Foreword

In order to ensure complete coverage at a population count, the Census Organization obtains or prepares uptodate detailed maps of all administrative units in the country on the eve of a census. Though in several parts of the country maps of the District, Tehsils, Police Stations, etc. are available with the State Revenue or Survey authorities, often-times, they required to be brought uptodate and they also varied greatly in scale. One also found it difficult to secure a complete or compact set of all these maps from State authorities. The Census Organization took upon itself the task of updating of the administrative maps and the standardization of scales essentially to meet its own requirements of coverage at the census and analysis of data. Standardization of symbol was also attempted to depict certain features such as the State/District/Tehsil boundaries, administrative headquarters, national and state highways and other roads, markets and mandis, post and telegraph offices, travellers' bungalows, hospitals, etc. All urban centres and larger villages were depicted by names in the district maps, and in the tehsil maps the location of every village by dots proportionate to the population size and the distinctive location code number of each village marked. In each of the District Census Handbooks (there are 356 districts in the country) the district map as well as the tehsil maps will be printed.

While these administrative maps, prepared with great amount of care and effort, served the purposes of the Census extremely well, the 1971 Census Organization felt that these would be invaluable for many an administrative purpose and for planning and also to the scholars who might like to utilize these maps for various studies. Therefore, it was decided, after full consideration at the all-India Census Conference of Courtallam (1970) and Pahalgam (1971) to publish all the district and tehsil maps of each State together in a compact and handy volume entitled "Administrative Atlas". Though this Atlas is basically a compilation of administrative maps giving the set up as on the census date, i.e., 1st April, 1971, it has been enriched by adding inset maps, wherever necessary, showing the changes in the boundaries during the decade 1961-71. Besides, the Atlas also contains a few introductory State maps showing certain basic characteristics as the physiography, density of population, distribution of towns and the distribution of rural population. A few schematic urban maps are also added to give the land-use patterns in the typical urban areas of the State. In order to make the Atlas somewhat self-contained statistical statements are also added giving data on the area, population size, growth rate, sex and age structure, literacy, scheduled caste and scheduled tribe population and religion.

The Census Organization, as is well-known, is one of the largest producers of maps in the country. Apart from Administrative Atlas, the 1971 Census publication programme envisages the production of separate Census Atlases which will depict the physiographic, demographic, economic, social and cultural characteristics of each State as derived from the census as well as other sources of data.

I wish to place on record my appreciation of the dedicated services of Dr. B. K. Roy, the Map Officer of the Registrar General's Office and all his colleagues in the Map Unit and also of all the State Directors of Census Operations and the staff of their Map Units who have all worked together as a team and have succeeded in the production of this Administrative Atlas which I hope will serve the needs of the administrator, the planner and the scholar alike.

A. CHANDRA SEKHAR
Registrar General & Census Commissioner, India.

NEW DELHI,
September 26, 1972.

Preface

This volume as its very name suggests attempts to depict with the aid of maps the administrative lay-out of Jammu & Kashmir, the State as at present constituted, its 10 districts and 44 tehsils/talukas embracing jurisdictional changes effected ending the decade 1961—71. The maps published in this volume are, therefore, the most uptodate. The State maps, 5 in number, deal with such features as general administrative divisions, physiography, density and distribution of population etc. The 10 district maps besides giving out the boundaries of their constituent tehsils/talukas show the physical location of all the towns in the district and villages with a population of 2,000 and above. The 44 tehsil/taluka maps, more detailed, depict the location of each village within its certified boundary.

Important land-marks such as rivers, roads, forests etc. have been distinctly marked out and suitable symbols used to show the size of population of each village besides various amenities available like supply of potable water, electricity, rest houses, dak bungalows, post and telegraph offices, hospitals and despensaries.

The volume also contains schematic maps of selected towns showing their functional characteristics as well as land use pattern.

There is a map of India showing where Jammu & Kashmir is located.

All the maps used barring schematic maps have been drawn to scale. A special effort has been made to standardise and update not only physical boundaries and locations of administrative units from the village to the district level but also their nomenclature and spelling.

The reader by taking a mere look at the maps can obtain a quick snap-shot of basic information of a number of important topics surveyed and studied in the course of last census.

For the facility of the reader, however, a brief explanation has been appended to each map in the text and some more items of information added to make the study interesting.

I do not wish to enumerate here the various difficulties which we had to experience in seeing this project completed. The publication of an Administrative Atlas was conceived for the first time at the 1971 Census. Fortunately the Map Unit was quite familiar with the job of preparing maps since the preceding census but scrutinizing and reconciling data regarding boundaries, area and location was a laborious task made nottheless difficult by the availability of a plethora of obsolete maps of many descriptions with the local authorities. In the case of towns, either no maps had been prepared or drawn up notionally.

I gladly place on record my high appreciation for the dedicated manner in which our Map Unit under Mr. Masood Ahmed set itself to the task of ploughing on barren land to produce a rich harvest the results whereof are depicted in the following pages.

I am thankful to Shri Abdul Gani, Deputy Director, for his sustained interest in clearing various bottlenecks which at times seriously impeded the progress of compilation of the Atlas.

Shri S. P. Arora, Assistant Director, was closely associated with the work and part of the credit of producing the Administrative Atlas rightly belongs to him.

I also acknowledge that our Registrar General, Shri A. Chandra Sekhar, personally and his colleagues especially Dr. B. K. Roy, Map Officer and Shri K. K. Chakravorty, Assistant Registrar General, took infinite pains to check and finalise the maps, suggest improvements in the text and extend assistance of various kinds in the completion of the project.

CENSUS. 1971

POPULATION

AREA

Position of Jammu and Kashmir State in India

The map shows the geographical position of Jammu and Kashmir State in the Indian Union. All the States and Union Territories of Indian Union have been shown in the map. The location of Jammu and Kashmir State is shown in red.

SALIENT FEATURES

Constituting the extreme western section of Himalaya, the State occupies the northern-most part of the country and lies between 32°—15′ and 37°—5′ north latitude and 72°—35′ and 80°—20′ east longitude. According to the area figures provisionally supplied by the Surveyor General of India, the State extends over an area of 222,236.0 km² which is about 7 per cent of the total geographical area of the country.

The State is bounded by China in the east and north, by Afghanistan in the north-west and by Pakistan in the west. The southern boundary is contiguous with Himachal Pradesh and Gurdaspur district of Punjab.

Geographically, the State consists of four broad regions formed by its four principal rivers, namely, the Indus, Jhelum, Chenab and Ravi. The four natural regions are as follows:—

(i) the sub-montane and the semi-mountainous tract,

(ii) the outer hills,

(iii) the Jhelum valley and

(iv) the Indus valley.

According to the 1971 census, the State of Jammu and Kashmir had a total population of 4,616,632 persons consisting of 2,458,315 males and 2,158,317 females. The State ranks 6th and 16th in respect of area and population respectively when compared with other States/ Union Territories in the Indian Union. The following table gives comparative statistics for different States of India:—

NOTE:--

1. The total area figures given for States and Union Territories are 'provisional' as on 1st July, 1971 except for the Andaman and Nicobar Islands which are as on 1st January, 1966 and based on the area figures supplied by the Survey of India.

2. For India and Jammu and Kashmir area figures include 78,932 Km² under the illegal occupation of Pakistan and 5,180 Km² illegally handed over by Pakistan to China. They also include 37,555 Km² under the illegal occupation of China.

3. £Some changes in the area figures, due to computational error, were intimated by the Surveyor General of India, after the publication of Part II-A of Andhra Pradesh and Orissa. Hence these figures will not tally with those published in Part II-A of Andhra Pradesh and Orissa.

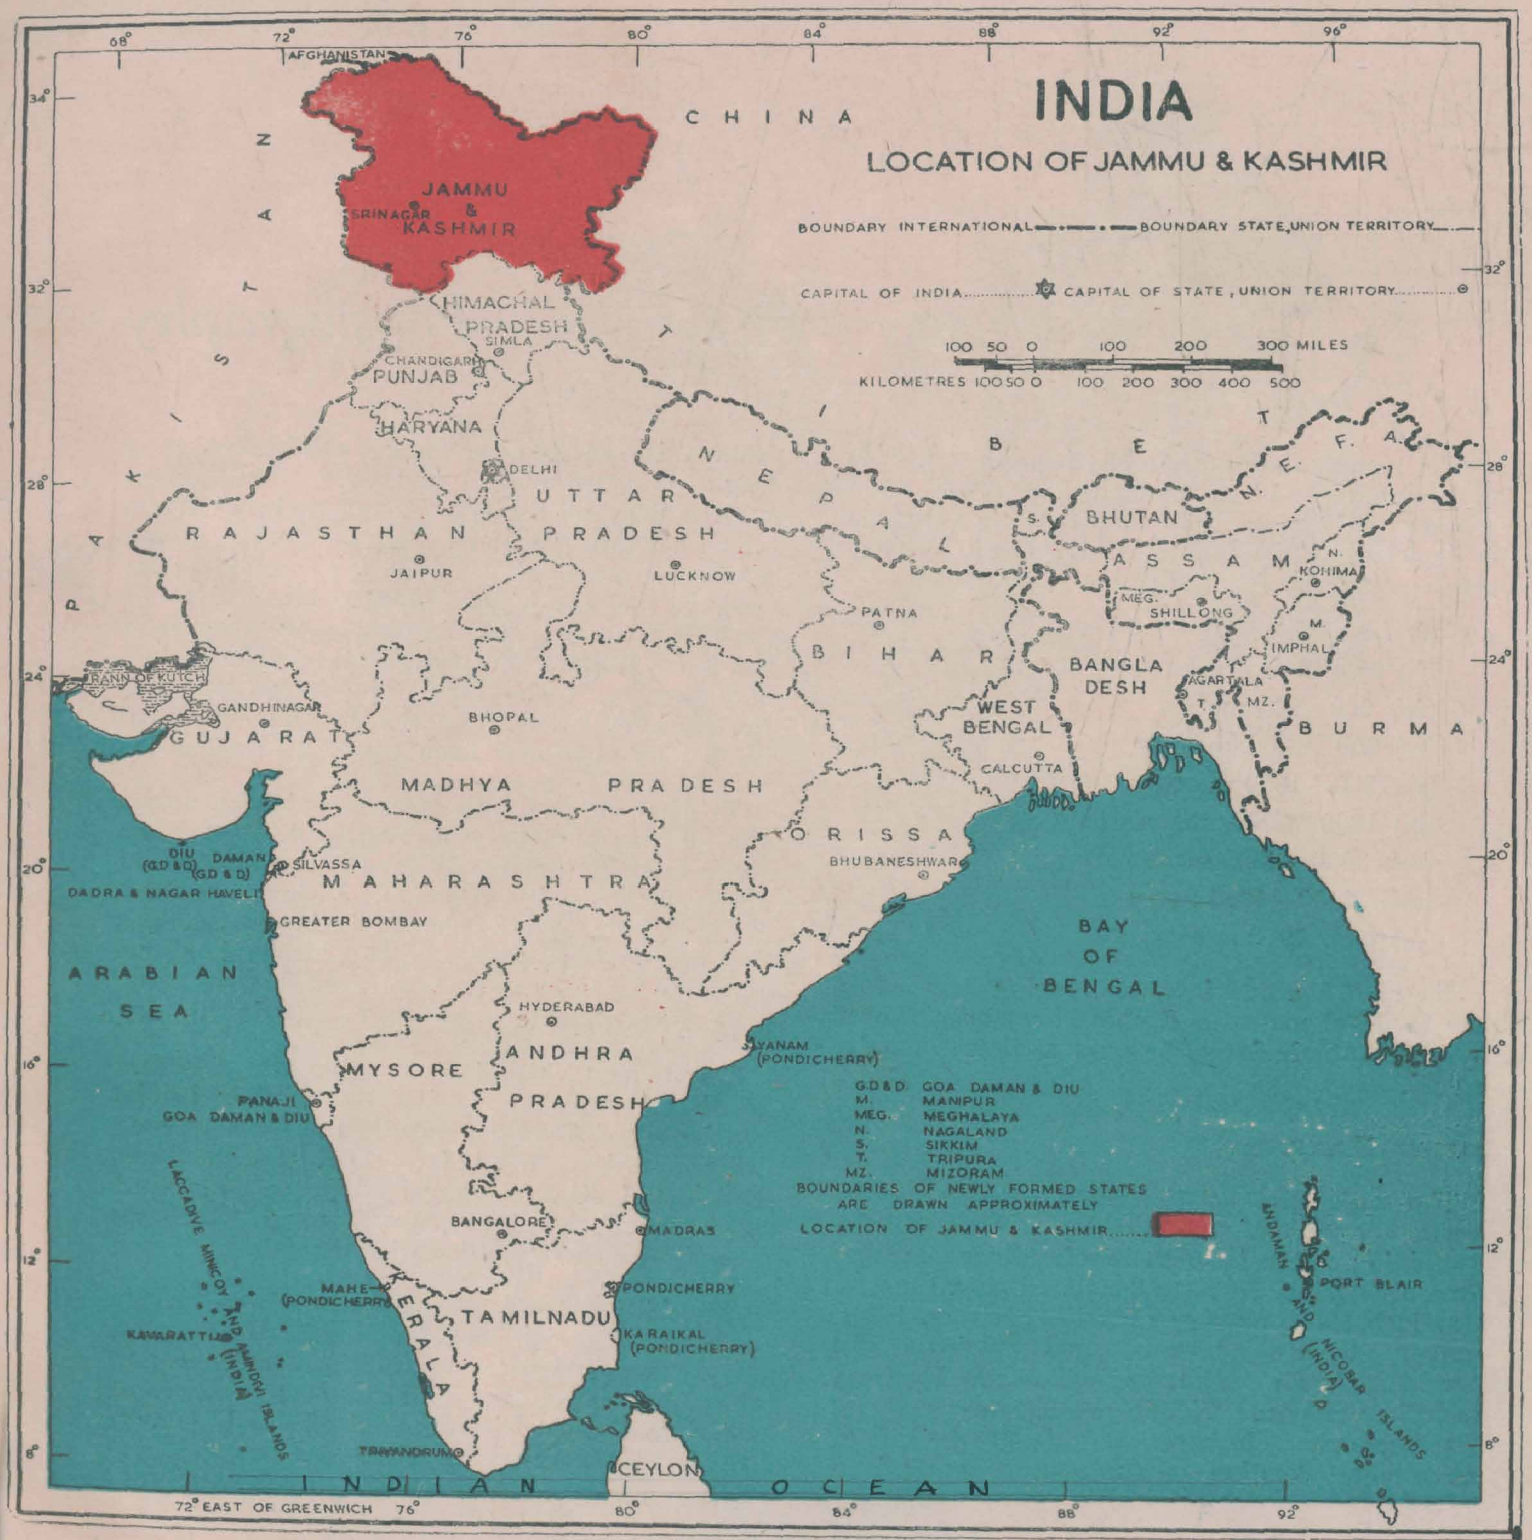

4. *Includes union territory of Mizoram which was carved out of Assam after 1971 Census.

5. N—denot s negligible.

The rural population of the State which stands at 3,753,411 is concentrated in 6,503 inhabited villages. Thus, an inhabited village on an average accounts for 578 persons.

There are 45 towns in the State accounting for a population of 858,221 persons consisting of 461,451 males and 396,770 females. Among the towns, Srinagar and Jammu are respectively the summer and winter capitals of the State government and are the chief commercial and industrial centres of Jammu and Kashmir.

Physiography

The map shows the physiography (relief) of Jammu and Kashmir State. The relief pattern indicating the variations in altitude is depicted by contour lines in a colour scheme representing the following nine categories:—

(i) Less than 300 metres
(ii) 300—600 metres
(iii) 600—900 metres
(iv) 900—1350 metres
(v) 1350—1800 metres
(vi) 1800—3000 metres
(vii) 3000—4500 metres
(viii) 4500—6000 metres
(ix) over 6000 metres

The nine contour intervals ranging from below 300 to 6,000 metres and above have been shown by different shades of colours as shown in the legend.

Salient Features

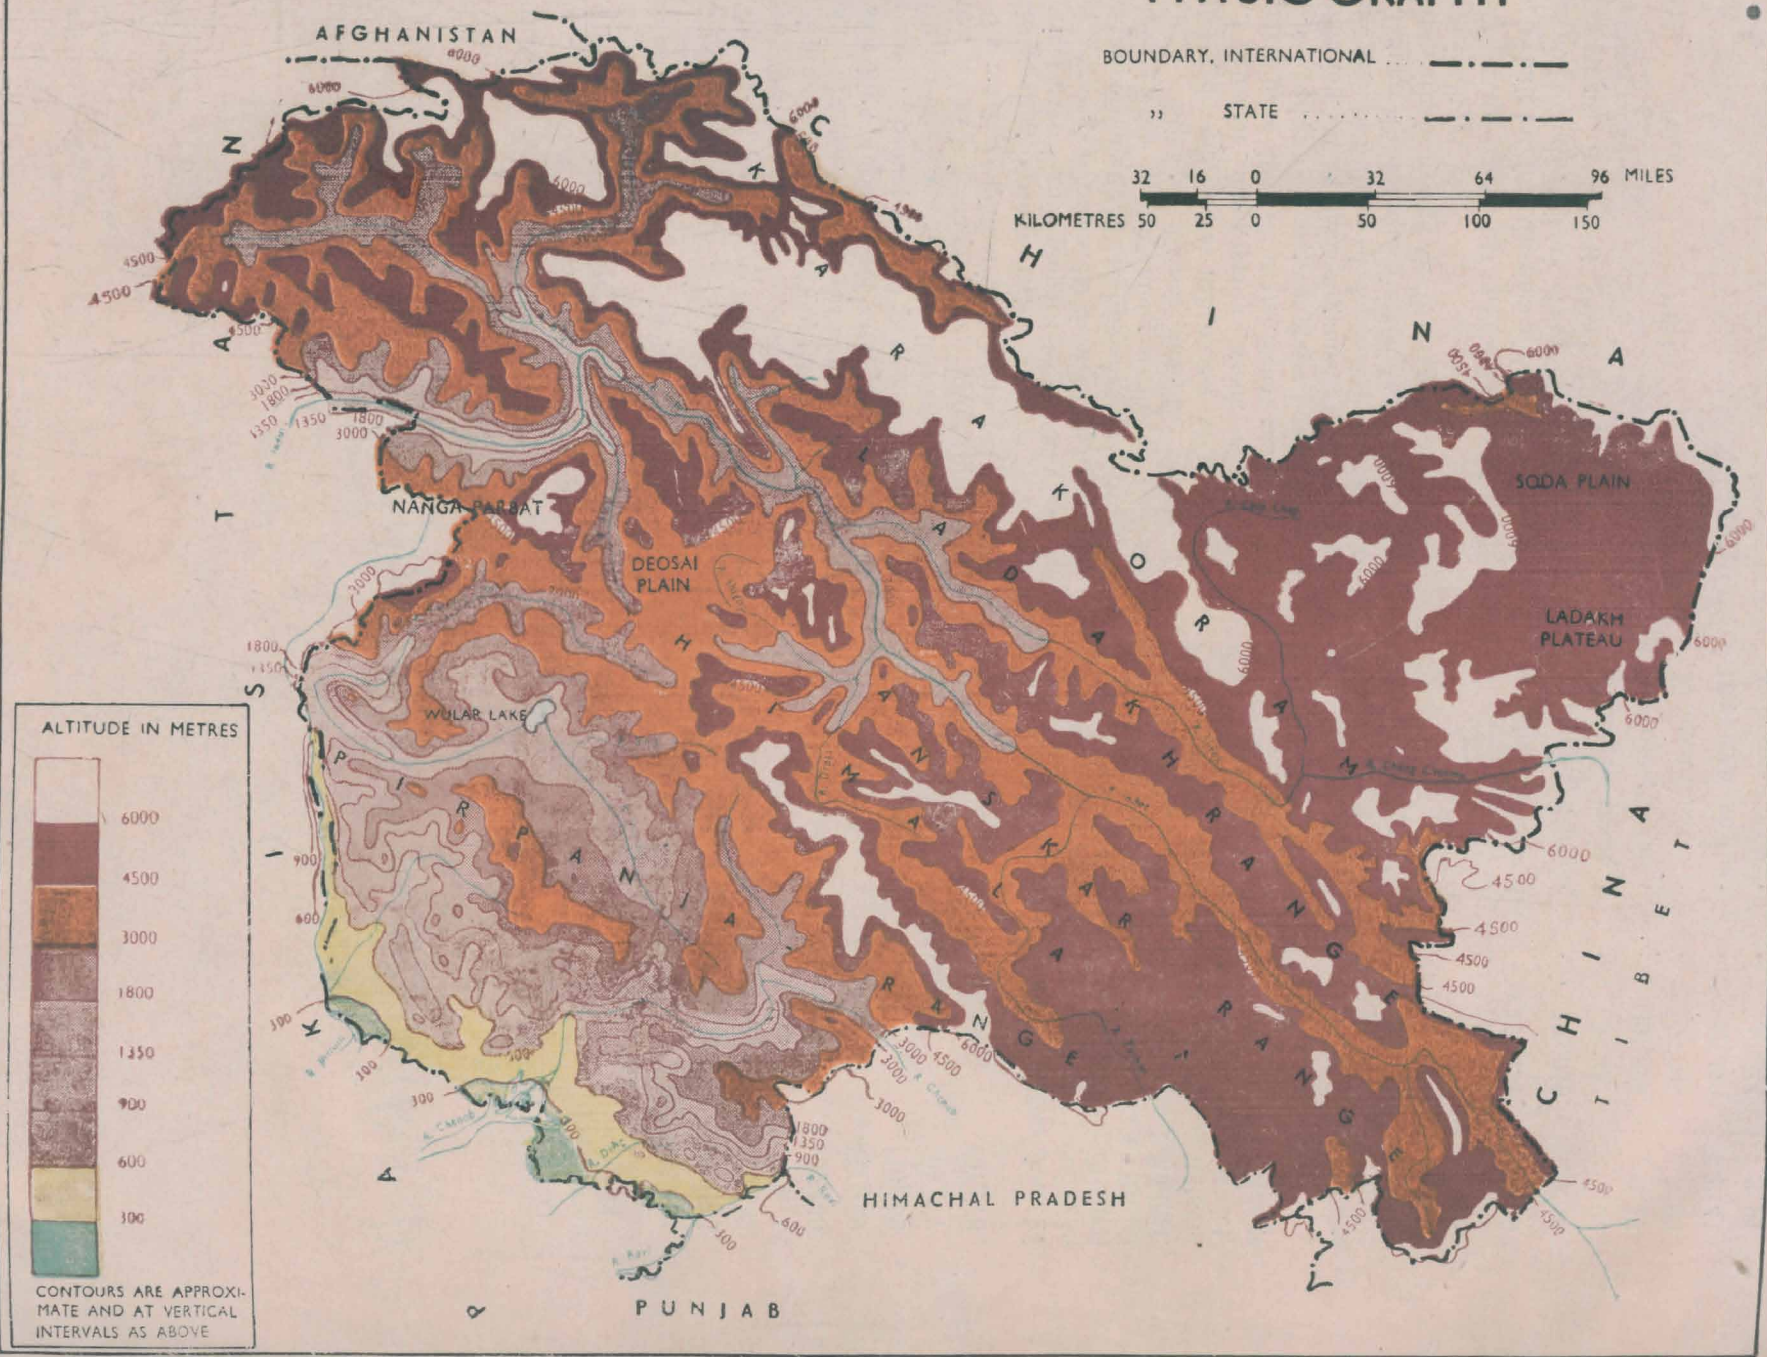

The main part of the State consists of the western section of the Himalaya which, besides containing many lofty mountain ranges varying from a height of 3,000 to 6,000 and above metres also includes a number of valleys, rivers, lakes, passes, glaciers, plateaus and plains. The Siwaliks, the Pir Panjal, the Nunkun, the Kazinag, the Harmukh and Kalidhar range are some of the important off-shoots of this great chain of mountains. Another oblique range starting from Nampa is the Zanskar range which rises to a height of 6,096 metres and over. The highest peak within the State is Mount Godwin Austin which has a height of 28,265 feet or 8,697 metres above the sea level. This is the second highest peak in the world, next only to Mount Everest (8839.8 metres). The Zanskar range separates the Indus valley from those formed by the Jhelum and Chenab. The Pir Panjal range separates the Kashmir valley from the Jammu region and blocks the monsoons from entering Kashmir.

In view of the hilly nature of the country, the number of nallahs, brooks, hill torrents and rivers is fairly large. By far the most important rivers are the Indus, Chenab, Jhelum and Ravi. Both the Indus and the Chenab rise in the Himalaya and are not navigable. The Chenab, however, provides an easy and cheap means of transport for timber available in the forests of Doda district.

The Jhelum which flows in all the three districts of the Kashmir valley rises at Verinag in the north-east of Anantnag town. Important among its tributaries are Liddar, Dood Ganga, Sindh nallah and Kishen Ganga. Ujh an important tributary of the Ravi passes through the State near its southern border with Punjab.

In addition, there are a number of small rivers and nallahs which look like small streams with scanty amounts of water in the dry season; in the rainy season they carry a large volume of water and cause occasional floods and damage to sizable areas along their banks.

Distribution of Population (Rural)

The map shows the distribution of rural population of the State in 1971. The rural population is depicted by black dots denoting a rural population of 2,000 per dot tehsil-wise. Rivers are shown in blue on this map.

SALIENT FEATURES

The entire population classed as rural at the recent census comes to 3,758,411 and forms 81·4 per cent of the total population of the State. The newly constituted district of Rajauri has a very high proportion of rural population (96.1 per cent). Srinagar (48.9 per cent) and Jammu (73.9 per cent) are the only districts in the State which claim a comparatively lower proportion of the rural population when compared with the corresponding State average. All the remaining districts have higher proportions of rural population varying between 90.9 and 96.1 per cent. The proportion of the rural population in Srinagar district is the lowest among all districts of the State. Srinagar district includes within its jurisdiction the largest urban area of the State, viz., Srinagar municipality which returned a population of 403,413 at the recent census. This has resulted in reducing the proportion of its rural population. The same argument, more or less, may also be advanced for the low proportion of Jammu district which accounts for the second largest urban area of the State, namely, Jammu municipality.

Of the 44 tehsils of the State, the following ten included in four districts of Anantnag, Jammu, Baramula and Rajauri claim the largest rural populations, Anantnag tehsil being the most populous of all.

Rank	Tehsil	District	Rural population in 1971
1.	Anantnag	Anantnag	231,826
2.	Kulgam	Anantnag	196,588
3.	Jammu	Jammu	174,012
4.	Pulwama	Anantnag	146,844
5.	Ranbirsingh-pora.	Jammu	140,483
6.	Kupwara	Baramula	139,749
7.	Akhnoor	Jammu	117,129
8.	Rajauri	Rajauri	110,552
9.	Samba	Jammu	108,777
10.	Baramula	Baramula	107,673

The newly constituted tehsil of Zanskar (Ladakh district) has the smallest rural population of 6,886. Other tehsils which have small rural populations are Karnah, Gulmarg, Leh, Kargil and Pahalgam in Kashmir province and Budhal, Reasi, Bashohli, Billawar and Haveli in Jammu province. The following table gives district/tehsilwise rural population and its percentage to the State rural population:—

11 DISTRICT MAPS

Anantnag District

Introductory

The district of Anantnag is situated between 33°- -25′ and 34°—15′ north latitude and 74°—30′ and 75°—35′ east longitude, in the south and south-east of the Kashmir valley. It derives its name from the great spring of Anantnaga which issues at the southern end of the town. The district is bounded in the north and north-west by Srinagar, Ganderbal and Chadura tehsils of Srinagar district, in the north-east, east and south-east partly by Kargil tehsil of Ladakh district and partly by Kishtwar, Doda and Ramban tehsils of Doda district and Gool Gulab Garh tehsil of Udhampur district. Its boundaries extend in the west up to Mendhar tehsil of Punch district.

The district falls in the Jhelum valley region. The mountains enclosing the district range on the average between 2,439 and 3,049 metres in height although some of the peaks reach 4,268 to 4,573 metres. The district has mostly alluvial soil but a small patch of Karewas (tableland) consists of white clay which grows saffron.

Its main river is the Jhelum, locally known as the 'Veth', which has its source at Verinag off the northern end of the Jawahar tunnel and flows in a north-westerly direction for a distance of about 164 kms. and has a number of tributaries, of which the most prominent are Lidder (Anantnag district) Dood Ganga, Sind nallah (Srinagar district) and Kishen Ganga (Baramula district).

The district has a climate more or less similar to that of Srinagar and Baramula districts. It has, however, a more temperate climate in summer than Srinagar. While areas situated at higher altitudes experience severe cold for the major part of the year, the snowfalls are heavier in the low level areas and the temperature is relatively low during the winter months.

Enclosed on all sides by high mountains, the monsoons do not reach the district and the air from the Punjab and western Himalayan area does not circulate freely in the district. The average rainfall in the district is 633·072 mms.

The staple food is rice which is grown throughout the district. Its other major crops are maize and wheat.

Area and Population

The district extends over an area of *5,382 Km^2 which is 48·9 Km^2 less than the 1961 area which was 5,430·9 km^2. The fall in area is attributable to the transfer of 15 villages from one of its tehsils, Pulwama, to the newly constituted tehsil of Chadura of Srinagar district. It contains a population of 832,280 persons. The number of males and females is 450,353 and 381,927 respectively and the sex ratio in the district as a whole and in its rural and urban areas as worked out are 848;847 and 859 respectively.

Anantnag, the most populous district of all, has the distinction of returning the largest number of occupied residential houses and households among all the districts of the State except Jammu, their respective number being 104,017 and 128,360. The rural areas of the district with 95,750 occupied residential houses and 117,418 households, however, rank first in the State. So far as urban areas are concerned, the number of residential houses and households stands at 8,267 and 10,942 respectively which is smaller than the corresponding number in the urban areas of Srinagar and Jammu districts.

The average number of persons per dwelling in the district and in its rural and urban areas comes to 8·0; 7·9 and 9·0 respectively. The urban dwellings seem to be overcrowded which may be ascribed to immigration into towns because of more avenues of employment being available there.

*Provisionally worked out by the Surveyor General of India.

The area and population of each of the administrative units is given in the following statement :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Uninhabited	Persons	Males	Females
Anantnag district	5,382·0	1,170	35	832,280	450,353	381,927	848

Anantnag tehsil	N.A.	262	8	274,473	148,568	125,905	847
Kulgum tehsil	N.A.	301	10	202,957	109,660	93,297	851
Shupiyan tehsil	N.A.	227	2	98,318	53,667	44,651	832
Pulwama tehsil	N.A.	236	13	155,426	83,588	71,838	859
Tral tehsil	N.A.	79	1	60,414	32,516	27,898	858

(N.A.=Not available.)

The rural areas of the district are inhabited by an aggregate population of 758,046 persons who inhabit 1,170 villages or 648 on an average per village. The largest number of villages consist of those with a population of less than 500, their number being 630. Villages having a population of over 2,000 are 50 or 4·3 per cent of the total number of villages.

The urban sector of the district is made up of 9 towns, viz, Pahalgam, Mattan, Kukernag, Anantnag, Bijbehara, Kulgam, Shupiyan, Pampore and Tral. It has returned a population of 74,234 at the 1971 census which is 28,661 more than the urban population recorded at the 1961 census. The most highly populated town is Anantnag which falls in class III and has a population of 27,643 in 1971. The following statement gives the percentage of the urban population inhabiting each of the towns of the district :—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban population
Pahalgam (N.A.)	2,335	3·1
Mattan (N.A.)	4,771	6·4
Kukernag (N.A.)	1,723	2·3
Anantnag (T.A.)	27,643	37·2
Bijbehara (N.A.)	8,510	11·5
Kulgam (N.A.)	6,369	8·6
Shupiyan (N.A.)	7,836	10·6
Pampore (N.A.)	8,582	11·6
Tral (N.A.)	6,465	8·7

(T.A.=Town area)
(N.A.= Notified area)

Kukernag and Tral have been declared urban for the first time during the inter-censal period 1961-1971.

Density

Notwithstanding the fact that the district holds the first position on the basis of population, it ranks only fourth in area. It is because of this incommensurability of the area and population inhabiting it that the district holds the third position on account of density. According to the data, the density of population which stood at 120 per Km² has gone up to 155 in 1971.

Growth of Population

The following table sets out the adjusted population of the district according to the 1971 jurisdiction from 1901 onwards together with the percentage decadal variation :—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901	383,130	—	—
1911	425,822	+42,692	+11.14
1921	450,284	+24,462	+5.74
1931	493,595	+43,311	+9.62
1941	522,185	+28,590	+5.79
1951	585,653	+63,468	+12.15
1961	649,120	+63,467	+10.84
1971	832,280	+183,160	+28.22

Note : - 1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941—1961.

The growth of population from 383,130 in 1901 to 832,280 in 1971 means an increase of 117.2 per cent during 70 years. The meagre growth rate of 5.74 in 1911-21 was followed by a temporary recovery in 1921-31 when the rate was 9.62. It again fell down to 5·79 in the subsequent decade. Quick recovery was noticed in 1941-51 and 1951-61 when the population increased by 12·15 per cent and 10.84 per cent respectively. The last decade 1961-71 has registered the highest growth of 28·22 per cent of any decade so far.

INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

The following statement gives the distribution of the population by non-workers and workers and by sex in the rural and urban areas of the district. A 'worker' is a person whose main activity is participation in any economically productive work by his physical or mental activity. Work involves not only actual work but effective supervision and direction of work. The workers are divided into nine industrial categories as described below :—

Industrial category	Total		Rural		Urban
	Males	Females	Males	Females	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	203, 258	370,100	182,767	336,486	20,491	33,614
2. Workers	247,095	11,827	227,660	11,133	19,435	694

Religion

The district is predominantly inhabited by Muslims; other communities claim only a fraction of its population. The following statement gives the population and percentage distribution of each religious community in 1971:—

Religious Community	1971 census pop.	Percentage of total pop.
Muslims	789,224	94·83
Hindus	33,753	4·06
Sikhs	8,910	1·07
Buddhists	263	0·03
Christians	119	0·01
Jains	3	N
Others	8	N

(N=Negligible)

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes

The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 117 only. This is made up of 116 males and one female. Of these, 64 Scheduled Caste males are literates. The solitary Scheduled Caste female enumerated in the district is, however, illiterate. As in other districts of the State, there are no Scheduled Tribes in Anantnag.

Mother Tongue

Kashmiri is the predominant language of the district. The number of Kashmiri speakers is 764,398. The distribution of other numerically important languages is as under :—

Mother tongue	No. of speakers
Gojri	44,666
Punjabi	12,121
Hindi	3,599
Dogri	2,921
Pahari	1,085
Urdu	1,027

The number of speakers who have returned the remaining 46 languages as their mother tongues is 2,463 only.

Literacy

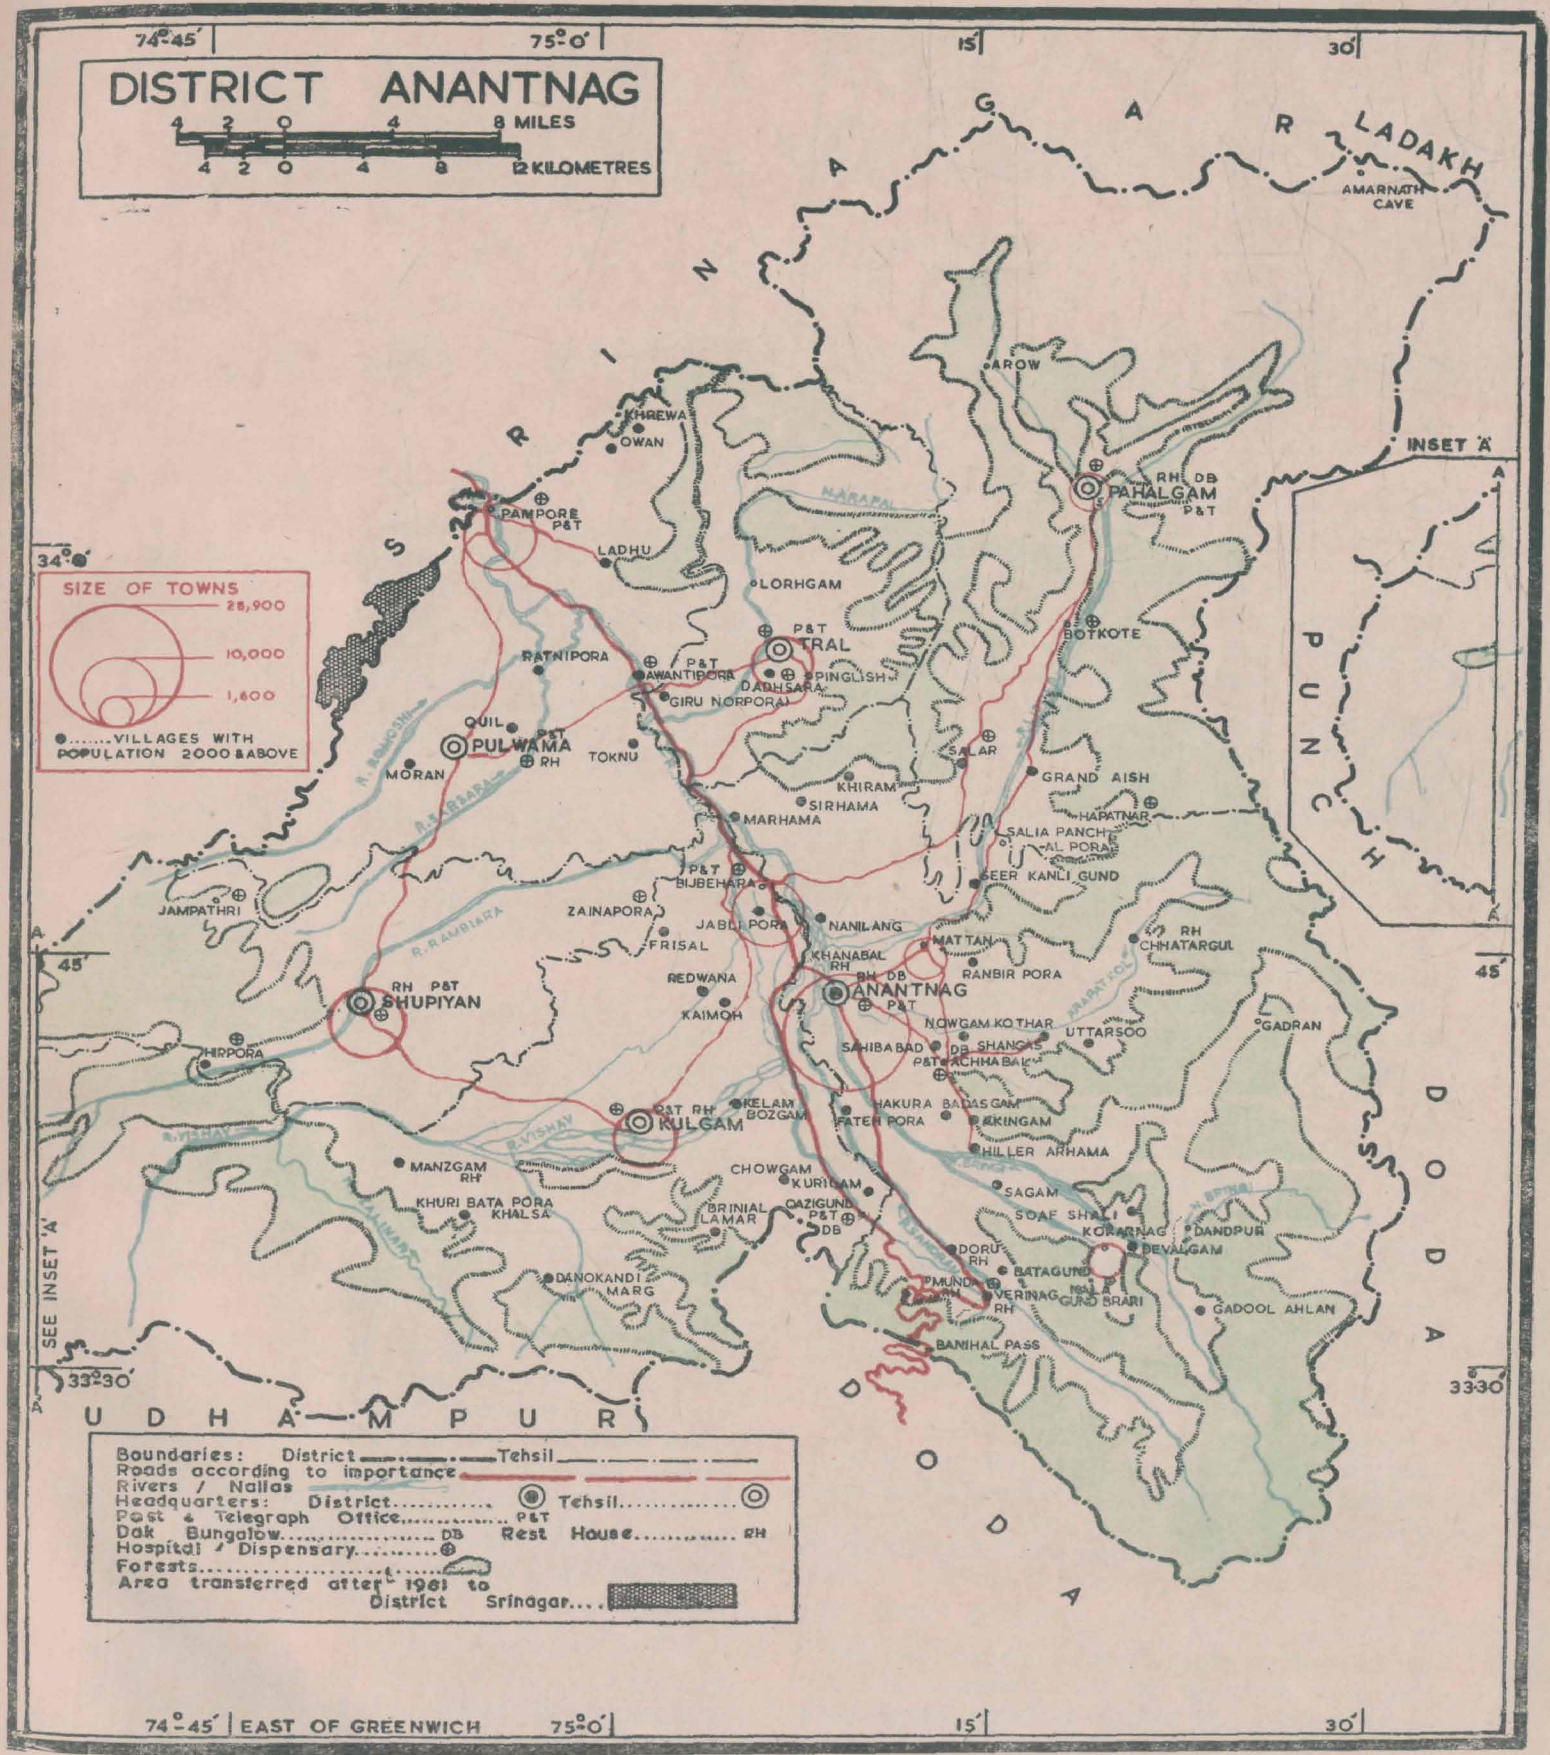

There are 124,636 literates out of the total population of 832,280. Among the males, the percentage of literacy has gone up to 23·6 but among females it is limited to 4·8. The corresponding male and female literacy rates in 1961 were 13·7 per cent and 1·5 per cent respectively. The following statement gives the sex-wise number of literates and literacy percentage for the district and its constituent tehsils :—

Administrative units	Total No. of literates			Literacy Percentage
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
Anantnag district	124,636	106,281	18,355	15·0	23·6	4·8

Tral tehsil	10,132	8,705	1,427	16·8	26·8	5·1

Industries

The number of industrial establishments in the the district including household Industries is 7,934. An overwhelming majority of these consist of small workshops like watermills, oil ghanis and handlooms. Anantnag town, the district headquarters, is reputed for the manufacture of gubbas which are used as floorings. A list of industries which are most extensively found in the district is given below:—

Name of industry	Total No. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Food products	3,529	5,010

Baramula District

Introductory

Baramula district designated as Kashmir North in previous census reports is the largest of the three districts forming the Kashmir valley. It falls between 33°—55′ and 34°—50′ north latitude and 73°—45′ and 75°—20′ east longitude and is situated at a height of 1,555 metres above the sea level. The district derives its name after the headquarters town of Baramula which is situated at a distance of 56 kms. to the north of Srinagar city.

The district is bounded in the north by the area currently under the illegal occupation of Pakistan. To the east, the Great Himalaya range separates it from the Kargil tehsil of Ladakh district. In the south-east and south-west it is bounded by Srinagar and Punch districts.

Baramula, along with Anantnag and Srinagar districts, is included in the natural division called Kashmir valley. The northern and eastern regions of the district are inter-woven by dense forests and the lofty mountains of Himalayan ranges. Owing to difficult terrain and topography, the areas falling in these regions are less productive and sparsely populated. The southern and some parts of the central region are, however, plain and densely populated. The western region is neither very productive nor very mountainous.

The main river of the district is the Jhelum which, after pouring its deposits in the Wular lake, again emerges and takes a south-westerly direction and passes through the towns of Sopore, Baramula and Uri. Other important rivers and streams include the Kishan Ganga, Pohru Nallah, Khamil Nallah, Sindh, Mudmati and Bruzul Nallah.

The district possesses large deposits of lignite in the Nichhama mines which are being exploited at present.

The climate at the lower altitudes is warm in summer and fairly cold in winter. The higher altitudes are distinctly cold in winter and experience heavy snowfall, but delightfully cool in summer. The maximum and minimum temperature are 19.6°C and 7.6°C. The district receives sufficient rainfall from September to February, light to moderate from March to April and occasional rains from July to September. The average rainfall in the district is estimated at 968.04 mms.

As in other parts of the Kashmir valley, rice is the most important cereal of the district which is consumed by the bulk of its population. Other important crops grown in the district include maize, wheat, oilseed, barley etc.

Area and Population

Of the total area of the Kashmir valley which is provisionally fixed at 15,853.9 km². Baramula district accounts for 7,458.0 km² or 47 per cent of the total geographical area of the Kashmir valley. Its population at the present census consisted of 775,724 souls made up of 419,862 males and 355,862 females. The sex ratio in general of 848 shows a considerable imbalance between the population of two sexes. The imbalance is much more pronounced in the rural areas of the district where 846 females have been returned as against every 1,000 males. The position in urban areas is comparatively better with a ratio of 859. The corresponding sex ratio in the district and its rural and urban areas at the 1961 census were 862; 864 and 844 respectively.

There are 97,215 occupied residential houses in the district, the ratio being about 8 persons per dwelling. The number of occupied residential houses in the rural and urban areas of the district stands at 90,125 and 7,090, respectively. In the urban areas, a dwelling is inhabited on an average by more than 9 persons.

The total number of households in the district as a whole comes to 121,609 while its rural and urban figures stand at 111,780 and 9,829 respectively.

The district has nine tehsils—Bandipore, Sonawari, Sopore, Baramula, Gulmarg, Uri, Handwara, Karnah and Kupwara. Bandipore, Gulmarg and Kupwara were constituted during the inter-censal period 1961-1971. The following statement gives the number of villages, sex-wise population and sex ratio for the entire district and its constituent tehsils :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio

(N.A.=Not available).

The rural population of the district which stood at 709,481 at the 1971 census is concentrated mainly in 1,020 villages, giving 696 persons on an average per village. The urban sector which includes 6 towns is inhabited by 66,243 persons. Sopore, a flourishing town, and Baramula, the headquarters town, returned 27,697 and 26,334 as their respective populations at the 1971 census. Handwara, a new town in class V category, has a population of 5,025. Four towns-Hajin, Sumbal, Palhalan and Ajas have been declassified during the inter-censal period and moved to the rural list. The following statement gives the percentage of urban population of each town to the total urban population of the district :—

DENSITY

Baramula district ranks third on the basis of both its area and population among the districts of the State. The district with a density of 104 persons per km², however, holds the fourth position when compared with other districts of the State. A comparison of the density figures for the years 1961 and 1971 reveals that the density per km² has moved up from 92 in 1961 to 104 in 1971. There being no notable jurisdictional changes effected during 1961-1971, the increase in density may be ascribed to normal growth of population during the two decades.

GROWTH OF POPULATION

The population of the district which was 327,026 in 1901 rose to 775,724 in 1971,—a growth of 137.2 per cent during the last 70 years. The district which had a uniform growth rate ranging between 9.09 and 12.40 upto 1961, registered a phenomenal growth rate of 29.00 during 1961—1971. The following statement gives the adjusted population of the district for each of the decades ending 1971 according to its present jurisdiction: —

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation

(N=Negligible).

SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

Of the total Scheduled Caste male population of 68; 33 or over 48 percent are literates. There is no Scheduled Caste female in the district. No part of the district is inhabited by Scheduled Tribes.

Mother Tongue

All told, 57 languages have been returned at the present census. Some of the numerically important languages are given below :—

Mother tongue	No. of speakers
Kashmiri	636,688
Gojri	50,430
Pahari	49,980
Punjabi	18,956
Shina	8,911
Hindi	3,332
Dogri	2,501
Urdu	2,321

The speakers of other languages total 2,605 only.

Literacy

The number of literatepersons is 102,068 out of the total population of775,724 in the district. The percentage of literacy has risen from 7·9 in 1961 to 13·2 in 1971. Literacy among females is 3·9 per cent while it is 21·01 per cent among males. The following statement indicates the rural and urban literacy percentages in 1961 and 1971 :—

Year	Rural literacy			Urban literacy
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
1961	6·8	11·9	0·9	18·4	27·0	8·2
1971	11·5	19·2	2·5	30·5	40·2	19·2

The tehsil-wise literacy according to the 1971 census is presented in the following table :—

Doda District

Introductory

Doda district formed in 1948 lies amidst the Himalayan range in Jammu and Kashmir State. It is the second largest district by area in the State, ranking only after Ladakh. It derives its name from its headquarter-town of Doda.

Geographically, the district lies between 32°—53′ and 34°—12′ north latitude and 75°—1′ and 76°—47′ east longitude. On its north is Anantnag district, on the south west and south Udhampur and Kathua districts and Chamba district of Himachal Pradesh, on the east and south east Ladakh district and in the west the district of Udhampur.

Doda falls in the natural division known as 'The outer hills'. It is interwoven by numerous mountains and dense forests which offer very little space for cultivation and consequently the human settlement are scattered. Of the total forest area of the State which is estimated at over 20,856 km². Doda district alone has a forest area of about 5,764 km². The district includes a few plain and low-level areas with a minimum height of 736 metres. The land is generally slopy and requires repeated manuring.

Its main river is the Chenab (locally called Chanderbhaga) which passes through the middle of the district. Although the river is not useful for irrigation, yet it is very important from the commercial point of view as the timber extracted from the forests is transported from this district to Akhnoor in Jammu district by this river. In addition, there are a number of perennial nallahs and streams which are mostly exploited for irrigation.

The district is very rich in minerals. Lead and sapphire mines are found at Paddar in Kishtwar tehsil. Other important minerals are gypsum, mica, zinc and copper.

The altitude of the district varies from 912 metres to 4,573 metres above the sea level. The climate varies according to elevation. It is semi-tropical in summer in some parts and almost arctic in winter in others.

Complete rainfall statistics for the district are not available. Judging from the scanty data available, however, it appears that the district falls in the poor rainfall zone. Rainfall is generally inadequate and often untimely.

Maize is the principal crop grown in the district. Other important crops are paddy, wheat and barley.

Area and Population

Doda with an area of *11,691·0 km² is the largest district in Jammu province. As a result of inter-district transfers effected during the inter-censal period 1961—71, ten villages belonging to one of its tehsils (Ramban) were transferred to the newly constituted tehsil of Gool Gulab Garh of Udhampur district.

According to present jurisdiction, the population of the district in 1961 was 262,473. It shot up to 342,220 in 1971 representing an increase of 30·4 per cent against 29·6 per cent for the whole State. Of the total population of 342,220 males account for 181,424 and females 160,796. The sex ratios for the district in 1971 as a whole and its rural and urban areas work out respectively at 886; 888 and 854 as against 901; 907 and 806 in 1961.

*Provisionally worked out by the Surveyor General of India.

According to the 1971 census there are 53,455 occupied residential houses and 56,459 households in the district as a whole. Data in respect of the rural and urban areas of the district are as under :—

	No. of occupied residential houses	No. of households
Rural . . .	50,318	53,082
Urban . . .	3,137	3,377

The average number of persons per dwelling in the district as a whole and in its rural and urban areas works out to 6.4; 6.4 and 6.2 respectively. The urban dwellings are thinly populated when compared with those of rural areas. The disparity is explained by the fact that owing to the mountainous topography of the district, the dwellings are dispersed over long distances and have been constructed at such places where building sites are available.

The district has four tehsils—Kishtwar, Bhader wah, Doda and Ramban. The following statement gives the population, number of villages and sex ratio for the district and its counstituent tehsils :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Uninhabited	Persons	Males	Females
Doda district	11,691·0	652	2	342,220	181,424	160,796	886

Ramban tehsil	N.A.	93	1	88,783	47,671	41,112	862

(N.A.=Not available)

The rural population of the district which stands at 322,684 is mostly concentrated in 473 small-sized villages with populations of less than 500. Villages in which the number of inhabitants varies from 500 to 1,999 is 151 or 23.2 per cent of the total number of inhabited villages in the district. There are only 28 large-sized villages.

The urban sector which includes 6 towns is inhabited by 19,536 persons. Barring Kishtwar and Bhaderwah which belong to class V, all the remaining four towns fall in class VI and have a population of less than 5,000 each. The urban population of the district is distributed among the various towns in the proportions indicated below:—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Kishtwar (N.A.) .	5,276	27·0
Bhaderwah (N.A.) .	5,211	26·7
Doda (N.A.) . .	4,395	22·5

Ramban (N.A.) .	1,581	8.1
Banihal (N.A.) .	753	3·8

N.A =Notified area.

Density

Doda district is somewhat sparsely populated owing to its mountainous character and comparatively limited size of cultivable area. Leaving aside Ladakh for which density figures are not available, the district has the lowest density in the State—29 persons per Km². There has been an overall increase of 5 persons per Km² in the density of population during 1961—71.

Growth of Population

The growth of population from 148,221 in 1901 to 342,220 in 1971 accounts for an increase of 193,999 persons or 130·9 per cent during 70 years. Except the decade 1911—21 when the growth rate was 0.9 per cent only, all other decades have substantially contributed to the growth of population. The highest growth rate of 30·4 per cent has been registered during 1961—71. The statement on the next page gives the growth of population for each of the eight decades from 1901 to 1971 :—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901 . .	148,221	—	—
1911 . .	160,220	+11,999	+8 10

1971 . .	342,220	+79,747	+30·38

Note:—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941—61.

Industrial Classification

The proportions of workers and non-workers in the district work out to 36.1 per cent and 63·9 per cent respectively. The male population includes about 55.8 per cent workers, among females, the proportion is limited to 13·9 per cent. The statement below gives the sex-wise distribution of population by workers and non-workers under 9 broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas:—

Industrial category	Total		Rural		Urban

SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

There are no Scheduled Tribes in the district. The total population of the Scheduled Castes as per the 1971 census is 30,440 which forms about 9 per cent of the total population of the district. Of the total number of 15,849 scheduled caste males, 3,142 (19.8 per cent) are literates. The number of female literates is 437 or about 3 per cent of the total female population of the Scheduled Castes.

MOTHER TONGUE

The data returned at the 1971 census show that the mother tongues which claim the largest number of speakers in the district consist of Kashmiri, Gojri, Bhadrawahi, Siraji and Dogri. The following table gives the strength of each of the main language spoken in the district arranged in descending order:—

Mother tongue	No. of speakers
Kashmiri	145,410
Gojri	42,578
Bhadrawahi	38,877
Siraji	29,188
Dogri	22,356
Pahari	15,889
Kishtwari	11,871
Padari	7,760
Kuasalee	3,265
Poguli	3,621
Punjabi	2,654
Sarodi	2,045

The number of languages having speakers ranging between 1,000 to 2,000 and less than 1,000 stands at 4 and 57 respectively.

LITERACY

The district as presently constituted had 22,816 literates in 1961 — they formed 8.7 per cent of the total population. Percentage of male literates was 14.8 while that of female literates was 1·9. In 1971, the percentage of literacy rose to 13·9, (22·2 per cent for males and 4·5 per cent for females). The total and sex-wise number of literates and literacy percentages for the entire district and its constituent tehsils are as follow:—

Administrative units	Total No. of literates			Literacy percentage
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
Doda district	47,485	40,301	7,184	13·9	22·2	4·5

Jammu District

Introductory

Jammu district is in the southern region of Jammu and Kashmir State. It lies roughly between 32°—27′ and 33°—05′ north latitude and 74°—19′ and 75°—20′ east longitude. It derives its name from its headquarter, the city of Jammu which is also the winter capital of the State Government.

The district is bounded in the north and north-east by Udhampur district, to the east and south-east partly by Udhampur district and partly by Kathua district, to the south and south-west by Pakistan (Sialkot district) and in the north-west by the newly constituted district of Rajauri and parts of Bhimber tehsil currently under the illegal occupation of Pakistan.

The district falls in the natural division known as 'the sub-montane tract'. The whole of Ranbirsinghpora and the southern parts of Akhnoor and samba tehsils are low-lying areas. The central and northern parts of Samba and most of Akhnoor and Jammu tehsils are typical foot-hills. Jammu city on the edge of foothills with an elevation 311 metres above sea level forms the terminus of the Shiwalik ranges, which rise gradually from behind the town.

The important rivers of the district are the Chenab and the Jammu Tawi. While the Tawi flows through the centre of Jammu tehsil, the Chenab enters Akhnoor teshil from Reasi tehsil and flows on between Akhnoor and Jammu tehsils to enter Pakistan north of Sialkot. In addition, there are many small streams in the district which are of little use for irrigational purposes.

The Maidani (Plain) tract of Ranbirsinghpora and Jammu tehsils are fairly well off with respect to irrigation and similar tracts in Akhnoor to a less extent. Samba tehsil and Kandi and Pahari tracts of Jammu and Akhnoor tehsils are largely dependent on natural rainfall for irrigation.

The climate of the district is warm, nevertheless healthy. The cold season sets in from December and lasts upto February. Summer is the season of oppressive heat and extends from March to June, July, August and September are rainy months. The average maximum and minimum termperature are 34·31°C and 13·93°C.

Rainfall is generally inadequate and often untimely. The rainy season, with the exception of occassional thunderstorms, is confined to three months from July to September.

Wheat, maize, bajra, rice and barley are the chief food crops. Sugar-cane and cotton are grown to some extent.

Area and Population

Jammu, a comparatively small district, has an area of 3,165·0 km². The district has gained territorially after 1961 owing to the addition of 14 villages of Reasi tehsil of Udhampur district.

The total population of the district stands at 731,743 consisting of 381,138 males and 350,605 females. The sex ratio in the district as a whole and in its rural and urban areas works out respectively at 920; 940 and 865.

According to the 1971 census, there are 124,340 occupied residential houses and 131,494 households in the district as a whole. The rural and urban areas respectively account for 95,225 and 29,115 occupied residential houses and 98,035 and 33,459 households. This means that the average number of persons per occupied house in the district and in its rural and urban sector stands at 5·9; 5·7 and 6·6 respectively. The overcrowding is the result of a very large number of displaced persons and immigrants having settled in the district particularly in its urban areas.

The district is composed of four tehsils—Samba, Ranbirsinghpora, Jammu and Akhnoor, the area figures of which are, however, not available. The statement below gives the population, number of villages (both inhabited and uninhabited) and sex ratio for the district and its constituent tehsils:—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Uninhabited	Persons	Males	Females

Akhnoor tehsil	N.A.	224	13	122,462	62,519	59,943	959

(N.A.=Not available).

The number of villages in the district is 1,121; of these 58 are uninhabited. The rural population of the district is 540,401 giving an average of about 508 persons per inhabited village. Among the villages 68 per cent fall in the class range less than 500, while 29 per cent have populations varying from 500 to 1,999. The number of large sized villages is 31; and they constitute 3 per cent of the total inhabited villages of the district.

Over 26 per cent of the total population lives in urban areas, as against 18·6 per cent in the State. The urban sector, which includes seven towns, claims 191,342 persons. Among towns, Jammu city with a population of 155,338 falls in class I. While Bishna is a class VI town; all the remaining five towns fall in class V. The following table gives the percentage of urban population inhabiting each of the towns of the district:—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.

DENSITY

The density of population of Jammu district according to the 1971 Census is 231 persons per km² as against 160 in 1961. At present Jammu occupies the second place regarding density of population among the districts of the State. The increase in density may be ascribed to large-scale immigrations and increasing tempo of developmental activities as a result of successful implementation of Five Year Plans.

GROWTH OF POPULATION

The growth of the population of Jammu district during the last 70 years can be judged from the following statement.

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901	345,818	—	—
1911	331,162	—14,656	—4·24

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes

There are no Scheduled Tribes in the district. The total strength of Scheduled Castes comes to 206,551 persons (28·2 per cent of the entire population of the district).

Out of the total male Scheduled Caste population of 107,207; 22·5 per cent. (24,102) are literates. The number of literate Scheduled Caste females is very small, being 5,643 in a total population of 99,344.

Mother Tongue

Dogri is the predominant language of Jammu district and has been returned by 593,254 persons or 81·1 percent of its population as their mother tongue. Among other important languages, mention may be made of the following:—

Mother tongue	Total speakers
Punjabi	80,809
Hindi	19,008
Kashmiri	15,653
Gojri	8,639
Punchhi	6,358
Urdu	1,859

Kathua District

Introductory

Kathua called Jasrota in earlier census reports, is one of the smallest districts of the State and is situated between 32°—17′ and 32°—55′ north latitude and 75°—7′ and 75°—55′ east longitude. The district is named after the headquarter town of Kathua which lies 89 kms. to the west of Jammu city.

The district is bounded on the north and north-west by Bhaderwah and Ramnagar tehsils of Doda and Udhampur districts, on the west by Samba tehsil of Jammu district, on the south by the district of Gurdaspur (Punjab) and on the east by Kangra and Chamba districts of Himachal Pradesh. In the south-east its boundaries extend to Shakargarh tehsil of Pakistan.

The district falls partly in the sub-montane tract (Kathua and Hiranagar) and partly in the outer hills (Bashohli and Billawar). It consists the part of plain, flat and low-lying areas and mountains and foot-hills. Forest areas are found in abundance in Bashohli and Billawar tehsils.

The soil mostly corresponds to 'Tarai lands' in the tehsils of Kathua and Hiranagar. The character of soil in Bashohli and Billawar tehsils is somewhat identical with 'Pranti lands'. There are also a number of Kandi table lands where the soil is made up of red loam inter-mixed with Shingle and stone. This tract is mostly dependent on rainfall.

The most important river in Kathua is the Ravi. It flows along its eastern and southern borders from the north-east in a south-westerly direction. The other river of any importance is the Ujh which, after flowing through the western half of Billawar tehsil takes a southerly course between Kathua and Hiranagar tehsils. Both these rivers supply water to the canal systems of the district. A few springs and streams are also exploited for irrigation. There are numerous mountain torrents in the district but they are of very little value for irrigation.

The higher elevations are distinctly cold in winter and cooler in summer. The lower elevations are usually hot and dry in summer months.

The major part of the district falls in the 'yellow belt' where the annual rainfall does not exceed 381 mm. The rainfall in Kathua and Hiranagar tehsils is not always sufficient, timely or well distributed. Bashohli and Billawar tehsils belong to the 'dark green belt' and are much better off as regards rainfall.

The chief crops and staple foodgrains of the district are maize, wheat, rice and bajra. Sugarcane, rape and mustard, linseed and tobacco are some of the cash crops. Jawar, China, kangni and goji are grown in some parts of the district.

Area and Population

The area figure of Kathua district as communicated by the Surveyor General of India is 2,651·0 km² which has provisionally been adopted at the 1971 census. Judged by geographical area, it ranks ninth among the districts in the State. After Ladakh, it is the only district in the State which has not witnessed any outward jurisdictional change during the decade 1961-1971. A new tehsil, viz., Billawar has, however, been carved out by detaching 65 villages of Bashohli tehsil during the inter-censal period.

Kathua returned 274,671 persons in the 1971 census with 5·9 per cent of the State's population, it ranks seventh among the district of Jammu and Kashmir. In 1961, Kathua held the eighth position; it has improved its position at the cost of Punch district which was split into two districts, during the inter-censal period 1961-1971.

The number of residential occupied houses in the district is 47,398 of which 42,808 are in the rural and 4,590 in urban areas. There are 48,880 households in Kathua. Of these, 4,775 are in the urban sector and the rest (44,105) are in rural areas. The average number of persons occupying a rural or urban house works out to 5·8 and 5·5 respectively. Houses in rural areas are more crowded than in urban areas. This is due to the reason that a very large number of displaced persons have settled in the rural areas of the district.

The district has four tehsils—Bashohli, Kathua, Hiranagar and Billawar. The statement below gives the area, number of inhabited and uninhabited villages, sex-wise population and sex ratio in respect of Kathua district and each of its four tehsils.

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Uninhabited	Persons	Males	Females

(N.A.=Not available)

With 536 inhabited villages and a rural population of 249,586, the average number of persons per village is 466. This is far less than in the contiguous districts of Jammu (508) and Udhampur (503).

A majority of the rural population lives in medium-sized villages having 500—1,999 inhabitants. Such villages number 179 and the percentage of population living therein is 66·1. Villages with less than 500 inhabitants number 352 and account for 29·1 per cent of the rural population. There are only 5 villages with 2,000 or more population. About 5 per cent of the rural population is concentrated in these villages.

The total urban population according to the 1971 census is 25,085 consisting of 13,146 males and 11,939 females. The proportion of urban to total population comes to 9·1. The district had 15,535 as its urban population in 1961 (7·5 per cent).

The district has four towns of which only Kathua (pop. 17,416) is a class IV town. The remaining three belong to class VI.

Kathua is situated very near to the international boundary with Pakistan and the inter-State boundary with Punjab. Being a district and tehsil headquarters, it serves as a distribution centre for consumer goods to all the urban areas of the district and to the adjoining rural areas. Lakhenpur is situated on the national highway and has been urbanised after 1947 when the railhead of the State was transferred to Pathankot Hiranagar and Bashohli are the headquarters of their respective tehsils. Bashohli is an old town situated on the banks of the Ravi and is reputed for the manufacture of woollen blankets. There is no urban area in the newly constituted tehsil of Billawar. The table below indicates the proportion in which the urban population of the district stands divided among each of its four towns:—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Bashohli (N.A.)	3,309	13·2
Lakhenpur (N.A.)	616	2·5
Kathua (T.A.)	17,416	69·4
Hiranagar (N.A.)	3,744	14·9

DENSITY

The density per km² of the district and its rural and urban areas is shown below:

	1961			1971
	Area in km²	Population	Density	Area in km²	Population	Density
Total	2,651·2	207,430	78	2,651·0	274,671	104
Rural	2,642·8	191,895	73	2,643·0	249,586	94
Urban	8·4	15,535	1,849	8·0	25,085	3,155

The increase in densities is attributable to the normal growth of population as also to the heavy influx of immigrants, majority of whom were engaged on the construction of the Kathua-Jammu rail link.

GROWTH OF POPULATION

The statement below gives the growth of population for each decade since 1901 along with percentage decadal variation:—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901	154,213	—	—
1911	151,802	—2,411	—1·56
1921	154,209	+2,407	+1·59
1931	161,232	+7,023	+4·55
1941	177,672	+16,440	+10·20
1951	192,551	+14,879	+8·37
1961	207,430	+14,879	+7·73
1971	274,671	+67,241	+32·42

NOTE—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941—1961.

The three decades from 1911 to 1931 showed small rises in the population of the district; the one from 1931 to 1941 registered a high growth rate of 10·20. The growth rate again fell to 8·37 and 7·73 per cent respectively in the next two decades.

According to the 1971 census, the population of the district has gone up by 67,241 and reached 274,671. The rate of increase is 32·42 per cent which is the highest during the last 70 years. The high rate of growth is attributable to decline in death rate, improved medical facilities and large-scale in-migration from within and outside the State.

INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

The district-wise proportions of workers and non-workers disclose that Kathua ranks among the districts where non-workers form much larger proportions than workers. This is not only true of the district as a whole but also of its rural and urban areas.

According to 1971 census data, about 27 percent of the district's population is engaged in some economic activity. Among males and females, the respective proportions work out to 49·2 and 2·4.

The following statment sets out the distribution of population by workers and non-workers and of workers into 9 broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas:—

Industrial category	Total		Rural		Urban
	Males	Females	Males	Females	Males	Females
1. Workers	70,292	3,098	64,347	2,746	5,945	352

SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

The district is inhabited among others by 62,716 persons of Scheduled Castes of whom 32,792 are males and 29,924 females. The Scheduled Caste population constitutes 22·8 percent of the total district population.

The sex ratio among Scheduled Castes is 913 which, though better than the State's sex ratio of 878, is slightly on the lower side when compared with the overall sex ratio of Kathua district which works out to 921.

Of the total Scheduled Caste population of 62,716, only 6,205 (9·9 per cent) are literates. The literacy percentages of males and females are 16·7 and 2·5 respectively. The number of literates in the case of males is 5,465 and that of females 740.

There are no Scheduled Tribes in Kathua.

MOTHER TONGUE

Examining the returns of mother tongues in Kathua district it is found that all told 48 languages have been returned at the present census. The following table gives the strength of some of the main languages spoken in the district.

Mother tongue	Total speakers
Dogri	236,399
Pahari	11,658
Punjabi	7,329
Kashmiri	6,421
Gojri	5,057
Hindi	3,032

LITERACY

Judged by the standard of literacy, Kathua has a definite edge over all the districts of Jammu province except Jammu district. The district is third in the State and second in Jammu province with a literacy percentage of 21·6. Among males, the literacy percentage is 30·2; in the case of females it is 12·3. The proportion of literate females is higher than in many other districts of the State.

The following statement indicates the total, rural and urban literacy percentages in 1961 and 1971:—

Literacy rates

Census year	Total			Rural			Urban
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
1961	11·5	17·8	4·5	9·9	16·0	3·2	31·1	39·9	21·2
1971	21·6	30·2	12·3	19·5	28·0	10.2	43·2	52·0	33·4

A comparison of the literacy percentage of different tehsils of the district shows that both Kathua (26·2) and Hiranagar (25·8) are educationally more advanced. The corresponding figures for Billawar and Bashohli tehsils are 15·6 and 13·7

The table below gives the total and sex-wise number of literates and literacy percentage for the districts and its tehsils :—

District/Tehsil	Total No. of literates			Literacy percentage
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
Kathua district	59,434	43,241	16,193	21·6	30·2	12·3

Hiranagar tehsil	21,618	15,719	5,899	25·8	36·4	14·6

INDUSTRIES

According to the data collected in the 1971 census, the number of different kinds of industrial establishments in the district was 4,486. As is the case with almost every district of the State, an over-whelming majority of these consist of small workshops like watermills, oil ghanis and handlooms. A large number of industries have been established in the newly constructed Kathua industrial estate. Ceramics and cotton textiles are some of the notable industries located in the vicinity of Kathua town. The statement below gives the details of those industries which are most extensively found in Kathua district and which collectively employ 100 or more persons :—

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged

Ladakh District

Introductory

The district of Ladakh, cradled in the lofty Himalayan mountains, is situated between 32°—15′and 36°—0′ north latitude and 75°—15′ and 80°—20′ east longitude. Even after being split up, Ladakh still retains its pre 1947 position and has the largest area among all the districts in India. It is bounded on the north and east by China, on the north-west by Gilgit district and Skardu tehsil (both currently under the illegal occupation of Pakistan), on the west by Baramula, Srinagar, Anantnag and Doda districts and on the south by Himachal Pradesh.

The general physical aspect of the Ladakh district is both varied and picturesque. We come across almost rainless and, therefore, dry and barren tracts and a few valleys here and there with orchards and corn fields. The district falls in the natural division designated as the Indus valley region which consists of an enormous mass of mountains and glaciers, vast deserts, rocky river valleys and high plateaus. The whole area is mountainous, its ranges containing many peaks of over 6,098 metres. There are few trees and no forest areas worth the name. Inhabited areas are found at very high altitudes.

The most important river of the district is the Indus which, after rising from the Himalaya appears in the south-east of the district and flows in a north-westerly direction. The river which runs through difficult terrain is used neither for irrigation nor for navigation. Other important rivers of the district include the Shyok and the Nubra. The soil is mostly sandy, rocky and unproductive, with vast arid tablelands of high elevations with no traces of vegetation in the upper slopes.

The climate is generally dry and cold but in some of the valleys particularly of the Indus and Shyok, it is very hot in summer. In the autumn, winter and early spring, the whole area is intensely cold.

Ladakh district falls in what is known as the yellow belt where the rainfall does not exceed 389 mms. on an average, with the result that cultivation is confined to those areas which can get water for irrigation from mountain streams. Enclosed as it is on all sides by high mountains, the monsoons do not reach the district.

Grim is the chief crop of Ladakh which grows even at a height of 4,573 metres. Wheat and barley are the other important crops.

Area and Population

According to the area figures supplied provisionally by the Surveyor General of India, Ladakh district extends over an area of *95,876·0 km² which is 43·14 per cent of the total area of the State. The district has not undergone any outward jurisdictional change during 1961-1971 but a new tehsil of Zanskar has been carved out by detaching 25 villages of Kargil tehsil.

The population of the district according to the 1971 census was 105,291 persons, of whom 53,315 were males and 51,976 females. The sex ratio thus comes to 975 females per 1,000 males. The following statement gives the sex ratio for the entire district and its rural and urban areas for the eight decades from 1901 to 1971 :—

*Includes 37,555 km² under illegal occupation of China.

Sex Ratio per 1,000 males

	1901	1911	1921	1931	1941	1951	1961	1971
Total . .	986	997	1,029	1,022	1,011	990	971	975
Rural . .	986	1,003	1,029	1,024	1,019	992	970	985
Urban . .	—	899	1,031	969	859	936	1,012	856

There are 21,253 occupied residential houses in the district as a whole. The rural/urban break-up is 19,680 and 1,573 respectively. The number of rural and urban households stands at 20,562 and 1,989 respectively. This shows that the average number of persons per dwelling is at 4·95 both in the district and in its rural areas and 5·03 so far as its urban sector is concerned. The dwellings in towns are slightly overcrowded when compared with those of rural areas. This is due to the reason that both Leh and Kargil towns absorb a sizeable number of immigrants who consist mainly of State and Central Government employees posted in Ladakh.

The district is made up of three tehsils—Ladakh, Kargil and Zanskar. The following statement gives the area, number of villages both inhabited and un-inhabited, sex-wise population and sex ratio in respect of Ladakh district and each of its tehsils :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Un-inhabited	Persons	Males	Females

(N.A.=Not available)
@ Provisionally worked out by the Surveyor General of India.

The rural population of the district is 97,382 persons concentrated in 235 inhabited villages. In 165 villages, the population is less than 500 and in another 69 the population varies from 500 to 1,999. There is only one village having a population of more than 2,000.

The urban population of the district in 1961 was only 3,720 which was 4·2 per cent of the total population. In 1971 the total urban population reached the figure of 7,909 which is 7·5 per cent of the total population of the district. The percentage increase of the urban population is mainly due to the treatment of Kargil as a notified area in the current census.

Leh is the chief town of the district and is situated at an altitude of 3,523 metres. It is the headquarters of the district as well as tehsil and functions as the main centre of Buddhist culture. Kargil is situated at an altitude of 2,595 metres and is the tehsil headquarters of Kargil tehsil.

The statement below gives the percentage distribution of urban population inhabiting each of the two towns of the district:

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Leh (N.A.)	5,519	69·8
Kargil (N.A.)	2,390	30·2

(N.A.=Notified area).

No place has so far been declared urban in Zanskar tehsil.

DENSITY

The density of population per Km² is the lowest in Ladakh when compared with other districts of the State. This is because the major part of the district has a height more than 3,049 metres and consists of rocky soil where rainfall being poor and vegetation scarce, the density of population is extremely low.

Growth of Population

The following statement shows the growth of population in the district since 1901 :—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901	60,467	—	—
1911	67,994	+7,527	+12·45
1921	68,886	+892	+1·31
1931	72,181	+3,295	+4·78
1941	76,030	+3,849	+5·33
1951	82,340	+6,310	+8·30
1961	88,651	+6,311	+7·66
1971	105,291	+16,640	+18·77

Note :—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941-1961.

The population of the district has increased only by 44,824 over a period of 70 years. The bulk of the increase has taken place during the decades 1901-1911 and 1961-1971. In 1911-1921; 1921-1931 and 1931-1941, the percentage growth rate was 1·31; 4·78 and 5·33 only. The marked growth in the last decade is a feature common to other districts of the State and even to the country as a whole.

Industrial Classification

There are 433 workers out of every 1,000 persons in the district, a proportion much higher than the State average. The participation rate is much higher among males (579) than females (292). This is the general pattern throughout the State. Rural areas have a higher participation rate (440) than urban area (410). This trend is observed also in male and female participation rates. The sex wise distribution of population by workers and non-workers and that of workers into nine broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas is as follow :—

Industrial category	Total		Rural		Urban

The following table shows the percentage distribution of population by religion :—

Religious community	1971 census pop.	Percentage of total pop.
Buddhists	54,565	51·82
Muslims	49,131	46·66
Hindus	1,152	1·10
Sikhs	361	0·34
Christians	81	0·08
Others	1	N

(N=Negligible).

Buddhists, the major community inhabiting the district, comprise 51·8 per cent of the population. Muslims rank next with 46·7 per cent. Other religious groups taken together constitute only 1·5 per cent.

SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

Like other districts of the State, there are no Scheduled Tribes in Ladakh district. The total population of Scheduled Castes is 14 persons only, all of whom are males and nine are literate.

MOTHER TONGUE

Ladakhi is the predominant language of the district and is spoken by 51·8 per cent of its population. Among other mother tongues returned at the present census, the number of the speakers of the following languages is comparatively large :—

Mother tongue	No. of speakers
Balti	39,032
Dardi	3,496
Tibetan	2,936
Budhi	2,225
Kashmiri	769
Shina	747
Punjabi	523

LITERACY

Ladakh is one of the most educationally backward districts of the State. The literacy data collected at the 1971 census reveal that 13,371 persons comprising 12·7 per cent of the district population are literates. The wide gap between males and females is also evident, female literates constituting 3·0 per cent compared to 22·2 per cent males. The corresponding literacy rates for the district in 1961 and 1971 are as under :—

Literacy Rate

	1961	1971
Persons	8·3%	12·7%
Males	15·4%	22·2%
Females	1·0%	3·0%

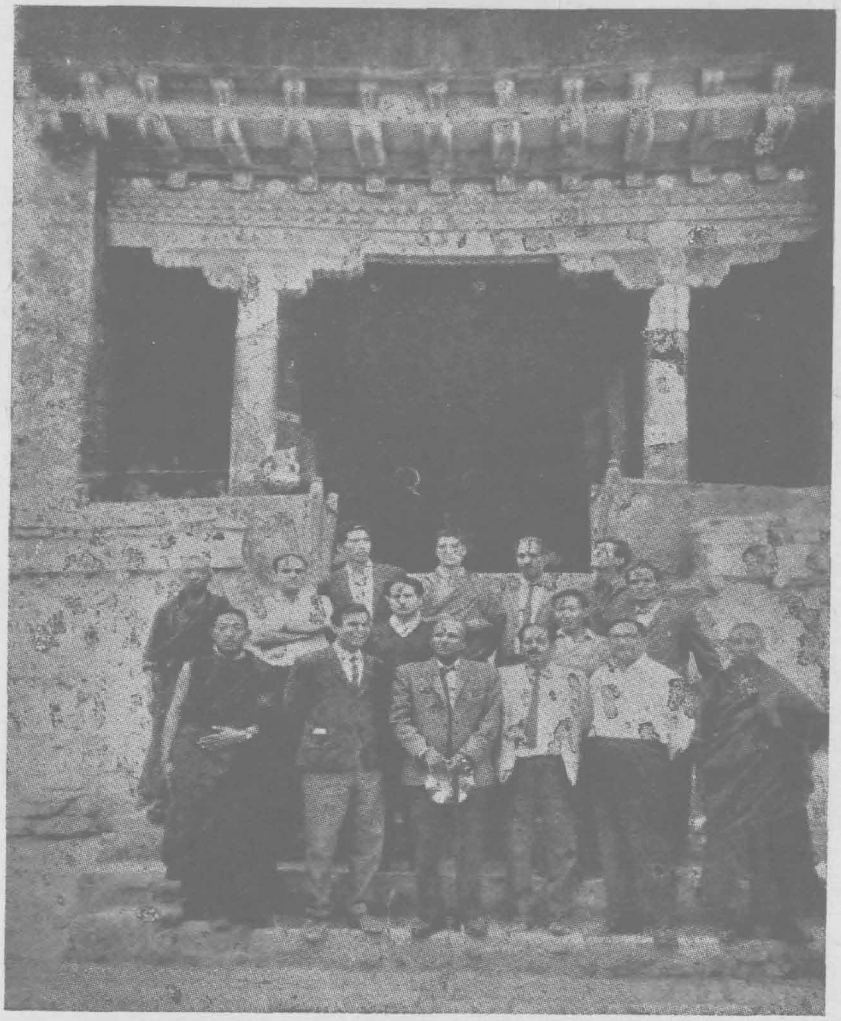

Tehsil-wise literacy data are as follow :—

Administrative units	Total no. of literates			Literacy percentage
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
Ladakh district	13,371	11,819	1,552	12·7	22·2	3·0

Zanskar tehsil	731	711	20	10·6	21·0	0·6

INDUSTRIES

The establishment schedule canvassed in 1970 at the time of house numbering and house-listing reveals that there were 2,800 industrial establishments, both registered and un-registered, providing employment to 2,921 persons. The manufacture of food products accounted for the largest number (2,713) followed by the manufacture of textile products (36). Repair work engaged 16 establishments and manufacture of metal products only 14. The table below lists the industries and number of persons employed therein for the entire district :—

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Food products	2,713	2,757
Wool textiles	5	54
Textile products	36	44

Punch District

Introductory

Punch district designated as 'Punch jagir' in the census reports till 1961, lies to the north of Jammu province. It is the smallest district in the State and is situated between 33°—25′ and 34°—0′ north latitude and 73°—58′ and 74°—33′ east longitude. It derives its name from its headquarter town.

Punch finds mention in the Rajatarangni of Kalhana (1079-1151 A.D.) in which it is referred as *'Parnitish'. Punch was ruled by Rajput Rajas of Lohar Kot before the advent of Muslim rule. The Muslim Rajas who ruled Punch for over 500 years were ejected by the Sikhs. Maharaja Ranjit Singh gave this illaqa to Raja Dhayan Singh, younger brother of Maharaja Gulab Singh who held a prominent position in the court of Ranjit Singh at Lahore. With the establishment of Dogra rule in 1846, Punch became part of Jammu and Kashmir.

The district is bounded on the north and north-east by the districts of Baramula and Srinagar. In the east, south and south-east it touches Anantnag and Rajauri districts respectively.

Punch falls in the natural division of 'The outer hills'. Excepting some low-lying valleys, almost the entire district is mountainous with mountain ranges containing many peaks of over 3,049 metres. The district has only patches of cultivable areas spread between the hills covered with scanty and stunted forest growth which assumes larger and thicker proportions on higher elevations where pine forests are in plenty. The generally mountainous character of the district renders cultivation difficult and precarious. Most of the inhabited areas are situated at elevations ranging from 762 metres to 1,372 metres.

The main river of the district is the Punch which flows through the valley on to Kotli, currently under the illegal occupation of Pakistan, to join the Jhelum near Mirpur. The tributaries of the Punch supply water for irrigation wherever it is possible to bring it to the cultivable land at the mouths and on the sides of mountain torrents. The district has also a number of springs which are used for irrigation

Barring a few areas where the soil corresponds to 'Tarai lands', the rest of the district is dominated by 'Kandi table-lands' where the soil is made up of red loam inter-mixed with shingle and stone. In these areas, cultivation to a very large extent is dependent on rainfall.

The climate varies according to altitude and local position. The climate at the higher elevations is distinctly cold in winter and temperate in summer. In the narrow low-lying valleys and inhabited areas, the climate is delightful in winter and warm in summer.

The district belongs to the 'dark green belt' where the average annual rainfall invariably exceeds 1,270 mms. As a result of favourable rainfall conditions in both Haveli and Mendhar tehsils, the district does not suffer on account of inadequate irrigational facilities.

The chief crops grown are maize, wheat and rice. Maize is the staple food-grain and accounts for about two-third of the cultivated area. In the recent past, some area has also been brought under barley. Cash crops include pulses and oil seeds. Vegetables are not grown as a cash crop except in Punch town.

Area and Population

The area of the district with its present jurisdiction has been provisionally worked out by the Surveyor General of India and stands at 1,658.0 Km².

*Tarikh Dogra Desh by Dewan Narsingh Dass Nargis.

The district which measured 4,347·8 km² in 1961 has been affected considerably by jurisdictional changes made in the inter-censal period. As many as 391 villages (Rajauri Tehsil 260 and Nowshehra tehsil 131) and two towns were detached from it and added to the newly constituted District of Rajauri. The district was reconstituted with the residual portions of Haveli and Mendhar tehsils with its geographical area shrinking to 1,658·0 km² in 1971 as against 4,374·8 km² in 1961.

The population of the district as returned at the 1971 census was 170,787 as against 154,532 in 1961—an increase of 10·5 per cent in 10 years. Punch is the smallest district in the State. It has, however, a larger population than Ladakh and on this basis, ranks ninth in the State. The population is made up of 89,750 males and 81,037 females, the sex ratio works out to 903.

According to the 1971 census data, the number of occupied residential houses in the district as a whole and its rural and urban areas stood at 26,401; 23,865 and 2,536 respectively. As against this, there were 27,926 households in the district. Of these 25,268 were in rural areas and 2,658 in urban. Thus the average number of persons per dwelling stood at 6·5 in the district, at 6·6 in its rural areas and at 5·4 in the urban areas. This overcrowding is due to the fact that a very large number of displaced persons who have migrated from Bagh, Palandhri, Mirpur and other tehsils of the State generally share the accommodation of the local people and there has not been much of new construction in the district.

The district has two tehsils—Haveli and Mendhar. The statement below gives the area, number of villages both inhabited and uninhabited, sexwise population and sex ratio in respect of Punch district and each of the its constituent tehsils:—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Un-inhabited	Persons	Males	Females
Punch district	1,658·0	158	18	170,787	89,750	81,037	903
Haveli tehsil	N.A.	83	3	74,699	39,366	35,333	898
Mendhar tehsil . . .	N.A.	75	15	96,088	50,384	45,704	904

(N.A.=Not available)

With a rural population of 156,984 persons, an inhabited village has on an average about 994 persons. This is far higher than in the contiguous districts of Rajauri (568), Baramula (696), Anantnag (648) and Srinagar (591).

About 57 per cent of the villages have a population in the range 500—1,999. The number of villages where the population is less than 500 is 51 (32 per cent). Large-sized villages with a population of 2,000 or over, number 17 (11 per cent).

The urban population of 13,803 concentrated in two towns is made up of 7,334 males and 6,469 females. Its proportion to district's total population works out to 8·1.

Punch (pop. 11,981) is a class IV town. Surankote (pop. 1,822) belong to class VI and has been declared a notified area for the first time during the decade 1961-1971.

Punch which is the district and tehsil headquarter is the most important urban area of the district and inspite of its eccentric location, is a distributing centre for most of the adjoining rural areas.

Surankote on the Rajauri-Punch road is developing into an important commercial centre. The Gujjars and local inhabitants dispose off ghee, guchis and banafasha to wholesale merchants in the town who in turn export the articles to various destinations within and outside the State.

The table below shows the proportion in which the urban population of the district stands divided among its two towns :—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Punch (T.A.) . .	11,981	86·8
Surankote (N.A.) .	1,822	13·2

(N.A.=Notified area)
(T.A.=Town area)

Density

Punch ranks tenth and ninth in respect of area and population in the State. The density per km² of area which stands at 103, is low, but higher than the densities of Ladakh, Doda, Udhampur and Rajauri. As a matter of fact, the district would have a much lower density had it not been split up during the inter-censal period when two of its tehsils were detached to form the new district of Rajauri. The low density results from the fact that the population is confined to a small area where cultivable lands and irrigation facilities are available and which provides avenues of employment to the inhabitants.

Growth of Population

The growth of population since 1901 along with percentage decadal variation is as follow:—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901 . .	102,011	—	—
1911 . .	112,009	+9,998	+9·80
1921 . .	117,759	+5,750	+5·13
1931 . .	127,477	+9,718	+8·25
1941 . .	140,446	+12,969	+10·17
1951 . .	147,489	+7,043	+5·01
1961 . .	154,532	+7,043	+4·78
1971 . .	170,787	+16,255	+10·52

Note :—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941—1961.

The adjusted population of the district which stood at 102,011 in 1901 has risen to 170,787 in 1971—an increase of 67·4 per cent during 70 years. It is slightly better than the growth rate of Rajauri district (59·5 per cent) during the same period.

While all other districts of the State have registered a very high growth rate during the last decade, it is only 10·5 per cent in Punch. The large-scale out-migrations from the district during the 1965 Indo-Pakistani confrontation may explain this.

Industrial Classification

According to the 1971 census, about 28 per cent of the district's inhabitants are workers and a little over 72 per cent are non-workers. Punch is third in respect of the proportion of workers in Jammu province and seventh so far as the entire State is concerned. The proportion of female workers is only 0·07 per cent which is the lowest among all the districts of the State. Agriculture is the one occupation which has more persons than all other occupations put together. The statement below exhibits the sex-wise distribution of population by workers and non-workers and of workers in 9 broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas :—

Industrial category	Total		Rural		Urban
	Males	Females	Males	Females	Males	Females

RELIGION

The district is inhabited by Hindus, Muslims, Sikhs and a few Christians and Buddhists. The percentage distribution of the population in the district by religion is as follow :—

Religious community	1971 census pop.	Percentage of total pop.
Muslims	151,758	88·86
Hindus	12,930	7·57
Sikhs	6,018	3·52
Christians	59	0·04
Buddhists	20	0·01
Others	2	N

(N=Negligible).

SCHEDULED CASTES AND SCHEDULED TRIBES

There are no Scheduled Tribes in the Punch district. The Scheduled Caste population at the 1971 census was 204 only, (139 males and 65 females).

Literacy among Scheduled Caste population is very high. There are in all 55 literate persons of whom 44 are males and the rest numbering 11 females. The literacy percentage which works out to about 27 is very high compared to the literacy percentage of the district as a whole which comes to 14·62. The percentage of Scheduled Caste literate females (16·9) is three times more than that of literate females in the district as a whole. This high proportion has, however, a statistical value only as the number involved is exceedingly small.

MOTHER TONGUE

Punch is the stronghold of the speakers of Pahari with 69,549 persons claiming it as their mother tongue. Among the remaining languages, Gojri (65,337) alone has returned a sizable number of speakers. The distribution of some of the important languages is as under :—

Mother tongue	Total speakers
Kashmiri	21,616
Punjabi	7,673
Urdu	2,081
Punchhi	1,530
Dogri	1,398
Hindi	1,053

Out of the remaining 28 mother tongues, not a single language has within its fold 100 or more speakers.

LITERACY

Judged by literacy, Punch ranks sixth among the districts of the State and fourth in Jammu province. Of the total population of 170,787 inhabiting the district, only 24,963 persons (20,874 males and 4,087 females) are literate. In other words the proportion of literate population is limited to 14·62 only.

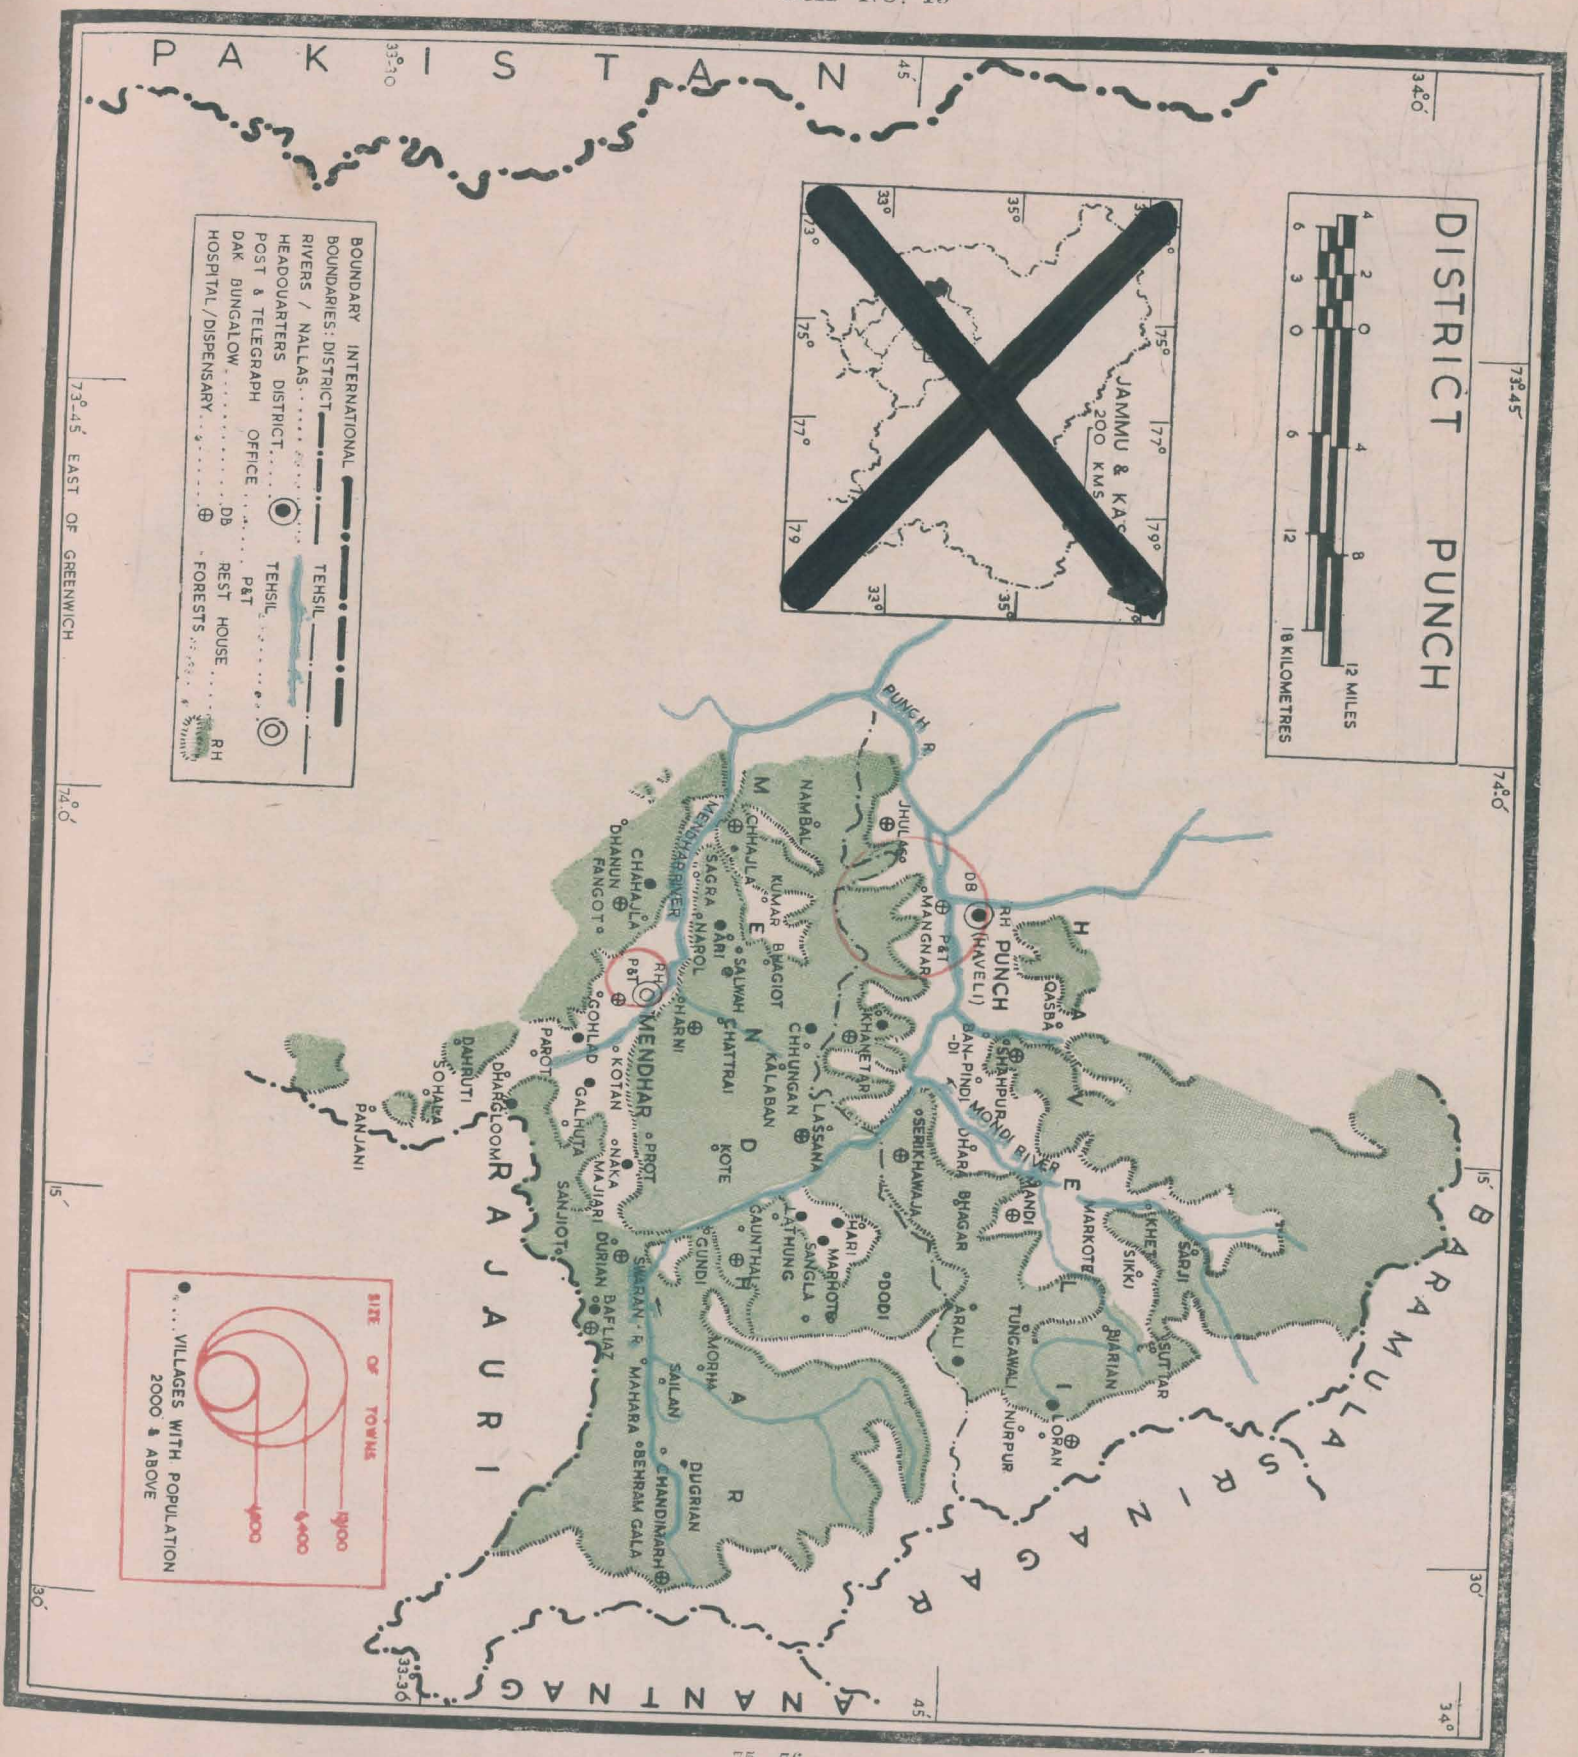

Among males numbering 89,750, a little over 23 per cent are literate. Female literates number 4,089 only, 5·0 per cent of the total female population of 81,037. The following table gives the total and sex-wise number of literates and literacy percentages for the district as a whole and its constituent tehsils :—

Administrative units	Total No. of Literates			Literacy percentage
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
Punch district	24,963	20,874	4,089	14·6	23·3	5·0
Haveli tehsil	13,096	10,135	2,961	17·5	25·7	8·4
Mendhar tehsil	11,867	10,739	1,128	12·4	21·3	2·5

INDUSTRIES

There are 1,436 industrial concerns in the district as a whole. Of these, 855 or about 60 per cent are engaged in the production of foodstuffs. The next largest number is claimed by manufacturing concerns engaged in weaving of woollen blankets, pattus, etc. As is the case with almost every district of the State, the most common industries in Punch consist of small workshops like watermills, oil ghanis and handlooms. The following statement gives the details of those industries which are most extensively found in the district and which collectively employ 100 or more persons :—

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged

Rajauri District

Introductory

Rajauri district was constituted during the inter-censal period 1961—1971 by detaching Rajauri and Nowshehra tehsils from Punch district. It is a new district and lies between 32°—58′ and 33°—35′ north latitude and 74°—0′ and 74°—40′ east longitude.

The district is bounded on the north and north-east by Punch and Anantnag and in the east and south-east by Udhampur and Jammu districts respectively. On the west, it is bordered by the area currently under the illegal occupation of Pakistan.

Rajauri falls partly in the "outer hills" and partly in the 'sub-montane tract'. Budhal tehsil and a major part of Rajauri tehsil belong to the 'outer hills' and the rest to the sub-montane region. Barring a few low-level areas of Nowshehra tehsil almost the entire district is hilly and broken and intersected by small streams and ravines.

There is no river of any importance in the district. There are, however, a large number of small streams, usually fordable which become raging torrents following a few days rain. Some of these are utilised for irrigation.

The soil in Nowshehra tehsil is of the 'Tarailand's variety. The rest of the district is dominated by 'kandi table-lands', the soil of which is made up of red loam intermixed with shingle and stone. In this area, cultivation is dependent on the monsoon rainfall to a large extent.

Climatic conditions differ widely according to elevation. The areas of Rajauri and the whole of Nowshehra tehsil are hot and dry. The climate of Budhal and Rajauri tehsils at higher elevations on mountain slopes and 'Margs' is cold in winter and pleasantly cool in summer.

Rainfall conditions are comparatively more favourable in Rajauri district than in many other istricts of the State. The district falls in the 'dark green belt' where the average annual rainfall is invariably more than 1,270 mms. But the water runs off quickly on account of mountainous topography; the size of cultivable land is not large.

Maize, wheat and rice are the important crops in the district. Maize is the most important staple throughout the district. Other crops of less importance are barley, cotton and pulses.

Area and Population

The geographical area of the district as worked out provisionally by the Surveyor General of India is 2,681.0 km². Separate area figures for its constituent tehsils are not available.

The population of the district at the 1971 census was 217,373 consisting of 114,380 males and 102,993 females. Its sex ratio of 900 is higher than the State ratio of 878. It is, however, poorer than the figures of its neigbouring districts, Punch (903) Udhampur (908) and Jammu (920).

There are 36,057 residential houses with 6·0 persons on an average per house. The number of households in the district is 38,609, made up of 36,843 rural and 1,766 urban households. The district as a whole does not suffer from overcrowding.

The district consists of three tehsils—Rajauri, Nowshehra and Budhal, the last one having been constituted during the inter-censal period by detaching 34 villages of Rajauri tehsil. The table on the following page gives the area, number of inhabited and uninhabited villages, sexwise population and sex ratio in respect of Rajauri district and its constituent tehsils :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Un-inhabited	Persons	Males	Females
Rajauri district	2,681·0	368	14	217,373	114,380	102,993	900
Budhal tehsil	N.A.	34	—	27,989	15,012	12,977	864
Rajauri tehsil	N.A.	199	3	116,491	61,491	55,000	894
Nowshehra tehsil	N.A.	135	11	72,893	37,877	35,016	924

(N.A.=Not available.)

The rural sector of the district has a total population of 208,976 inhabiting 368 villages or 568 persons on an average per village. Of these, 214 villages are inhabited by less than 500 inhabitants each. The number of villages having population 500—1,999 is 142. Twelve villages belong to the size group with population 2,000 or over.

There are only two towns—Rajauri and Nowshehra. The total urban population is 8,397 made up of 4,563 males and 3,834 females. The proportion of urban population to total population is 3·9.

Rajauri (Pop. 5,939) belongs to class V town Nowshehra is a class VI town and has a population of 2,458. Rajauri is the district as well as tehsil headquarter and has remained an urban area all along. Nowshehra is a tehsil headquarter and has come into existence after the tribal raids in 1947. The table below gives the percentage distribution of urban population inhabiting each of the two towns :—

Name of town	Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Rajauri (N.A)	5,939	70·7
Nowshehra (N.A)	2,458	29·3

(N.A = Notified area)

There is no urban area in the newly constituted tehsil of Budhal.

Density

In 1961, the district covered an area of 2,588·4 km² and had a population of 171,529 (density 66 per km²). During 1961—1971, there has been an increase of 45,844 persons in its population. The area of the district at the current census is 2,681·0 km² giving a density of 81 per km². The district ranks eighth both by area and population in the State, but ranks seventh so far as density is concerned.

Growth of Population

As stated earlier, Rajauri is a district constituted during the inter-censal period 1961—1971. The population of the district for the decades earlier to 1971 has, therefore, been worked out in respect of only such areas which constitute the 1971 jurisdiction of the district.

The table below sets out the adjusted population of the district according to its 1971 jurisdiction from 1901 onwards together with the percentage decadal variation in each case :—

Census year	Population	Growth absolute	Percentage decadal variation
1901 . .	136,281	—	—
1911 . .	146,823	+10,542	+7·74
1921 . .	157,430	+10,607	+7·22
1931 . .	166,126	+8,696	+5·52
1941 . .	184,049	+17,923	+10·79
1951 . .	177,789	—6,260	—3·40
1961 . .	171,529	—6,260	—3·52
1971 . .	217,373	+45,844	+26·73

NOTE—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941—1961.

The population of the district has increased by 81,092 persons (59·5 per cent) since 1901. The district recorded a negative growth rate during the decades 1941—1951 and 1951—1961. The fall in population is attributable to large-scale out-migrations in 1947 and afterwards from the district, caused by the tribal raids and consequent disturbances.

Industrial Classification

A majority of the district's population consists of non-workers and their proportion vis-a-vis workers stands at 72 : 28. As the bulk of population lives in the rural sector, about 86 per cent of the working population is engaged in agriculture. The industrial classification of the workers shows that cultivators, agricultural labourers and those engaged in live-stock, hunting, fishing, etc. claim 80·9; 1·1 and 3·8 per cent of the total working population respectively. The rest is shared by the remaining six industrial categories with category IX (other services) claiming the bulk of its working population. The statement below gives the sex-wise distribution of population by workers and non-workers and of workers in 9 broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas :—

(N=Negligible)

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes

Scheduled Castes constitute only 6·8 per cent of the total population of the district. The district has a total Scheduled Caste population of 14,682 persons. The sex-wise distribution of the population stands at 7,442 males and 7,240 females giving a sex ratio of 973 per 1,000 males. This is higher than the sex ratio of the district as a whole which is 900.

Of the total number of 7,442 Scheduled Caste males, 1,290 (17·3 per cent) are literates. Only 281 (4 per cent) of Scheduled Caste females can both read and write.

The district has no Scheduled Tribe population

MOTHER TONGUE

Pahari is the predominant language of Rajauri district and is the mother tongue of 96,160 persons or 44·2 percent of its total population. The following table shows the names of mother tongues spoken by 1,000 persons or more in the district as a whole :—

Srinagar District

Introductory

Srinagar is centrally located in the Kashmir valley and lies between 33°—40′ and 34°—28′ north latitude and 74°—25′ and 75°—30′ east longitude. The district derives its name of Srinagar from its headquarter town which is also the summer capital of the State Government. Its boundaries in the north extend upto Bandipore tehsil of Baramula district, in the north-east to Kargil tehsil of Ladakh district, in the east and south to Pahalgam, Tral, Pulwama and Shupiyan tehsils of Anantnag district and in the south-west to Haveli and Mendhar tehsils of Punch and in the west by the tehsils of Baramula district.

Like Anantnag, Srinagar district also falls in the Jhelum valley region. It is surrounded by mighty mountains of which Haramukh (5,154 metres) Mahadev, Tosh Maidan (4,268 metres. and Kazi Nag (3.696 metres) are important. The area enclosed by these mountains is a flat valley inter-woven with rivers, streams nallahs and springs. The district is well provided with irrigational khuls and reservoirs.

The Jhelum is its main river. It flows diagonally from south-east to north-west. Important among the streams are Dood Ganga. Sind nallah, Sukh Nag nallah and Shali Ganga.

The district has for the most part alluvial soil except for some patches of table lands locally known as karewas.

The district has a moderate temperature in summer and experiences severe cold in winter. The temperature begins to rise from the beginning of June and reaches to over 90° F. in the shade. During these months the atmosphere becomes rather uncomfortable. With the advent of September, the temperature begins to change and the nights are fairly cool. October and November are usually bright and sunny and cold in night. The real winter starts from the middle of December and lasts to the end of February. The cold spell is eventually broken in March. April and May are regarded as months of spring.

The district receives good rains despite the fact that the monsoons do not come over the district It has good winter rainfall from September to February, light to moderate rains with thundershowers in March and April and occasional rains from July to the middle of September. The average rainfall is 1,014·22 mms.

Rice is the staple food and occupies the largest cultivated area. Maize, the next important crop, is grown in areas where irrigational facilities are not available. Other important crops include wheat and oilseeds.

Area and Population

The district occupies an area of *3,013·0 km² and is inhabited by 827,697 persons comprising 447.508 males and 380.189 females. The rural and urban sex ratios of the district which stand at 844 and 855 females per 1,000 males respectively, are even poorer than the corresponding figures of Anantnag district. The overall sex ratio of 850 is, however, higher than that of Anantnag.

According to the 1971 census, there are 97,570 occupied residential houses in the district. Of these, 43.270 are in the urban sector and the rest (54.300) are in the rural areas. This shows that on an average 7·4 persons live in a rural dwelling as against 9·8 persons in an urban dwelling. Srinagar municipality, the main urban area of the district, besides being the district and tehsil headquarter, also functions as the capital of the State Government during the summer months. As a sequel, many people from within and outside the district come to seek employment and subsequently settle in the city.

*Provisionally worked out by the Surveyor General of India.

There are in all 125,625 households in the district. The rural and urban dwellings are under the occupation of 65,568 and 60,057 households respectively.

The district is divided into 5 tehsils—Srinagar, Ganderbal, Badgam, Chadura and Beerwah, the last two tehsils having been carved out during the inter-censal period of 1961-1971. The area, population, number of villages and sex ratio for each of the administrative units is given below :—

Administrative units	Area in km²	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio

(N.A.=Not available)

Srinagar district has only two towns—Srinagar municipality and Badamibagh cantonment. Natipora Hyderpora, treated for the first as a town at the time of the 1961 census has since been declassified.

The rural population of the district which stood at 404,444 in 1971 is concentrated in 684 inhabited villages. The district has a large concentration of urban population which works out to 51·1 per cent of the total district population. Srinagar municipality has a population of 403,413 persons or about 48·7 per cent of the total district population. Badamibagh cantonment, a class V town, is inhabited by 7,982 persons made up of 4,160 males and 3,822 females. The percentage distribution of urban population inhabiting each of the two towns of the district is as follows :—

Name of Town	1971 Census pop.	Percentage of district urban pop.
Srinagar municipality	403,413	95·3
Badamibagh Cantonment	7,982	1·9

Note:—This does not includes 11,858 persons of the Srinagar outgrowth.

Both these towns fall in the Jurisdiction of Srinagar tehsil. There is no town in the other 4 tehsils of the district.

Density

Srinagar district has the highest density of population—275 persons per km². The district ranked first on the basis of density (205 persons per Km²) in 1961 also. The district, though ranking next in population to Anantnag, the most populous district in the State, has a much smaller geographical area. The accelerated growth rate of population during 1961-1971 is yet another reason for its high density.

Growth of Population

The following statement gives the adjusted population of the district according to its 1971 jurisdiction from 1901 onwards together with the percentage decadal variation :—

Census Year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1901	318,563	—	—
1911	352,814	+34,251	+10·75
1921	384,865	+32,051	+9·08
1931	441,211	+56,346	+14·64
1941	503,125	+61,914	+14·03
1951	576,046	+72,921	+14·49
1961	648,967	+72,921	+12·66
1971	827,697	+178,730	+27·54

Note:— 1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941-1961.

The growth of population from 318,563 in 1901 to 827,697 in 1971 works out to a 159·8 per cent increase in 70 years. There is no decrease of population in any decade.

Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes

The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is limited to 96 only. Of the 85 Scheduled Caste males, 21 were literates. Only one Scheduled Caste female out of 11 was literate. There are no Scheduled Tribes in the district.

Mother Tongue

Kashmiri constitutes the principal language of the district. It is the mother tongue of 93·6 per cent of its population. The seven numerically important languages have under them the following number of speakers :—

Mother-Tongue	No of speakers
Kashmiri
Gojri
Punjabi	14,813
Hindi	5,023
Dogri	2,739
Afghani/Kabuli/Pashto	2,690
Urdu	1,173

All other languages numbering 65 have speakers less than 1, 000.

Literacy

Out of the total population of 827,697 the number of literates was 179,715 which is 21·7 per cent of the total population. In the 1961 census the rate of literacy was 14·5 per cent only. The statement below gives the total and sex-wise number of literates and percentage of literacy for the district and its constituent tehsils:—

Udhampur District

Introductory

Judged by area, Udhampur is the second largest district in Jammu province and ranks fifth among the districts of the State. It lies between 32°–38′ and 33°–28′ north latitude and 74°–32′ and 75°–42′ east longitude. Like most other districts of the State, Udhampur also derives its name from the headquarter town of Udhampur founded by Raja Udham Singh, the eldest son of Maharaja Gulab Singh. Thakar Kahan Singh Billawaria in his book Tarikh-Rajgan Jammu and Kashmir gives a different version. According to him, the town was originally known as 'Boorpur' but subsequently renamed Udhampur after Mian Udham Singh.

The district is bounded on the north by Anantnag and on the north-east by Doda. In the south-east it is bordered by Kathua and in the south and southwest by Jammu. On the west it extends to the newly constituted district of Rajauri.

Udhampur district is included in the Natural Division designated 'The outer hills'. The district is interwoven with several mountain ranges of moderate height which are known by different names in various localities. The inhabited areas are mostly confined to low-level regions; only a few of them are above the height of 1,067 metres.

The district has splendid forests which grow deodar, juniper and chil pine. Oak and other broad-leaved trees are plentiful in some areas. The low slopes are full of bahakar, santha and other thorny bushes.

Leaving aside Ramnagar tehsil where the soil is made up of red loam intermixed with shingle and stone, the character of the soil in the rest of the district is identical with what are known as 'Pranti lands' where limestone beds either penetrate or lie immediately beneath the surface of the soil and cultivation is consequently difficult.

The main river of the district is the Chenab which enters Reasi tehsil a few kilometres from Ramban town. The Chenab and its tributaries are of little use to the district for irrigation, but are valuable as the means of floating down timber to areas out-side the district. The other important river is Jammu Tawi which rises in the north and flows through Udhampur tehsil and onwards to Jammu. There are a number of perennial nallahas and streams. The streams which are mostly dry in the cold weather become raging torrents in the rainy season. Few are of any value for irrigation.

The district is interspersed by both high and low altitude areas. As a sequel to this intermediate position, areas at higher altitudes are cooler on the whole in summer and colder in winter. The climate of the low lying areas is hot and dry in summer and pleasant in winter.

Udhampur district falls in what is known as the dark green belt where the average rainfall exceeds 1,270 mms. The rainfall conditions are comparatively more favourable in Udhampur district than in Jammu Province as a whole. The average rainfall in the district invariably exceeds 1,270 mms. and one of its tehsils, Ramnagar, receives the largest amount of rain among all the 44 tehsils of the State.

The chief crops are maize, wheat, barley and rice; some trumba is grown too. Maize and wheat are staple foodgrains.

Area and Population

According to the figures supplied provisionally by the Surveyor General of India, the district has an area of 4,549·0 km². The district has gained 10 villages from Doda district and ceded 14 villages of Reasi tehsil which have been transferred to Jammu tehsil of Jammu district. The cumulative effect of these changes is that the district has suffered a net loss of 64·1 km² in its area during the 1961-71 inter-censal decade.

In 1961, the population of the district as per present jurisdiction was 256,167. According to the 1971 census the population has increased to 338,846. The number of males and females stands at 177,596 and 161,250 respectively; the sex ratio works out to 908.

The table below gives the number of occupied residential houses, number of households as also the average number of persons occupying a dwelling in the district and in its rural and ubran areas:—

	No. of occupied residential houses	No. of households	Average no. of persons per dwelling
Total .	59,047	61,986	5·7
Rural .	53,685	56,209	5.8
Urban .	5,362	5,777	5·3

The data show that the urban dwellings are thinly populated when compared with those of rural areas. This is because there have been many new constructions in the urban sector of the district to accommodate the large influx of State and Central Government employees following the setting up of many new offices at district/tehsil headquarters. Many new buildings have also come up in Katra town to house the devotees who visit the shrine of Veshno Devi.

For administrative purposes, the district is divided into four tehsils—Ramnagar, Udhampur, Reasi and Gool Gulab Garh, the last one having been carved out in the inter-censal period by detaching 68 villages of Reasi tehsil (Udhampur district) and 10 villages of Ramban tehsil (Doda district). The following table gives the area, number of inhabited and un-inhabited villages, sexwise population and sex ratio in respect of the district and its constituent tehsils.

District/Tehsil	Area in km².	No. of villages		Population			Sex ratio
		Inhabited	Uninhabited	Persons	Males	Females

(N.A. = Not available)

The total rural population of the district is 310,427; it lives in 617 inhabited villages. The average number of persons per inhabited village is 503. The proportion of the rural population of the district to its total population is 91·6. Over 62 per cent of the villages (386) fall in the class range with less than 500 inhabitants and about 36 per cent (221) villages belong to the size group with population varying from 500 to 1,999. The number of villages having population 2,000 and over is 10 or about 2 per cent of the total number of inhabited villages.

The urban population of the district is 28,419; of these, 15,216 are males and 13,203 females. The proportion of the urban population of the district to its total population is 8·4. The corresponding urban population in 1961 was 16,417 (6·4 per cent) of the total district population.

Among towns, Udhampur which is district as also tehsil headquarter, is the most important urban area in the district. As a sequel to its being located on the national highway, it has grown into an important commercial centre and serves as a distributing centre for most of the urban and rural areas in its north. Reasi and Ramnagar are the headquarters of the tehsils of Reasi and Ramnagar respectively. Katra is an important commercial centre because of its close vicinity to the shrine of Veshno Devi which is visited by several lakhs of people every year. Chenani, a place declared urban in 1971, is situated on the national highway and is rapidly developing following the setting up of State Government offices and its growing volume of business. The headworks of the Chenani hydel project are also situated in this place. No place has yet been declared urban in the Gool Gulab Garh tehsil. The proportion in which the urban population of the district is contributed by each of the four towns is indicated on the following page.

Name of town			Population in 1971	Percentage of district urban pop.
Ramnagar	(N.A)	.	3,484	12.2
Chenani	(N.A)	.	1,343	4.7

DENSITY

Judged by area and population, the district holds the fifth and the sixth position respectively among other districts of the State. It is because of incommensurability of the area and population that the district holds the eighth position on the basis of density. The density of population per km² at the 1971 census works out to 74 as against 57 in 1961 showing an increase of 17 between the two censuses. The small increase may be ascribed to normal growth of population which has gone up by 82,679 persons during the decade 1961-1971.

GROWTH OF POPULATION

The population of Udhampur district has grown from 163,632 in 1901 to 338,846 at the 1971 census. This is an increase of 107.1 per cent since 1901. The following statement sets out the population and percentage decade variation for each decade from 1901 onwards:—

Census year	Population	Growth (absolute)	Percentage decadal variation
1	2	3	4
1901 .	163,632	..	..
1911 .	176,300	+12,668	+7.74
1921 .	184,202	+7,902	+4.48
1931 .	195,808	+11,606	+6.30
1941 .	212,487	+16,679	+8.52
1951 .	234,327	+21,840	+10.28
1961 .	256,167	+21,840	+9.32
1971 .	338,846	+82,679	+32.28

NOTE:—1951 figures of population are the mean of 1941-1961.

The statement reveals that Udhampur has a comparatively lower average annual growth rate during the period 1901-1971 than the neighbouring districts of Doda and Jammu. The five decades from 1901 to 1941 showed a steady but unspectacular rise in the population of the district. During this period, the growth rate was less than 10 per cent. The rate rose to 10.28 per cent, during 1941-1951 and subsequently came down to 9.3 per cent in the next decade. There has, however, been a substantial increase in the population during 1961-1971 with the annual growth rate as high as 3.2 per cent.

INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION

The population of the district is distributed into workers and non-workers in the ratio of 31.20 to 68.80. Out of the working population, cultivation accounts for 74.5 per cent, other services form 8.7 per cent and construction form 3.2 per cent. Other categories which have a sizable number include categories III (Livestock, hunting, fishing, etc.) and VII (Trade and commerce). The percentage of workers engaged in categories II (Agricultural labourers) and IV (Mining and quarrying) is insignificant. The economic pattern in the district is predominantly agricultural in as much as 80.5 per cent of the working population is engaged in agricultural pursuits. The following statement shows the sex-wise distribution of population by workers and non-workers in 9 broad industrial categories for the district and its rural and urban areas.

IV—SCHEMATIC TOWN MAPS

Schematic Maps

The schematic maps depict the use of land and the changes therein over a period of time.

All the schematic maps included in this volume are notional and have been prepared on the basis of outline maps furnished by the concerned local bodies. The maps have been drawn on an impressionistic basis keeping in mind the land use pattern and in consultation with local knowledgeable sources.

The following guidlines were provided by the Registrar General's office to ensure uniformity and standardization in the preparation of schematic maps;—

1. Business areas—To cover all activities connected with commercial handling of area function.
2. Area of arterial function—To cover centres of areas controlling the communication systems with the town functions.
3. Industrial areas—To cover all areas according to the distribution of industrial establishments.
4. Public service areas—To cover service area, like (a) Local body areas dealing with such administration, octroi and other associated activities,

(b) Hospitals, Maternity and Child Welfare centres,

(c) Banks of all classes,

(d) Miscellaneous public service areas or other public buildings, like dharamshalas, etc.

5. Educational areas—To cover all educational areas, institutions, colleges, libraries, hostels and other related areas.
6. Recreational areas—To cover parks, playgrounds including stadiums, theatres, cultural and fine art centres, clubs etc.
7. Residential areas—To cover old, new modern planned proposed residential areas, colonies, slums and associated areas.
8. Administrative areas—To cover all offices, Govt. Buildings and other allied buildings/areas in contiguous shape.
9. Open spaces—To cover all open spaces, such as, under crops/farms fields, areas proposed for future development, ravines, derelict areas, mounds etc.
10. Orchards—To cover all fruit growing areas and other similar areas with plantations.
11. Miscellaneous areas—To cover grave yards/cemeteries, burning ghats, areas of historical and religious importance and other areas not elsewhere classified.

Anantnag was a class IV town from 1931 to 1951 and was upgraded in 1961 to class III. It is an important urban area of Anantnag district ranking next only to the two principal cities of Srinagar and Jammu and Sopore town of Baramula district. The town which is a district as well as tehsil headquarters is reputed for gubba manufacturing and wood-work.

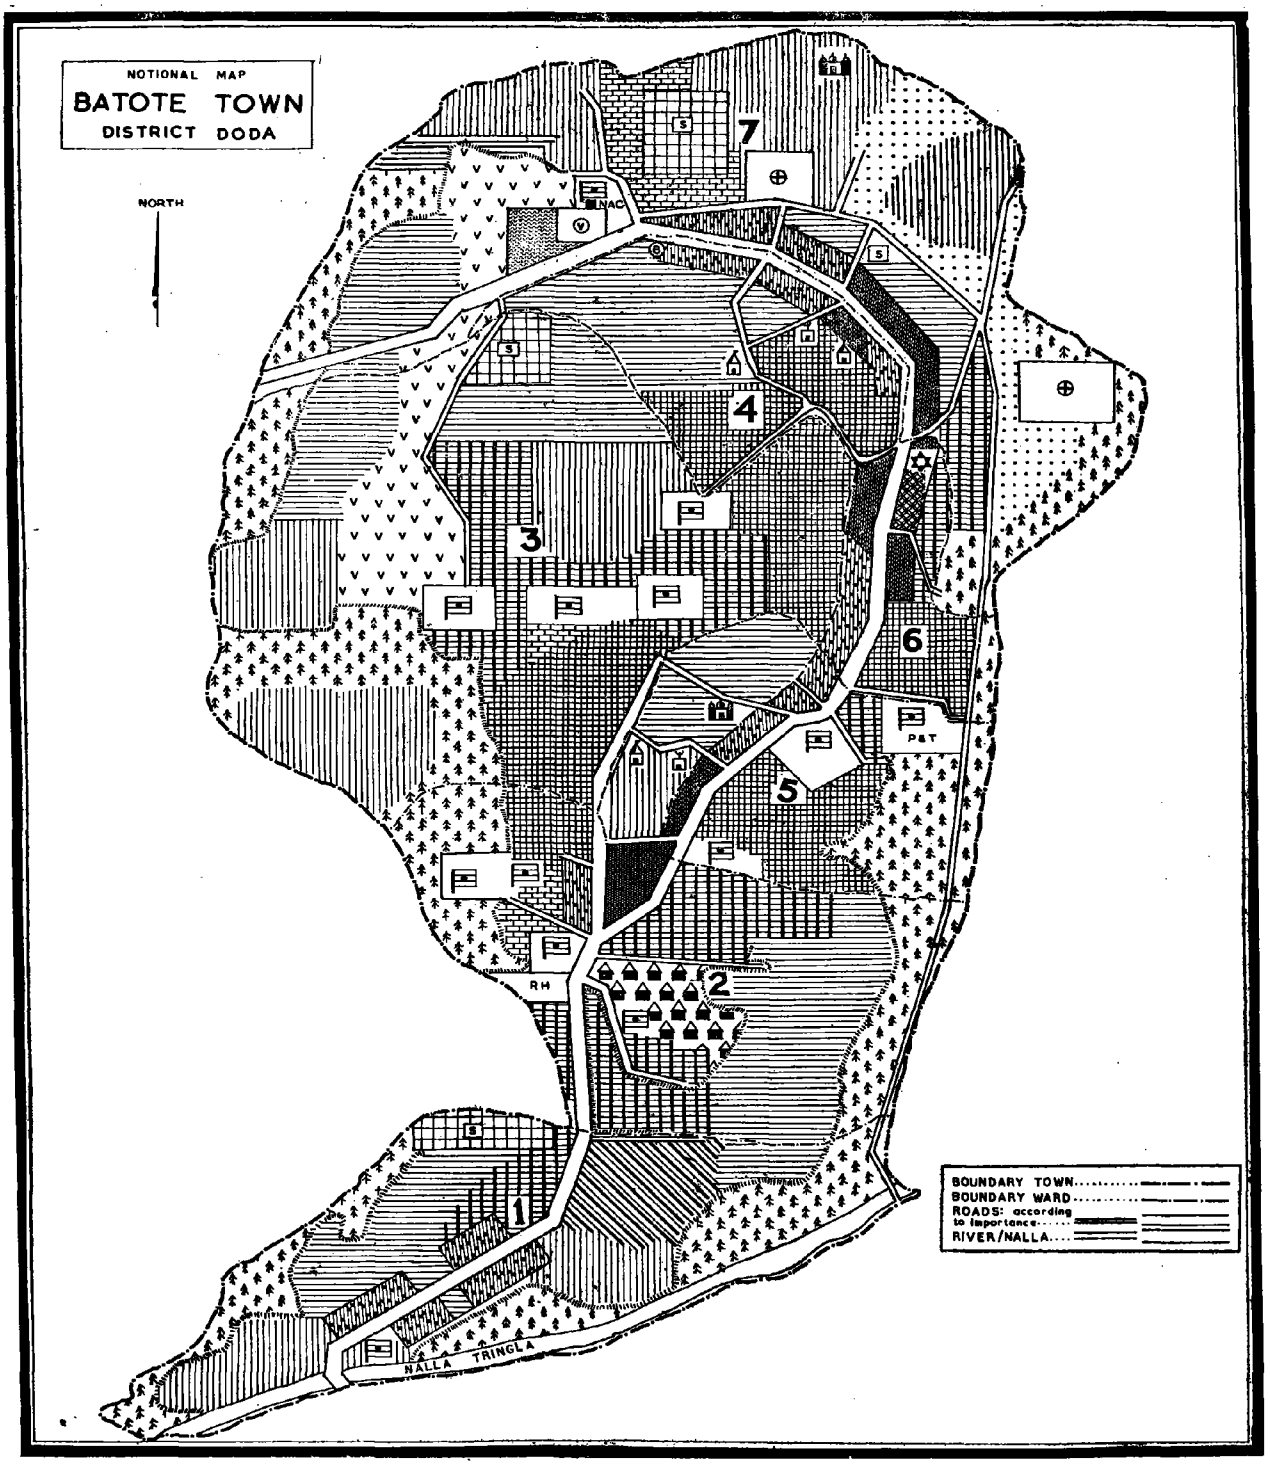

Arnia was treated as a town for the first time in 1961. It has a very large concentration of displaced persons and immigrants from West Pakistan.

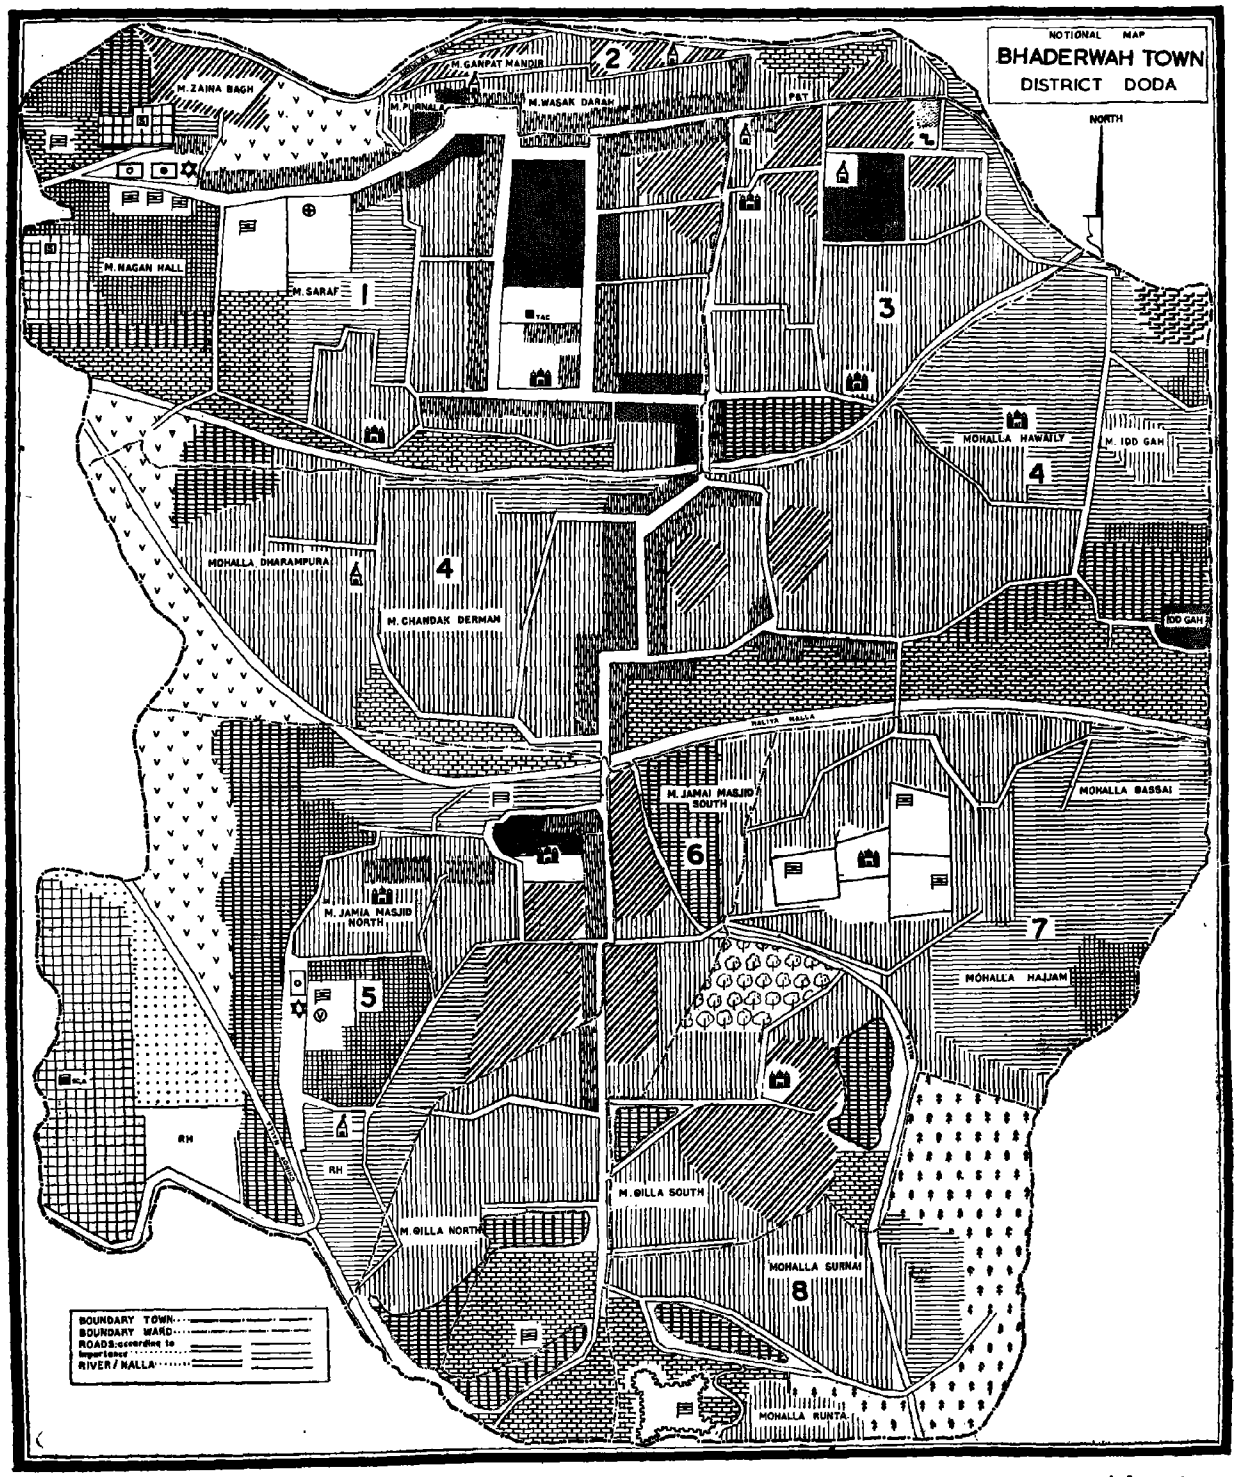

Bandipore was declared a town in 1961 and is developing into an important commercial centre.

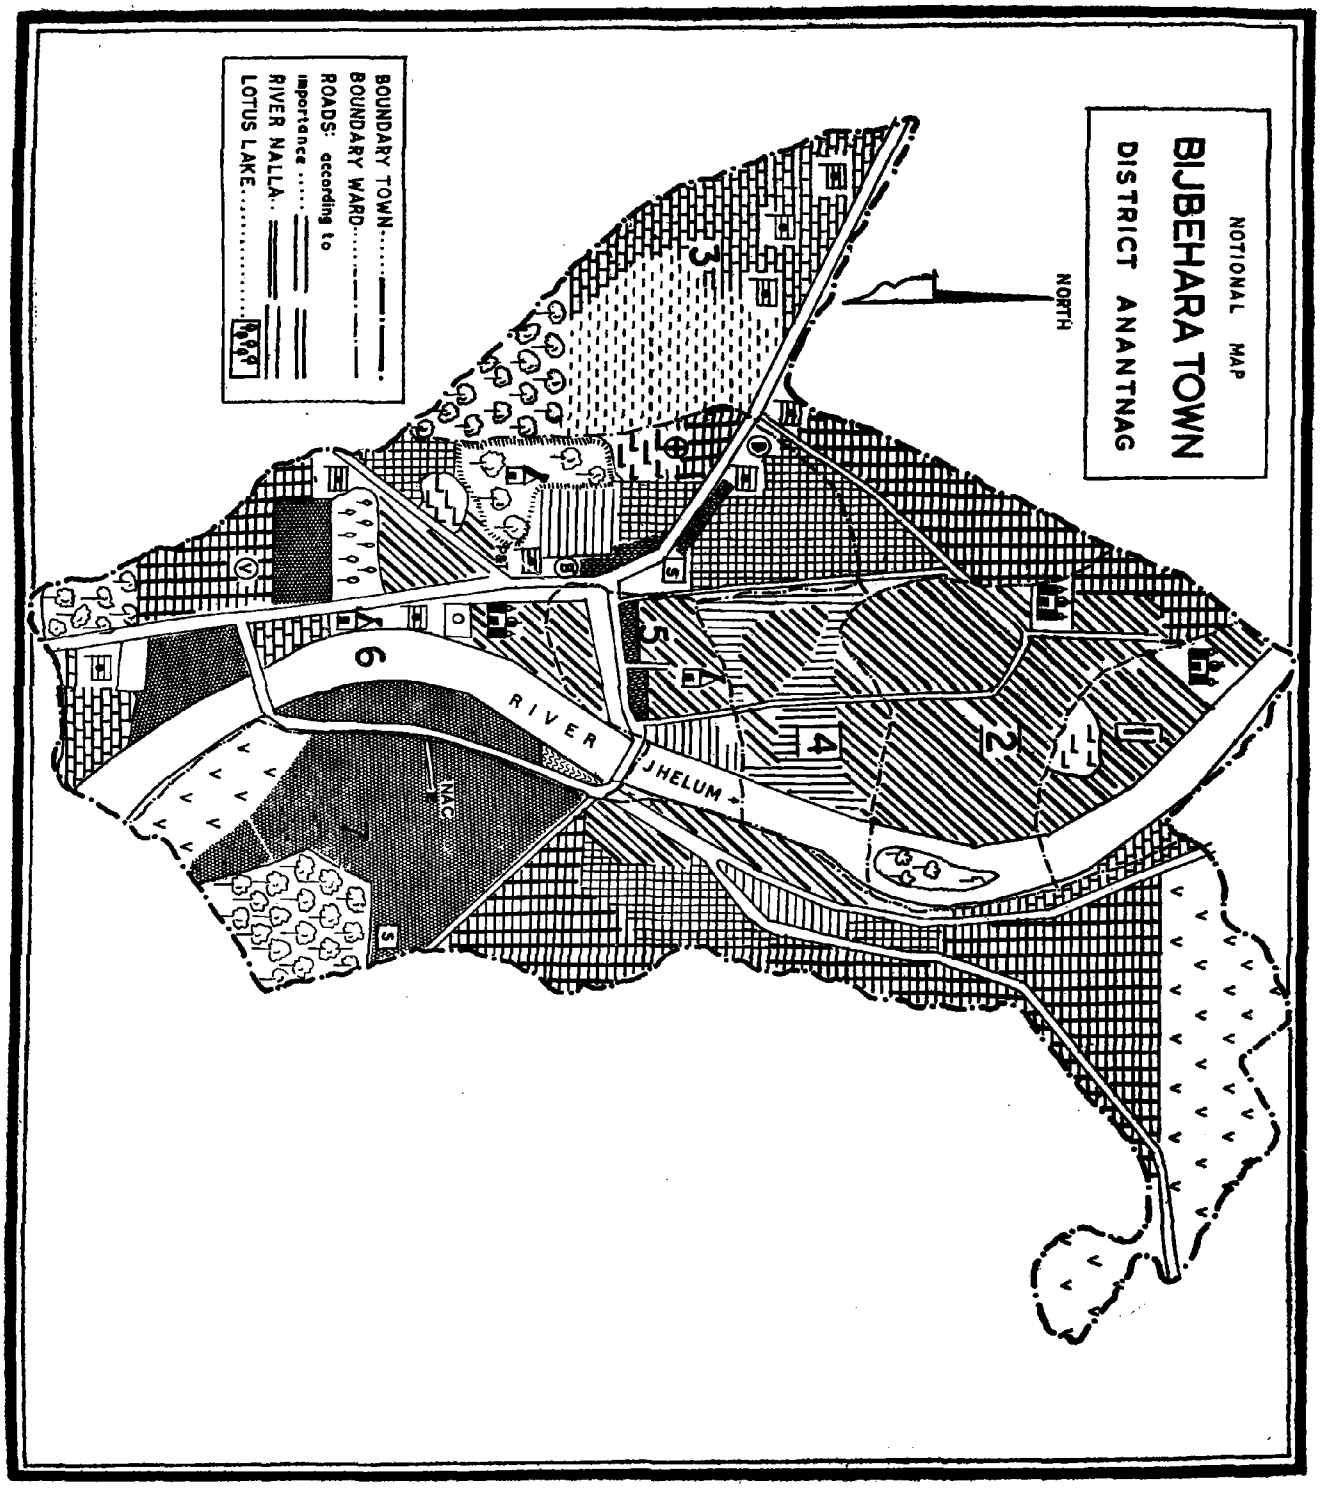

Besides being a district and tehsil headquarters, the town functions as a distributing centre for the rural and urban areas of Baramula district. The town which had grown into an important trade centre before 1947, has however, lost much of its prere-independence importance.

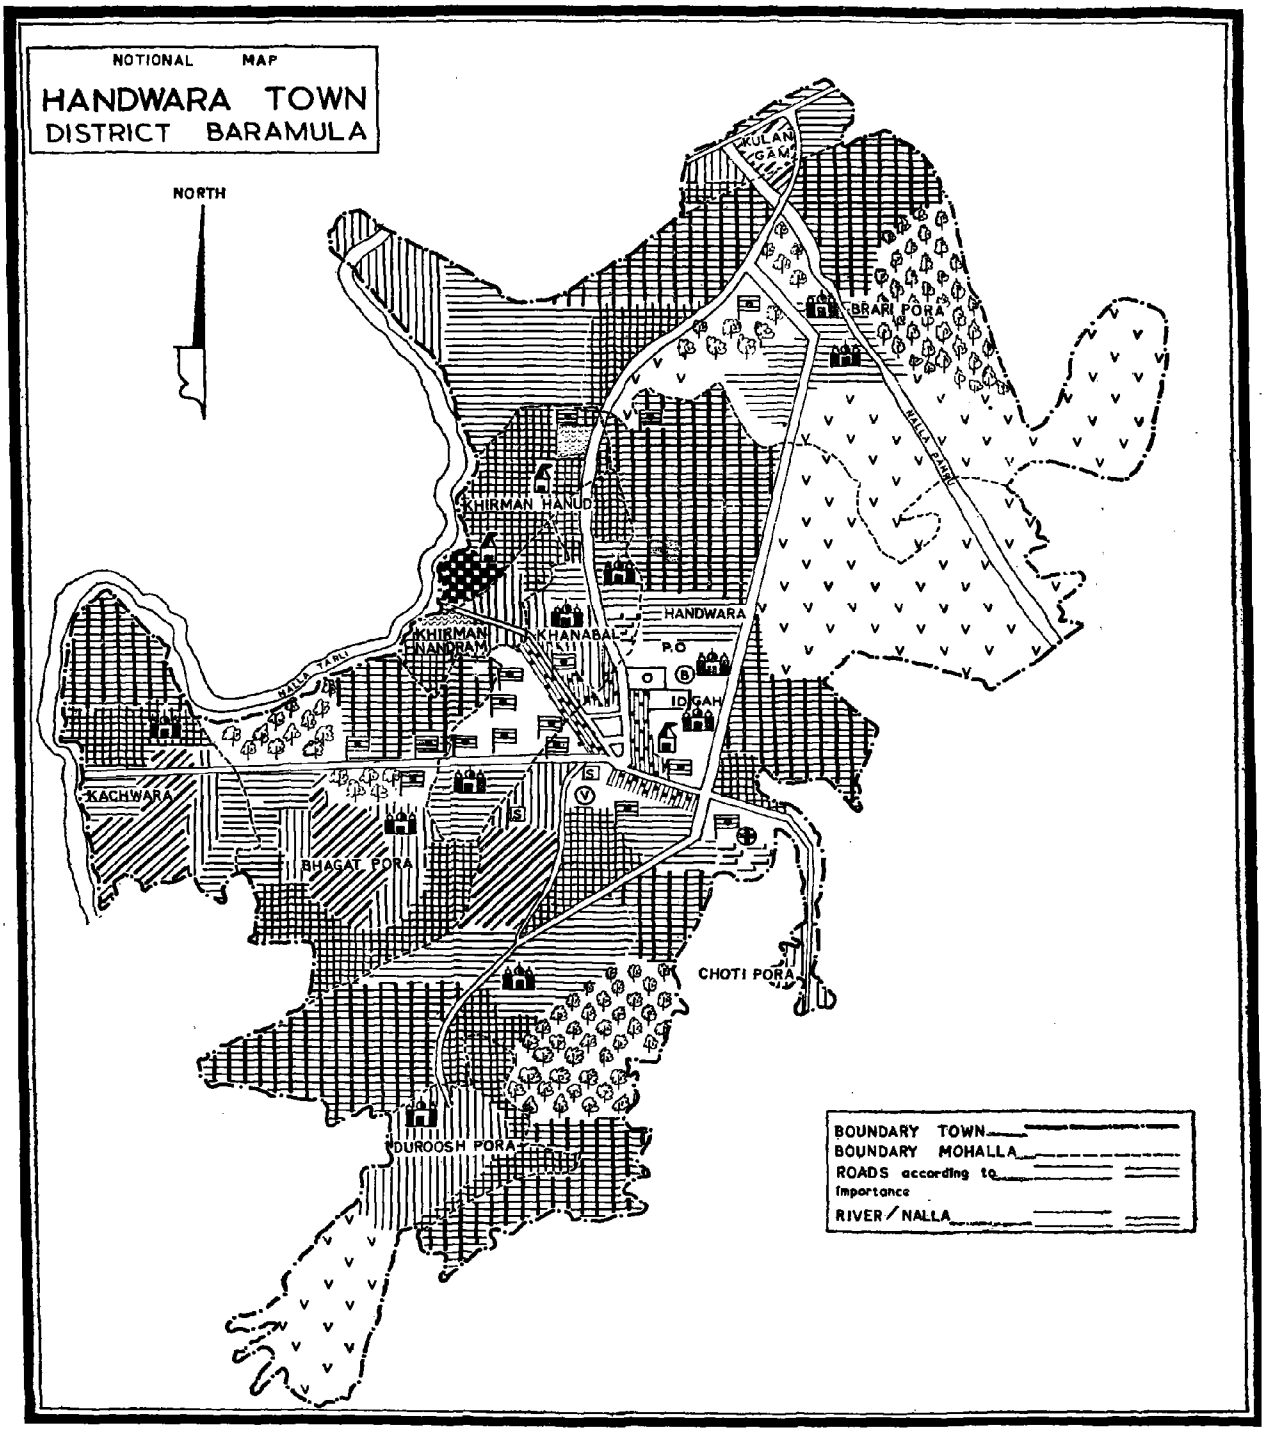

Batote is on the national highway at a distance of about 125 kms. to the north-east of Jammu city. The town is rapidly developing as a business centre.

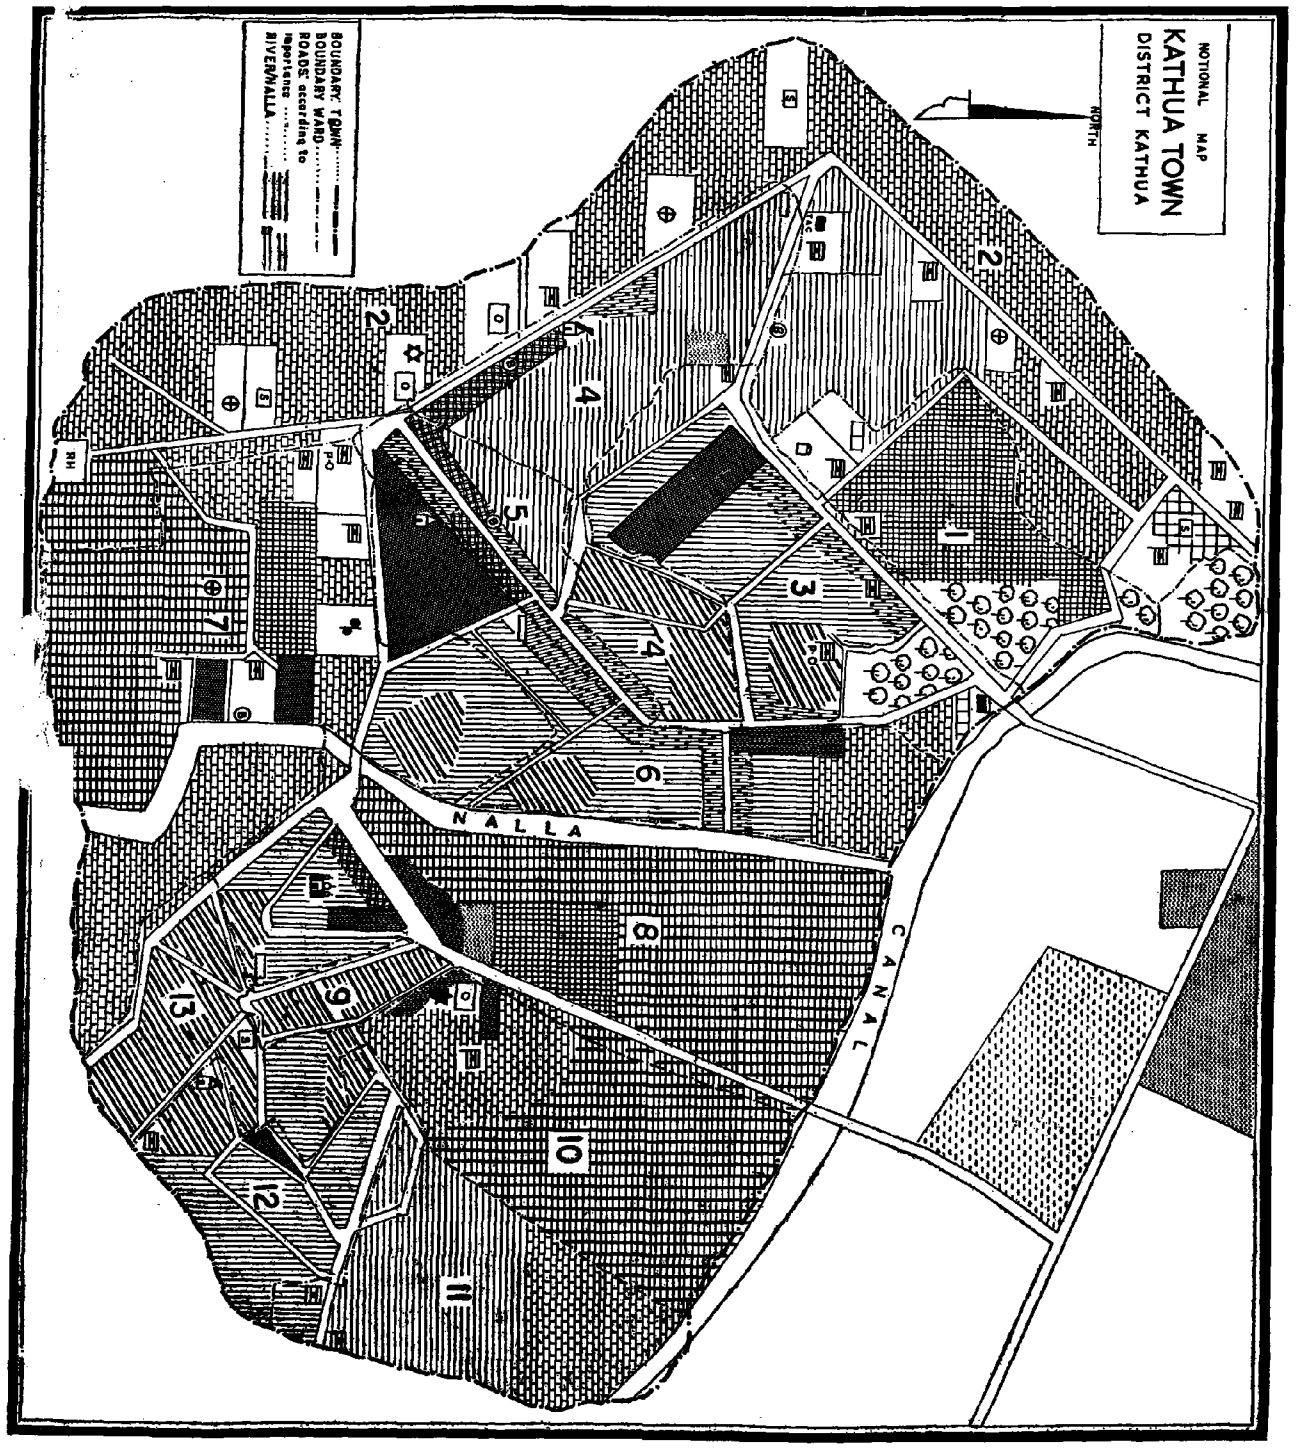

Bhaderwah lies in a small fertile valley. It is a tehsil headquarters, as also an important commercial centre.

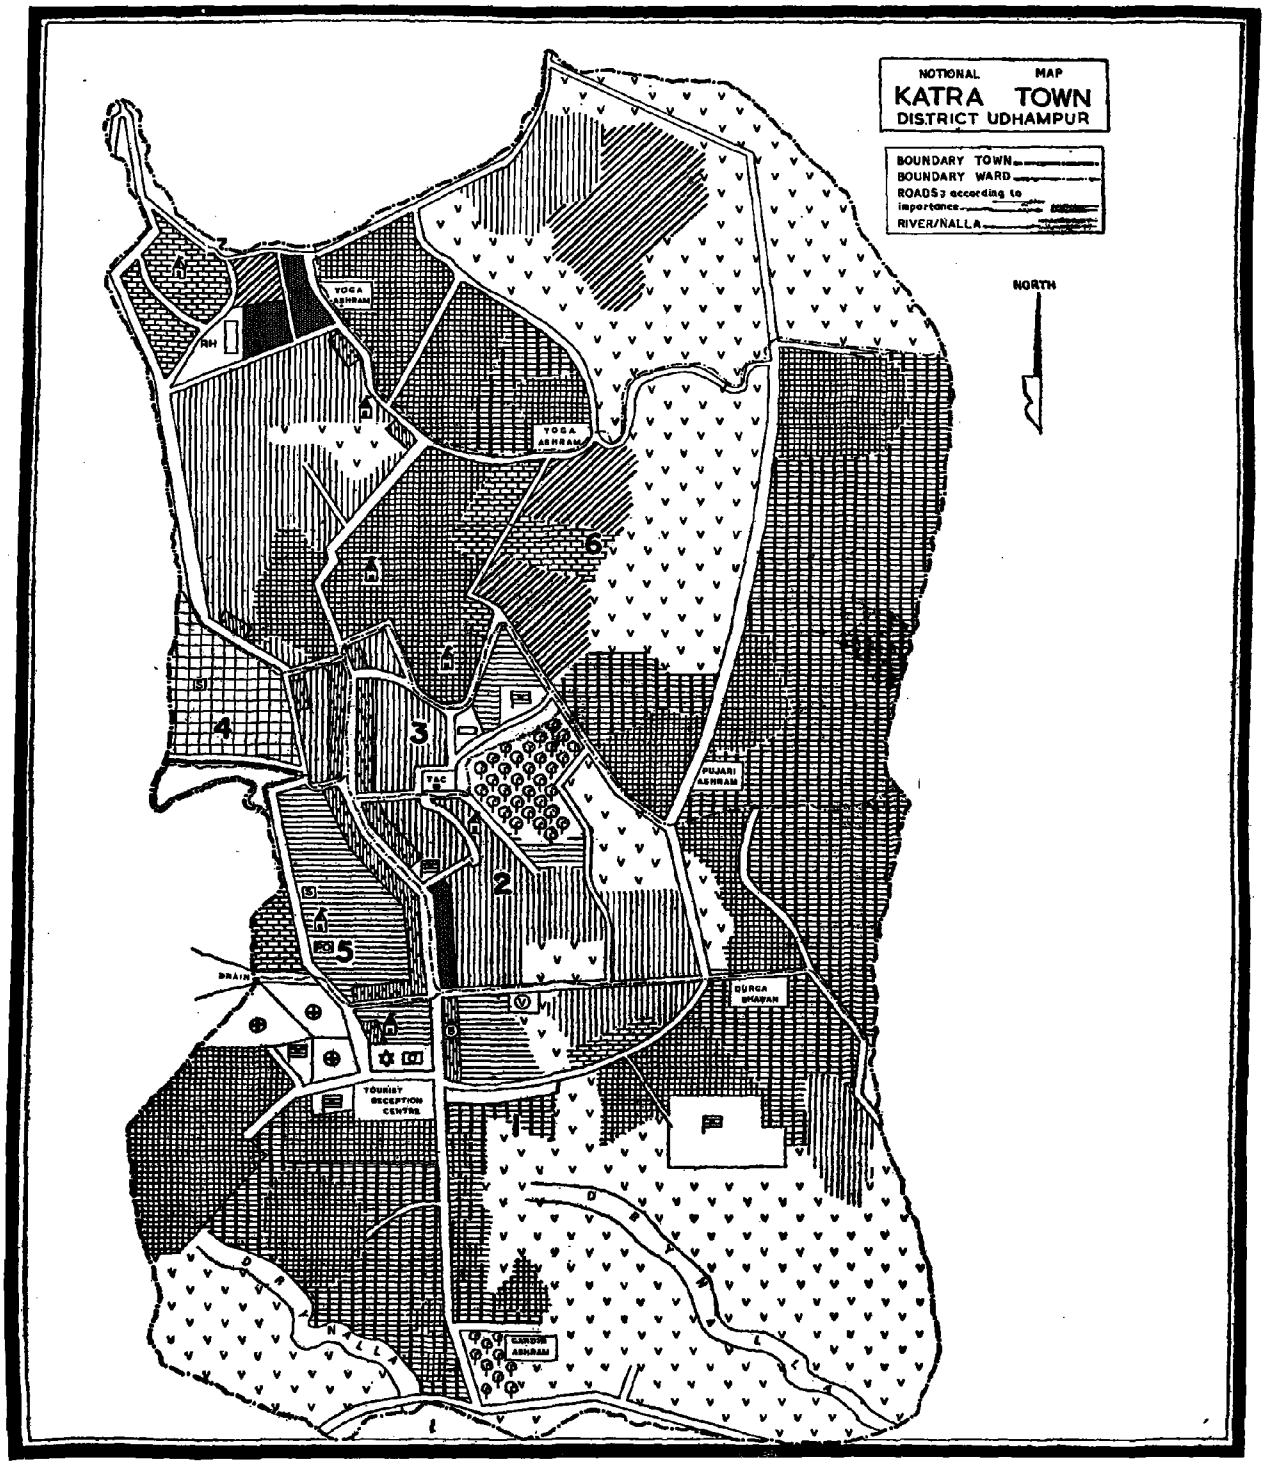

Bijbehara is situated at a distance of 45 kms. to the south-east of Srinagar city and is at a distance of about 6·5 kms. from the headquarters town of Anantnag. It is one of the few manufacturing towns in the State and is widely known for artistic wood-work.

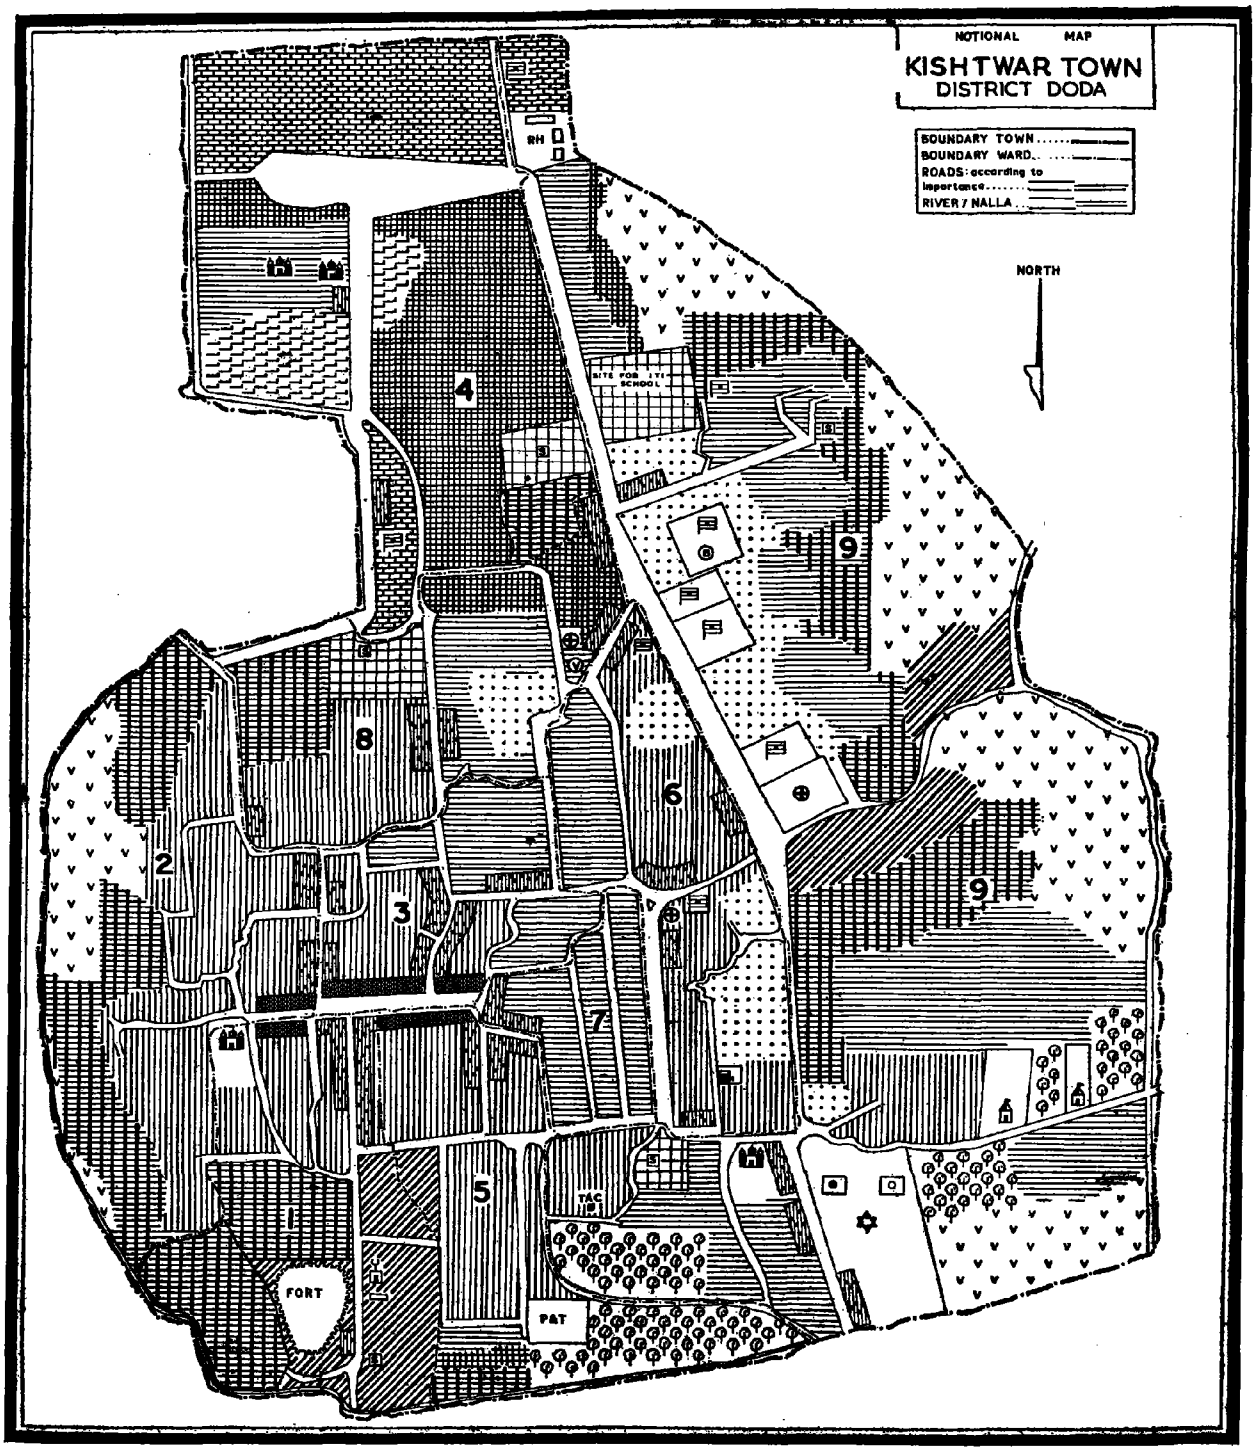

It is a tehsil headquarter and feeds the neighbouring rural areas so far as the consumer goods are concerned.

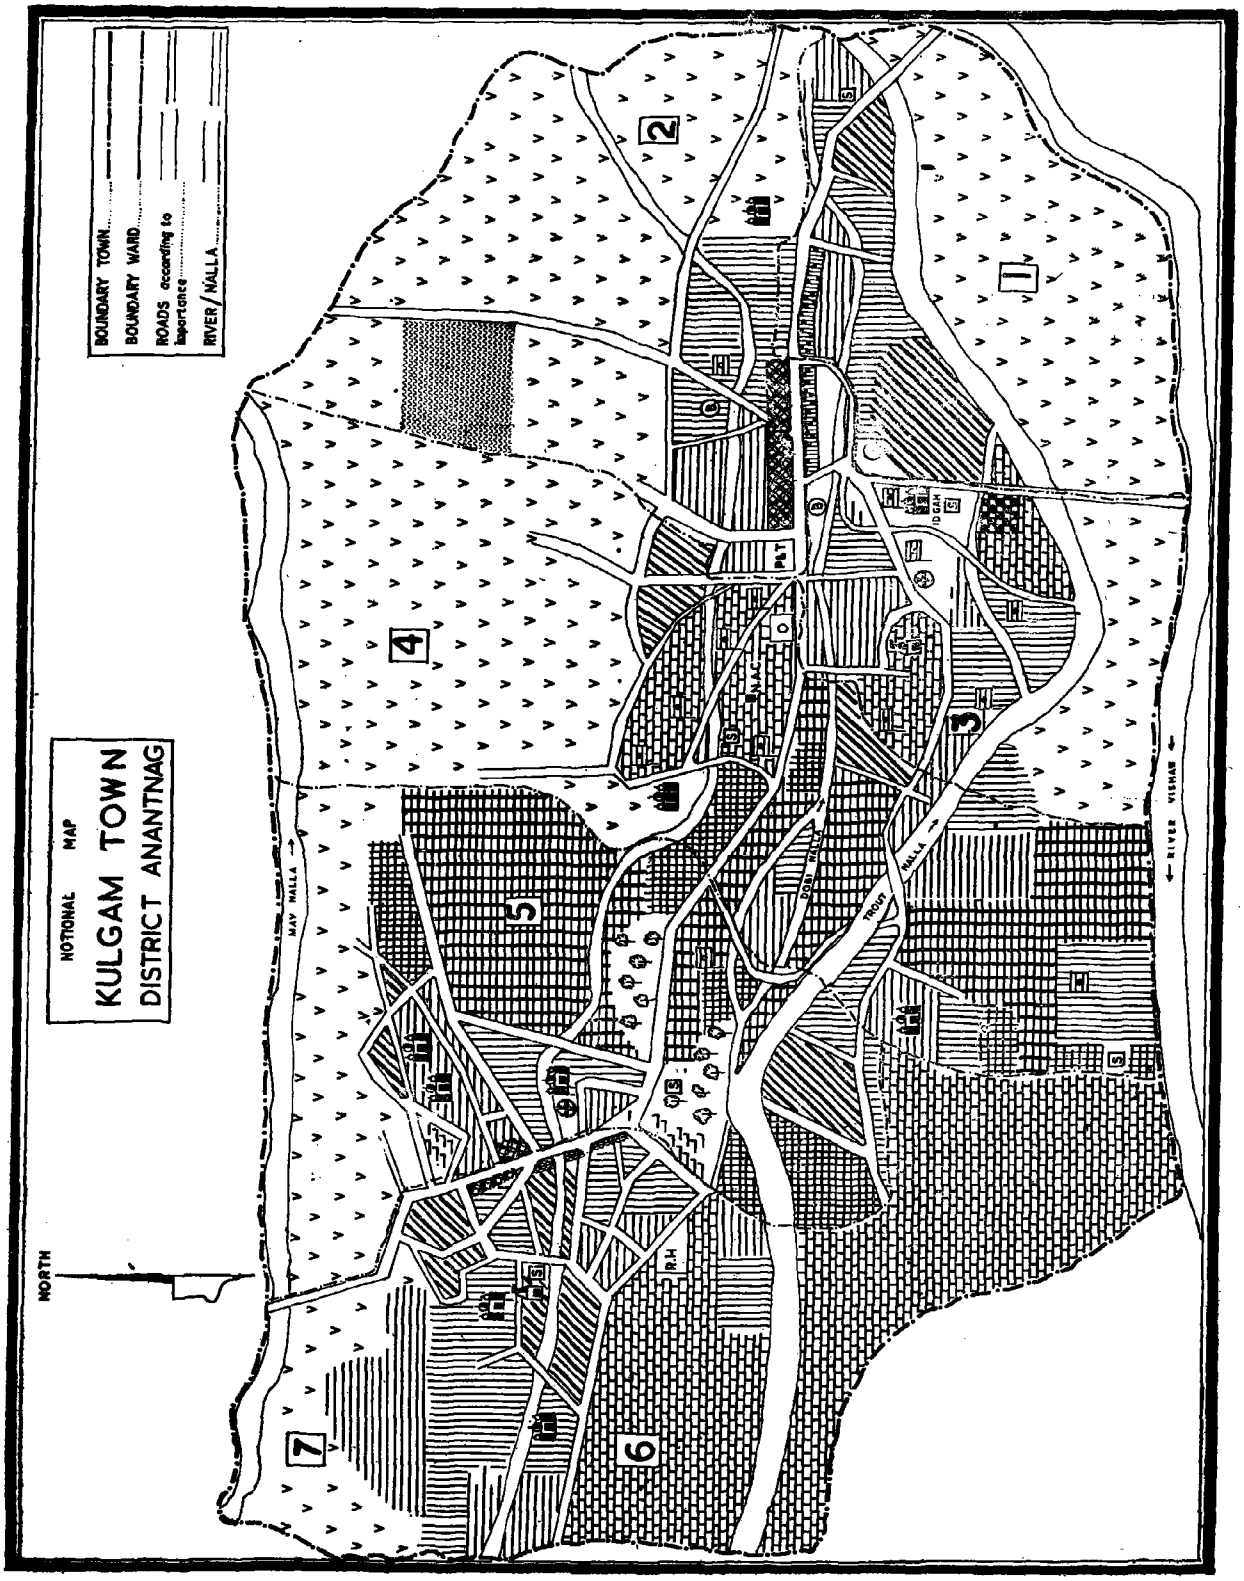

The town which is a district and tehsil headquarters is situated very near the international boundary with Pakistan and the inter-state boundary with Punjab. It serves as a distributing centre of consumer goods for the rural and urban areas of Kathua district. Of late, many industries have come of up in the town; they provide employment to the people of surrounding areas.

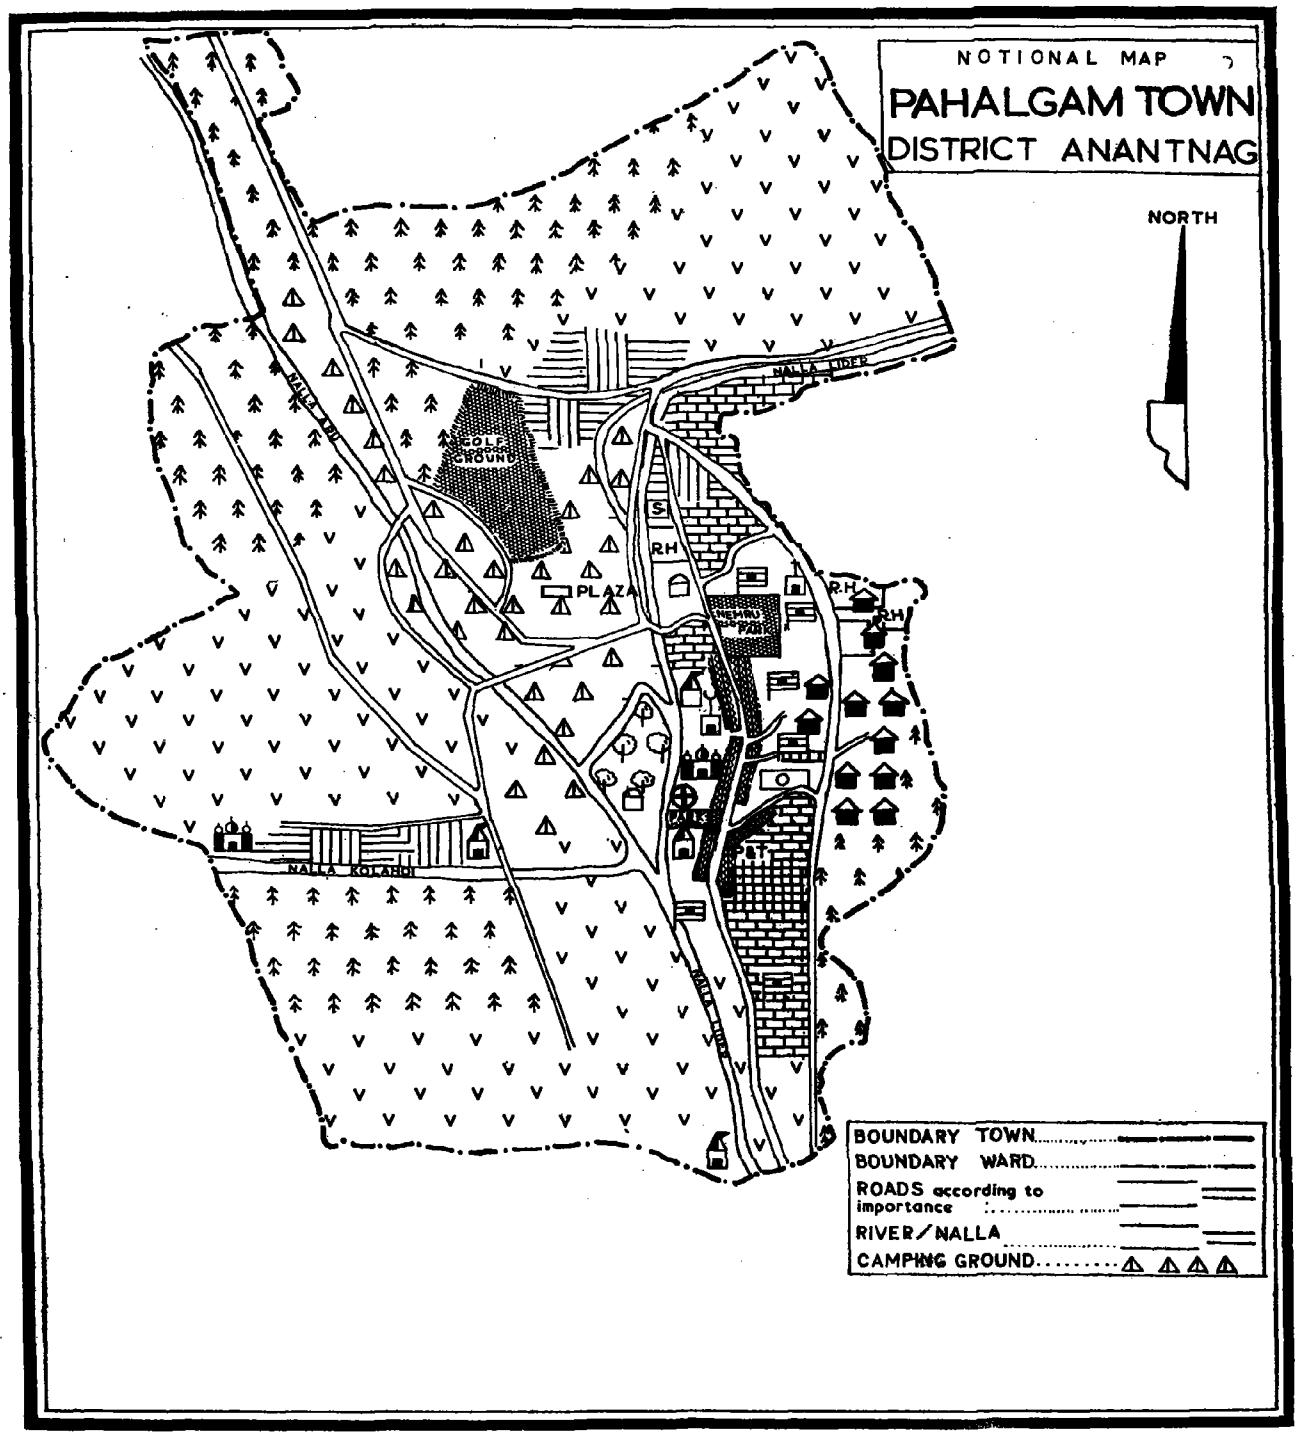

Katra is an important commercial centre because of its close vicinity to the shrine of Vaishno Devi which is visited by lakhs of people every year.

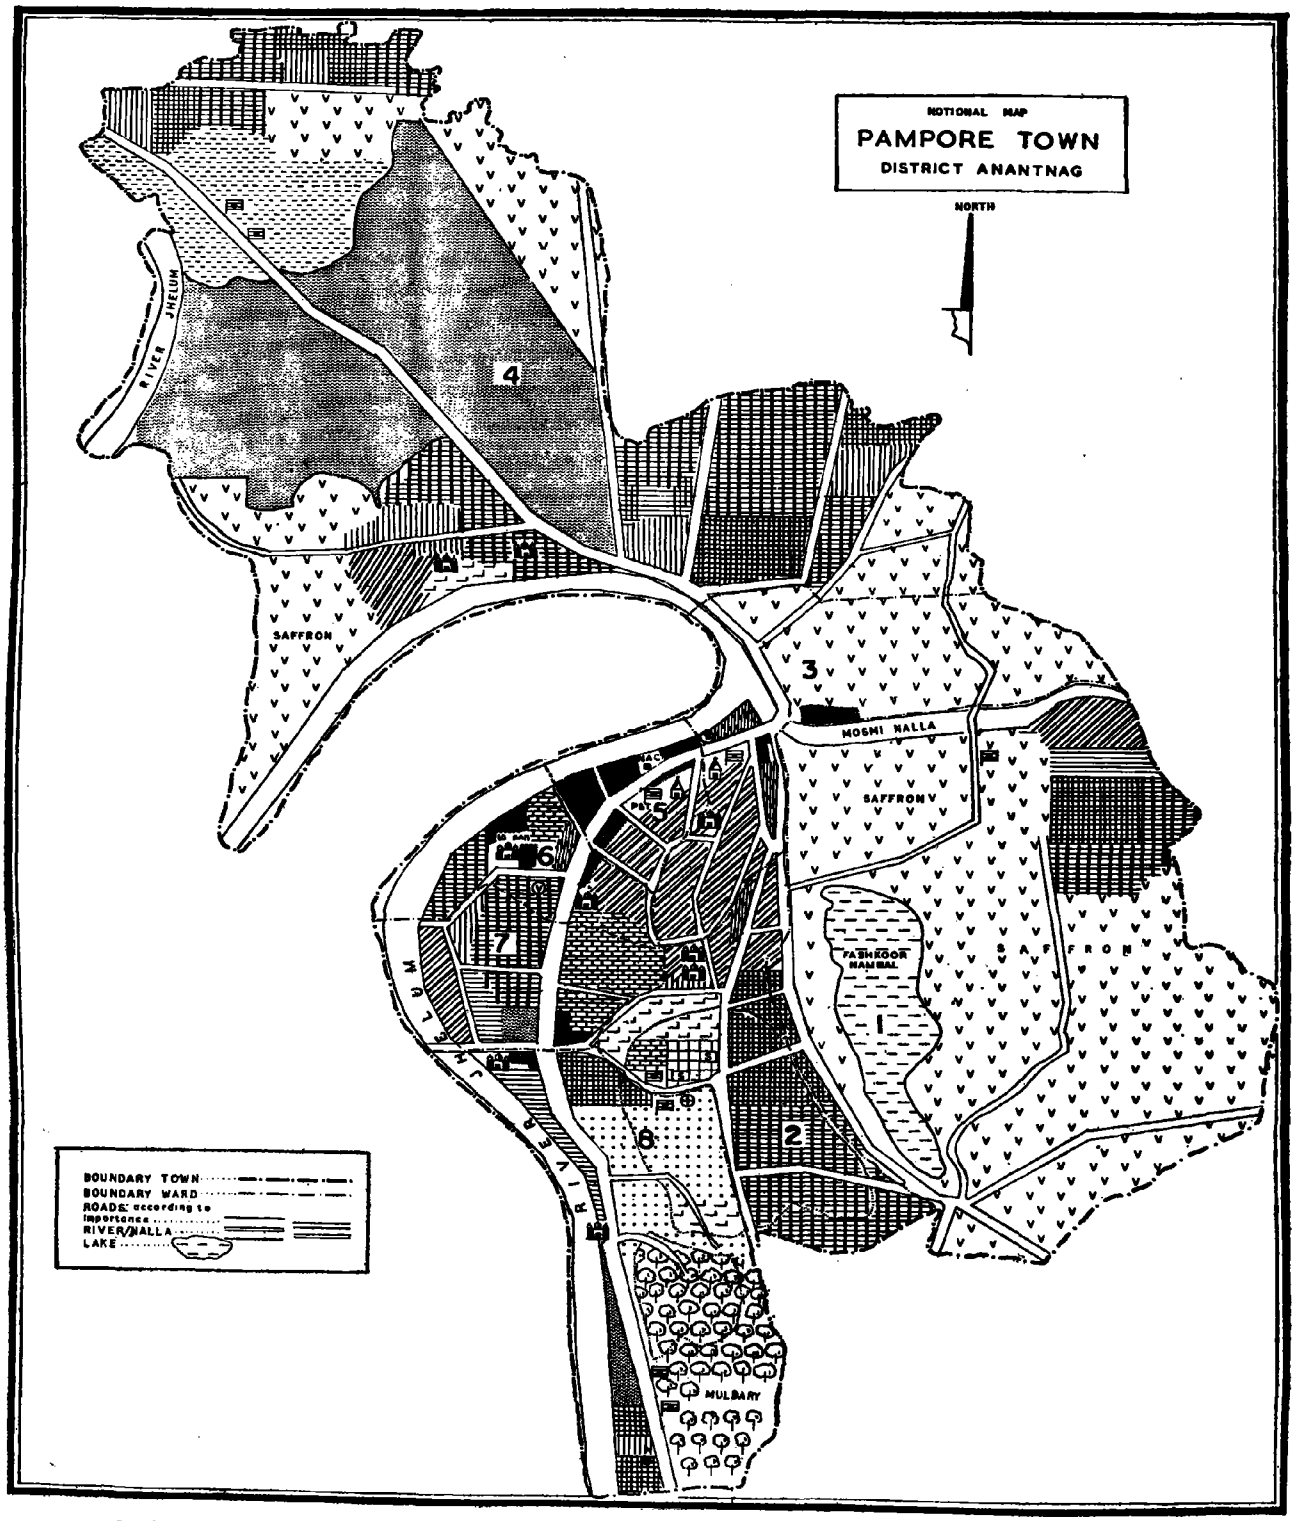

Kishtwar is on a plateau. It is a tehsil headquarters and serves as an exporting centre for forest products.

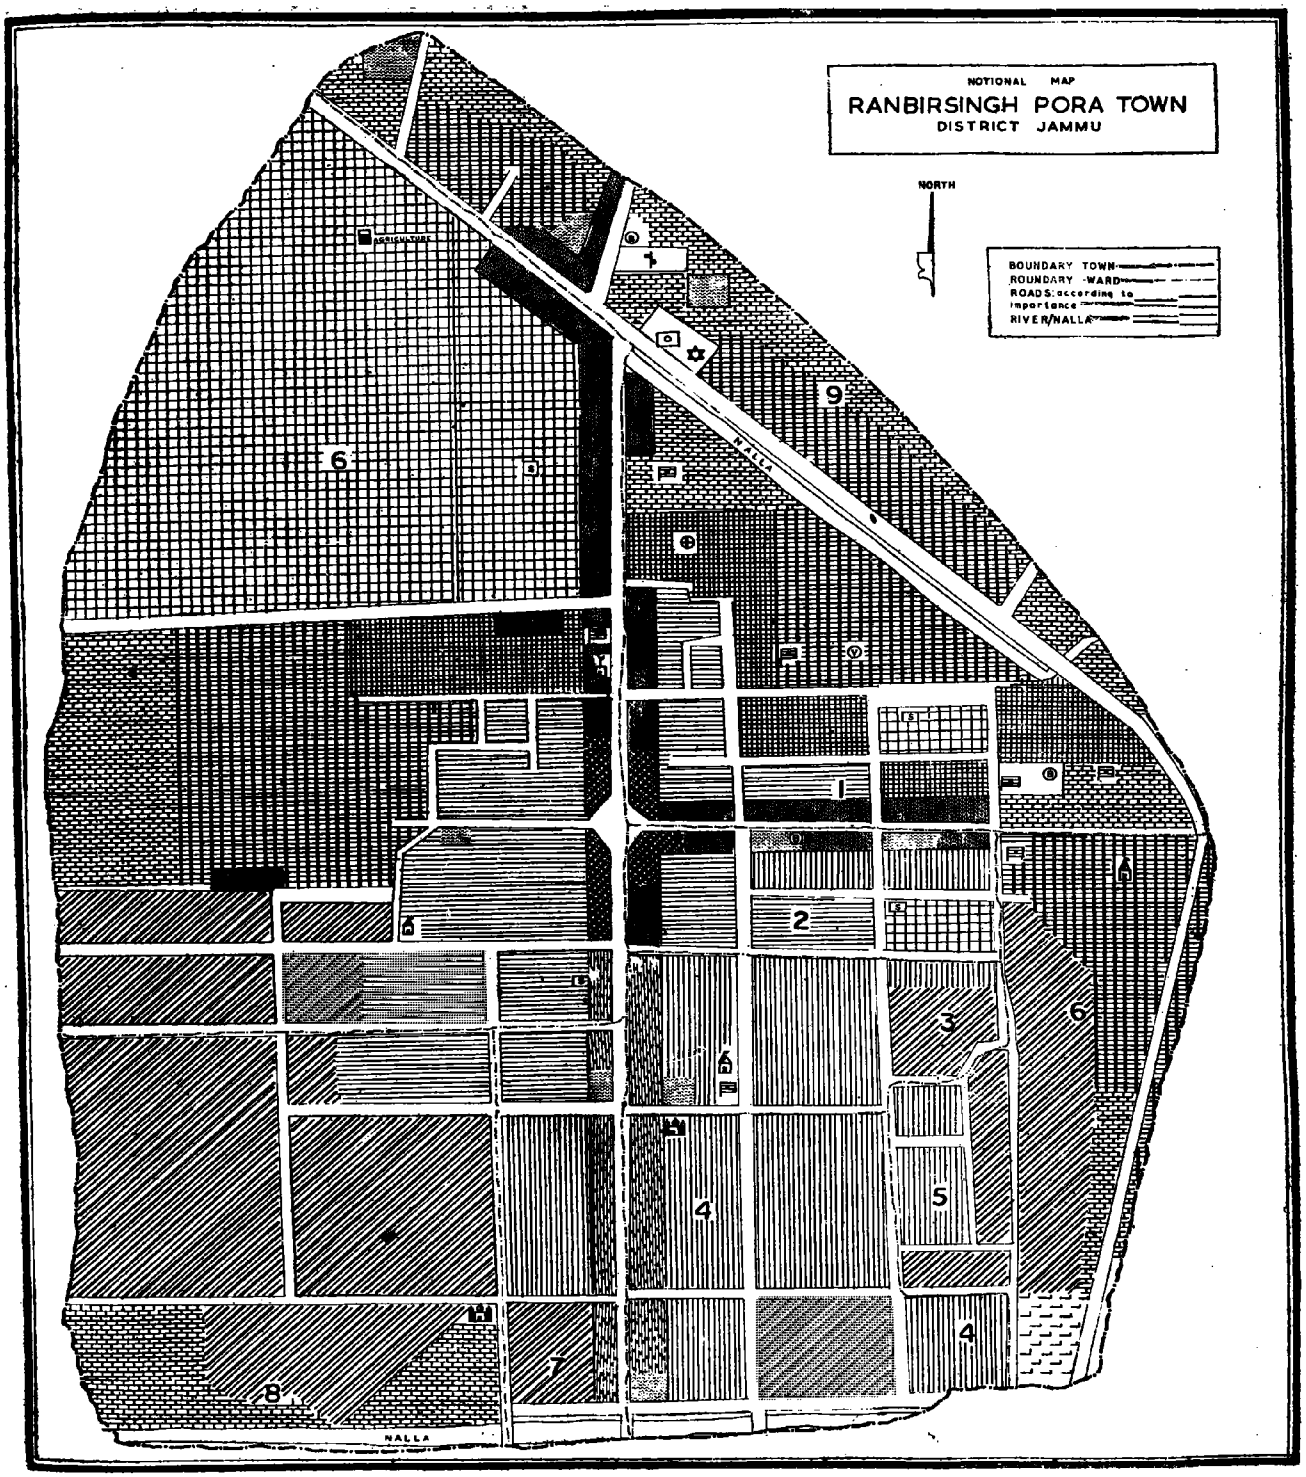

Kulgam town is a tehsil headquarters and is also an important fruit exporting centre.

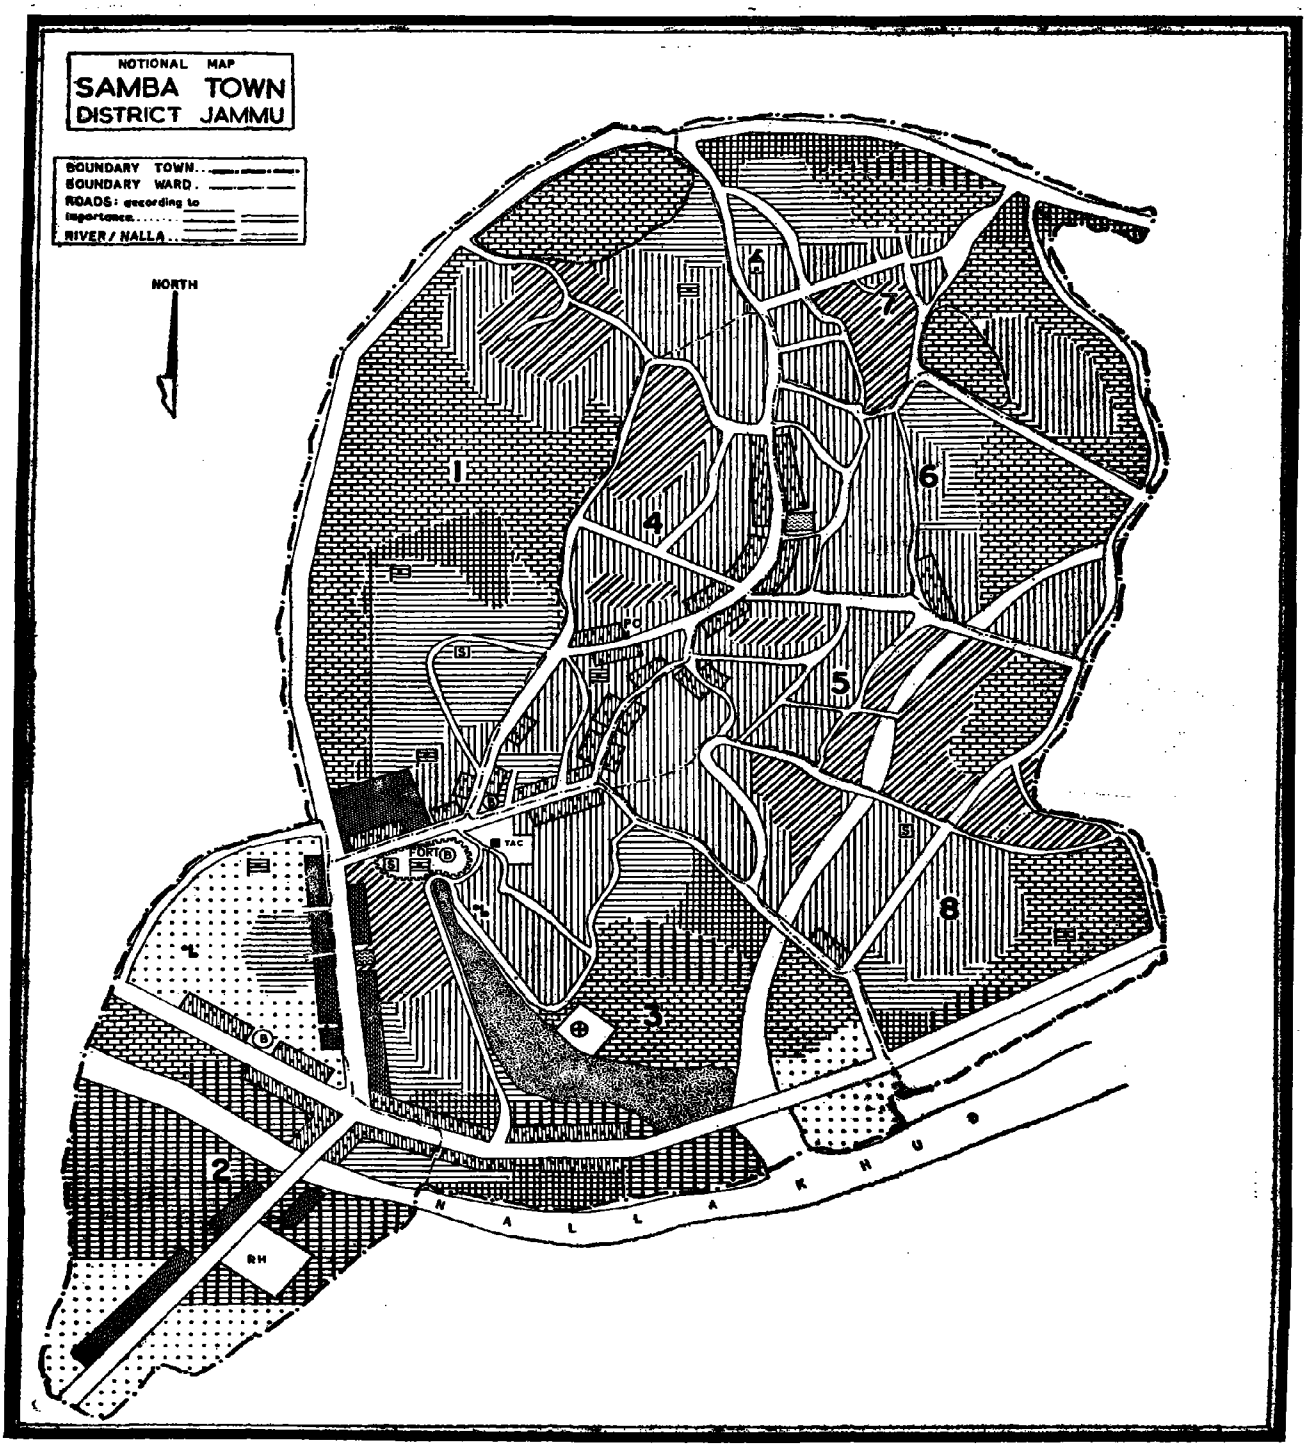

Pahalgam, an important tourist resort, is situated at a distance of about 90 kms. from Srinagar city. Thousands visit it in summer months.

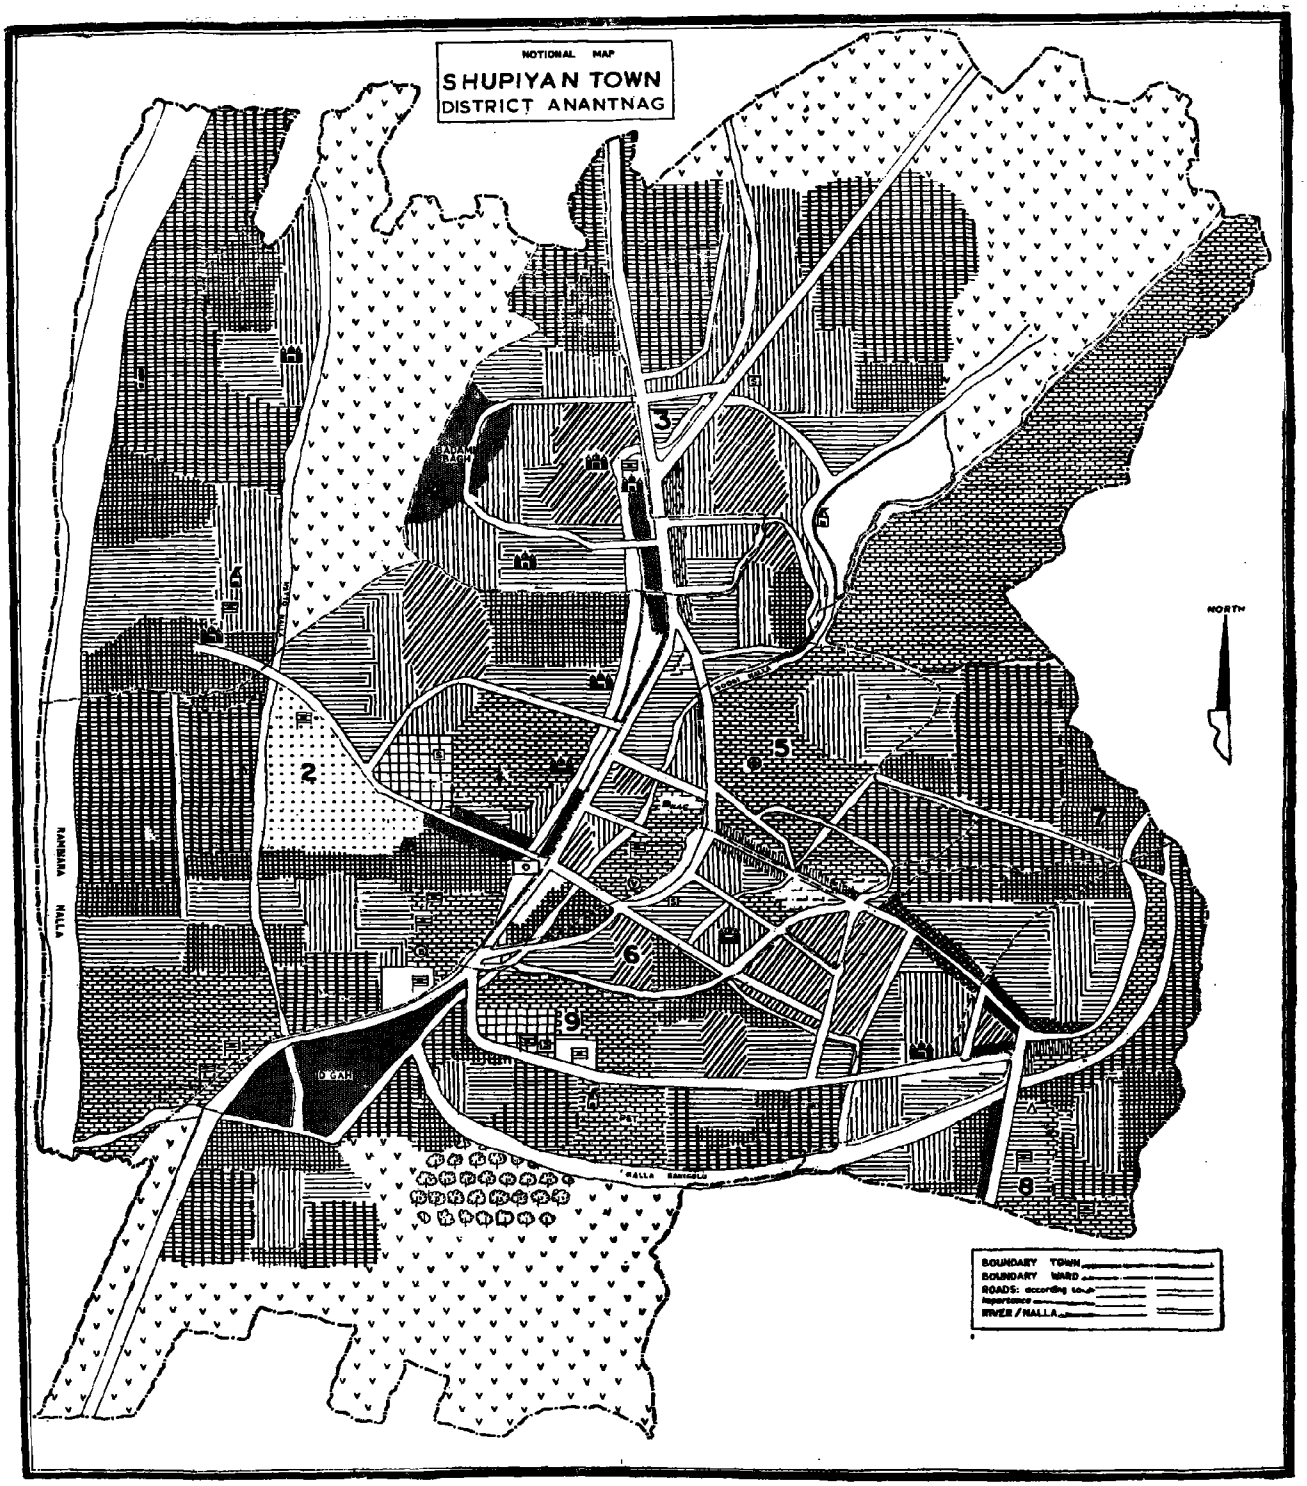

Pampore is situated on the national highway and is famous for the production of saffron.

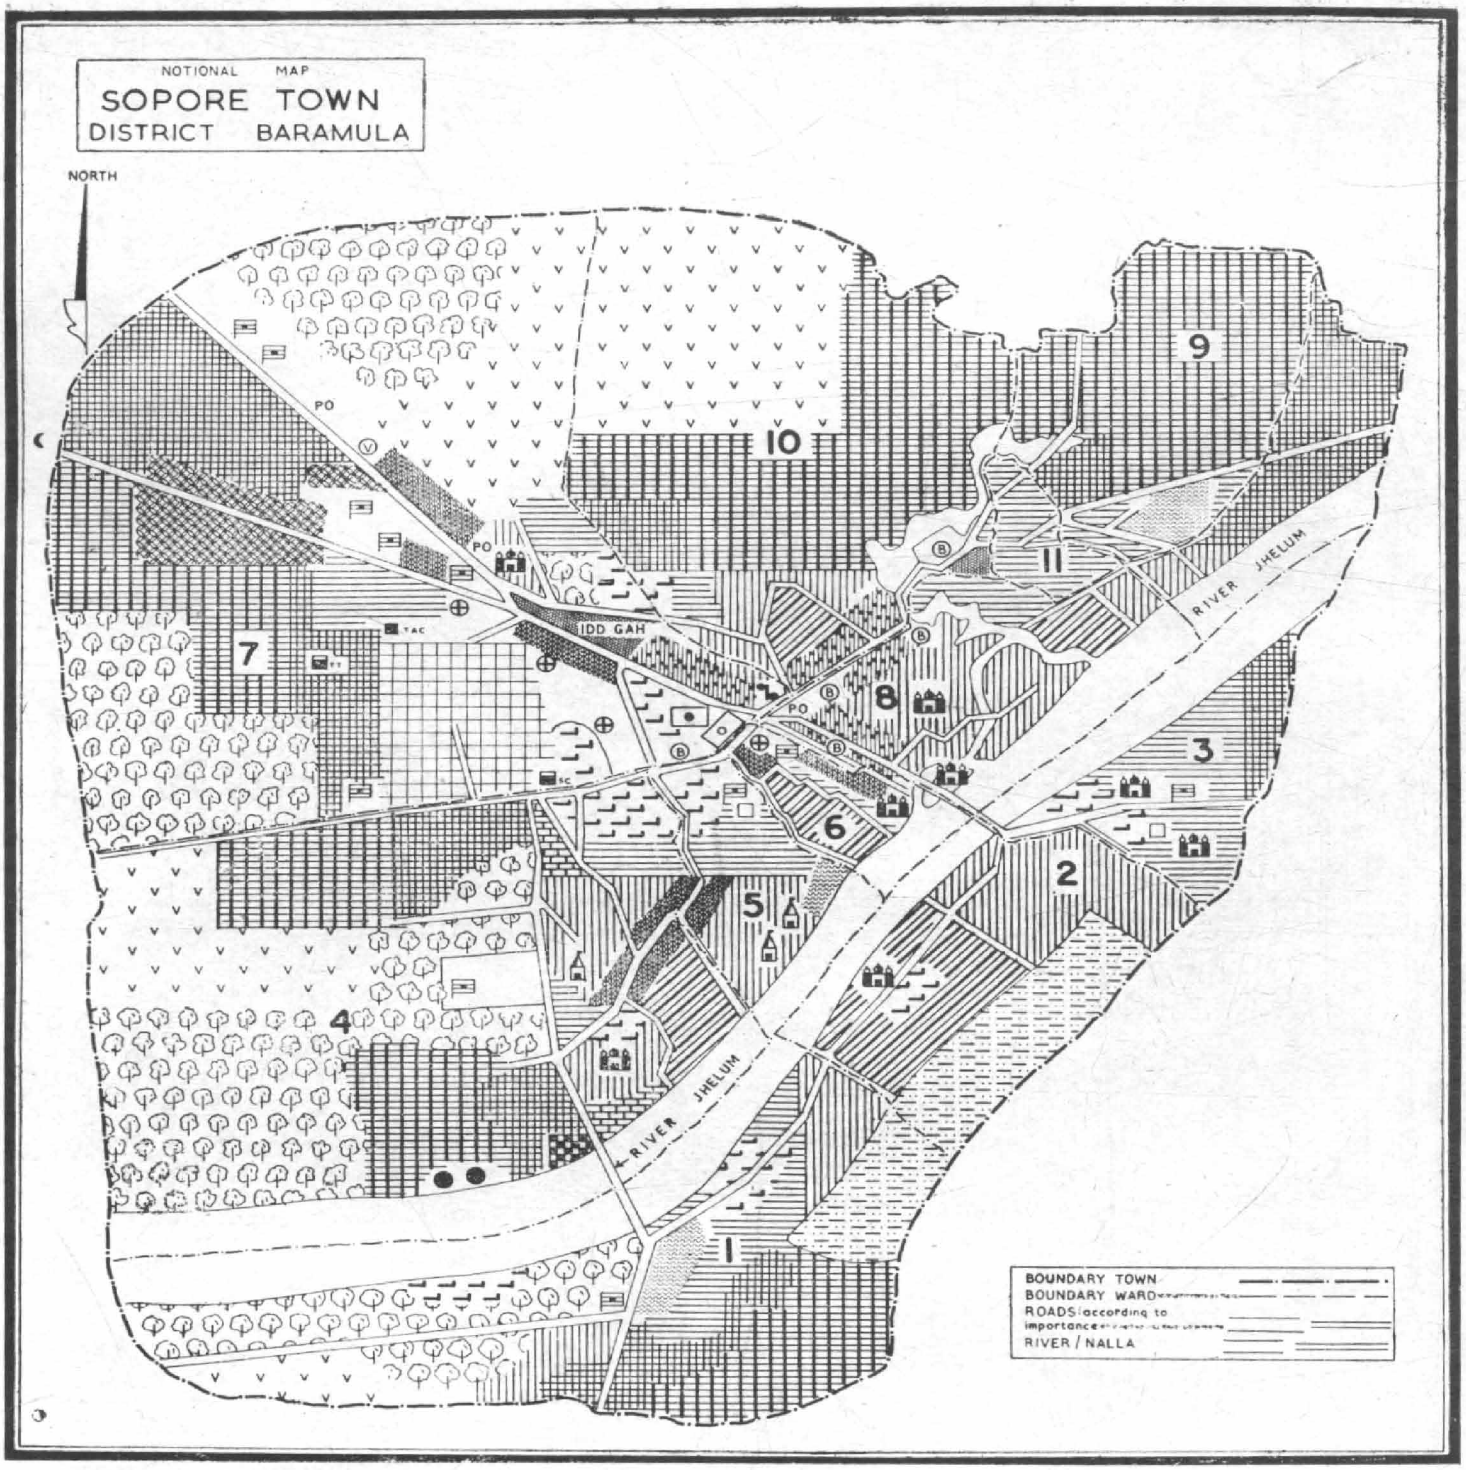

The town which is situated near the international border functions as a distributing centre for the neighbouring rural reas. The town is a tehsil headquarters and a fair ly large number of displaced persons have settled there after 1947.

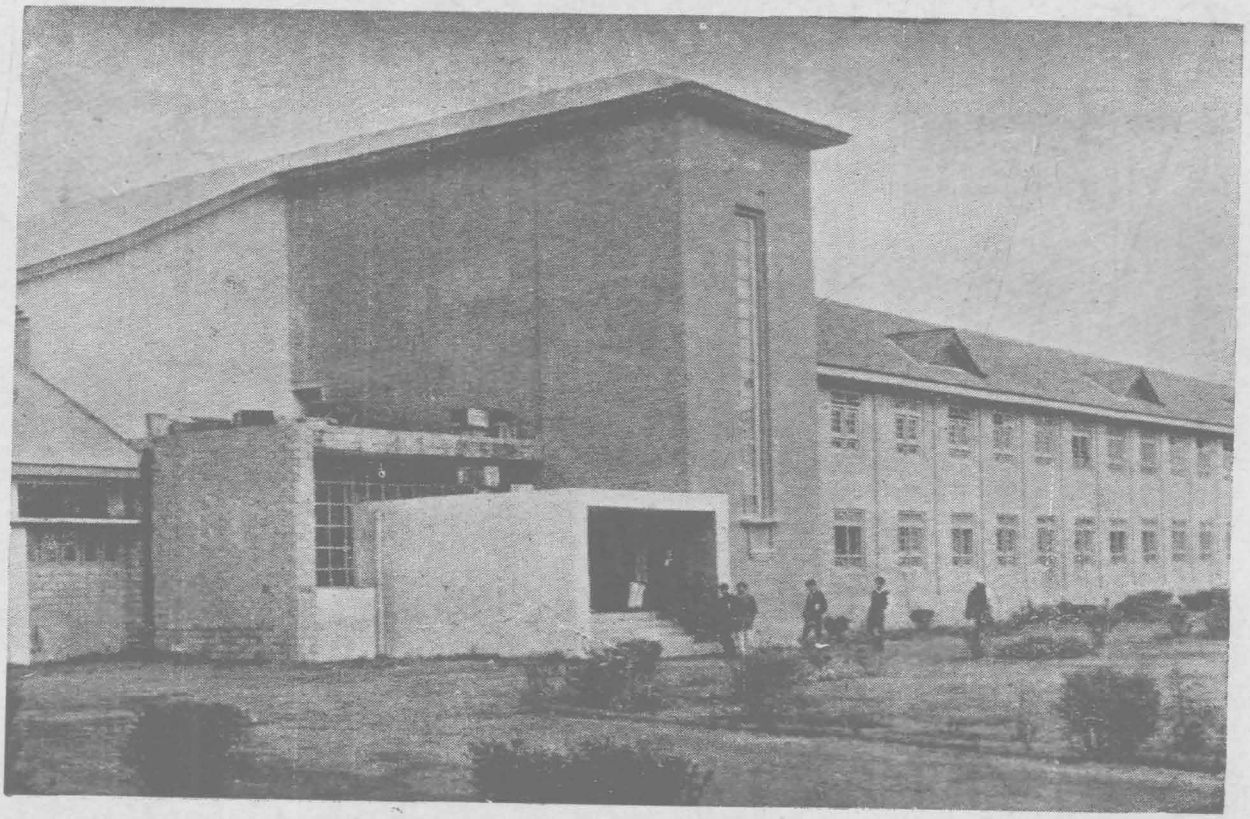

Samba is situated on the national highway at a distance of 40 kms. to the south-west of Jammu city. It is a tehsil headquarters and is reputed for its cotton textile products.

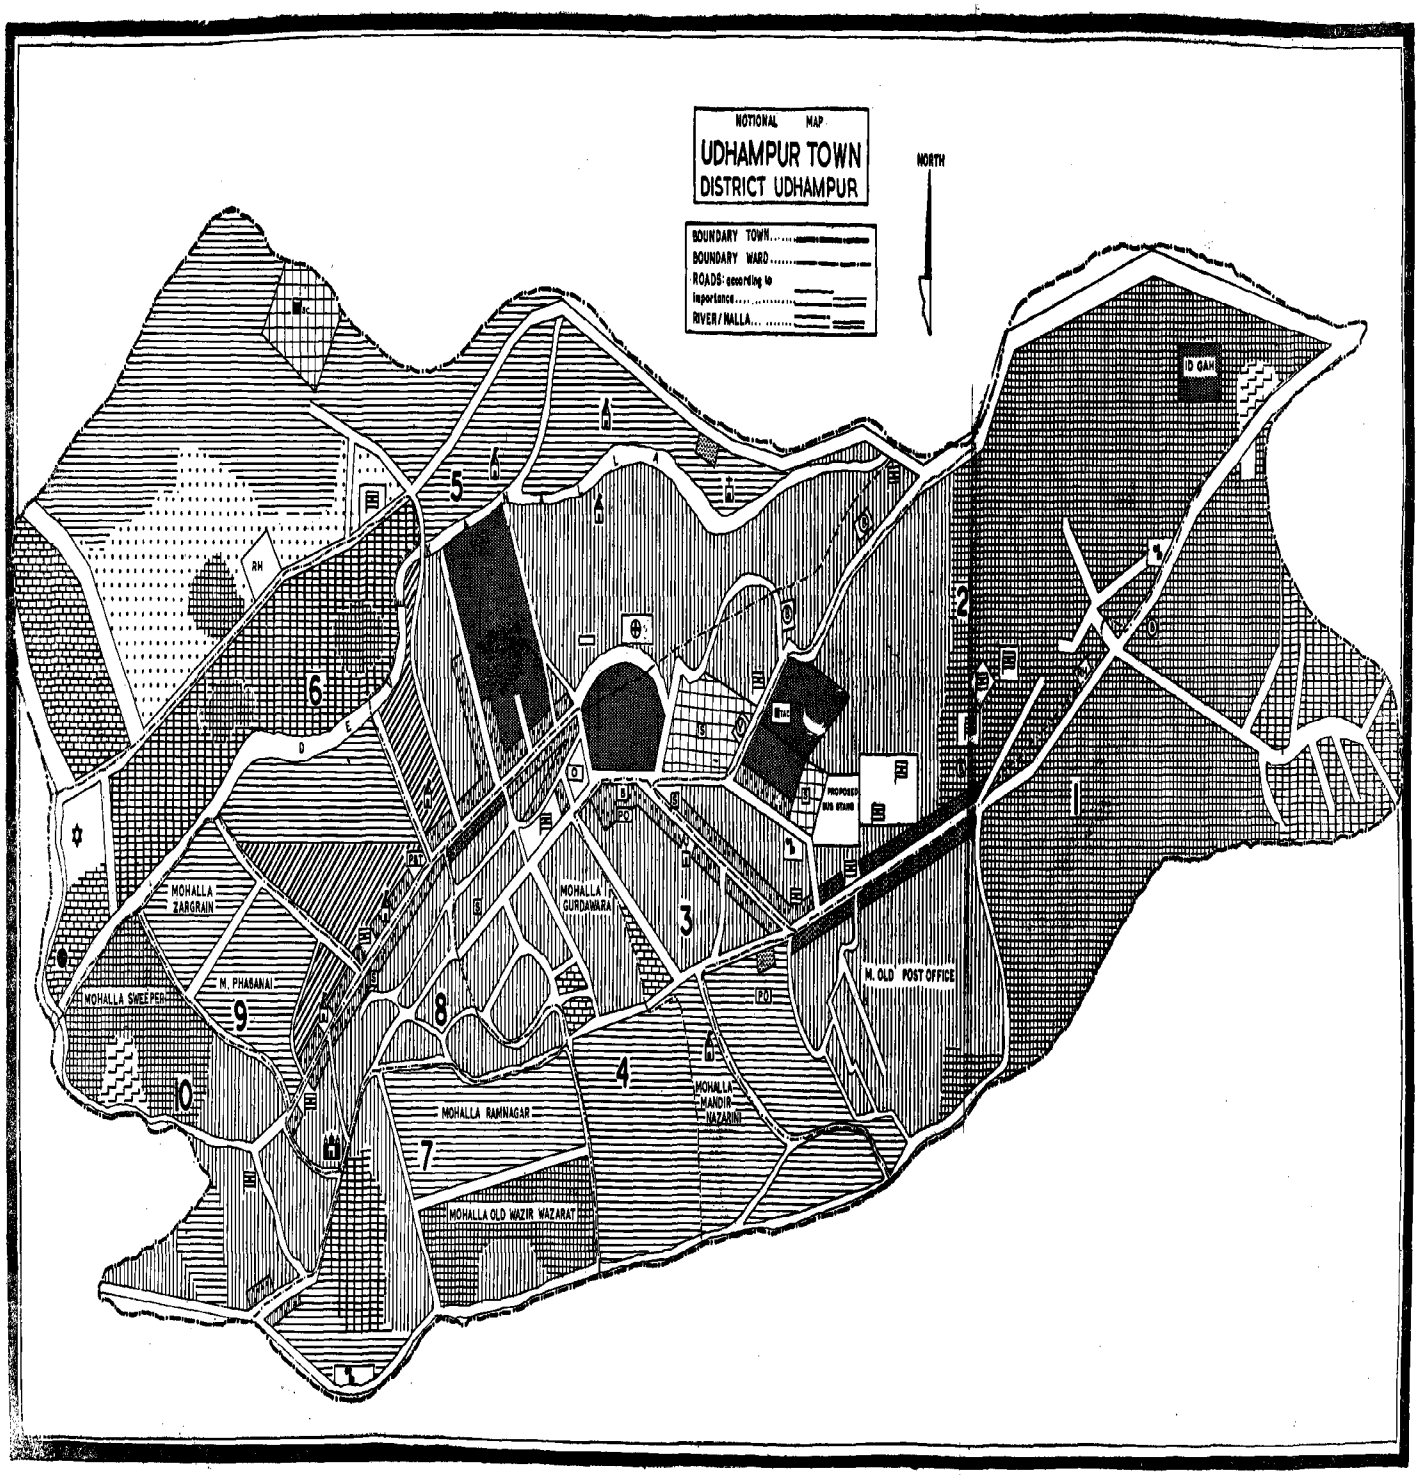

The town is in the south-west of the Srinagar city and is the gateway of the old Moghul route connecting Rajauri with Kashmir. It is an important centre of fruit trade like apples, walnuts and cherries.

Sopore, situated 45 kms. in the north west of Srinagar City of the Kashmir valley is an important town of Baramula distr ct. It serves as a distributing centre for different kinds of fruits, especially apples as also walnuts and almonds which are exported in large quantities, within and outside the State.

Degree College of Sopore.

Udhampur is the most important town in the region to the south of the Pir Panjal ranges and to the north-east of Jammu city. It has grown into an important Commercial Centre after 1947.
