not enter into any argument with him and try to record anything other than what is returned. If you have reason to suspect that in any area due to any organised movement, mother-tongue was not being truthfully returned, you should record the mother-tongue as actually returned by the respondent and make a report to your superior Census Officers for verification. You are not authorised to make any correction on your own.

Question 15 : Other languages

76. After recording the mother-tonge in question 14 enquire whether the person knows any other language(s). Indian or foreign and record language (s) returned by him against this question. In case he does not know any language apart from his mother-tonge put 'X' against this question.

77. The number of languages recorded under this question need not be more than two. These languages should be other than his mother-tongue and they should be recorded in the order in which he speaks and understands best and can use with understanding in communicating with others. He need not necessarily be able to read and write these languages. It is enough if he has a working knowledge of these subsidiary languages to enable him to converse in that language with understanding.

(Instructions regarding Question No. 16 and 17 are not reproduced as they already appear in the flyleaf to Table B-I Part A from Page 21 to 27.)

APPENDIX—3

NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

(N. I. C.)—1970

(As adopted by the office of the Registrar General, India, for the Industrial Classification of 'Establishment' and 'economically active population')

INTRODUCTION

Industrial Classifications are used in the Classification of economically active population, in the presentation of statistics of industrial production and distribution, labour statistics and economic data like national income etc., Comparability of statistics available from various sources on different aspects of economy, and the usability of data for economic analysis demand standardisation of the system of Industrial Classification.

The Industrial Classification used in the population Census differed from one census to another and till 1951 Census, it was generally an amalgam of industrial and occupational features.

In the 1961 Census, the Indian Standard Industrial Classification (ISIC) evolved in 1958 by the Directorate General of Employment and Training was used. There has been a variety of Industrial Classifications in India such as Labour Bureau's industrial classification of factories, Standard Industrial Classification evolved by Central Statistical Organisation etc. While ettempts have been made in several cases to bring these classifications in line with the I.S.I.C. these have produced different versions depending on the nature of the respective needs. An attempt at evolving a Standard Industrial Classification was made when an interdepartmental meeting, in which all concerned departments of the Central Government along with other important users were represented, was held in April, 1964 to consider the subject. After a detailed consideration of general principles for a Standard Industrial Classification, the meeting appointed a Technical Committee consisting of representatives of the Registrar General, India, Directorate General of Employment and Training, Ministries of Internal Trade and Industry and the Central Statistical Organisation (C.S.O.) to work out a three-digit level standard classification of industries. In the meantime, the Statistical Office of the United Nations was also considering the revision of the I.S.I.C. 1968. This was ready in September, 1968 and it was circulated by the C.S.O. among all concerned organisations inviting their suggestions. After a number of meetings of the representatives of these organisations, the National Industrial Classification (N.I.C.) 1970 was finalised. This has been adopted by the Office of the Registrar General, India, with suitable modification.

Like the I.S.I.C.—1969, the National Classification attempts to group together economic activities which are akin in terms of the process adopted, the raw materials used and the finished products produced. The Classification does not draw any distinction according to the type of ownership or type of economic organisation. And except in cases like textiles etc., where traditional processes of production are in vogue in significant measures, the Classification does not endeavour to distinguish between various modes of operation as for instance, using power or not using power factory or household, large-scale or small-scale. Identification of the special features of the Indian economy, where in certain sectors traditional processing is substantial, has been attempted in the two-digit and three-digit levels in the N.I.C. 1970.

The basis of classification being the nature of economic activity carried on in an establishment, it follows that the unit classification should be an establishment. The term 'establishment' may be defined as an economic unit which is engaged in one or predominately one kind of activity usually at a single physical location under single ownership or control. A firm or enterprise may have more than one establishment either on the same location or on different locations engaged either in the same economic activity or in different economic activities. In either case, each establishment is to be counted separately and classified appropriately. It is also likely that some establishments are engaged in more than one economic activity. To the extent possible, it is desirable to treat each technical unit, or ancillary unit or welfare unit, engaged in a different type of activity as a separate establishment. Examples of technical units are the departments of textile mills which spin yarn, weave cloth, and dye the cloth or Departments of a meat packing plant which produce lard lure bacon or can meat. Clearest examples of ancillary units are central administration offices, warehouses, garages, repairshops and electric power plants which primarily serve their parent units. Examples of welfare units are schools or dispensaries run by say, steel mills for the benefit of their employees. Where it is not possible to separate technical, ancillary and welfare units from their parent establishments, the establishment will have to be classified into one or other of the minor groups in the Classification according to the major activity of the establishment. The major activity of the establishment should generally be ascertained by reference to value added by the production of different products or services rendered or net revenue derived from the various activities. Where such an assessment is not possible, the classification may be determined in terms of gross revenue attributable to the products or services put by the establishment, the number of persons employed on various activities or the proportion of labour-cost assignable to those activities whichever may be convenient and appropriate. Where the integration of activities in an establishment* and in the case of a factory producing pulp as well as paper, the classification will have to depend on the final product irrespective of the magnitude of the value added at different levels of production. In the Indian economy, it sometimes becomes necessary to classify by industry persons who are own-account workers, as in the censuses of population and sample surveys of households. In such cases the distinction between industrial and occupational classifications becomes blurred. In the case of such own-account workers, it is desirable to classify them under indurtries appropriately akin to their occupations.

The National Industrial Classification (N.I.C.) 1970 consists of

10 Divisions (at the first digit level) ;
66 Major Groups (at the second digit level) and 386 Minor Groups (at the third digit level).

While adopting the N.I.C.-1970, and Office of the Registar General, India, have made a modification in the classification of 'Repairing' or 'Repair-service'-establishments.

In the N.I.C.-1970 'Repair work' has been included in 'Manufacture' in some cases like, Minor Groups.

"351-Manufacture and repair of drills, coal cutting machines, etc., etc.," and

"359-Manufacture and repair of non-electrical machinery etc., etc.";

While in case of the repairing establishments, such as "Repair of Footwear and Leather goods etc., Electrical repair shops, repair of Motor Vehicles and Motor Cycles, etc.," these have been classified under Major Group 97—"Repair Services" and yet another Division 'Y' and Major Group 'YO' as 'Repair Service (if not included under Major Group 97),' has been provided.

It was felt that 'Repairs' should be assigned to 'Manufacturing or processing' activity under Divisions '2 and 3' which incidentally makes for comparability of classification at the 1961 Census. Accordingly a Major Group '39-Repair' has been inserted under Divisions 2 and 3 with the following Minor Groups :

390-Repair of Footwear and other leather goods.

391-Electrical Repair shop
392-Repair of Motor Vehicles and Motor Cycles

393-Repair of watch, clock and jewellery
394-Repair of Bicycles and Cycle-rickshaws
395-Repair enterprises not elsewhere classified

The N.I.C.-1970 incorporates some of the major revisions contained in the I.S.I.C. 1969, e.g., transfer of 'Restaurants and Hotels' from 'Services' to 'Trade', clubbing of Banking, Insurance, Real Estate, and Business services ; transfer of veterinary service from Agricultural Services to Medical and Health Services, treating sanitary services among community services etc.

APPENDIX—4

INTRODUCTION

1. The Revised edition of the National Classification of Occupations, N.C.O. 1968, has been fashioned after the second edition of the International Standard Classification of Occupations, (I.S.C.O.), 1966, published by the International Labour Organisation, (I.L.O.), in 1968. This has been done to ensure international comparability of reporting and analysing of statistical data relating to occupations, manpower, population censuses, etc.

2. BASIC PRINCIPLES IN REVISING N.C.O.

2.1 In an occupational classification, the grouping of occupations has to be based on the fundamental criterion of 'type of work performed'. Accordingly, occupations have been classified, in the N.C.O., 1968, so that all the workers engaged on the same type of work are grouped together irrespective of the industrial classification of establishments where they are engaged. For example, all clerical workers have been classified in one occupational group ; whether they are engaged in a factory, mine, Government office or even a shop. Similarly, drivers have been grouped together, so also production process workers and those engaged in services, etc. The branch of economic activity (industry), in which a job occurs, has, thus, not affected the classification of occupations in the N.C.O. Effort has consequently been made to avoid the use of titles similar to those used in the Standard Industrial Classification, in order that there may be no difficulty in distinguishing between an industry and an occupation. Nevertheless, some Groups or Families had to be described in words similar to those used for industrial classification for want of better terminology or nomenclature. For example :

Group 36 : Trnsport and Communication Supervisors

Group 77 : Food and Beverage Processors

Group 23 : Directors and Managers, Financial Institutions

Group 24 : Working Proprietors, Directors and Managers, Mining, Construction, Manufacturing and Related Concerns

Group 25 : Working Proprietors, Directors, Managers and Related Executives, Transport, Storage and Communication

2.2 By and large, factors like materials handled, tools or machines used, standard of perfomance required, levels of responsibility involved, physical and social environments, industrial affiliations, and other abstract or associated factors (e.g. level of intelligence, manual dexterity, physical strength, initiative, adaptability, ability to supervise, level of education, vocational training, etc.) have not effected the grouping or classification of occupations. Nevertheless, an occupational classification has to take into account not only the type of operations involved in the performance of a job but also factors like the types of qualifications, vocational and professional training, status (e.g. own-account worker, employer) and levels of skill. Thus, while relating Occupations to one another in a Family, not only the general similarity of characteristics of work performed is determined, but also the qualifications and levels of skill required. Further grouping of occupational Families into an occupational Group is similarly based on affinity between such Families inter se in terms of raw materials, equipment, process and techniques used, as well as the environments (factory, laboratory, office, etc.) where the work is performed. An occupational Division is essentially a convenient basis for combining homogenous Groups of Occupations.

2.3 Obviously, the fundamental criterion (viz., 'type of work performed') is easier to be applied at the 5 digit level of occupations. For the inclusions of 5 digit occupations in 3 digit Families and 2 digit Groups, this basic criterion has to be interpreted in a broad sense only. This implies that the more detailed the level of sub-division the more homogenous will be the content of occupations in a Family or Group from the point of view of 'type of work perform d'.

2.4 N.C.O., 1968 attempts to group together occupations according to combinations of specific duties, tasks and work functions concerned with, while actually performing the same or closely related work. Consequently, job-definitions or descriptions given in N.C.O., represent only the average national picture of the various accupations. There could, thus, be variations in job-combinations or job breakdowns, as also differences in job-titles of occupations, from establishment to establishment and State to State. Further, it is recognised, as only natural, that a group of persons engaged on the same occupation may inter se very widely in such characteristics as level of performance, education, institutional training etc. Therefore, even though the revised definitions do not describe the level of education, training or work experience required for efficient performance of the tasks and functions in an occupation, broad inferences regarding qualifications etc., could be drawn from occupational grouping and indeep from the job-description.

2.5 N.C.O., 1968 endeavours, hopefully, to standardise occupational nomenclature and average job-descriptions to couch the data and literature relating to various occupations produced on an all-India basis, in commonly understood and comparable terminology. It may not be out of place to mention that in its application to the classification of population and individuals, there will always be two alternatives—an employed person may be classified according to the type of work he performs or according to the type of work for which he is qualified. Similarly, an unemployed person may be classified by the type of work for which he is trained or qualified or by the type of work he is looking for. In practice, however, the administrative departments conducting population census or assisting employment-seekers in job-seeking may apply either of the two alternatives to ensure uniformity of its (N.C.O.'s) applicability.

3. MAIN CHANGES INTRODUCED

3.1 Revision of Division

3.1.1 In line with the basic eriterion of 'type of work performed', two former Divisions, viz., Miners, Quarrymen and Related Workers (N.C.O., 1958, Division 5) and Workers in Transport and Communication Occupations (N.C.O., 1958, Division 6) no longer appear as distinct Divisions, since these simulated an industrial classification.

3.1.2 Divisions 0-1 to 4 classify "white collar" and mainly non-manual occupations ; and Divisions 5, 6, 7-8-9 manual workers : freshers come under Division X. The Classification starts with high-level professional mapower, going on to managerial and skilled workers, etc. and ends with labourers and ',freshers".

3.1.3 Consequently, the following 8 Divisions emerge in the new classification :

0-1 Professional, Technical and Related Workers.

2. Administrative, Executive and Managerial Workers.

3. Clerical and Related Workers.

4. Sales Workers.

5. Farmers, Fishermen, Hunters, Loggers and Related Workers.

6. Service Workers.

7-8-9. Production and Related Workers, Transport Equipment Operators and Labourers.

X. Workers Not Classified by Occupations.

3.2 Revision of Groups

3.2.1 In a number of cases certain occupational Families included in N.C.O., 1958 have been upgraded as Groups either single or as combinations of two or more Families. Furthermore, several new Groups have also been created. Also, two or more Groups of N.C.O., 1958, have been combined in several cases to form a new Group. Groups have also been formulated and re-arranged in the new Division 7-8-9 consistent with the flow of production, the level of technology, type of work performed and equipment and materials used.

3.3 Revision of Families

3.3.1 To identify Technicians in the professional groups of workers, new Families have been provided. Again, to facilitate the reporting, classification and analysis of statistical data relating to population census in India, a more detailed distribution of Families as sub-divisions of Groups was considered desirable. Therefore, a number of new Families have been provided—in a few cases, former Families of N.C.O., 1958, two or more, have been combined and a few Families deleted.

4. EFFECT OF CHANGES

4.1 In the N.C.O., 1968 there are 8 Divisions, 95 Groups, 462 Families and 2,484 Occupations. As against this, in the old N.C.O., 1958, there were 11 Divisions, 75 Groups, 331 Families and 1,990 Occupations. The main increases are in Division 0-1 and 7-8-9, which together account for 49 Groups, 303 Families and 2,008 Occupations.

5. CLASSIFICATION OF SPECIAL CATEGORIES

5.1 Professionals and Technicians have been included in Division 0-1. They have been assigned separate Groups in the appropriate categories.

5.1.1 Professionals are defined as workers who conduct research and apply, in a professional capacity, scientific knowledge and methods to a variety of technological, economic, social, industrial and governmental problems. Educationally, professionals cover persons who are graduates or above in engineering, technology, medicine, agriculture, horticulture, veterinary science, etc. and in the case of other physical sciences and humanities, etc. at least post-graduates.

5.1.2 Technicians are trained sub-professionals who carry out technical tasks, auxiliary to scientific work, development and practice, under the general direction and supervision of professionals, or are those who follow established engineering and scientific techniques in the performance of such functions, as: design; practical development and testing of equipment; investigation of problems; supervision of craftsmen and other workers, etc. Educationally, Technicians are usually diploma holders in engineering, technology, medicine, etc., and are qualified for working in conjunction with professional workers.

5.2 Apprentices, Foremen and Supervisors and Instructors

5.2.1 The prefixes A, B and C have retained for the Classification of Apprentices, Foremen/Supervisors and Instructors respectively, as in N.C.O., 1958.

5.2.2 Apprentices, learners and trainees, including such of the trainees who have to undergo training partly within the enterprise, establishment, factory, etc., and partly in a school or institution, as in the case of apprentices under the Apprentices Act, 1961, are classified by prefixing 'A' to the occupational code. Apprentices, learners, trainees, etc , in professional occupations (such as law, chartered accountancy, engineering, pharmacy, etc.) are to be classified likewise.

5.2.3 Foremen/Supervisors whose duties are chiefly supervisory, or involve the application principally of practical skills similar to those of the workers supervised, i.e., those who participated actively in the same work as that performed by the workers supervised, are classified according to the occupation of workers supervised with a prefix 'B'.

A few examples of workers performing supervisory functions are : head waiter, principal book-keeper, typing pool supervisor, principal steward, chief information assistant, principal analyst, etc. These workers are all engaged on the same type of work as is performed by the workers supervised ; hence their occupational code number is the same as that for the workers supervised with the prefix 'B'.

Such supervisors are distinct from those classified as Technicians (Division 0-1, engineering, scientific, medical etc. technicians), as Clerical Supervisors (Family 300) or as Sales Supervisors (Family 410).

5.2.4 Instructors in charge of in-plant training, as distinguished from institutional training, are classified according to the occupation of trainees/apprentices instructed with a prefix 'C'. Instructors, Lecturers, Professors, Teachers, etc. teaching in institutions like colleges, universities, polytechnics, industrial institutes, school, etc. are classified under teachers (Group 15). Thus, a Surgeon, Mechanical Engineer or an Economist engaged in teaching in a university or college will be classified under Family 150 and not under the occupational Families relating to Surgeons, Mechanical Engineers or Economists.

5.3 Shop-Floor Supervisors and Foremen : N.C.O., 1968 classifies shop-floor Supervisors and Foremen along with Operatives in their particular fields in Division 7-8-9. All such Supervisors and Foremen have been classified in the respective occupational Groups in a separate Family, represented by digit 'o' at the unit place in the 3-digit code numbers. They are all-round men, who supervise a number of workers engaged on a wide range of tasks and functions. It must, however, be remembered that they are all shop-floor supervisors, like Foreman ; Jobber ; Supervisor, Machine Tool Operations ; Supervisor, Foundry shop ; or Supervisor, Tool Making, who are responsible for accomplishing a complete job or manufactured article requiring one or more production processes, etc.

5.3.1 Naturally, engineers and technologists are not to be classified in this Division—they are covered by Division "0-1". Thus, Spinning Master, Weaving Master, Dyeing Master, etc. who are essentially technologists, would be classified under Technologists in Division '0-1'. These Supervisors are also different from those who guide, supervise or direct a number of workers, engaged on one type of work, themselves, also performing similar functions, and who are to be classified for the same occupation as that of workers supervised, with the prefix 'B'. Thus, a Mistri, supervising one or more Turners, will be classified as a Turner (835.15), with a prefix 'B'. The latter type of "Supervisors" are basically experienced workers, who often rise to supervisory positions.

6. RESIDUAL OCCUPATIONS

6.1 As in N.C.O., 1958, the revised N.C.O., 1968 has retained the final Digit '9' for the residual group of occupations, usually indicated as N E.C. (Not Elsewhere Classified).

6.2 Similarly, the use of '90' as the last 2 digits of the 5-digit occupational code, has been retained; but the coverage of this code number has been enlarged to include operatives, i.e. workers who perform routine and low-skilled tasks, as district from the tasks performed by unskilled labourers (Classified under 999); and also other workers not classified elsewhere. Since operatives require a very short period of training, and as there is a great degree of transferability between the different types of such workers, particularly within the same occupational Family, on separate occupational code numbers have been provided for them.

7. INDEX

An alphabetical Index has been appended with this Volume to help referencing and identification of occupations. To facilitate comparison of the new occupational code numbers with those contained in the N.C.O., 1958, the Index also provides the corresponding code numbers of N.C.O., 1958.

8. SALIENT FEATURES OF N.C.O., 1968—DIVISION-WISE

8.1 Division 0-1 : Professional, Technical & Related Workers

8.1.1 Broadly, this Division covers professional and technical workers (highly qualified manpower) and related technicians. Two code numbers (0-1) have been allotted to this Division. Efforts have been made to bring scientific engineering, technical and medical occupations under the Groups starting with code number "O" Social scientists, teachers, lawyers, and workers in literary, artistic, entertaining, athletic and creative professions have been classified under Groups starting with digit code "1".

8.2 Division 2 : Administrative, Executive and Managerial Workers

8.2.1 All Managers, except those concerned with farming and plantation, have been brought together under this Division : Groups 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

8.2.2 In regard to "Working Proprietors" all persons whose work is comparable to that of Directors and Managers in large and established organisations have been included in this Division. In the context of local conditions, where a large number of persons are engaged on small cottage industries or business, such as an own-account weaver, shop-keeper, etc. the term "Working Proprietor" will exclude all such workers. Through, broadly speaking, such own-account workers are working proprietors, they should be classified by the type of work they perform, e.g. weaver, carpenter, shop-keeper, barber, etc. Petty Shop-Keepers and Merchants have, therefore, not been given the nomenclature of Working Proprietors, Wholesale and Retail Trade (as in N.C.O., 1958, Families 300 and 301); but that of Merchants and Shop-Keepers, Wholesale and Retail Trade (N.C.O., 1968, Families 400 and 401). To avoid confiusion, the use of the term "Working Proprietors" has been avoided in other Divisions,

8.3 Division 3 : Clerical and Related Workers

8.3.1 N.C.O., 1968 distinguishes administrators and executives from clerical workers and supervisors (Group 30) like Office Superintendent, Section Officer, Head Clerk, Head Assistant, Excise Inspector, Customs Inspector, Shops and Establishments Inspector, Labour Inspector, Revenue Inspector, Sales Tax Inspector, etc. who are now covered by N.C.O., 1968, Division '3'. Thus all "Office Jobs", the majority of which are primarily concerned with the setting up and maintenance of records pertaining to financial transactions, business and industrial operation, personnel correspondence, administrative and executive activities, in Government and other offices, are included in this Division. Also included are those jobs which are concerned with the handling and routing of messages (verbal or recorded) and those concerned with the handling of cash, combined with record-keeping functions.

Environmental factors have not affected their classification ; even though included in this Division are quite a few jobs which are carried out mainly outside the offices and the workers report only periodically in offices ; for instance, in the case of Ticket Collector, Conductor, Vehicle ; Postman ; Messenger ; Despatch Rider, etc.

8.4 Division 4 : Sales Workers

8.4.1 Not many changes have been introduced. However, as explained earlier, the term "Merchants and Shop-Keepers" (N.C.O., 1968, Group 40 ; Families. 400, 401) has been used, instead of "Working Proprietors" (N.C.O., 1958, Group 30, Families, 300 and 301) to distinguish own-account Shop-Keepers, Merchants, etc. running their own business, shops, etc.

8.5 Division 5 : Service Workers

8.5.1 Here again, the term "Hotel and Restaurant Keepers" (N.C.O., 1968, Group 50, Family 500) has been used to describe numerous persons running owner-operated hotels, restaurants, "eating shops", guest houses, cafe's, bars, etc. The term "Working proprietors" has been dropped in their case.

8.6 Division 6 : Farmers, Fishermen, Hunters, Loggers and Related Workers

8.6.1 Agricultural, animal husbandry, forestry and related workers account for the largest percentage of the working population in India. Hence, this Division has been re-arranged in the context of conditions obtaining in the country though, broadly speaking, the pattern remains as in Division 4 of N.C.O., 1958.

8.7 Division 7-8-9 : Production and Related Workers, Transport Equipment Operators and Labourers

8.7.1 As explained earlier, the sequence of occupations in the Division 7-8-9 has been modified, indicated by the titles of Groups and Families.

8.8 Division X : Workers not Classified by Occupations

8.8.1 The only change introduced in the N.C.O., 1968 is the re-introduction of "Intermediates" (indicating those who have passed the Intermediate Examination) at the 5-digit level (N.C.O., 1968, XOI-20).

8.8.2 This Division is primarily for the classification of "fresh" or new workers seeking employment. Naturally, jobs or vacancies, even though meant for such "Freshers" are not to be classified in this Division.
