FOREWORD

Although since the beginning of history, foreign travellers and historians have recorded the principal marts and entrepots of commerce in India and have even mentioned important festivals and fairs and articles of special excellence available in them, no systematic regional inventory was attempted until the time of Dr. Francis Buchanan-Hamilton in the beginning of the nineteenth century. One of the tasks set before him by a resolution of the Governor-General-in-Council in 1807 was "to examine with as much accuracy as local circumstances will admit" : "an account of the various kinds and amount of goods manufactured in each district. . . the ability of the country to produce the raw materials used in them. . . how the necessary capital is procured, the situation of the artists and manufacturers, the mode of providing their goods. . . commerce : the quantity of goods exported and imported in each district; the manner of conducting sales, especially at fairs and markets."

That he discharged his duty very thoroughly will appear from his statistical accounts of Mysore and the northern districts of Bengal and Bihar.

The great Revenue Surveys of the middle of the nineteenth century made no attempt in this direction, and accounts of fairs and festivals in districts were neglected until W. W. Hunter took up the compilation of statistical accounts again in the last quarter of last century. For the purpose of notifying holidays in the East India Company's offices the Board in Calcutta had since 1799 been in the habit of "procuring an accurate Bengalee almanac properly authenticated by brahmanical astronomy" from the Nabadwip Court (letter from Secretary of Board to Collector of Nadiya, 5 July 1799, No. 8217, W. W. Hunter's unpublished Bengalee MSS Records). Satis Chandra Vidyabhusan in his History of Indian Logic wrote that "almanacs were prepared by the Pundit Samaj of Nabadwip which were supplied to the Nawab's Court of Murshidabad as well as to the East India Company, the Supreme Court, etc.....the Nabadwip Panjika under the imprimatur of Nabadwipadhipateranugya was accepted by all the landlords of Bengal". This Nabadwip Panjika which remained the standard almanac for Bengal continued in use throughout the first half of the nineteenth century and each issue contained a list of important fairs and festivals in every district. A valuable almanac was that published by the Vernacular Literature Committee's Almanac published in 1855-6 (1262 B. S.). It gave an account of 309 famous fairs of Bengal in its second part. The Gupta Press Panjika or almanac which virtually replaced Nabadwip Panjika made its first appearance in 1869 and continued to publish a useful list of important fairs and festivals in the country. But this list was by no means exhaustive nor were W. W. Hunter's which he published with each Statistical Account.

Meanwhile native crafts, industries and objects of artistry decayed rapidly and thoroughly as a result of the East India Company's policy of extinguishing them, and official interest in fairs and festivals declined, although these occasions, divested of much of their glory, still continued to attract livestock, grain, merchandise and handicrafts from far and near. The Imperial Gazetteers published between 1880 and 1910 gave a minor place to these important seasonal markets or temporary inland ports. Even the District Gazetteers, which still are the fullest and most compact accounts of districts, make but casual mention of fairs and festivals in the country and attach little economic importance to them.

For, indeed, the importance of fairs and festivals—as the meeting ground of livestock and agricultural commodities, of many religions and many cultures, crafts and motifs from far and near, of ideas and design, workmanship, excellence and finish, of tools and appliances, of trends of the future and vanishing practices of the past, of adaptability and local variation, of skill and imagination—declined with the punitive export policy of the East India Company and the unrestricted import of machine-made goods, so much so that at the close of the last century fairs and festivals were reduced to a matter of concern only for the Public Health Department. They were no longer regarded as important centres of trade and commerce, but were now from the Government point of view merely a collection of human beings among whom epidemics were to be prevented from breaking out. Fairs and festivals continued to be a matter of law and order and the Police Department and the District Board continued to maintain full lists of them in their local offices, a source which has so far remained unquarried.

Following the census operations of West Bengal in 1951, a slim volume, containing a list of fairs and festivals arranged according to districts and their Police Stations, was brought out as part of the West Bengal scheme of Census Publications. This list was mainly made up of information supplied by District Boards and Superintendents of Police of districts. The two lists were collated to make up a comprehensive list containing several columns: the name of the village arranged under its district and Police Station, with its Jurisdiction List number, the name of the festival or fair by which it is commonly known in the locality, the English month of the year in which it is held, the duration of the festival or fair, and finally the number of persons attending it. Although merely a list, and not quite complete at that, this volume attracted attention and received the appreciation both of scholars and the general public. Its general value lay in its being a compendium and its particular value lay in presenting a distribution throughout the country of particular festive occasions. The Superintendent of Census Operations for West Bengal, who continued in an honorary capacity, was piled from time to time with requests to undertake an extensive survey of the subject which seemed to accord well with the Superintendent's own personal desire. For one thing, quite a few of the old and traditional fairs and festivals of West Bengal are on their way to extinction on account of various forces working against them and a record of these rapidly vanishing fairs and festivals could be made only now as never again in the future. In the next place, the Census Office considered it its duty to sustain by a more searching survey the interest that the publication had aroused.

A different approach suggested itself as the new task was viewed in terms of collection of extensive first-hand material on each fair and festival. It was necessary therefore, in the first place, to approach as many individuals as possible in each locality, and not restrict the enquiry only to Government or semi-Government sources, Departments or organisations. In the second place, a satisfactory questionnaire was considered most essential. A number of aims were kept in view in framing the questionnaire. These were :

(a) The questionnaire should be very simple and precise in language, designed primarily for the understanding of a person of primary education standard. At the same time, the question should be suggestive enough to invite ancillary information. Were this objective achieved, it should be possible to obtain exhaustive information without irrelevant detail.

(b) It should succeed in obtaining a clear environmental, social and economic background of the village or place in which a particular fair is held or a festival is observed.

(c) It should emphasise those aspects of a festival or worship which would bring out the details of rituals and religious practices peculiar to the locality.

(d) It should obtain information not only on the more important and better-known festivals or fairs, but also on the less known but otherwise significant fairs and festivals. It was decided to extend the scope of enquiry beyond those fairs and festivals that are approved and licensed by the District authorities, for the latter would be a small number compared to the total.

(e) It should attempt sufficient information on economic activities and patterns in respect of each fair, however big or small. The information so obtained should suggest the scope for studying the movement of local handiwork and local forms and raw materials. The questionnaire should also give a list of local amusements favoured by the public.

The questionnaire which was several times pre-tested was finally mailed in 1957 to about 10,000 addresses in West Bengal on the Business Reply scheme. One of the devices which seems to have evinced much responsible reporting was the assurance that each piece of information would be fully acknowledged to the correspondent whose address also would be published for the benefit of future investigators.

The information thus collected was sorted district by district and further sub-sorted by Police Stations. The work of compilation, once the preliminary verification and checking of the answers was over, was to be in three sections as follows :—

(a) The first section was to contain systematic information on the village, the villagers, their occupations, communications and other special features, mainly based on Section A of the questionnaire.

(b) The second section was to contain all available information on the festival itself, the worship of deities, particularly rituals and forms of worship. This would be based mainly on Section B of the questionnaire.

(c) The third section, to be based on Section C of the questionnaire, would contain information about the fair and economic activity and amusement connected with the fair.

It will doubtless be a matter of great satisfaction to scholars that the scheme was very enthusiastically received by all my colleagues when its outline together with the West Bengal questionnaire was circulated in February 1960. My colleagues felt that the Census provided a unique opportunity for conducting such a comprehensive survey with the help of the network of staff placed by the State Governments at their disposal. State Superintendents were quick to recognise that such a survey would be of great help to those who might care to investigate the religious centres and festivals, inland trade and commerce, art mitifs and designs, circuits of trade, ancient trade routes, and special manufactures. It would give the student of toponomy much valuable clue and the student of history much valuable insight into the organisation of markets.

The proposal to conduct this survey was accepted in the Second Conference of Census Superintendents held in August 1960. Various aspects of the Survey, then in progress, were discussed again in the regional meetings of Census Superintendents held in Trivandrum, Darjeeling and Srinagar in May and June 1961. My colleagues were able to report further progress at the Census Social Studies Camp held in December 1961, when several elaborations of the original questionnaire and in investigational methodology were also discussed. It was further proposed to undertake more intensive surveys of a small number of very important fairs and festivals in each State. At the third Conference of Census Superintendents in February 1962 my colleagues took the further decision to prepare maps of fairs and festivals on the basis of districts and even of tehsil or taluks, some States having already made much progress in this direction.

The scholar will find in these lists much to excite his curiosity. First, they show what an extensive network of seasonal and perennial markets village fairs still provide to native craftsmanship and industry. Secondly, they help to connect economic streams with social and religious movements. Thirdly, they suggest how a succession of small fairs in a time series culminate in a very big fair, almost always in the heart of a particular area, and how this big event gradually subsides through another time series of small fairs, so that an endless cycle of trades, social and religious intercourse is kept in motion. Fourthly, they insinuate a great deal about what Buchanan-Hamilton was charged to investigate a century and a half ago: "the situation of the artists and manufacturers, the mode of providing their goods, the usual rate of their labour, and any particular advantages they may enjoy : their comparative affluence with respect to the cultivators of the land, their domestic usages, the nature of their sales, and the regulations respecting their markets". Fifthly, they can very greatly help in reconstructing ancient and not so ancient trade routes in the country, and, again, what Buchanan-Hamilton was asked to investigate; "the nature of the conveyance of goods by land and water, and the means by which this may be facilitated, especially by making or repairing roads."

PREFACE

Fairs have been held in India, as elsewhere, from time immemorial, and they constitute an integral part of our social life. They have provided a meeting ground for varied beliefs and customs resulting in a fusion of cultures and unity in diversity. They have also provided a market for the local produce and a convenient place for the exhibition of various arts and crafts, sometimes of great workmanship and skill. Festivals are closely connected with fairs; for, more often than not, they are held on occasions of religious significance.

The Census Organization decided to compile a districtwise and tahsilwise list of fairs together with short notes on festivals commonly observed in the State. The information in regard to the fairs was collected from districts and for festivals from other sources also. The task of compilation was entrusted to Shri Raj Indra Verma, of the Uttar Pradesh Civil (Executive) Service, serving in this organization as Deputy Census Superintendent.

The list of fairs gives for each tahsil the name of each fair, the place(s) where held, date(s) on which held, name of the festival, if any, with which connected, purpose, estimated congregation, nearest railway or bus station, commodities brought and sold, and other special features. At the beginning of the compendium, a map is given indicating the location of towns and villages where a fair having an estimated congregation of 25,000 and above is held.

Important festivals celebrated in the State with short notes thereon have also been given. Dates of Hindu, Muslim and Christian festivals are given according to their respective calendars. A statement giving the months of Vikram calendar together with the corresponding months of the Gregorian calendar has been given as an Appendix.

I hope this volume of Fairs and Festivals will prove useful to administrators and scholars.

COMMON HINDU FESTIVALS

1. SHEETLA ASHTMI is observed on Chaitra Badi 8, eight days after Holi. Sheetla is the goddess of small pox. Women offer water to the deity daily, particularly when the disease strikes a locality in an epidemic form. Many offer milk and rice to her on Mondays and Fridays.

The puja of the goddess is performed in the morning after bath. At the puja small deep-coloured saffron flags are offered and agiari is performed by offering ghee, sugar, barley, etc., to the fire. Thereafter seven kanyas (unmarried girls) are fed and prasad distributed.

The temple of Sheetla is visited and cooked food is offered to the deity. 'The rule is that cooked food, carried out of the bounds of the chauka or cooking place, becomes ipso facto unclean, and unfit even for respectable mortal taste; hence no cooked food is ever offered in worship at any public temple, the priests alone having the privilege of supplying the deity with his usual meal at the usual hours, during which the public are shut out from the temple and visits are disallowed. But in the case of goddess Sheetla this rule, which is rigidly enforced in other cases, is relaxed and cooked food from the hands of all castes is freely allowed to come within the sanctum of these temple'.[1]

2. RAM NAUMI is celebrated to commemorate the birth of Shri Rama on Chaitra Sudi Naumi. Rama was born to Dasaratha, the king of Ayodhya on the ninth lunar day in the bright fortnight of Chaitra. This festival is the anniversary of that auspicious day. It is celebrated with great pomp at Ayodhya. The place is visited by pilgrims from all parts of country for taking part in the celebrations.

On this day Rama and his consort Sita are worshipped. Many keep fast taking fruits, milk-preparations, sago and cooked tubers after the midday worship. Recitation of Ramayana is common. In the temples of Shri Rama, his image is adorned, prasad is distributed and bhajans in praise of the Lord are sung.

3. BAISAKHI PURNIMA The month of Vaisakha is sacred to Hindus. Bathing in the Ganga and other sacred rivers is customary on the full moon day in Vaisakha. Seedha consisting of flour, pulses and vegetables and water pitcher are commonly given to Brahmins. Many give alms to poor and the needy. The day is not sacred to any special deity but many visit the temples for prayers.

4. BARGADEE AMAVASYA The bargad (banyan) tree is worshipped on the Bargadee Amavasya in Jyaistha by married women for the health and prosperity of the husband. The women keep fast until the puja is performed. Before the puja, they take bath, dress themselves with essential ornaments e.g., nath, etc., wear either lehenga and dupatta or yellow dhoti and go out at about midday in groups to worship the banyan tree carrying with them a metal plate containing the articles of puja and water in a vessel. In some places one of the elderly women puts palm prints on the trunk of the tree. Sindoor (red oxide) is sprinkled on it, raw cotton thread is wrapped round its trunk and ghee or sugar is offered to the fire lit up for agiari (a small scale havan). The women go round the tree seven times and on completion of each round offer the puja articles. They terminate the fast by taking some of the offerings and then return to their respective homes. Some women, instead of going out for worshipping the banyan tree, worship a twig of the tree at home supplied by the Mali. The prasad is served with the meal to every member of the family.

5. JYAISTHA DUSSEHRA is observed on the tenth day in the bright fortnight of Jyaistha. Bathing in the Ganga or in some river or stream is common. Many keep fast on this day. The day is not sacred to any special deity but people may visit the temples of Lord Shiva for worship. In villages, 'People start making cowdung cakes on this day, and continue making them till the advent of the rains. The first five cakes are bigger than the others and they are decorated with pumpkin flowers and sprinkled over with grains of rice. They are placed on earthen saucers and again decorated with rice and flowers. The saucers are placed in the courtyard and lighted earthen lamps are kept before them'.*

6. GURU POORNIMA commemorates the memory of the great sage, Shri Vyas Bhagwan who edited the four Vedas and compiled the eighteen Puranas, the Mahabharat and the Bhagvata. The devotees perform Vyas Puja on the full-moon day in Asadha in honour of this divine personage. They also offer reverent homage to their guru or percepter on this day.

It marks the beginning of chaturmas or the setting of rains after the intense heat of summer months. Many practice rigorous japa and medidation in the morning and keep fast. The blessings of the guru are sought for cutting the knot of avidya (ignorance) and for shedding peace, joy and light everywhere.

7. NAG PANCHMI is observed on the fifth day in the bright fortnight of Sravana. The day is dedicated to the worship of the great serpent Shesha or Ananta (infinite) on whom Vishnu is believed to recline during the interval between the dissolution of one universe and the creation of another.

Many offer milk to snakes. In the houses five or seven figures of snakes are made with wheat flour mixed with colours on a plank and are worshipped. In western districts the figures of snakes are made with charcoal mixed with milk on walls. At places wrestling bouts are arranged. Girls tie ropes to the branches of trees, prepare swings and enjoy swinging to competitive heights. The day is of normal festivity and enjoyment.

8. RAKSHA BANDHAN falls on the full-moon day of the month of Sravana. According to a legend when gods warred with the demons, Indrani, the consort of Indra, tied a rakhi (a silken amulet) around his wrist. It is said that by its virtue the god won back his celestial abode from his enemies. The festival is also called Salono which is the corruption of the Persian term Sal-i-nau, the new year. It marks the transition between the old and the new agricultural year.

On this day, sisters are in a position to claim anything from their brothers. They tie rakhis (a thread made of silk, cotton and gold thread) on the right wrists of their brothers or cousins and get some present in return. In some parts the wheat caplings are put on the ears of brother before tying rakhi. The Brahmins also tie them on the wrists of their Yajmans (clients). Before it is tied, he recites a mantra praying for his safety from all evils during the succeeding year and gets some money in return.

9. HARCHATYA or HALSHASTI is celebrated on Bhadra Badi 6. It is the ritual of worshipping the plough, more specially its blade on which a paste of powdered rice and turmeric are applied. It is decorated with flowers. The festival is celebrated with enthusiasm by every agricultural family in villages. Fields are not ploughed on this day. In the houses feasts are also arranged.

This festival is also observed by the married women with male issues. They observe fast which is terminated in the evening after a visit to Shiva temples. The Lord is invoked for the safety of the children.

10. KRISHNA JANAM ASHTMI Lord Krishna, the eighth incarnation of Vishnu was born on Bhadra Badi 8 at Mathura to destroy Kansa, the evil king of Mathura who was his maternal uncle. Krishna Janam Ashtmi is celebrated to commemorate the anniversary of his birth at midnight on this day. It is observed with enthusiasm and gaiety. A large number of people keep fast and spend the day in listening to songs sung in praise of the Lord. In many houses jhankies are arranged showing some aspects of his life, his image being placed on a jhoola (swing) in a decorated mandap.

The principal worship takes place at midnight. First the image of Lord Krishna is bathed in charnamrit (curd mixed with dry fruits and tulsi plant) and then the arti is performed. The charnamrit and prasad are distributed to all those present. The day-long fast is broken by taking charnamrit.

The festival is celebrated with great pomp in and around Mathura which had close associations with Lord Krishna. Pilgrims from different parts of the country visit Mathura, Gokul, Vindravan, etc., on the occasion.

11. HARTALIKA TEEJ is observed by women on Bhadra Sudi 3 in honour of Parvati. According to a legend Parvati disappeared from her father's (Himachal) place with her maid because he decided to marry her to Vishnu instead of Shiva whom she loved. She worshipped Shiva in a cave. Shiva was moved by the devotion of Parvati and appearing at her cave granted her the boon that she would be married to the man of her choice. Himachal was also reconciled and married her to Shiva with ceremony, pomp and splendour. Shiva, it is alleged, desired that Parvati should be worshipped under the name Hartalika.

A waterless fast is kept by women and girls. Images of Shiva, Parvati and her maid are worshipped in the houses. The Brahmins are fed and prasad is distributed before terminating the fast. The following day an emblem of Shiva made of metal or sand and earth is offered to a Brahmin with a full pot of rice and cereals.

12. GANESH CHATURTHI is celebrated in honour of Ganesh, the god of wisdom and prosperity on the fourth day of the waxing moon in the month of Bhadra. The festival is observed in commemoration of the birthday of Ganesh. An earthen image of the Lord is worshipped on this day in most of the houses. The idol is placed at a clean place on a new cloth or on a bunch of mango leaves kept on the floor or on a wooden seat. An earthen lamp with the wick soaked in ghee is lighted. Flowers, vermilion and rice made yellow with turmeric are sprinkled over it. The image is allowed to remain in its place for three days and is worshipped everyday. On the third day it is taken to a stream or tank and is immersed.

The following details of the ceremonies in the words of the Lord are given by B.A. Gupta in his book 'Hindu Holidays and Ceremonials'.

'In Bhadrapad, my gold or clay image should be worshipped. Take a pot without any puncture or hole in it, place it on a heap of rice and upon it place the image. Two cloths (shawls, etc.) should be wrapped round the pot. A heap of sweet balls should be offered. The worshipper should wear a red cloth. If he has no money to buy a gold image, he should buy one of silver. He should offer me dress, flowers and cash. He should then light the sacred fire; into this fire he should throw some pieces of sugarcane, and some sweet balls. The whole puja, including the image, pots, cloths, balls, fruits, cash, etc., should finally be given to a Brahmin'.

13. ANANT CHATURDASHI falls on the fourteenth of the light half of Bhadra. The festival is in honour of Vishnu who rests on the Shesha Nag during the intervals of creation.

A fast is observed and at about midday an image or picture of Vishnu is worshipped. Two red threads called Ananta are tied on the arm of the deity. Flowers and sweets are offered to the image and thereafter a lamp with a wick soaked in ghee is lighted and is waved in its front. The puja ends after the story of Anant has been read. The fast is then terminated.

14. PITRA VISARJAN AMAVASYA is observed on the last day of the dark fortnight of Asvina. This day is considered as specially sacred for the making of oblations and performance of religious ceremonies to the pitras (departed ancestors). It is believed that the souls of those who died during the year remain as spirits and join the ancestors only after the ceremony on the Pitra Visarjan Amavasya. The preceding fortnight is called Pitra Paksha. It is the special function of the nearest male relation of the deceased to offer water on each day of this fortnight in honour of departed ancestors on the tithi (the lunar day corresponding to that of their death). It is believed that the spirits of the departed leave the world of Yama, the destroyer, and come down to the world of the man to receive the worship and homage of their decendants.

There are strict rules regarding the rites; the offering should be made by the eldest son, or in his absence, by the next son, in a quiet and clean place. During the fortnight, cutting of the hair, shaving and paring of the nails is not permissible.

15. DURGA NAUMI or NAVARATRI is celebrated with great rejoicing on the ninth day of the bright fortnight of Asvina. Refreshed with the showers of the monsoon, nature also appears in her verdant glory to welcome the festival.

The nine-day festival is mainly dedicated to the Primordial Energy, Shakti, who is known as Durga, the consort of Shiva. In order to destroy evil forces and uphold the good, she is known to have different forms, as Maha Kali, Durga, Mahishasurmardini, Chamundi and Sakhambri. The legends woven round Navaratri are many but the most popular among these concerns

Shri Rama who propitiated Durga. She was pleased with his offerings and helped him in annihilating his mighty foe, Ravana.

The three essential observances during navaratra are fasting throughout the nine days, worship of goddess Parvati and alms giving. During the first seven days, the devotees observe a fast, taking only milk and fruits. The eighthday is a day of Durga puja. The devotees offer worship to Durga, offering her all kinds of delicacies made of wheat, rice and sugar. On this day, all the young unmarried girls in the family are honoured with gifts and food as they are considered to be human personification of Durga. Alms are given to poor and needy. The fast is broken on the ninth day. There is general rejoicing and the hope that there will be happiness in the coming year.

16. DUSSEHRA is one of the popular and colourful festivals celebrated all over India. It commemorates the victory of Lord Rama over the demon-king, Ravana (triumph of Good over Evil). Goddess Durga is also worshipped for it was by her grace that Rama was able to overcome Ravana. According to a legend, Rama propitiated Durga, who pleased with his offerings helped him to vanquich his mighty fee.

Dussehra is a ten-day festival. The story of the Ramayana is enacted in the Ram Lila which is an open-air dramatic representation of the principal incidents of the life of Rama. Vivid portrayals of the battle between Rama and Ravana are given in the Ram Lila. Vijay Dashmi observed on the tenth day is the culmination of the festival. Colossal paste-board effigies of the three principal demons—Ravana, Meghnada and Kumbhakarna—are erected packed with crackers and explosives. As the fiery arrow of Rama shoots through the effigy of Ravana, the effigies catch fire to the accompaniment of crackers. The festival then concludes.

The day is also dedicated to the worship of arms and weapons in Rajput and Kshatriya households. The celebrations include a midday worship, and there is a general feasting in the houscholds.

17. KARVA CHAUTH is observed exclusively by married women for the safety and prosperity of their husbands on the fourth day of the dark fortnight of Kartika. According to a legend a princess kept fast on this day in her father's house. The news of her husband's death came as she terminated the fast. On her way to his house she met Parvati, the consort of Shiva who blessed her with eternal happiness. The goddess then gave her some blood from her little finger which she put on the corpse of her dead husband as advised. Her husband came back to life.

Married women keep fast on this day. A karva (a small earthen pot) decorated with coloured rice paste and vermilion is used to offer water to moon when it appears. If it does not appear, an image of moon is made and worshipped. An elderly woman of the house tells the story of Karva Chauth and thereafter the fast is terminated. The men play no part in the festival.

18. DIWALI or the festival of lights is one of the most important Hindu festivals observed throughout the country on the Amavas day in Kartika. According to a popular belief it celebrates the victorious return of Lord Rama to his capital from exile. The festivities begin on Dhan Teras, two days before the Diwali. Pukka houses are whitewashed and mud houses are plastered with cow-dung and liquid mud. The purchase of a metal pot is considered auspicious on Dhan Teras.

The festival is celebrated at the end of the rainy season. It heralds the approach of winter. The weather is cooler and people begin to wear warmer clothing. Ploughing is nearly over in villages and there is less activity in the fields.

The next day is Chhoti Diwali or Narak Chaudas. An earthen lamp is lighted at night and placed at the entrance of each house. On the Diwali doorsteps are decorated with rice-flour designs and banana leaves. In the evening Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth and prosperity, and Ganesh, the god of wisdom, are worshipped. Every home, however lowly, is lighted with twinkling dipas (open lamps of burnt clay filled with mustard oil and fitted with a cotton wick); for it is believed that unlit houses are overlooked by the goddess. A few ghee lamps are also lit. The oil lamps line the top and are placed in every nook and corner of the house. In the villages lighted lamps are placed on carts, yokes, and in cattle-sheds.

It is customary to leave a lamp burning throughout the night at the place of puja for the welcome of goddess

Lakshmi. Gambling with cards or dice is customary on the occasion of the Diwali and the practice has been continuing for a long time.

It is a joyous festival replete with fireworks and crackers. By evening the gay children armed with crackers and with endless varieties of fireworks fill the streets. There is shrieking and laughter everywhere and many dance and sing jubilantly.

The Hindu commercial year begins with the Diwali and traders and businessmen open new account books.

19. GOBARDHAN PUJA is celebrated on the day after Diwali. The legend about its origin relates to the locking up of cattle by Indra and their release by Lord Krishna. It is said that Indra, in revenge, poured rain in torrents, but Lord Krishna held up a mountain in protection. Later the cattle dung was collected and the Gobardhan festival initiated.

In the houses, the courtyard is cleaned with water, and a crude figure of man is made of cow-dung. It is protected during the day by a cot placed over it. The puja is performed at about sunset. The head of the household lights an earthen lamp, sprinkles turmeric and rice grains on the figure and walks round it seven times followed by family members.

20. BHAIYA DOOJ is one of the most heart-warming of domestic festivals observed two days after Diwali. On this day the sister anoints the brother's forehead with turmeric with a few grains of rice stuck on to it and murmurs the affectionate blessing for his good health and welfare. The brother accepts this wish and give her presents according to his status in life. What makes this custom all the more heartfelt is that a woman can adopt a brother and can honour him on this day as her blood brother. This gracious gesture naturally is accepted with pride and affection by all men. The adopted sister, if anything, is given a very special treatment and participates in all the sisterly ceremonies on special occasions.

The women look forward anxiously to Bhai Dooj every year and celebrate it with the same hope as did her faminine ancestors from time immemorial. They go through the annual ritual with fondness preparing the brother's favourite sweets and choosing for him personal gifts with great care. Surely every sister feels happy as she puts the tika on the brother's forehead.

21. DEVUTHAN EKADASHI is celebrated to commemorate the awakening of the gods who have been asleep since the Bhadalia Naumi in Asadha. It is mainly a woman's festival observed on the eleventh day of the bright half of Kartika. They keep fast during the day and set up a pile of ten dung cakes in the evening to which the oldest woman present sets fire. They sit round the burning fire singing songs. The fast is terminated after the fire has burnt out. Boys are warned to stay away for it is believed that they might get eczema if they go near the puja.

The farmers welcome the festival by cutting sugar-cane. Sweet potato, singhara, and sugarcane are generally taken on this day.

22. KARTIKA PURNIMA falls on the full moon in Kartika. No special deity is worshipped but bath on the Ganga or in some nearby river or stream is regarded sacred. Many observe fast on this day. A big fair is held on the occasion on the banks of the Ganga at Garhmukteshwar about 25 miles from Meerut. Pilgrims from all parts of the country congregate there. The banks of the river present a glittering spectacle with tents springing up all along its banks. An atmosphere of festivity prevails in the mela campus. After an early morning dip in the river, the pilgrims give alms to poor and listen to religious discourses organised at numerous places in the mela. Many sing bhajans (devotional songs) and spend the day in joyous merriment. Before returning they take with them some Ganga water, candy balls and roasted rice grains for distribution among the neighbours.

23. SAKAT CHAUTH is mainly a festival for married woman having sons. It is celebrated on the fourth day of the dark fortnight of Magha. The women keep fast for the whole day. An image of the goddess made of flour is placed on a wooden plank with seven aasi (a preparation of rice, flour and jaggery) and boiled sakarkand (sweet potato). The figure of a goat is made on a metal plate with black gingili seeds. A betel nut used at the birth of the first male child is preserved and worshipped. The puja starts late in the evening after the moon has risen. Sindoor (vermilion powder) is sprinkled on the image and a lamp with four wicks is lit. An elderly woman of the house tells how goddess Sakat helped a poor woman but refused to help an avaricious, rich woman. The fast is then terminated by taking milk, sakarkand (sweet potatoes), etc.

24. MAKARA SANKRANTI is the day on which sun enters into the sign Capricornus (Makara). The day marks the return of sun to winter solstice. It is always about mid-January usually falling on the 14th January every year. There is no elaborate worship of any god or goddess. People go to the Ganga for a dip in the holy river.

The festival marks the return of the sun to the northern hemisphere. The change of its direction from the south to north is considered auspicious. The days are cool and everywhere there is a feasting, of a simple natural kind. Khichri (a preparation of rice and urd) is cooked and is taken with ghee and curd. A sweet made of jaggery and gingily called tilgul is the feature of Sankranti. Gingily is mixed with powderd jaggery and shaped into balls. The sweet is offered to friends and relations.

25. BASANT PANCHMI is a spring festival observed on the fifth day of the bright lunar fortnight of Magha. It indicates the end of winter and the beginning of spring. Basant Panchmi brings with it all the gifts of spring-bright sunshine and warmer days, the riotous colour of flowers, fruits and the ripening of crops. The yellow of the flowering mustard fields is the colour of the day. The people wear clothes dyed in pure, bright yellow. In the evening a branch of castor plant is planted in the north-east and firewood is heaped round it for Holi bonfire. The people start singing phags (Holi songs) from this day to the accompaniment of dholak (a drum) and other musical instruments. Malis (gardner) take mango blossoms to many families and are given money or grain. Many visit the temples of Shiva for worship.

26 SHIVRATRI is observed in honour of Shiva on the fourteenth day of the dark fortnight of Phalguna. There are many stories about the festival—one such is found in the Mahabharat; another in the Bharata Shakti Mahakavyam. The former concerns king Chitra Bhanu who in his previous birth was a bird-hunter. One day when out searching for game, he killed deer but was so exhausted that he slept under a bilva tree. Waking up, he found the whole forest enveloped in pitch darkness. He could not risk returning home and climbed up the tree for safety. It chanced to be the Shivratri. There was nothing to eat and hence he had to fast. He plucked the bilva leaves and threw them down. They fell upon a Lingam just beneath him under the tree. He returned home in the early morning, sold the deer, and bought food for his family. Just as they sat down for the meal a stranger arrived and he was first fed according to custom. This full Shivratri observance though accidental obtained for him rebirth as king Chitrabhanu.

One can observe Shivratri without difference of caste, school or sex. This is an important fast. People abstain from food and drink during the day and at night; they gather in the temple or in a holy place and offer bilva leaves and flowers to Shiva. The image is bathed in milk, honey, butter and curd. The telling of the story of the hunter during the night is believed to give much merit to the listeners. To keep the mind engaged throughout the night, the devotees sing and listen to holy discourses and musical recitals of Shiva's glory. In the morning they take their bath, worship Shiva, feed first some good soul, then eat to break their fast.

Varanasi is a stronghold of Shiva worship and there the fast and other rites are performed with great pomp and solemnity.

27. HOLI is one of the most popular and wide spread festivals observed on the full-moon day in the month of Phalguna. There are many legends concerning the origin of this gay festival. The most popular among these concerns Prahlad, the god fearing son of Hiranyakasipu, a king and tyrant. Prahlad was not shaken in spite of fearful persecution by his father and his demon aunt Holika—and continued worshipping Vishnu. Ultimately Holika took upon herself the responsibility of killing Prahlad. She was immune to death by fire and entered a blazing furnace with Prahlad for his destruction. When the fire died down, Holika was found burnt while Prahlad come out unscathed.

Holi has a particular appeal for the youths and boys. At the time of Basant Panchmi the main pole for the Holi bonfire is selected and boys start to collect wood for the fire. There is a sudden outburst of activity a few days before the festival. The young people show considerable ingenuity in arranging a sufficiently large pile of wood and cow-dung cakes. The pile is burnt at the auspicious moment. As it begins to burn, the women sing songs and rub gulal (red oxide) into each other's face. People return to their homes to sing and dance until late at night

The celebration continue on the next day known as Dhurairi. Riotously gay crowds fill the streets, squirting coloured water and rubbing gulal on the faces of all passer-by. From the highest to the lowest, young and old, all participate in the celebrations. At about midday the revelries ceases. In the evening the people put on new clothes, and visit one another. They greet each other and offer home-made sweets. The people beam with pleasure and there is the merry laughter; the joyful voices; the friendly groups leisurely wending their way; and everyone's home open and welcoming to everyone else.

OTHER COMMON FESTIVALS

1. BUDDHA PURNIMA The day is specially sacred to Buddhists for Siddhartha who later came to be known as the Buddha, was born on this day in 563 B. C. at Lumbini in Nepal. The day is also connected with two other sacred events of his life—the Enlightenment and Mahaparinivvana. For the Buddhists, it is a day dedicated to his memory and is celebrated with great enthusiasm. They spend the time in meditation, prayer and in taking the pledge to follow the path shown by Gautam Buddha.

2. MAHABIR JAYANTI is celebrated by the Jainis to commemorate the birth anniversary of Mahabir Swami, the founder of Jainism. It falls on the eighth day of the bright fortnight of Chaitra. Prayers are offered in Jain temples, religious descourses are held and lectures are delivered by the preachers on the life and teachings of Lord Mahabir. Towards the evening, they form themselves in a procession and go round the town singing songs to the accompaniment of music. Where the Jainis are in small number, the occasion is marked by community gathering, prayers and discourses on the teachings of the Lord.

3. GURU NANAK'S BIRTHDAY The birthday of Guru Nanak, the founder of Sikhism is celebrated by the Sikh community with great enthusiasm on the full-moon day in Kartika. For two days and nights preceding the festival there is Akhand Path (read continuously from beginning to end) of Granth Sahib in the gurdwaras. In many houses it is also read continuously from end to end. Maha Prasad consisting of halwa is prepared and distributed in gurdwaras.

The same day, the Granth Sahib is taken out in an impressive proccession through the principal streets. Five Sikhs with drawn swords in their hands walk before the sacred book. The richly caprisoned horses, the musical bands and the Sikhs marching and brandishing their swords—all these give colour to the proccession.

COMMON MUSLIM FESTIVALS

1. RAMZAN is observed during the ninth month of the Muslim year viz., Ramzan. The Muslims held this month in great esteem, for it was in the month of Ramzan that Prophet Mohammad while meditating in a cave near Mecca is believed to have acquired Quran sent by Allah through Gaberil. The Muslims, as far as possible, keep fast throughout the entire month taking food between dusk and dawn. They get up early in the morning so that they may take their food before dawn. The fast is broken only after sunset and in many places this time is indicated for the convenience of the public by bursting a fire cracker. They observe complete fast during the day time avoiding such habits as smoking, chewing and snuffing. The thirty days of fasting are over with the coming of the new moon. Id-ul-Fitr or the breaking of the fast is observed on the 1st day of Shawwal.

Id-ul-Fitr is observed with great rejoicing and festivity. The people wear new clothes and go for the namaz to idgah (an open place where a wall is constructed on a raised platform on the western outskirts of the village or town). It is conducted by the imam (Muslimdivine), the one distinguishing feature being that the rich and the poor stand together in a row irrespective of social status. The Id namaz is seldom missed by any one. After namaz, the relations and friends meet and greet each other. They thoroughly enjoy themselves.

The women apply mehndi on their hands and feet, wear their best jewellery and gorgeous dress. They celebrate the festival with equal enthusiasm. Sweet preparation consisting of vermicelli, milk and date is made, and portions of it are sent to friend and relations.

2. ID-UZ-ZUHA is observed all over by the Muslims on the tenth day of Zilhij. It is also known as Id-i-Qurban or Baqar-Id and is observed by the followers of Islam both as a day of sacrifice and as a great festival. 'The legend goes that before the birth of prophet Mohammad there was Ibrahim (Abraham) a prophet who condemned polytheism and animal sacrifice before images. It is he that constructed Kaba. He beheaded the minor idols secretly, placed the sword in the hand of the presiding deity and proclaimed that the crime was committed by the deity itself. The enraged mob threw him into the fire but the angels and God saved him. God commanded that he should sacrifice his only son Ismail, begot at the ripe age of eighty. Though Satan tried to dissuade him, Ibrahim executed the Lord's command. However, it was only a test and his son was restored to life. An orthodox version is that God desired Ibrahim to sacrifice to him the best he loved. The best he loved was his youngest son Ismail or Ishmail who was made to prostrate blind-folded. Ibrahim with his eyes covered, repeating the words Bismillahi Allah-Ho-Akbar (with the name of God who is great) drew the sword across his neck. In the meanwhile, however, the arch angel Garbriel snatching Ismail from underneath the blade, substituted a broad tailed sheep in his stead. Abraham unfolding his eyes observed to his surprise and joy the sheep slain and his son standing behind. God ordained that a cow (or a bull) or a sheep or a goat be sacrified in his place. Animal sacrifice appears to have come into vogue from then'.[1]

On the morning of the festival, the Muslims go to the idgah without having their breakfast and offer their namaz. After the namaz, the worshippers return to their respective homes and offer the sacrifice. It is enjoined that every Muslim should sacrifice an animal for himself; but if this is not possible financially, it is permitted to sacrifice one animal for the household. The animal which may be a camel, a cow or ship or a goat must be without defect of any kind. The general rule is that the head of the household should himself slay the animal but, if for any reason, he cannot do so, he may call in a butcher to slay it. The meat of the sacrificed animal is cooked for the first meal. It is also sent to relations and neighbours. The poor should also receive some portions of the flesh of the slaughtered animal.

The festival lasts three days and is observed with great rejoicing. Chapaties, sweets and bowls of khima are the only preparations for the dinner to which friends and relations are invited. The well-to-do persons give alms to the poor.

3. MUHARRAM is the first month of the Muslim Calendar year. It is also the name given to the days of mourning spent by the Muslims in general and Shias in particular to commemorate the tragedy of Karbala in which Imam Hussain, the younger grandson of Prophet Mohammad was brutally speared to death in 61 Hijra. A short account of the tragic event is given below:

"Ali was the fourth Kaliph of Islam; on his death a general named Moaviah installed himself in his place, and when he died his son Yazeed was appointed successor. The people appealed to Imam Hussain at Mecca to free them from the intolerable yoke of Yazeed and he started with a party consisting of his family and a few devoted followers for Kufa. On the way he encamped at Karbala near the banks of the Euphrates, and there he was surrounded. After a conference, a fight began and Hussain with his party were all slaughtered."[2]

Muharram is a ten-day period of intense mourning for the followers of Islam. Ceremonies on a large scale are performed in Shia homes and imambaras. In Lucknow, imambaras are decorated profusely and are brilliantly illuminated on the 8th and 9th of Muharram. On one side of the imambara are kept the taziyahs intended to represent the mausoleum erected on the plains of Karbala over the remains of Imam Hussain. They are structures made of bamboo covered with tinsel and profusely ornamented. Often they are very costly. The alam or standard of Imam Hussain was of green colour with a five finger design upon it. The alams, which are commonly made of silver, copper and brass, are placed against the walls.

Every day large crowds of people assemble in the imambaras where majlis is are held. In the centre, recitars recite the Marsiyah (an elegiac poem in honour of the martyred Hussain) and at each pause there are lamentations and beating of the breasts with hands by the audience with cries of 'Hussain ! Hussain.' The professional reciters discourse on the episodes of the tragedy. Men and women beat their breasts and weep and wail. The Marsiyahs are also recited in individual homes.

[2] Faith, Fairs and Festivals of India by C. H. Buck (1917).

For the first six days Majlisis are held but on the seventh day the 'Alam-i-Qasim' is taken out in public procession. This represents the marriage of Qasim, the son of Hasan with the daughter of Hussain just before his death. The standard of Qasim is carried by a man on foot in the procession. After parading the principal thoroughfares the procession returns to the imambara. Next day a richly caparisoned horse, representing Imam Hussain's horse, Duldul, is taken out in the procession. On the evening before the tenth day, the taziyahs and alams are taken out in procession. The Shias and the Sunnies take out the tazihahs by different routes to different places. The people march bareheaded, shouting the names of the martyrs, beating their breasts and weeping and wailing to the accompaniment of heart rending dirges.

The tenth day called ashura is the culminating point of the festival. The taziyahs are takenin procession for burial outside the village or town to a large open spot near water which represents the plain of Karbala. Some taziyahs are small and carried by one person while others are so large that they require a dozen or more men to carry them. The people then burn incense, recite the Marsiyahs and return home.

4. CHELLUM is the last ritual observance of Muharram observed by all Muslims on the fourtieth day of Raze-Ashoora. Generally, the Sunnis keep taziyahs on the ninth day of Muharram and bury them on the tenth day; but the Shias always keep them on the first or a day earlier of Muharram and many of them do not bury them on the tenth day. These taziyahs are buried after the usual matam on the chellum day. The mourning period is over on this day in Muslim houses.

In Lucknow, the Shias bury the taziyahs which are not buried on the tenth day of Muharram on the Chellum. The taziyahs and the alams are taken out into procession to the Dargah Hazrat Abbas; matam is held there and then the taziyahs and alams are wrapped in a piece of cloth and brought back home. The mourning period does not end in Shia homes on this day as elsewhere. It finally ends on 8th of Rabi-ul-Awwal.

5. BARAWAFAT is observed by all Muslims on the twelfth day of the month Rabi-ul-Awwal in commemoration of the death of Prophet Mohammad. It is also believed that Prophet Mohammad was born on this day. The festival is also called Milad-un-Nabi. Both in private houses and mosques, meetings are held at which the story of the birth, miracles and death of the prophet are recited. They keep awake throughout the night and namaz (prayer) is said. Quran is recited in many homes. On this day food is cooked and after fatihahs have been read over it, it is distributed to the poor. The well-to-do entertain their relatives and friends to a feast.

6. SHAB-E-BARAT is observed on the night of the fourteenth of Shaban. It is believed that God records the duties of the men for the ensuing year on this night. The halwa, bread, etc., are prepared for the poor and the Fatihah is said over them for the benefit of deceased kin. The whole night is spent either in recitation of Quran or in prayer, praying for the bounties of the God on the family and for protection from evil. There is general merry-making and display of fireworks. The explosion of crackers and the use of large varieties of fireworks present colour and a fairy land atmosphere against the darkness of the night. There is general feasting in the houses.

COMMON CHRISTIAN FESTIVALS

1. NEW YEAR'S DAY The 1st of January is celebrated as the New Year's Day by all Christians. Celebrations commences on the night of December 31 an hour or two before midnight with the distribution of sweets to the assembly. Exactly at 12 O' clock in the midnight, a speech is delivered ushering in the New Year. Songs are sung individually and in chorus in praise of Christ and about the glory of God. The function concludes by a service and mutual exchange of greetings for the New Year by these assembled there.

The day begins with an early morning service in every Christian home. Prayers are said for blessings in the ensuing year. After wearing new clothes, the family sits down for a sumptuous breakfast. And then there is the exchange of gifts and presents, the opening and reading of greeting cards from far away. With what eager anticipation is every brightly-coloured, neatly wrapped parcel opened. Every one looks happy, fortified with the thought that they are well-remembered by old friends and relations. In many homes, the greeting-cards and gifts are exhibited on a table in a bright decorated room.

Church service is attended by all. It usually lasts two hours between 9 and 11 a.m. The special prayers bring the function to a close. At home the visitors are entertained with choice sweetmeats and cakes. There is the sending out of trays of homemade sweets to friends and neighbours, and then follows the visiting and receiving of visits. In villages the people go out in their new clothes and exchange greetings with all classes of people. The day marks the end of week-old festivities which start with Christmas.

2. GOOD FRIDAY Christians observe Good Friday as the day on which Jesus Christ laid down his life for the good of humanity. It is probably a corruption of 'God's Friday' and is a part of the celebration of the Easter and comes immediately before the Easter Sunday.

The day is marked by a specially rigorous fast. No true Christian fails to observe fast on this day. The religious-minded elders observe the fast very strictly and engage themselves in prayers. 'In the Roman church the Good Friday ritual at present observed is marked by many special features... The alter and the officiating clergy are draped in black and the gospel for the day consists of the history of the Passion as recorded by St. John. This is often sung in plain chant by three priests, one representing the 'narrator,' the other two the various characters of the story. The singing of this is followed by bidding prayers... Then follows the 'adoration of the cross'.* In the Protestant church the service consists of 'prayers, addresses on the seven last words from the cross' and interval for meditation and silent prayer.' * Only seven persons speak, the significance being that the Lord spoke only seven words from the cross before His death. Each speech is preceded and followed by a prayer.

3. EASTER is one of the most joyous of Christian festivals observed on Sunday following Good Friday. The Christian belief in the resurrection of Christ is celebrated with great favour by the members of the community on the occasion. The religious ceremonies of the Roman Catholic and of the Protestant Church is celebration of the Easter Sunday and the resurrection are always elaborate. The church (Catholic) and the altar are adorned with the best ornaments that it possesses. They are also decorated with a profusion of flowers.

The morning service is attended by everyone. They sing in praise of the Lord after which there is a sermon by a learned preacher. After the service 'Lord's Supper' is observed. Bread and diluted wine in little quantities representing the flesh and blood of Jesus are taken. They then return to their respective homes and entertain friends and relatives to feast.

The practice of eating eggs on Easter Sunday and of giving them as gifts to friends or to children to is common. 'Various other customs and traditions are associated with Easter, many of them surviving into the 20th Century, specially in more remote places.' It is customary to wear some new article of clothing or personal adornment on Easter.

'Among the Catholics, it is a favourite time for haptism'. New born babies are brought to the church and Christianed with Biblical names by the pastor. The members of the Christian family are haptised as a token of rebirth, affirming their belief in Christ.

4. CHRISTMAS is the birthday celebration of Jesus Christ observed on the 25th December every year. A few days before the festival, the house is cleaned, white-washed and decorated with buntings, etc. The visits of near ones is eagerly awaited for it is truly a time for family reunion. Christmas shopping is done and shops and homes take on a festive air.

The church is decorated with buntings, foliage and other seasonal decorations. The evening of 24th December is called the 'Christmas Eve' and special prayers and services are held in churches. Groups of Christians sing carols to the accompaniment of musical instruments. The morning church service is attended by every one at which a sermon is delivered and prayers offered. The day is spent in merriment, exchanging greetings and inviting friends and relatives to the Christmas dinner. The well-to-do Protestants prepare the 'Christmas tree' decorating it with coloured paper, candles and multicoloured bulbs. Gifts and greetings, received from friends and relatives are conspicuously exhibited on it.

The Roman Catholics do not have the Christmas tree. Instead there is the creche or crib, a reproduction of the scene of Lord's Nativity in Bethlehem. "The crib holds the plate of honour in Catholic churches and houses and is a thing of rough and simple beauty; low green hills; blue streams; shepherds with their sheep; angles having from invisible threads; Joseph, mary and the infant; and above all a dark night sky with the great star of Bethlehim shining directly over the holy place."

Gifts are exchanged and greetings cards are sent to friends and relatives. Sweets, balloons, toys, etc., are placed in stockings for children on Christmas Eve at midnight and they are told in the morning that Santa Claus who is an imaginary old person with a white flouring beard and a red snow suit visited to fill their stockings with Christmas presents.

Christmas is celebrated by all the Christians, rich and poor. The well-to-do celebrate it in an elaborate manner. At places dramas are held depicting the life and teachings of Jesus Christ and of several of the saints. The Christmas celebrations continue for the whole week and end on the New Year's Day.
