KANGRA DISTRICT.

PHYSICAL ASPECTS.

The District of Kangra is the northernmost of the seven districts of Jullundur Division, and lies between 31° 20′ 35″ and 33° 00′ 10″ North and 75° 35′ 40″ and 78° 44′ 10″ East. This vast tract, comprising an area of 9944.9 square miles (as supplied by the Surveyor General of India), stretches eastwards from the plain country of the Bari and the Jullundur Doabs, over the Himalayan ranges, to the boundary of Tibet. It is bounded on the north-east by the Great Himalayan range, which forms the valley of the upper Indus and separates the District from the Tibetan region of Rupshu and the territories of the Chinese Empire; on the south-east by Bashahar, Mandi and Bilaspur, on the south-east by the District of Hoshiarpur; and on the north-east by the Chakki torrent which divides it from the hill portion of the Gurdaspur District and Chamba. It is divided into six tahsils, of which five lie in Kangra proper and one tahsil and one sub tahsil in the Kulu Sub-Division: of the former, three, Hamirpur, Dehra and Nurpur, lie along the south-western border of the District where it adjoins the plains and the Siwaliks, while the Kangra and Palampur tahsils form the northern boundary and lie at the foot of the main range of the outer Himalayas, Palampur Tahsil being connected by a narrow neck of mountainous country, called Banghal, with the outlying tract that forms the Kulu Sub-Division. This last includes the Tahsil of Kulu and sub tahsil of Plach or Saraj which, lying on the hither side of the mid-Himalayan range belong to India, and the outlying cantons of Lahaul and Spiti, which situated on the head waters of the Chenab and Sutlej systems, respectively, and between the mid and western Himalayas, belong rather to Tibet than to India.

The District is almost cut in two by the Districts of Chamba and Mandi which approach each other from the north and south respectively, leaving a narrow isthums of mountainous country-in places only ten miles acros -to unite Kangra proper with Kulu. Kangra proper lies to the west of the outer Himalayan range, which in this direction bounds the horizon from the Punjab plains. In shape it is an irregular triangle tapering from the District of Hoshiarpur which forms its base to the south-west, to a blunt apex in the outer Himalayan range towards Kulu.

1- Reproduced from Introductory ote to the Kangra District Gazetteer, 1924—25, Page I.

The eastern block, which forms the Kulu Sub-Division, is almost identical in shape with the western, though on a very much larger scale. Lying wholly among the Himalayas, this mountainous tract follows with curious fidelity the general shape of the smaller triangle, its rugged boundaries serving rather to emphasise the faults than illustrate the lines of the triangular conformation. [1]

There are three main ranges of the Hamalayas–the first, the outer Himalayan range already alluded to; the second, the mid-Hamalayan or central range of the system, and the third the western Himalaya, which forms the southern limit of the valley of the Upper Indus. This eastern block extends from the eastern slops of the first range to the western slopes of the third. In the trough lying between the first and the central ranges is the valley of Kulu, and beyond the central range lie the two parganas of Lahaul and Spiti. Kangra proper is connected with these and its outlying dependencies by the talqua of Banghal, a narrow strip of territory which lies partly on the Kulu and partly on the Kangra side of the outer-range. The Kulu Block measures from north-west to south-east about 100 miles, and has a mean breadth of about 80 miles from south-west to north-east. From the point where the Beas emerges upon the plains, a line carried due east and passing through Banghal to the eastern point of Spiti measures in a straight line 174 miles. [2]

Four rivers take their rise in this District-the Beas, the Spiti, the Chenab and the Ravi. The Beas rises in the Rohtang Pass which divides Kulu from Lahaul and after flowing southwards for about 50 miles, turns abruptly westwards and having traversed the District of Mandi enters Kangra proper. It receives the drainage of Kangra Valley and then passes on into the Punjab plains. The spiti, rising in the district of the same name, runs due south throughout its course, and joins the Sutlej in Bashahr. The Chenab and Ravi, rising respectively in Lahaul and Banghal, pass towards the north-west, north and south of the central Himalayan range in the Chamba District. [1] [3]

Geology.

The rock-facies to be met with in Kangra proper fall into two broad stratigraphical zones, which almost coincide with the orographical zones, of the Dhaula Dhar and the lower hills. These zones are:—

---

1 & 3—Reproduced from Introductory note to the Kangra District Gazetteer, 1924-25, Pages 2, 3. and 5.

(I) an outer or Sub-Himalayan zone composed of sediments for the most part of Tertiary age, but including also some sub-recent deposits.

(2) A central or Himalayan zone comprising most of the Dhaula Dhar. This is composed of granite and other crystalline rocks and a group of unfassiliferous sediments of unknown age.

The fullest account of the geology of this District is given in the "Sketch of the Geology of the Punjab, 1883-84" and "Memoirs of the Geological Survey of India" by Mr Medlicott.[1]

Archaeology:

The District is singularly rich in antiquarian remains belonging to the Brahmanical, Buddhist and Jain religions. Notwithstanding the repeated Muslim invasions and the disastrous earthquake of the 4th April, 1905 ancient Hindu temples are better preserved here than in any other district of the Punjab. This is no doubt largely due to the former inaccessibility of the District. In the 17th century the Kangra Valley was still largely covered with dense and impenetrable jungle.[2]

Climate.

The climate of the lower parts of the District is distinguished from that of the more southerly plains District by a shorter and less severe hot weather and higher rainfall. The cold weather is extremely bracing and healthy as well as being on the whole untroubled with rainy or windy days. Storms of considerable violence are apt to occur at almost any time. The nights in the cold weather are very cold particularly in the vicinity of river beds, and are less rigorous on the slopes of the intervening ridges.[3]

Rainfall.

The rainfall varies remarkably as one moves away from the main range. The yearly average for the decade ending 1940-49 is shown below for the tahsil towns of the district :-

History:

The following account has been taken from the Kangra District Gazetteer, 1924-25:—

The territory now included in the Kangra Distt, e cept Kulu, was originally a part of tbe Kingdom of Jalandhara or Trigarta. That Kingdom at the time of its greatest expansion comprised all the country, between the Sutlej and the Ravi in the outer hills, and the Jalandhar Doab on the plains, as well as a tract to the east of the Sutlej, anciently called Satadru, probably, Sirhind.

At that early period the Kingdom contained two great provinces, one on the plains and the other in the hills, of which the capital was at Jalandhara, with a hill capital at Kangra, then called Bhimkot or Nagar Kot.

After the sixth century the limits of the state were restri ted by the foundation of new principalities within its borders, as Chamba and Pratishthana (Pathankot) on the west, and Suket, Kutlehr, Banghal and Mandi on the east.

After the Muhammadan invasions began, about A. D. 1000, the territory on the plains was lost, and Nagarkot then became the chief capital, and with the rise of new States at a still later time, as offshoots from the parent stem, the Kingdom was reduced very much to the limits still obtaining at the time of its extinction in 1827.

With the overthrow of the Sikhs and establishment of the British rule in the Punjab, this territory also fell to the British who set to form the present District of Kangra. The headquarters of the District were first fixed at Kot Kangra. As time went on, however, it was found that outside the fort, which was fully occupied by the garrison, there was no sufficient room on the high ground for a civil station even, much less for a military cantonment, and the low ground near the rice-fields would have been very unhealthy. A cantonment was wanted for the hill regiments which Government was recruiting in the district, and some waste land on the slope of the Dhaula Dhar was selected for the purpose. The spot had been best known as Dharamsala, from an old building of that kind which existed there, so the name was transferred to the cantonment. The officers of the regiment built themselves houses, and their example was followed by some of the civil officers, who got away from Kangra to Dharamsala whenever they could, attracted by the many advantages of the latter place in point of climate and beauty of scenery. At length, in March, 1855 the civil headquarters of the District were moved to Dharamsala, only the Tahsildar of the pargana being left at Kot Kangra.

Population.

The population of the District as censused in 1951 is 9,36,042 and the density per square mile of the district is 94 only. This district with an area of 9944.9 square miles is by far the most extensive among districts of the Punjab, but it includes much uninhabited mountainous country and only ranks tenth in respect of population.

The following table shows the variations in populations of the district during the past 60 years:-

Administration.

The Kangra District is under the control of the Commissioner of the Jullundur Division, whose headquarters are at Jullundur. The ordinary headquarters staff of the district, located at Dharamsala, consists of the Deputy Commissioner, who is also District Magistrate, Collector and Registrar assisted by an additional District Magistrate, a Treasury Officer and a Revenue Assistant. The Kulu Sub-Division is under the charge of an Extra Assistant Commissioner, with headquarters at Kulu. The District and Sessions Judge has his headquarters at Hoshiarpur, the Kangra District being also within the area of his jurisdiction. There is a Senior Sub-Judge.

The Police work of the district is in charge of the Superintendent of Police. The Civil Surgeon supervises the hospitals and dispensaries throughout the district. The Divisional Forest Officer controls the Government forests of the district.

The district is divided into six tahsils for administrative purposes. Each tahsil is under the general executive control of a Tahsildar, assisted by a Naib-Tahsildar.

Medical and Public Health.

There are dispensaries at Dharamsala, Palampur, Kangra Jowali, Andaura, Garli, Sujanpur, Nurpur, Hamirpur, Barsar and Dehra Gopipur. The dispensary at Palampur is in charge of an Assistant Surgeon, the remaining are under sub-Assistant Surgeons. All come under the general administration of the Civil Surgeon whose headquarters are at Dharamsala. A new and fully equipped hospital was completed at Dharamsala in December, 1918. There is also a Police Hospital at Dharamsala. A leper asylum was opened at Dharamsala in 1857 for the treatment of a small number of lepers. In January, 1917, it was transferred to Palampur where it is now maintained. The popular treatment it is chiefly carried out by vaids and hakims. [1]

Education and Literacy.

There are 406 primary, 88 middle and 29 high schools in the District. The literacy percentage in the district in 1951 is 10.3. The Dis rict is still much backward in education.

1—Reproduced from the Kangra District Gazettcer, 1924-25.

Agriculture aud Co-operation

The great majority of the people in this district are agriculturists cultivating their own lands. Of the persons dependent on agriculture the vast majority (673,951) are owners, nearly all self-cultivating, only a small number (15,823) being rent receivers. The percentage of the total agricultural population in the district is 85. The density of population on cultivated area in the district is 1248 per square mile. The total cultivable area in the district is 479 887 acres.

The cultivated area is divided into fields, generally open and unenclosed, but in some parts surrounded by hedges, or stone walls about four feet high. Where rice cultivation prevails, the fields descend in successive terraces levelled and embanked with slight ridges to retain the water. The necessity of preserving an even surface restricts their size, and under the hills, where the slope is rapid, some of the fields are smaller than a billiard table. Agriculture mainly depends on rain. Irrigation is effected entirely by canals projected by the people without any assistance from the Government.

Rice, maize, millets, pulses, cotton, surgarcane, ginger and tumeric are the chief kharif crops and wheat, barley, gram pea, bean, mustard, sarson and alsi are the rabi crops of the district. Besidess, tobacco, dhania, sonf, potato, radish onion, ilaichi, joain, karela. petha, kaddu, etc. are the miscellaneous and garden plants grown in this district.

This district is also suitable for tea plantation, and there are many tea gardens in the district.

Co-operation in this district is in a backward state. There are 1260 primary co-operative societies in this district.

Industries

The district is famous for the manufacturing of pattu blankets, lohis, shawls and Pashmina articles. Tea industry is also in a flourishing state here.

Local Bodies and Panchayats

There are 7 local bodies in this district as below:—

STATEMENT EXPLAINING THE TABLES APPEARING IN A DISTRICT CENSUS HANDBOOK.

In the 1951 Census, in addition to the sorting of the slips to produce the tables, essential Census informatian relating to every person enumerated inevery village and every town/ward has been incorporated in a National Register of Citizens which has been preserved as an unpublished administrative register for purposes of reference during the inter census decade.

Some changes have been made between the procedures for tabulation adopted at the 1931 and earlier censuses and at the present census. These are explained below:–

1. Substitution of Economic Classification for classification based on Religion:—

In the past, Census slips were, at the very out set sorted on the basis of religion, and the figures of population by religion thus obtained were the basis of village statistics. The separation of slips by religion and sex was maintained throughout the sorting operation; and thus certain Census characteristics were cross tabulated by religion. During the present census, the slips have been sorted in the first instance, into the following eight livelihood classes of the population :—

Agricultural Classes.

I. Cultivators of land wholly or mainly owned and their dependants.

II. Cultivators of land wholly or mainly unowned and their dependants.

III. Cultivating labourers and their dependants.

IV. Non-cultivating owners of land; agricultural rent receivers and their dependants.

Non-Agricultural Classes.

Persons (including dependants) who derive their principal means of livelihood from :—

V. Production other than cultivation.

VI. Commerce.

VII. Transport.

VIII. Other services and miscellaneous sources.

The resulting figures have been given in the Primary Census Abstracts which serves as the basis for village statistics.

2. The Concurrent 10% Sample:—

The Age (Sample) Tables have been prepared from the enumeration slips by taking a 10% sample, out of the population excluding the displaced persons. Separate figures for displaced persons are given in the Handbook in all important tables.

3. Preservation of Census Records and Registers.

In the past, the abstract (first prepared in the process of sorting and compilation) was used for compiling village statistics, which were retained as unpublished administrative records by same States and printed and published by others. At the present Census, the following data are included in the District Census Handbook and printed and published as such:-

i. Introduction to the District Census Handbook

ii. District Census Tables (furnishing district data with break up for Census tracts, within the district)

iii. Census Abstract: (a) Primary Census Abstracts (b) Occupational Abstracts and (c) census abstracts of Small scale industries.

The following tables have been included in the Handbook.

A. GENERAL POPULATION TABLES.

I. Area, Houses and Population.

(The area figures given in this table have been supplied by the Deputy Commissioner of the district and hence do not tally with the area figures maintained by the Survey Deptt: No. of houses are those which were found to be occupied at the time of house numbering by the revenue staff; un-occupied houses do not figure in the table.)

Variation in Population during fifty years.

II. (The population figures given in this table for the previous censuses have been adjusted, taking into consideration the adjustment of enclaves during the period 1941-51. Population of areas transferred to and/or from each tahsil have been added to or subtracted from the population of that tahsil for the censuses 1901 to 1941.)

III. Towns and Villages classified by Population.

IV. Towns classified by population with variation since 1901.

V. Towns arranged territorially with population by livelihood classes.

In this table figures for livelihood classes I to III have not been given separately but have been clubbed together.)

B.Economic Tables.

I. Livelihood Classes and Sub-classes.

(Non-earning dependants in this table mean economically passive persons i. e. who do not earn anything; and earning dependant implies a person who is semi-active, i e. whose earning do not suffice his living and who has, therefore, to depend upon other; self-supporting persons mean economically active persons i. e. who do not depend upon others, and are at least able to maintain themselves.

II. Secondary means of livelihood.

Non earning dependants do not have secondary means of livelihood. An earning dependant is maintained partly by the income of some other person and partly by his own; the source which gives him some income is taken to be his secondary means of livelihood for purposes of this table. A self supporting person may have more than one means of livelihood in some cases; the second best source of income has been given in this table as his secondary means of livelihood.)

III. Employers, Employees and Independant Workers.

(The self supporting persons in non-agricultural classes have been classified in this table as Employers, Employees and Independant workers and are distributed in the various divisions and Sub-Divisions of Industries and Services. The fly-leaf of this table gives the number of self-supporting persons who are economically passive e. g. person living principally on pensions, remittance, scholarships and fund, inmates of jails, asylums, almshouses and beggars and vagrants. To economise paper and labour no space has been provided in the table for those divisions and Sub divisions in which no self-supporting persons falls.

C. HOUSEHOLD AND AGE (SAMPLE) TABLES.

1. Household (size and composition) This table has not been published in the handbook.

II, Livelihood Classes by Age Groups.
III. Age and Civil Condition.

IV. Age and Literacy.

V. Single year Age-returns (Infants below 1 year of age have been shown under the age '0"

D. Social and Cultural Tables.

I. Language. This table has not been published in the handbook.

II Religion

III Scheduled Castes and Tribes (The fly-leaf of this table gives the number of Anglo-Indians which have been included in the figures of Christians in Table D-II).

IV Migrants. (The fly-leaf of this table gives the number of people born in countries outside India but enumerated in this district.

V. Displaced Persons. (For Census purposes, a displaced person was taken to mean any person who has entered India having left or been compelled to leave his home in Western Pakistan on or after the 1st March, 1947, or his home in Eastern Pakistan on or after the 15th October, 1946, on account of civil disturbances or the fear of such disturbances or on account of the setting up of the two Dominions of India and Pakistan. NOTE.—The totals of the 8 livelihood classes of Hamirpur tahsil do not tally with the totals given in the columns 3, 4 and 5. The reason is that sorter's tickets '0' for two villages comprising a population of 4428 males and 4551 females were destroyed on account of fire and hence the details of livelihood classes for these villages could not be given. Similarly the totals for total Rural Population and total District Population do not tally.
