CENSUS 1971

ADMINISTRATIVE ATLAS

PART IX-A

FOREWORD

In order to ensure complete coverage at a population count, the Census Organization obtains or prepares uptodate detailed maps of all administrative units in the country on the eve of a census. Though in several parts of the country maps of the Districts, Tahsils, Police Stations, etc., are available with the State Revenue or Survey authorities, oftentimes, they required to be brought uptodate and they also varied greatly in scale. One also found it difficult to secure a complete or compact set of all these maps from State authorities. The Census Organization took upon itself the task of updating of the administrative maps and the standardization of scales essentially to meet its own requirements of coverage at the census and analysis of data. Standardization of symbol was also attempted to depict certain features such as the State/district/ tahsil boundaries administrative headquarters, national and state highways and other roads, markets and mandis, post and telegraph offices, travellers' bungalows, hospitals, etc. All urban centres and larger villages were depicted by names in the district maps, and in the tahsil maps the location of every village by dots proportionate to the population size and the distinctive location code number of each village marked. In each of the District Census Handbooks (there are 356 districts in the country) the district map as well as the tahsil maps will be printed.

While these administrative maps, prepared with great amount of care and effort, served the purposes of the Census extremely well, the 1971 Census Organization felt that these would be in valuable for many an administrative purpose and for planning and also to the scholars who might like to utilize these maps for various studies. Therefore, it was decided, after full consideration at the all India Census Conferences of Courtallam (1970) and Phalgam (1971) to publish all the district and tahsil maps of each State together in a compact and handy volume entitled "Administrative Atlas". Though this Atlas is basically a compilation of administrative maps giving the set up as on the census date, i. e., Ist April, 1971, it has been enriched by adding inset maps, wherever necessary, showing the changes in the boundaries during the decade 1961–71. Besides, the Atlas also contains a few introductory State maps showing certain basic characteristics as the physiography, density of population, distribution of towns and the distribution of rural population. A few schematic urban maps are also added to give the land-use patterns in the typical urban areas of the State. In order to make the Atlas somewhat self-contained statistical statements are also added giving data on the area, population size, growth rate, sex and age structure, literacy, Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe population and religion.

The Census Organisation, as is well-known, is one of the largest producers of maps in the country. Apart from the Administrative Atlas, the 1971 Census publication programme envisages the production of separate Census Atlases which will depict the physiographic, demographic, economic, social and cultural characteristics of each State as derived from the census as well as other sources of data.

I wish to place on record my appreciation of the dedicated services of Dr. B. K. Roy, the Map Officer of the Registrar General's Office and all his colleagues in the Map Unit and also of all the State Directors of Census Operations and the staff of their Map Units who have all worked together as a team and have succeeded in the production of this Administrative Atlas which I hope will serve the needs of the administrator, the planner and the scholar alike.

PREFACE

There was a great need to have a volume of the administrative maps of all the numerous administrative units together in each State. The idea was endorsed by the Directors of Census Operations of all the States at the All India Conferences held at Courtallam (1970) and Pahalgam (1971). In the case of Uttar Pradesh with 54 districts and 232 tahsils and a complete absence of such an atlas, the need was all the more important.

It was initially decided to collect only important maps of different District Census Handbooks in one volume. Later on, some other important maps showing different aspects viz., position of the state in India and administrative divisions 1901, 1951 and 1971, relief and drainage, distribution of population, density of population, distribution of towns, roads and railways and schematic land use maps of class I towns (with a population of over 1 lakh each) were also considered necessary for inclusion in this publication to make it comprehensive. Thus, this administrative atlas now contains one map of India showing the position of Uttar Pradesh, 9 state maps, 54 district maps, 232 tahsil maps and 22 schematic land-use maps of class I towns. A short introductory note is also added highlighting different aspects of the State.

The original drawings of both district and tahsil maps were, in general, prepared on the scale of 1″=4 miles and 1″ = 1 mile respectively. Though the size of manuscript maps differed from map to map, they have all been printed in two-page spread in the interest of legibility. The names of villages and basic census statistics have also been printed on the backside of each district and tahsil map.

This atlas runs in two volumes—Volume I containing the India map, all the state maps and the district and tahsil maps of administrative divisions Garhwal, Kumaon, Rohilkhand, Meerut and Agra, and Volume II the district and tahsil maps of the remaining divisions Allahabad, Jhansi, Faizabad, Gorakhpur and Varanasi, as also land-use maps of class I towns.

In the district maps, district, tahsil and vikashkhand boundaries have been delineated and their headquarters shown. Further national and state highways and other important roads, railways (broad and metre gauge), rivers, towns by different population sizes, villages having population of 5000 or more, mandis, main village markets, post and telegraph offices, police stations, rest houses, travellers banglows, hospitals, dispensaries, primary health centres, degree colleges and higher secondary schools have also been shown. Similarly, tahsil maps depict tahsil, vikashkhand, Nyayapanchayat and village boundaries, towns, village locations including un-inhabited villages by their census code numbers, national and state highways and other important roads, railways, rivers and streams, village markets and medical facilities. The schematic map of each class I town shows functional use of land in the town.

The district maps were prepared on the basis of quarter inch toposheets of the Survey of India, while the tahsil maps are mostly based on the maps published by the Superintendent, Printing and Stationery, Uttar Pradesh. In case of tahsils for which no authentic maps were available, their maps were prepared by the district authorities. The traces of published tahsil maps were first prepared and ferro print copies of the same were sent to the concerned district authorities for updating the tahsil as well as village boundary and delineating Nyayapanchayats and Vikashkhands. Each map on receipt from the district was checked with the help of district census handbook and other available records. The village boundaries and locational details in tahsil maps of hill districts are notional. The town maps have been prepared on the basis of the original maps supplied by the municipal authorities.

The maps then underwent final checking by Dr. B. K. Roy, Map Officer now Assistant Registrar General (Maps) and the map division in the office of the Registrar General, India. Map of the northern border districts were also scrutinised by the Survey of India.

Hopefully, these maps would not only be helpful to planners and administrators but also serve as a valuable reference book in schools, colleges, libraries and even homes. The Census Organization is proud of producing this type of atlas for the first time.

This Organization is heavily indebted to the Survey of India, the State Town and Country Planning, the Local Bodies the Board of Revenue, and the district authorities for their ready co-operation in making this project a success.

The project was most kindly appreciated by the Government of Uttar Pradesh and they agreed to meet the additional expenditure involved in the printing and publication of this atlas. The special interest taken by Shri T. S. R. Subramaniam, Special Secretary, General Administration Department, Government of Uttar Pradesh, is gratefully acknowledged.

Thanks are also due to the different officers of my office who supervised this project from time to time as also the map unit which laboured hard to make this project a success.

Shri Ashok Dar, Superintendent, Printing and Stationery, Uttar Pradesh and his colleagues also deserve acknowledgement for their support in its printing.

It was Shri A. Chandra Sekhar, the then Registrar General and Census Commissioner, India who gave a shape to this project. His leadership made the task much easier. Shri R. B. Chari, the present Registrar General, India was also kind enough to extend his co-operation from time to time.

INTRODUCTION

Uttar Pradesh, the land of Rama and Krishna of the epics, has been the seat of ancient culture, religion and learning from times immemorial. Uttar Pradesh has the largest number of holy places, such as Kedarnath, Badrinath, Hardwar, Mathura, Vrindaban, Nimsar, Bithoor, Ayodhya, Chitrakut, Prayag (Allahabad), Kashi (Varanasi), Sarnath, Kushinagar etc., to which innumerable pilgrims flock from all over the country and outside. In the Vedic period it was the centre of 'Aryavarta'.

During the 19th century the British power gradually extended towards the west from Bengal. The year 1836 saw the formation of a North Western Province, under the charge of a Lieutenant Governor and comprising the areas of Delhi and Uttar Pradesh except Jalaun, Hamirpur and Jhansi districts which were acquired during the period 1840-53. Oudh, which had remained out till then, was annexed in 1856 and put under a Chief Commissioner.

In 1858 the whole of North Western Province, excluding the Delhi Division, was reconstituted as a Lieutenant Governor's province and the capital was transferred from Agra to Allahabad. In 1877 this area was amalgamated with Oudh and combined province known as the 'North Western Provinces and Oudh' was formed. Its name was changed in 1902 to the 'United Provinces of Agra and Oudh'. In 1921 full-fledged Governor was appointed to administer the area. Sometime afterwards the seat of the Government was also transferred to Lucknow. In 1937 the name of the province was abridged to 'United Provinces'. Two years and a half after the attainment of independence, i. e. on 12th January, 1950 these territories were given a new name i. e. Uttar Pradesh and the next day a large number of enclaves of neighbouring provinces were absorbed therein. On the coming into force of the Constitution of India on the 26th January, 1950 Uttar Pradesh acquired the status of a State within the Indian Union. Though so many changes of nomenclature have taken place, this State has been known by its popular abbreviation U. P. ever since, 1902.

Area and Extent of State :

The State of Uttar Pradesh, occupying almost a central position in the great Indo-Gangetic plain, is the biggest State of India on the basis of its population and ranks fourth in area.

Uttar Pradesh is a land-locked State lying between 23° 52′ N to 31° 28′ N latitude as well as 77° 10′ E to 84° 38′ E longitude. From west to east (south west corner of Saharanpur district to eastern border of Ballia District) the State is spread over about 833 Kms. in length and from north to south (Northern boundary of Uttarkashi district to southern boundary of Mauranipur tahsil; district Jhansi) about 678 Kms. width. It is bounded by Tibet, China and Nepal in the north, Himachal Pradesh in the north west, Haryana and Delhi in the west, Rajasthan in the south west, Madhya Pradesh in the south and Bihar in the east. The Yamuna river forms a part of the western boundary. In 1971 the State covered an area of 294, 413 Kms.$^2$ which is 8.77 per cent of the total area of the country. It comprised 11 divisions, 54 districts and 232 tahsils.

Physiography :

Uttar Pradesh according to physical features, can be divided into four major regions (1) The Himalayan region (2) Sub-montane tract of 'Bhabar' and 'Tarai' (3) Gangetic plain and (4) Southern pleateau region.

(1) Himalayan region in the extreme north comprises the Kumaon division and a part of Dehra Dun district. This region is mountainous with some high peaks. The general slope of the hills is from north west to south east. There are three parallel ranges in the Himalaya 'sub-Himalayas' 'lesser' and 'greater Himalayas'. Shiwalik which is a range of outer Himalayas is lower having an elevation of 610 metre above sea level. There are a number of valleys known as 'Doon' running from east to west lying in between sub-Himalayas and lesser Himalayas. Jaskar ranges (Northern) contains the highest peak known as 'KAMET' at an elevation of 7756 metres above sea level. Greater Himalayan ranges are chief ranges of Himalaya containing the main peaks, i. e. Nanda Devi (7817 metres), Trisul (7120 metres), Badrinath (7138 metres) etc. In these ranges, at about 7700 metres elevation two important rivers of India viz. Ganga and Yamuna have originated from Gangotri (6771 metres) and Yamunotri glaciers (6315 metres) respectively. These rivers carry alluvial silt to the plains creating the fertile agricultural land. Rivers serve as a significant source of irrigation, sites for generating hydel power and also provide means for transportation. This region also contains several minerals and different types of forests as potential resources for industrial development.

(2) The sub-montane tract is stretched over a narrow strip between Himalayan region and Ganga plain. Immediately at the foot hills lies a strip of land known as 'Bhabar'. It is mostly covered with forests. In this tract the torrents rush down from the steep slopes and disappear under the boulders and gravels except in the rainy season. Below the 'Bhabar' is 'Tarai' a marshy and damp tract that is also covered with the tall grasses and dense forests. The damp climate has made this region quite prone to malaria. The transport system is also not very developed.

(3) The great Ganga plain is made up with alluvial silt brought from the Himalayas. This plain extends over an area comprising 42 out of the 54 districts of the State. The northern limit is well marked by the 'Bhabar' and 'Tarai' tract but in the south it is very irregular because of the rugged surface of the southern pleateau which intrudes into the plains at different places. The general slope of the plain is from north-west to south-east sloping down imperceptibly, roughly with a gradient of one metre in five kilometres. Ganga and Yamuna are the two most important rivers of the State. Others of lesser importance are the Ramganga, Gomati and Ghaghara. The area is very fertile and has a favourable climatic condition for agriculture and consequently is one of the most densely populated areas of the country.

(4) The Southern pleateau region at the south of the Ganga valley forms the northern boundaries of the central pleateau of India. This is builtup of ancient rocks e. g. quartz and granite etc. This region differs considerably from the plains in topography and suffers from either an excess or a deficiency of rainfall. This region comprises almost the whole of Jhansi, Jalaun, Hamirpur and Banda districts, tahsils Karchhana and Meja of Allahabad district, tahsil Chakia of Varanasi district and the entire portion of Mirzapur district south of the Ganga. Ancient hard rocks are quite familier to this region. Due to the pressure exerted on the northern flanks of the region at the time of origin of Himalayas this part is dominated by the east-west trends of low round hills.

Climate :

Uttar Pradesh lies in the warm temperate zone but great variations in climate occur on account of differing altitudes. It possesses tropical monsoon climate excluding the Himalayan region, where the climate is temperate. In the Siwalik area it is sub-tropical whereas in tarai area it is sub-humid. The State has three distinct seasons (i) Winter-November to February, (ii) Summer-March to June and (iii) Rainy-July to October.

There are vide variations in temperature. In January it varies from 12.5° C to 17.5° C and in May from 27.5° C to 32.5° C with extremes of 45° C or more. April to June are hot months and hot winds called 'Loo' blow from the west. In the north western district winter is quite severe. Summer days in Bundelkhand are very hot on account of the bareness of the soil and its rocky nature, though the nights are quite pleasant. Winter in these areas is not severe. In the Ganga-Yamuna plains the average temperature varies from a minimum of 8° C to a maximum of 42°C depending on the time of the year as well as the location of the place. The climate of the Tarai region is humid and enervating. Formerly malaria was endemic but due to the clearing of forests and anti-malarial measures this disease is fast disappearing and the areas are becoming more and more habitable.

The monsoon winds originating from the Bay of Bengal account for about 85 to 90 per cent of the total rainfall occuring during the rainy season in the State. The amount of rainfall varies from place to place showing a decrease from east to west, whereas Allahabad gets above 95 cms. of rain and Agra receives only 62 cms. In the hilly regions in the vicinity of Himalaya however, the rainfall is quite heavy, e. g., Mussoorie gets 240 cms. and Naini Tal 250 cms. The rains in winter are caused by north-westerly cyclones but it is mostly in the north western districts only and becomes gradually less in the eastern plains of the state. Eastern plains receives on an average 107 cms. of annual rain only of which 94 cms. occur during summer alone. No part of the state receives less than 50 cms. of rainfall. The Himalayan region has a cold climate except in the valleys. There is a great deal of snowfall from December to March and some mountain peaks remain covered with perpetual snow.

Population :

Uttar Pradesh has a population of 88.3 million which accounts for 16.12 per cent of the total population of the country. Only five countries China, U. S. S. R., U. S. A., Indonesia and Japan have more population than the state of Uttar Pradesh. It is one of the densely populated states in the country, the density being 300 persons per sq. km. as compared to 178 persons in the whole of country.

Distribution :

Out of a total population of 88.3 million about 76 million are comprised of the rural population i. e. about 86.1 per cent. Distribution of the population in the state is uneven. There is a heavy concentration of rural population in the east plain because agriculture is the principal occupation and the distribution of rural population is closely linked with the agricultural worth of the different tracts which is determined by the fertility of soils, rainfall conditions, availability of irrigation facilities etc. In the western plains of Ganga and Yamuna where irrigation facilities are available there is a heavy concentration of the rural population. The middle part of the state shows a normal distribution of rural population because in these areas irrigation facilities are restricted and rainfall is not adequate and dependable. The Himalaya and the plateau region manifest a meagre distribution of population, the area being mountainous covered partly with forests. The snow on the mountains and the land being not fertile in the plateaus are the main contributing factors towards a low density in these areas. Tarai region on the foot hills of the Himalayas is also not densely populated since most of the parts of this region are covered with forests.

As regards the distribution of urban population, the bigger cities of the state are concentrated in the west and the central plains only due to industrial and trade facilities. There are 1,23,88,596 persons living in 293 cities and towns and they account for 14.02 per cent of the state's total population. Of the total urban population (1,23,88,596) nearly two-third is concentrated in class I and class II towns. The biggest agglomerations of urban population are Kanpur (12,75,242), Lucknow (8,13,982), Agra (6,34,622), Varanasi (6,06,721) and Allahabad (5,13,036). The percentage of urban population to total population is more in the western plains as compared to any other region.

Literacy :

The 1971 Census defined a literate person as "a person who can both read and write with understanding in any language". According to this definition 21.70 per cent of the population in the state can be termed as literates. There are great variations in percentage of literates from district to district. The highest proportion of literates is observed in Dehra Dun district which has recorded 43.74 per cent followed by Kanpur district with 36.63 per cent. In Bahraich and Budaun districts these proportions are the lowest in the state i. e. 12.19 per cent and 12.66 per cent respectively. Out of the 54 districts in the state only 23 districts have a higher percentage of literate population than the state average (21.70 per cent). The percentage of literates in the rural areas as usual is low. Out of 40 million males in the rural areas of the State about 11 million (28.02 per cent) are literates. This percentage is quite low in the case of females being only 6.99. Literacy among the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is also very low.

The population of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes form 21.22 per cent of the population of Uttar Pradesh. Among the districts of Uttar Pradesh, the highest percentage of Scheduled Castes is observed in Mirzapur (33.58) and the lowest in Garhwal district (10.57). Among the districts Dehra Dun district has the highest proportion of Scheduled Tribes (10.68 per cent). The other districts with considerable percentage of Scheduled Tribe population are Chamoli, Pithoragarh and Naini Tal. Hamirpur is the only district in the whole of the state which has not reported any Scheduled Tribe population.

The major religions of Uttar Pradesh are Hinduism and Islam which share 84 per cent and 15 per cent respectively of the total population.

Every Census from 1901 to 1961 has attempted to divide the population into earners and dependents. In 1901, 1911 and 1921 the population was divided into actual workers and dependents. In 1931 distinction was made as to whether a person was an earner, working dependent or a non-working dependent. In 1951 the categories were changed to self supporting, earning dependents and non-earning dependents. In 1961 and 1971 Censuses the population has been grouped under two heads—namely workers and non-workers.

According to the 1971 Census, "A worker is a person whose main activity is participation in any economically productive work by his (or her) physical or mental activity. Work involves not only actual work but also effective supervision and direction of work". Similarly "Non-workers are those whose main activity is economically non-productive and includes those engaged in household duties, full time students, rent receivers, retired persons, infants and old persons, beggars, vagrants, inmates of penal, mental or charitable institutions etc. It also includes those non-workers who are seeking work". According to these definitions out of a total population of 88,341,144 in the state 27,334 455 persons viz 30.9 per cent can be termed as workers. The rest come under the non-worker group. Out of 30.9 per cent of the working population 27.8 per cent are males and only 3.1 per cent are females. The 1961 Census reported a total percentage of 39.1 per cent of the population as workers. This percentage has declined to 30.9 per cent in 1971. The apparent change in perhaps only due to the fact that definition of 'a worker' in 1971 Census has been modified. The definition of worker adopted at the time of 1961 Census allowed many persons to be included in the category of workers, who were not so treated during 1971 Census.

In 1971 Census the workers have been divided into the following nine divisions according to their professional activity :—

(i) Cultivators
(ii) Agricultural labourers
(iii) Live-stock, forestry, fishing, hunting and plantation, orchards and allied activities
(iv) Mining and quarrying
(v) Manufacturing, processing, servicing and repairs (a) Household industry (b) other than household industry
(vi) Construction
(vii) Trade and commerce
(viii) Transport, storage and communications
(ix) Other services

The following table indicates for each category the district having the highest percentage of workers in the respective category to the total workers.

| Category of workers | | Name of the district | | Percentage |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | | 2 | | 3 |
| I | .. | Tehri Garhwal | ... | 91 0 |
| II | ... | Mirzapur | ... | 40 .9 |
| III | ... | Naini Tal | ... | 4 .4 |
| IV | ... | Naini Tal | ... | 0 .5 |
| V-a | ... | Varanasi | ... | 12.2 |
| V-b | ... | Kanpur | ... | 14 .1 |
| VI | ... | Naini Tal | ... | 1 .9 |
| VII | ... | Kanpur | ... | 10 .3 |
| VIII | ... | Lucknow | ... | 7 .1 |
| IX | ... | Dehra Dun | ... | 38 .5 |

In Uttar Pradesh cultivators constitute more than 50 per cent and agricultural labourers form 20 per cent of the total working population. The number of cultivators is higher than agricultural labourers in all districts except Mirzapur, where the agricultural labourers exceed the number of cultivators which is only due to the higher percentage of landless people who are not skilled enough to be absorbed in other jobs.

Urbanisation :

During the last few decades, a continuous migration of the rural population into the urban centres has become a predominant phenomena. This among others is mainly due to better employment opportunities in the towns. There are 293 towns and cities in the state which include some of the country's largest urban centres like Kanpur, Lucknow, Agra, Varanasi and Allahabad having a population of more than five lakhs each. Kanpur with a total population of 12,75,242 is the 8th biggest city in the country. Since the turn of the century the total urban population of Uttar Pradesh has increased from 53,90,611 persons to 1,23,88,596 persons in 1971. The degree of urbanisation has not been even throughout this period. In the year 1901 Uttar Pradesh had a total of 11.1 per cent urban population when the percentage for the country as a whole was 10.8 only. Thereafter it has shown an uneven trend and is now much less than that for the country as a whole. According to the 1971 Census about 19.9 per cent of the total population lived in urban areas whereas for Uttar Pradesh this percentage works out to 14.0 only. This is a pointer towards the slow pace of urbanisation. Amongst Districts Lucknow has the largest percentage of urban population (50.90 per cent) and Pratapgarh with 1.96 per cent accounts for the lowest. The following statement gives a list of towns of different categories during the eight decennial years.

| Year | Total no. of towns | Class I | Class II | Class III | Class IV | Class V | Class VI |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 |
| 1901 | 458 | 7 | 11 | 20 | 71 | 164 | 185 |
| 1911 | 420 | 7 | 10 | 17 | 65 | 140 | 181 |
| 1921 | 444 | 7 | 12 | 18 | 56 | 141 | 210 |
| 1931 | 432 | 8 | 11 | 29 | 65 | 137 | 182 |
| 1941 | 434 | 12 | 11 | 40 | 71 | 156 | 144 |
| 1951 | 463 | 16 | 12 | 42 | 71 | 169 | 153 |
| 1961 | 244 | 17 | 16 | 52 | 75 | 74 | 10 |
| 1971 | 293 | 22 | 20 | 67 | 91 | 80 | 13 |

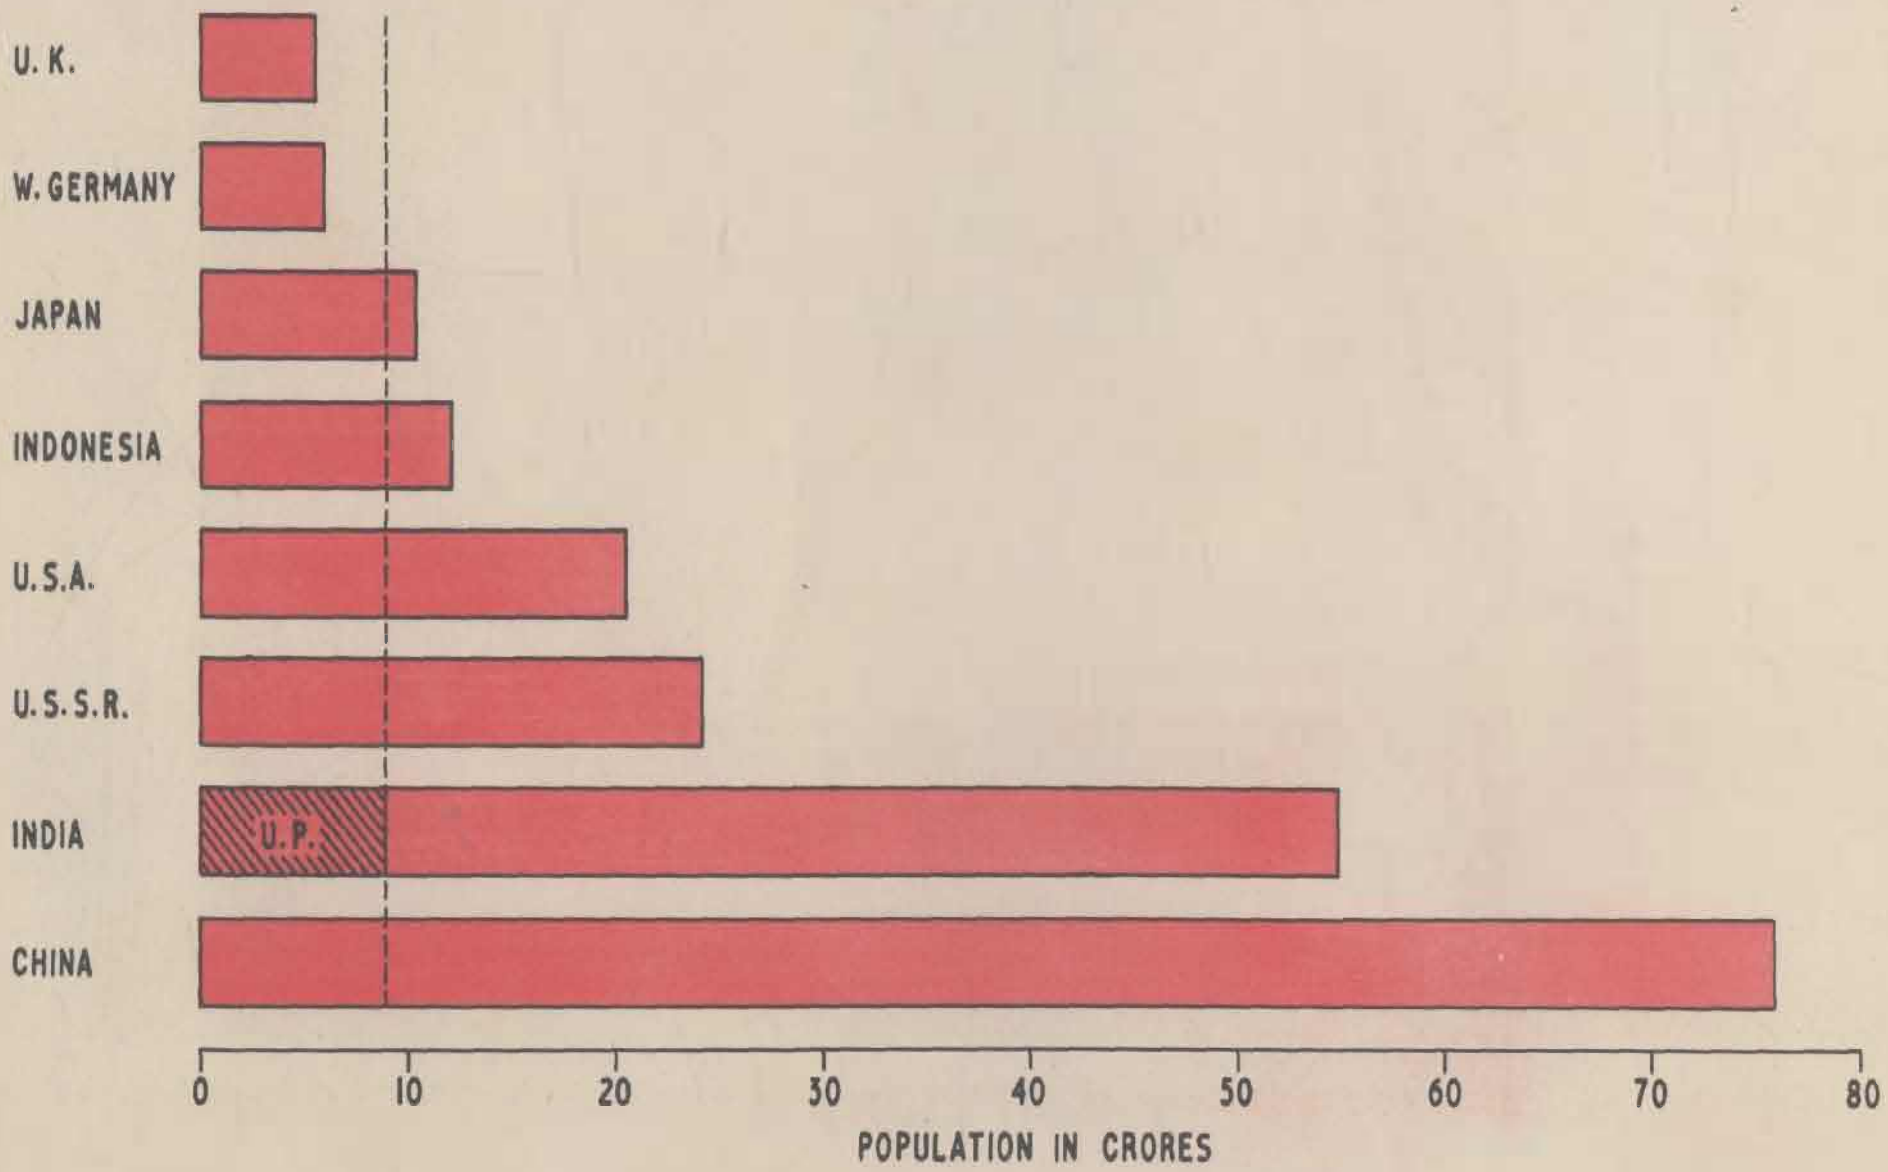

The apparent reduction in the total number of towns in class V and VI can be explained in terms of the change in the concept of urban areas during 1961 Census. As a result the total number of towns which was 463 in the year 1951 decreased to 244 in 1961. During the last intercensal period (1961—71) 49 towns have been added.
