INTRODUCTION

The Second Decennial Census of Pakistan was carried out between the 12th and 31st of January 1961. The preliminary results were published in Census Bulletin No. 1 and the final results showing the total population by sex, religion, urban and rural for small administrative areas in Census Bulletin No. 2.

This Bulletin, the third in the series of census publications, giving interim information about the population characteristics of Pakistan, deals with the age distribution of the population analysed by sex and marital status. It includes four tables of which the first two show five year age groups by sex, all areas and rural areas and for cities and selected towns. The third shows children in the 0-9 year age group and the fourth older people 60 years or over by 10 year age groups. A short explanatory note has been added at the beginning of each table bringing out in some detail its nature and content. These tables contain basic information about the age structure of the population and it is hoped that until the main tables are published, they will provide adequate data to the demographer, educator and administrator for study, research and planning. It may be mentioned that the main Census Report will present the age and marital status data on a broader canvas and will have 9 tables devoted to these attributes. These tables will add to the information given in this bulletin by comparing the 1961 population with that of 1951 in the following broader age groups: 0-9, 10-19, 20-39, 40-59, 60 and over. Separate tables will show comparative figures for Muslims, Caste Hindus, Scheduled Castes, Christians and other religions unless they are insignificant in any particular locality.

The information on age was collected through a simple question: What is your age on the 31st of January 1961. The enumerator was asked to record the number of years completed by a person on the 31st of January 1961. In respect of infants under one year, he was asked to write down the number of completed months from 0 to 11 months. For a proper assessment of the age as recorded in the enumeration slips, it may be helpful to reproduce in extenso the instructions to the enumerator in this regard.

> "Enter age in completed years, except for children less than 12 months old e.g., a person who will be 20 years 10 months on 31st January, 1961, should be entered as 20 years and not 21 years. For a child less than 12 months old, enter number of completed months. Enter "0" months when under 1 month. If age is not known, try to ascertain the age as accurately as possible by reference to any past event which may be remembered. The estimation of age is of great importance and calls for intelligence and diligence on the part of the Enumerator. It will generally help in the estimation of ages to enumerate the children in a household starting from the youngest child."

The Census Organisation was fully alive to the importance of accuracy in age recording and the pitfalls and difficulties involved in an enquiry of this nature in a predominantly illiterate population. The results of the past censuses of the sub-continent, and of the First Census of Pakistan were a constant warning to the census administration and with a view to reducing the gap between the actual and the reported age, all possible care was taken to train the enumerator and field supervisor, besides giving them detailed guidance how to go about their job efficiently. In spite of all the preparation, training and publicity, it must be admitted that age reporting, particularly of the adult population was not accurate enough for a satisfactory single year age breakdown. The reason is simple. Most people do not simply know their dates of births. The illiterate and even some of the literate people do not care to remember it as they have hardly any use for it in their day to day life. It was, therefore, not expected of them to report their age accurately. In order, however, to guard against wide variations between the actual and the reported age various accepted methods of helping their memory to move as near as possible to the actual were employed by the interviewer. In a number of cases the patience and tact of the interviewer were rewarded with remarkable success; in others, the results are statistically acceptable only in five year age groups. It is for this reason that no attempt has been made to analyse the age figures by single years except in the case of children below 10 years. The experience in the field has given us a large measure of confidence in presenting the children's age by single years up to 9 years and by single months from 0 to 11 months.

The marital status question was simple to answer and all precautions were taken to avoid confusion by clearly explaining the nature of each status in the Enumerator's Booklet thus:—

"single" means persons who have never been married.

"married" includes all persons who are at present married, all persons habitually living together as man and wife and all persons living apart but still married and not widowed or divorced.

"widowed" applies to a person whose husband or wife is dead, and who has not married again.

"divorced" applies to both divorcer and divorcee if not remarried.

There was no difficulty with the first three status viz: Single, Married and Widowed, but a few cases have been reported where parents were reluctant to record their daughters as 'divorced' specially if they were young. But such cases are rare and do not in any way affect the overall results.

The tables in this bulletin were compiled from the data extracted manually in the 17 Hand Sorting Centres located in important district headquarters in East and West

Pakistan. Despite being tedious, the manual sorting of age and marital status was carried out with great care and attention. No editing of the recorded age was permitted unless contradicted by positive internal evidence and that too was done after scrutiny by and under the personal orders of the officer-in-charge. The tables were compiled partly in the Hand Sorting Centres and partly in the Office of the Provincial Directors where the Statistical Officers were of much help in cross-checking the totals and sub-totals. The final shape of the four tables was given in the Census Commissioner's Office under the direct supervision of the Deputy Census Commissioner.

Originally, our intention was to publish only the set of tables in this bulletin without any write-up summarising and explaining the statistics contained therein. Mr. N. Shamsi, Deputy Census Commissioner, however, worked on this subject for some time and when he showed us the results of his devoted labour, we decided to put it in for the benefit of the readers in general. The note by the Deputy Census Commissioner was fully edited by Col. E. H. Slade, the former Census Adviser and in submitting his note to me for comments, Mr. Shamsi freely acknowledged his debts to Col. Slade for the valuable suggestions received by him. The note makes no pretensions at demographic analysis in a technical sense but nevertheless it clearly brings out the salient features of age and marital status composition of the population. I must thank Mr. Shamsi for the valuable note he has written and Col. Slade for editing it.

I must also thank all the officers and staff who have worked patiently for long hours to check the tables and make them accurate, consistent and useful. Detailed figure work done at the maximum speed is perhaps unrewarding unless there is an inner satisfaction from the knowledge of doing it for common good and I feel happy to record that all the men who had struggled with these tables did so with the zeal of nation builders without showing the least sign of boredom. I thank them with all my heart as well as the team of draftsmen who turned out the nice age pyramids and other diagrams for their devoted and intelligent co-operation.

STATISTICAL NOTES

1. AGE AND SEX COMPOSITION OF THE POPULATION

The age distribution of a population is of basic importance in the analysis of demographic changes and, indeed, in the study of many social and economic problems. This short note is aimed at highlighting some of the important aspects of the age distribution of the population of Pakistan as enumerated in 1961.

1.1. Age distribution of the population, Pakistan—1951-1961

At the 1961 Census there were 31723,172 children under 10 years of age, or more than 35 per cent of the total population, which, compared with other countries, is very large. In 1951 only 28.4 per cent were in this 'dependent' age group. Thus the number of children under age 10 in 1961 was about one-half larger than in 1951.

The following Statement makes a comparative study of the percentage of children under 10 years of age in selected countries of the world:

STATEMENT I

Country [1]	Children under 10 years (P.C. of total Population)
Pakistan	35
Malaya	33
Iran	33
Turkey	29
Thailand	29
U.S.A.	22
England & Wales ...	15

On the other hand, there was a 6.2 per cent decrease since 1951 in the age group 10—24. It is difficult to give a straight explanation for this decrease. The number in this age group in Pakistan at the 1961 Census was 22790,699. The population in the whole working age group i.e., persons between 10 and 59 years of age, which accounted for 53172,681 or 58.9 per cent of the total population in January 1961 had increased in number by about one-tenth between 1951-1961.

The population at what may be called "retirement" age, i.e., 60 and over, in 1961 was 5386,821 or 6.0 per cent of the total population of Pakistan at the Census date. The population in this age group showed an increase of 48.6 per cent since the 1951 Census rising from 5.0 per cent in 1951 to 6.0 per cent in 1961.

The changes in the age composition of Pakistan's population in the ten years since the 1951 Census are discussed below. The average age of the population of Pakistan decreased from 22.6 in 1951 to 22.4 in 1961 which reflects the remarkable increase (53.2 per cent) in the age group 0-9 between 1951 and 1961.

The changing age composition of the Pakistan population for 1951 and 1961 is shown in Statement 2. The proportion of children under 10 years of age in the total population increased from 28.4 per cent in 1951 to 35.1 per cent in 1961, no doubt reflecting an increase in the birth rate and a lower infant and child mortality over the period.

The changes since 1951 in the proportion of children below working years in the total population had the effect of reducing the percentage of the population at the working ages, 10-59. Between 1951 and 1961 the percentage of the population of working age went down from 66.7 per cent to 58.9 per cent.

It is interesting to note that, while the change between 1951 and 1961 in the age distribution among both males and females in age group 0-9 was much the same the relative proportions of the two sexes in the working age group and in the retirement age group had altered. In 1951 the percentage of the male population in age group 25-44 was 24.5 as compared with 23.0 for the females, whereas in 1961 the situation has changed, the percentage of males in this age group being a little lower, at 24.4 as compared with 24.3 for females. This shift between the sexes in the respective proportions of older persons in the total male and female population separately seems to indicate that a greater improvement in life expectancy has been taking place among females than among males over this period.

A glance at the bases of Figures I (on the outer cover), 2 & 3 reveals, for example, the effect of uncontrolled population growth in a country where infant mortality has been reduced considerably in recent years. This effect is clearly visible in age groups 0-4 & 5-9. The shrinkage of the proportion of the population in age groups 10-14 and 15-19 in 1961 as compared with 1951 is surprising and there seems no ready explanation for it. At the same time the apex of the age pyramid has also widened with the result that the population in 1961 in both the dependent child and old-age groups combined constituted a much larger proportion of the total population of Pakistan and provinces than in 1951.

1.2. Age distribution by Provinces, 1951-1961

An examination of the changes in the age structure of the population in the two provinces during the period 1951 to 1961 shows that there has been a remarkable rise in both the provinces in the percentage of children below working age in the population, a corresponding fall in the percentage in the working age population between 10-59, and a substantial increase in the proportion of the age group 60 years and over.

The proportion of children below working ages in 1961 was greater in East Pakistan than in West Pakistan.

In East Pakistan the percentage rose from 29.5 in 1951 to 37.0 in 1961. Expressed in another way, while the total population of East Pakistan increased by 21.2 per cent between 1951 and 1961 the age group under 10 years of age increased by 52.1 per cent. In West Pakistan close to one-third of the population in 1961 was under 10 years of age as compared with 26.9 per cent in 1951. The population in this age group, however, shows a higher rate of increase (54.9 per cent) in West Pakistan than in East Pakistan. Thus in both provinces much larger proportions of the population in 1961 were of school or pre-school age than in 1951. This indicates how striking will be the "natural increase" in younger portion of the labour force as well as a rise in school enrolment over the next ten years.

On the other hand, decrease in the proportion of the population at working ages, i.e., 10-59 between 1951 and 1961 were general in both the provinces. In Pakistan as a whole this was reflected by a fall in the proportion of the population from two-thirds to three-fifths of the total population over the period. The sharper fall occurred in East Pakistan, from 66.1 per cent in 1951 to 57.8 per cent in 1961, while the fall in West Pakistan was from 67.4 per cent in 1951 to 60.3 per cent in 1961.

The proportion of older persons, i.e. those 60 years and over, in the population rose remarkably in both the provinces over the period 1951-61. The rise was especially marked in West Pakistan, the percentage of 60 years and over, rising from 5.7 per cent of the total population to 6.9 per cent. This is shown in Statement 3. Statement 4 shows this more clearly as the increase in this age group between 1951-61 is 54.7 in West Pakistan as contrasted to 42.8 in East Pakistan.

1.3. Rates of increase by age, Pakistan—1951-1961

The changing age distribution of the population is reflected in the varying rates of increase or decrease by age group as shown in Statement 4. Over the period since the 1951 Census, while Pakistan's total population (excluding Frontier Regions of West Pakistan) increased by 23.7 per cent., the child population under working ages i.e. under 10 years showed a 53.2 per cent increase. It is of interest to note that the retirement age group, 60 years and over, also increased by 48.6 per cent while the working age group, 10-59, recorded only 9.3 per cent growth over this period. As a consequence the proportion of the population in the latter age group dropped from 66.7 per cent to 58.9 per cent between 1951 and 1961. The decrease in the population at the younger working ages (10-19) were relatively much higher. For example, the decrease in the age group 10-14 was quite alarming, at 18.5 per cent. The number in this crucial age group (10-14) in Pakistan was about 2 million less than the number in the same age group 10 years earlier.

A gain of 53.2 per cent in the child population under 10 years suggests that a big increase is to be expected in the age group 10-19 between 1961-71, and if the present rate of natural increase is maintained, the 0-9 age group will also continue to be large. The age group 20-24, showed an increase of about 15.1 per cent between 1951 and 1961 while age group 25-29 showed a rate of increase of about 30.7 per cent which is quite high. The increase in the population aged 30-44, in 1961 over the 1951 figure was 24.6 per cent while the population 45-59 increased by 20.1 per cent.

The pattern of growth of the population of Pakistan by age group between 1951-61 may be summarised as being characterized by a very notable increase in the child group under 10 years, a surprising decrease in age group 10-19, a small increase in the group 20-24, a growth at a rate higher than that for the total population in the age period 25-59 and a substantial increase in the numbers aged 60 and over years of age.

1.4. Increase in population by age, for provinces, 1951-61

Statement 4 also shows the rate of increase of the population of the two provinces by age groups. The high rate of increase in the number of children under 10 years of age in contrast to decreases in numbers between 10-19 years of age is apparent in both provinces.

The significance of this increase becomes more apparent when compared with the growth over the same period in the population at non-working ages. Statement 4 shows that the increase in the population of Pakistan since 1951 in the non-working ages i.e. under 10 years and 60 and over combined, has been much greater (52.5 per cent) than for the whole population (23.7 per cent) and greater for West Pakistan (54.9 per cent) than for East Pakistan (50.9 per cent). This indicates that in both the provinces the non-working age groups have grown much faster than the labour force.

These differences in the increase of the population at non-working ages, on the one hand, and at working ages, on the other, changed the relative sizes of the two groups substantially over the 10-year period.

1.5. Age composition of rural and urban population, 1961

Marked differences in age composition as between rural and urban areas result from population movements from villages to towns and cities, as well as from the concentration of refugees from India in towns and cities. These differences are seen clearly when comparison is made of the age distribution of the population in rural areas on the one hand, and urban areas on the other (See Statement 5). The 1961 Census statistics reveal that 35.8 per cent of the population living in villages were children under 10 years of age, whereas only 30.7 of the urban area population was in this dependent age group. In terms of numbers, there were 27965,603 children in this age group living in rural areas or approximately 24208,034 more than were found in urban areas.

An examination of Statement 5 shows that the important working age groups 10-24 and 25-44 constituted a considerably larger proportion of the urban than of the rural population at the 1961 Census. The population in this age group living in urban areas contains a substantial elements of migrants from rural areas, as well as of post-partition immigrants from India. (For details please see 1951 Census reports which gave separate figures for refugees from India). In January 1961, 29.9 per cent of the urban population of Pakistan were between 10 & 24 years of age, as compared with 24.5 per cent of the rural population. Throughout the whole working age period from 10 to 59 years males out-numbered females to a greater extent in urban areas than in rural areas. These were 23695,680 males in this working age group living in rural areas in January 1961 or 2082,171 more than the number of females, while in urban areas there were 4591,205 males in the above working age group or 1318,918 more than the number of females. In other words, females aged 10-59 accounted for 91 per cent of the males in rural areas and 71 per cent in urban areas. These figures give some indication of the scale of the influx of males from rural to urban areas where employment conditions for them are more attractive than in rural areas.

In respect of the retirement age group i.e. 60 years and over the proportion of this age group in the total population was slightly larger in rural than in urban areas.

1.6. Age differences in important cities, 1961

Statement 5 indicates that the proportion represented by children in age group 0-9 in the total population in 1961 was smaller in urban areas than in rural areas, and Statement 6 shows that children under working age are relatively fewer in big cities than in urban areas generally. Between individual cities there were also some appreciable differences.

The average proportion of children under 10 years for all urban areas was 30.7 per cent which contrasts with figures for Karachi (29.8), Rawalpindi (28.8) and Chittagong (25.9) but Lahore and Dacca show 31.0 and 30.2 per cent respectively.

The age group accounting for new entrants to the labour force and for a substantial number of marriages, i.e. the 10-24 group, also varied very little, as between the big cities, in its relative size in the total population. All the cities in Statement 6 had between 31 and 32 per cent of their population in this age group, compared with the percentage of 29.9 per cent for all urban areas.

. MARITAL STATUS OF THE POPULATION

This is a brief review of the marital status of the opulation of Pakistan by sex and age as found in the 961 census. For a proper understanding of the present ends corresponding figures of the 1951 Census have een quoted in all the Statements along with those of 961.

Every individual enumerated in 1961 Census was lassified according to his marital status at the Census ate, viz., single, married, widowed or divorced. Only ıose who had never married were considered as single. he married included persons who had remarried ter having been widowed or divorced..Married persons ho for domestic or economic reasons were not living ogether at the census date were also included in this ategory.

The marital status composition of the population is y no means a static condition. On the contrary, it is ulte sensitive to variations in economic conditions and hanges in the age structure of the population. Hence, Pakistan where the age composition of the population the provinces differs considerably, geographic varia- ons in the proportion of the population single, married, tc., are inevitable.

. Marital Status, Age & Sex, Pakistan—1951-1961

At the time of the 1961 Census there were 58559,502 rsons in Pakistan 10 years of age and over. Of this tal 15306,031 or 26.1 per cent were single as com- red with 30.9 per cent in 1951, 37506,278 or 64.1 per nt were married as compared with 59.8 per cent in 51; 5485,459 or 9.4 per cent were widowed as com- red with 8.9 per cent in 1951. Divorced persons were tively few being about 241,436 in 1951 and 261,734 in 1961, or a little less than one half of one per cent of all persons aged 10 years or over in both censuses.

Statement 7 reveals some interesting sex differences in the proportions in these marital status categories. In 1961, 35.3 per cent of the male population were single as compared with 38.5 per cent in 1951, 59.8 per cent were married as compared with 56.4 per cent in 1951, 4.6 per cent widowed as compared with 4.8 per cent in 1951 and 0.3 per cent were divorced as compared with 0.4 per cent in 1951. Among females also the number married was much larger in the 1961 Census than in 1951, the percentages being 69.1 and 63.7 respectively. There was also an appreciable rise in the number of women widowed, percentages being 13.7 and 14.8 respectively in 1951 and 1961. Divorced women represented 0.57 per cent of all females aged 10 and over in 1951 and 0.62 in 1961. The rises in the married and widowed proportions of females resulted in an appreciable reduction in the proportion of single women. This fell from 22 per cent in 1951 to 15 per cent in 1961 reflecting an actual change in the number of single women aged 10 years or over from 5345,944 in 1951 to 4241,137 in 1961. The considerably smaller proportion of widowed males as compared with widowed females was probably the result of a combination of several factors, including the greater mortality after middle age among males than females, the tendency of males to marry females younger than themselves, and the greater degree of re-marriage among widowed males than widowed females.

The influence of age on the marital status composition of the population of Pakistan is also shown in Statements 8 & 9. Obviously the proportion single will decrease with advancing age but the shift from single to married status was particularly rapid in the most common period of marriage between 15 and 29 years of age.

2 All persons under 10 years are treated as "SINGLE".

Females on the average are married at a younger age than males. In 1961 while married far exceeded these single females in the age group 15-19, the relative numbers being 2628,860 married as compared with 917,942 single, a corresponding excess of married over single males did not occur until the 25—29 age group was reached, reflecting the general tendency among men towards on older age at marriage.

Figures 4 and 5 indicate that the proportion married continued to increase with advancing age until it reached its maximum for females in the 25-29 age group with 93.7 per cent married, and for males at 10 years older with 91.0 per cent married in the age group 35-39. The percentage married decreased steadily for subsequent age groups as the rise in mortality at older ages brought about an increase in the percentage widowed. Since married women tend to outlive their husbands and because widowed males more frequently re-marry than widowed females, the rate of decrease in the proportion married was much more rapid for females than males. Consequently by age 55-59 in 1961 87.5 per cent of the males and only 51.3 per cent of the females reported their marital status as "married".

While relatively few persons in the younger age groups were widowed, their numbers increased steadily with advancing age. In 1961 69.4 per cent females and 20.4 per cent males 60 years of age and over were widowed.

PERCENTAGE DISTRIBUTION OF THE MALES AND FEMALES POPULATION BY MARITAL STATUS AND AGE GROUPS PAKISTAN 1961

(PERCENTAGES BASED ON MARITAL STATUS TOTALS)

(PERCENTAGES BASED ON AGE GROUPS TOTALS)

Only a small proportion of the population of Pakistan in 1961 was divorced i.e., 0.3 per cent of the males and 0.6 per cent of the females. Divorced males numbered 94,084 and divorced females 167,650. For all age groups proportionately more females than males were reported as divorced.

For the convenience of demographers and research students the following additional statements have also been prepared:—

Statement 10—Percentage distribution of the male and female population 10 years of age and over, by marital status and age groups, for East Pakistan, 1951 and 1961. (Percentages are based on age groups totals.)

Statement 11—Percentage distribution of the male and female population 10 years of age and over, by marital status and age groups, for East Pakistan, 1951 and 1961. (Percentages are based on marital status totals)

Statement 12—Numerical and percentage distribution of the male and female population by marital status, East Pakistan, 1951 and 1961.

Statement 13—Percentage distribution of the male and female population 10 years of age and over, by marital status and age groups, for West Pakistan, 1951 and 1961. (Percentages are based on age groups totals.)

Statement 14—Percentage distribution of the male and female population 10 years of age and over, by marital status and age groups, for West Pakistan, 1951 and 1961. (Percentages are based on marital status totals)

Statement 15—Numerical and percentage distribution of the male and female population by marital status, West Pakistan, 1951 and 1961.

Before closing this review it is necessary to point out that this bulletin gives interim information about the verified final figures of population by age, sex and marital status as soon as they are ready. A further detailed discussion, if found necessary, will be attempted in the main Census report.

TABLE I—POPULATION BY MARITAL STATUS, SEX AND FIVE YEAR AGE GROUPS

This table shows the distribution of population of each sex according to five year age groups and marital status. It is repeated for all areas and rural areas.

2. The data on age have been collected from the answers to question No. 3 of the enumeration schedule which provided two columns headed "Years" and "Months". The age of infants under one year was to be recorded in the column headed "Months" and of all other persons, in complete years, in the column headed "Years". Respondents who knew their ages reported their age in completed years; in other cases the enumerator assisted the respondents by reference to the dates of important local events and their joint estimate was recorded but cannot be regarded as accurate to single years.

3. The data about marital status have been collected from the answers to question No. 4 of the enumeration schedule which provided 4 columns headed "Single", "Married", "Widowed" and "Divorced". The whole information about marital status is strictly in accordance with the replies given by the respondents to the simple questions whether he/she was single (never married), married, widowed or divorced.

4. Analysis has indicated that the reporting of age and marital status has considerably improved as compared to 1951.

5. This table excludes 34,37,939 persons in the Frontier Agencies of West Pakistan and the Special and Added areas under Deputy Commissioners of Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan Divisions. The age data about these areas will be published separately in Census Volume No. 3 of West Pakistan.

6. Non-Pakistanis are excluded from this table.

TABLE 2—POPULATION BY MARITAL STATUS, SEX AND FIVE YEAR AGE GROUPS: CITIES AND SELECTED TOWNS

The layout and age groups of Table 2 are exactly the same as that of Table I. The only difference is that Table I shows the distribution of population for "All Areas" and "Rural Areas" while Table 2 shows the same data for cities and selected towns.

2. According to 1961 census definition, towns include Municipalities, Civil Lines and Cantonments not included within the municipal limits etc. and any other contiguous collection of houses inhabited by not less than five thousand persons which the Provincial Director of Census may decide to treat as urban for census purposes. As special cases a few areas which had urban characteristics but had less than five thousand population were also treated as urban areas.

3. Every urban area having one lakh and over inhabitants is described as "CITY".

4. The list of cities and towns for which Table 2 has been prepared is given below—

TABLE 3—CHILDREN BY SINGLE MONTHS UPTO 11 MONTHS AND BY SINGLE YEARS UPTO 9 YEARS

This table deals with the distribution of population 0—9 years by Sex. The infants under one year are shown by single months and children from one year to 9 years by single years of age. It is repeated for all areas and rural areas.

2. The data on age have been collected from the answers to question No. 3 of the enumeration schedule which provided two columns headed "Years" and "Months". The age of infants under one year was to be recorded in the column headed "Months" and of all other persons, in complete years, in the column headed "Years". It is presumed that parents and near relations who gave all information regarding children 0—9 years were able to remember their age in completed years.

3. The data about marital status have been collected from the answers to question No. 4 of the enumeration Schedule which provided 4 columns headed "Single", "Married", "Widowed" and "Divorced". As the whole Population in 0—9 year age group is "Single" or "Never Married", it has been treated as such in this table.

4. This table excludes children in the Frontier Agencies of West Pakistan and the Special and Added areas under Deputy Commissioners of Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan Divisions. Age data for these areas will be published separately in Census Volume No. 3 of West Pakistan.

5. Figures are shown for all administrative areas down to districts in West Pakistan and sub-divisions in East Pakistan. Separate figures for selected towns and cities have also been shown in this table.

6. According to the 1961 census definition, towns include Municipalities, Civil lines and Cantonments not included within municipal limits, etc., and any other contiguous collection of houses inhabited by not less than five thousand persons which the Provincial Director of Census decided to treat as urban for census purposes. As a special case a few areas which had urban characteristics but had less than five thousand population were also treated as urban areas.

7. Every urban area having a population of one lakh and over is described as a "CITY".

8. The list of cities and selected towns for which Table 3 has been prepared is given in the title page of table 2.

9. Non-Pakistanis are excluded from this table.

TABLE 4—POPULATION AGED 60 YEARS AND OVER

This table shows the distribution of population 60 years and over of each sex according to 10 year age groups. It is repeated for all areas and rural areas.

2. The data on age have been collected from the answers to question No. 3 of the Enumeration Schedule. Respondents who knew their ages reported them in complete years. In other cases, the enumerator assisted the respondents by reference to the dates of important local events and their joint estimate was recorded.

3. This table does not cover the Frontier Agencies of West Pakistan nor the Special and Added areas under Deputy Commissioners of Peshawar and Dera Ismail Khan Divisions.

4. Figures are shown for administrative areas down to districts in West Pakistan and sub-divisions in East Pakistan. Separate figures for cities and selected towns are also shown.

5. According to the 1961 census definition, towns include Municipalities, Civil lines and Cantonments not included within municipal limits, etc., and any other contiguous collection of houses inhabited by not less than five thousand persons which the Provincial Director of Census decided to treat as urban for census purposes. As a special case, a few areas which had urban characteristics but had less than five thousand population were also treated as urban areas.

6. Any urban area having a population of one lakh or more is described as a "CITY".

7. The list of cities and selected towns for which Table 4 has been prepared is given in title page of Table 2.

8. Non-Pakistanis are excluded from this table.
