INTRODUCING THE STATE

Manipur is situated between 23°-50′ and 25°-41′ north and 93°-2′ and 94°-47′ east, and covers an area of 8,622·3 sq. miles. On the north, it is bounded by the district of Naga Hills, on the west by Cachar, on the south by the Lushai Hills and Burma and on the east by Burma.

Till October, 1949, when it acceded to India, it was a native state under the Maharaja of Manipur. Under the new Constitution, it is a Part C State, administered directly by the Centre under a Chief Commissioner. There is a Deputy Commissioner for Manipur, who has only recently been appointed.

The greater part of the State consists of ranges of hills, whose general trend is north and south. Towards the east, the direction of the upthrust is not so well-defined and the country lying between Manipur and the Kubo Valley consists of a tumbled mass of hills with a general tendency to run east and west. In the centre of the State is the valley of Manipur, about 30 miles in length and 20 in breath.

Mountain System:—The following list of the hill ranges of Manipur is taken from the Gazetteer by Captain Dun:—The ranges on the west are (1) Nunjaibong ; (2) Kalanaga ; (3) Chakka-Nungba ; (4) Kaupum (really only a spur from the Laimatol) ; (5) Kopru Laimatol. On the north (1) The Kunho spurs ; (2) Thumion-Mayang-Khang ; (3) Laisom ; (4) Sirohifara. On the east (1) Sarameti or Ching-angauba ; (2) Somra ; (3) Kassom ; (4) Nupitel or Mapethe ; (5) Yomadung. On the south (1) Haobi.

The greatest altitude is attained in the extreme north where Mao Thana is overhung by a peak nearly 10,000′ feet above the level of the sea. The hills run, as a rule, in irregular serrated ridges, rising here and there into peaks, but west of the valley assumes a more open and rolling character. Between Cachar and Manipur, they are covered with dense ever-green forests and bamboo jungle. In the country to the west, pine trees are common.

Rivers:—The rivers of the valley take their rise in the hills towards the north. On the east, is the Thoubal, which rises in the hills not far from Ukhrul. West of the Thoubal, is the Iril, which rises about fifteen miles east of Maram, and after skirting the town of Imphal falls, like the Thoubal, into the Imphal river. Through the capital itself flow the Imphal and the Nambol. The last-named river falls into the Loktak, from which it emerges under the name of Kortak. This stream eventually joins the Imphal, and another river called Nambol, which rises near Kangjupkhul and flows to the west of Imphal and the Loktak. Their united waters, which are known as the Achauba, Imphal, or Manipur river, finally fall into the Kendat and thus into the Chindwin. In the hills these rivers are bright and sparkling streams, flowing along over their rocky beds, but in the valley they assume the disagreeable characteristics often found in the rivers that traverse an alluvial plain. In the cold weather they are shallow muddy streams, creeping along at the bottom of the deep channels which they have cut through the alluvium, but in times of flood they rise to a considerable height and sometimes overtop their banks.

Hill Rivers:—In the eastern hills there are numerous small streams which drain into the Yu and thence into the Chindwin. They flow through deep valleys, and are liable to sudden floods which render them difficult to cross, but only one of them, the Maglang, has any depth of water in the winter. The principal rivers in the western hills are the Barak and its tributary the Irang. The Barak rises about ten miles east of Mao Thana, and flows a westerly course as far as Kairong, where it crosses the Manipur-Kohima road. Here it takes a bend towards the north, and then turns westward, till it reaches the north-west corner of the State. The river then curves away towards the south, and flows the whole way to Tipaimukh along the eastern side of the low main range of hills which separates Cachar from Manipur. At Tipaimukh the Barak turns sharply to the north and as far as Jirighat flows almost parallel with, though in the opposite direction to, the section of the river that lies between Kalanaga and Tipaimukh. In this portion of its course it forms the boundary between Cachar and Manipur, but at Jirighat it turns again to the west and after a tortuous course through districts of Cachar and Sylhet, falls into the old bed of the Brahmaputra near Bhairab bazar. The principal tributary of the Barak is the Irang, which rises a little to the west of Kairong, and falls into it about 20 miles north of Tipaimukh. Two other rivers of some importance, crossed by the traveller from Cachar to Manipur, are the Jiri, which for a considerable distance forms the western boundary of the State, and the Makru. None of the other streams that flow along the valleys and carry off the drainage of the slopes on either side are of sufficient size to merit special mention. In the dry season the hill rivers consist, as a rule, of still deep pools linked together by shallow rocky reaches. In the rains they are liable to sudden freshets, and, though there is no very great depth of water in the river, the current is extremely swift and strong. The Barak at Kairong only contains a few inches of water in the cold weather, but, during the rains, carts used sometimes to be detained for several days till the subsidence of the flood.

The Loktak Lake:—The Loktak is the largest sheet of water to be found anywhere in Manipur, or Assam, and is said to be 8 miles long and 5 miles wide at the broadest part. It is a broad, shallow sheet of water and is just such a pool as is left in a saucer-like depression when a marsh dries up. Viewed from above, the appearance of the Loktak is distinctly tame, and there is nothing romantic or picturesque in its surroundings. On the western side, there are remains of a row of hills whose bases have evidently been arranged with the alluvium and whose summits now form steep and precipitous islands. The largest of these is called the Tanga and is a place to which criminals used occasionally to be deported by the previous rulers. Here and there, on the broad surface of the lake are floating islets formed from the matted roots of aquatic plants. Some of the larger ones are used as camping places by the fisher folk, who build their huts there, though the island rocks at each step and the water oozes up in each footprint. Dotted about the valley are numerous jhils which only differ from the Loktak in point of size and depth. Many of them, in fact, dry up completely in the winter time or only contain a few pools in the lowest levels. The Lumphel and Tayel jhils near Imphal are valuable as grazing grounds. Some of the jhils are sold for considerable sums as fisheries.

General appearance of the Valley :—The traveller who enters Manipur by the Cachar-Bishnupur road obtains a magnificent view of the valley from the summit of the Laimatol hill. For miles his path has lain across range after range of mountains covered with forest so dense that it is seldom that he can see as much as a quarter of a mile before him. Suddenly all is changed. The eastern face of the hill, as it slopes before him to the valley, is covered with short grass, and rolling downs take the place of the dense tropical forest that lies concealed on the western side of the ridge. The valley lies before him like a map. At the northern end, some twenty miles away, are the dark-green groves that conceal the town of Imphal. Elsewhere are level rice fields, and land covered with grass, about which are dotted the clumps of trees that mark the villages. These villages are much more scattered that they are in the densely populated portions of Assam. They do not stretch in one long continuous line, but stand out here and there, clear and well defined. Low ridges of hills stand up above the alluvium, and sheets of water gleam in the shallow depressions on the plain. To the south, the Loktak sparkles in the sun, and on every side the view is bounded by hills.

Climate and Rainfall :—Lying as it does at an elevation of 2,?00' feet above the level of the sea, the climate of the Valley is generally cool and pleasant. At the hottest season of the year the thermometer in a bungalow seldom rises above 83° F. The average rainfall at Imphal is about 70″ inches in the year, but it is much more variable than is usual in Assam. About half the rain falls in three months, June to August, and the spring rains are not so heavy as in many places of Assam.

Earthquakes :—On January 10th, 1869, a severe shock of earthquake was felt at Manipur. The Maharaja's house, which was built of brick, collapsed, killing four persons and wounding several more. The upper story of the residency subsided, the treasury was levelled with the ground, and numerous other buildings wrecked. The ground opened and sand and mud were spouted forth, and the beds of the rivers were choked by the debris which fell into them. The only persons in the State, who were known to have been killed by the earthquake, were the four who were buried in the ruins of the Raja's place. The great earthquake of June 12th, 1897, was distinctly felt. The ground rocked, trees waved to and fro and though exposed to a storm, and the houses swayed. The actual damage done was, however, insignificant.

Fauna :—The larger kinds of fauna are not nearly so numerous as in the Brahmaputra Valley, in spite of the fact that a great portion of the State is very sparsely peopled. Elephants are found, but are by no means common. The bison or mithuns is occasionally seen; wild buffaloes are quite unknown.

Of deer there are several varieties: the sambar, the barasingha, the hog deer, the barking deer and the Manipuri deer or the Sangnai, which is found not only in Manipur but in Burma, the Malay Peninsula, Cambodia and Hainan. Leopards are fairly common and tigers occasionally killed. Two varieties of black bear are found in the hills and in the tops of the highest mountains, the serow is occasionally to be seen. Other animals include wild cats, wild pigs, which are fairly common, otters, monkeys and rats. Wild duck of various kinds and wild geese are extraordinarily plentiful and the surface of the Loktak is often covered with these birds. There is excellent snipe shooting and pheasants, partridges, wood cock and jungle fowl are also to be had.

HISTORY.

McCulloch reports that, according to the most credible traditions, the valley was originally occupied by several tribes, the principal of which were named, Koomal, Looag, Moirang, and Meithei, all of whom came from different quarters of the compass. The Koomal are said to have been originally the most powerful and after them the Moirang; but ultimately the Meitei subdued them all and formed them into a single people. Tradition says that the Moirangs came from the south, the country of the Kukis and the Chins; the Koomal from the east, where the Tankhuls now are found; and the Meithei and Looang from the hills to the north-west, which are at present occuppied by the Kakuis and the Mao Maram Nagas. The Manpuris themselves however claim a western and Hindu descent.

The modern history of Manipur may be said to date from 1714 when Pamheiba, or Gharib Nawaz, accidentally shot his adopted father, thereby clearing his way to the throne. He occupied the throne for 40 years and under his guidance Manipur attained to a position of considerable power and dignity. Several expeditions were led across the frontier into Burma and it is said that a Burmese Raja was eastablished on the throne at Ava, who acknowledged the Supremacy of Manipur. But the event which was fraught with the most fateful consequences for the people was the introduction, or, as some will have it, the revival of Hinduism. Another innovation was the re-cission of the law prescribing the execution of the Raja's surplus sons, a liberal measure from which Gharib Nawaz was himself the first to suffer. In 1754, while leading an expedition into Burma, accompanied by his eldest son Sham Shaee, Jeet Shaee, one of his younger sons, sent a force which surprised and killed them. Jeet Shaee himself reigned for only five years and was then driven out by his brother to die an exile in the Jaintia Hills. This was but the beginning of the dreary tale of treason, rebellion and intrigue, which largely feature in the modern history of Manipur. Like the priest of Aricia, most of the rulers of the State have remained seated on the Gadi only so long as they have been able to repel the perpetual assaults that have been made upon it by other aspirants. The thorne of Manipur quickly changed the hands three times between 1754 and 1764. The Burmese invaded the country in 1763 and though they only occupied it for a few days, they were guilty of terrible atrocities and carried away with them a large number of slaves. There was a second Burmese invasion in 1765 in which the Manipuris were defeated at Tammu, during the reign of Jaie Singh (1764-98). Jaie Singh was compelled to take refuge in Cachar. Manipur was then given up to anarchy and confusion, one pretender following another in quick succession on the throne, some of them being Manipuris and some Burmese. In the short space of 60 years between 1764 and 1824, Manipur passed through a very dark period of its history, and was invaded no less than four times by the Burmese; for the last five years of this period they had remained in occupation of the country. No less than six times was the reigning Raja driven from the gadi, not taking into account the numerous puppet princes who followed one another in quick succession during the two distinct periods in which the country was reduced to a hopeless state of anarchy. Twice had the reigning prince been murdered by the order of his own brother. During this period, Manipur suffered from a state of anarchy for which it will be difficult to find a parallel. After the appointment of a political Agent in 1835, the Manipuris were practically guaranteed against invasion from without, and the troubles that beset them were all internal. In the short space of 32 years, between 1834 and 1866, no less than 13 attempts were made upon the throne by filibustering adventurers from Cachar and there were no less than two attmpts at revolution from within. Rajas of Manipur have many sons, the right of rimogeniture is but imperfectly acknowledged, and any descendent of the ruling hose who felt that he had the very smallest prospect of success, did not hesitate to take an attempt upon the gadi. There was another revolution in the State in 890, which succeeded in driving Sur Chandra Singh from his palace, at the instigation of Senapati Tekendrajit. The Government of India recognised the new claimant, but decided that Tekendrajit should be deported from the State. When the Chief Commissioner, with an escort of 400 sepoys, personally proceeded to Manipur to carry out these orders, he, with all the British officers, was murdered while holdig a durbar. A British force was at once despatched to Manipur, which speedily reduced it to order. The acting Raja with his brother and Tekendrajit, were tried before a special commission, sentenced to death and hanged on the gallows erected on the polo ground. After 1891, the political Agent administered the State during the minority of the Raja.

POPULATION.

During the decade 1941-51, the general health of the people of Manipur remained good except in the year 1950 during which an epidemic of cholera broke out in Mayang Imphal, Thoubal and Moirang. In Imphal area also it slightly prevailed but mortality was not so heavy as in the rural areas. Unfortunately no statistics of birth and death can be given as there is no birth and death registration in the State. In 1947 there was high flood causing extensive damage to crops, for which land revenue remission amounting to more than 2 lakhs of rupees was given. The Great Earthquake of 1950 left the State practically unharmed. The excessive rainfall of 1947 was followed two years later by a very severe drought in 1950, the severity of which was unprecedented in the course of the last 80 years. The population of the State in 1951 was 5,77,635 against 5,12,069 in 1941, an increase of 65,566. This total increase is almost identical with that registered in the previous decade, which was to the extent of 66,463 and shows an increase of 12.8% over its 1941 population against 14.92 registered in the preceding decade. This is the lowest percentage rate of increase in the last 3 decades. The present density of Manipur is 67 persons per square mile, an advance of 8 over its last decade's figure. In 1921 the density was only 45 per square, which means that the density of Manipur is increased by almost 50% in the last 30 years, showing how steadily and rapidly the pressure of population in the State is increasing. The whole of the State being hill area with a density less than 100, in subsidiary table I(1) it features in the very first group. As the State authorities were not able to supply the figures of its subdivisions, I am not in a position to work out its density subdivisionwise, nor am I able to compare their growth of population in the subdivisions in the last 2 decades because in the previous censuses the practice was to give these figures by Panahs. The State has now been divided into 3 Plains and 5 Hills subdivisions. The majority of the population, as is natural, lives in Manipur Plains, more especially in the Sadar subdivision, which alone has a population of 2,70,972. Jiribam is the smallest subdivision with a population of 7,541 only, while Thoubal is the second largest with 1,23,754.

2. The population increase in Manipur during the decade shows no unusual features, being exactly in line with its tendency in the past; only 1,009 refugees find a shelter in the State. All of them being agriculturists have been rehabilitated without any difficulty. There is very little immigration into the State. As many as 571 lakhs out of its total population were born in the State, remaining only 6 lakhs coming from outside.

INTRODUCING THE STATISTICS.

In the past, village statistics for each district used to be printed after the Census, giving the population of each village and showing the distribution of communities and of literate persons. In view of the importance of the 1951 Census, at which in addition to the usual population data, valuable information was collected concerning the social and economic life of the people, it was decided to publish a District Census Handbook containing the more important Census abstracts and tables.

The Primary Census Abstract gives the details of each village by the 8 Livelihood Classes. There are five general population tables of the 'A' Series, three economic tables of the 'B' Series, five household and age (sample) tables of the 'C' Series, seven social and cultural tables of the 'D' Series and one table 'E' giving summary figures for the district and tahsils. As far as possible, these tables furnish data with break-up for Census tracts within the district.

At the 1951 Census, the economic classification was substituted for the classification based on religion. The people have been divided into two broad livelihood categories, namely, the agricultural classes and the non-agricultural classes. There are four agricultural classes defined as below :—

(I) Cultivators of land wholly or mainly owned and their dependants.

(II) Cultivators of land wholly or mainly un-owned and their dependants.

(III) Cultivating labourers and their dependants.

(IV) Non-cultivating owners of land, agricultural rent receivers and their dependants.

There are similary four non-agricultural classes defined as persons including dependants who derive their principal means of livelihood from :—

(V) Production other than cultivation.

(VI) Commerce.

(VII) Transport.

(VIII) Other services and miscellaneous sources.

The above eight classes have been referred to as livelihood classes.

Each of the above eight livelihood classes has been divided into three sub-classes with reference to the economic status as below :—

(i) Self-supporting Persons ;

(ii) Non-earning Dependants ; and

(iii) Earning Dependants.

(i) A 'Self-supporting Person' is one who earns an income in cash or kind sufficient at least for his own maintenance.

(ii) A 'Non-earning Dependant' is a person who has no income of his own either in cash or in kind.

(iii) An 'Earning Dependant' is a person who earns a regular (not casual) income not sufficient even for his own maintenance. It includes seasonal income also.

All self-supporting persons are, ordinarily, economically active. But there are certain classes and groups which constitute an exception to this rule. These are mentioned bellow :—

(i) All self-supporting persons of Agricultural Class IV.

(ii) The following groups of self-supporting persons who are included in Non-Agricultural Class VIII, and derive their principal means of livelihood from miscellaneous sources (otherwise than through economic activity) :—

(a) Non-working owners of non-agricultural property,

(b) Pensioners and remittance holders,

(c) Persons living on charity and other persons with unproductive occupations, and

(d) Inmates of penal institutions and asylums.

Economically active persons engaged in industries and services are classified in economic table B—III into the ten divisions and 88 subdivisions mentioned above, and are further divided into three sections, namely :—

(i) Employers,

(ii) Employees, and

(iii) Independent Workers.

A person should be treated as an 'Employer' only if he has necessarily to employ any person in order to carry on the business from which he secures his livelihood, provided that employee is regularly employed and derives his Principal Means of Livelihood by such employment. Part-time or casual employment which does not provide the Principal Means of Livelihood of the employee should not be taken into account. A person employing a cook or other servants for domestic services is not an employer.

An 'Employee' is a person who ordinarily works under some other person for a salary or wage in cash of kind, as the means of earning his livelihood. Managers, Superintendents, Agents etc. and all Government servants should be recorded as employees only even though they may have power of employing or appointing subordinate officers or assistants.

An 'Independent worker' means a person who is not employed by anyone else and who does not employ anybody else in order to earn his livelihood.

The Age (Sample) tables were prepared from the original enumeration slips by taking a ten-per-cent sample in accordance with the following instructions of the Registrar General, India.

The 'D' Series social and cultural tables include Table D-V relating to the displaced persons giving particulars about their arrival into India. Table D-VI gives details of the non-Indian nationals and Table D-VII is designed to show the distribution of educated man-power among the different livelihood classes.

Important population data for the district and the tahsils have been summarised in Table 'E' which also gives the classification of the people by livelihood classes.

The main Report of the 1951 Census for the States of Assam, Tripura and Manipur will be found in two parts entitled "Census of India 1951-Volume XII-Assam, Manipur and Tripura." Part I. contains an analysis of the statistics collected and Part II. statistics arranged in different tables for the States, their natural divisions and districts.

In addition to these Volumes there are National Registers of Citizens prepared for every village and ward and maintained in manuscript giving important census details for each person. These registers are preserved as permanent records in the district headquarters.

From the data collected at the Census of the Small-scale Industries, three tables were prepared which are included in the District Census Handbook, giving village or wardwise distribution of small-scale industrial establishments, employment in textile establishments for Census tracts and employment in non-textile establishments for the same tracts.

While the accuracy in respect of the details actually recorded by the Enumerators during the Census of the Small-scale Industries has been reported to be good, the District Officers were of the view that there was tendency towards under enumeration of the establishments, due to the failure of the enumerating staff to make intensive efforts to discover all establishments within the areas allotted to them. The figures in the tables for the Small-scale Industries should, therefore, be regarded as illustrative of the nature of small industries prevalent in the different parts of the district and should not be relied upon as giving accurate number of specific type of establishments in different localities.

CENSUS TRACT—SAMPLE POPULATION AND DISPLACED PERSONS.

Census statistics of the urban and rural population can be studied in various ways. The results of such studies in comparing the conditions and characteristics of the urban and rural people in the matter of births, deaths, sex composition, sanitation, levels of living etc. would be of great value in economic planning and development of social welfare work in the State and its different parts.

Each district was, therefore, divided for purposes of the Census into a number of rural and urban tracts according to the size of the population.

Preparatory to the sorting and tabulation of census information, rural and urban areas of a district were grouped into Census Tracts on the basis of instructions issued by the Registrar General of India. With the approval of the Registrar General of India, the following rural and urban tracts were formed in the case of RURAL.

Tract No.

R/54. Rest of Sadar Subdivision.

R/55. Mao, Ukhrul, Tengnoupal, Churachandpur, Jiribam, Tamelong Subdivisions.

R/13. Imphal

Urban. Imphal town.

In several Tables the term "Sample Population" has been used. This sample was drawn according to the following instruction of the Registrar General of India. Enumeration was done on pads of 100 slips each, a slip containing the record of an individual.

"Break each pad and stack the slips of the pad; and "cut" the stack as in a card game. place the lower portion above the upper portion and then deal the slips into the pigeon holes. You should deal the slips into pigeon holes in the order of 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 successively. All the time, you should watch the slips of 'Displaced Persons'. If you come across any slip of a displaced persons deal it in the pigeon hole seperately labelled for "Displaced Persons". Thus there were three bundles; (i) General Slips i e. Slips combined for holes labelled for 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 (ii) Sample Slips i e. Slips in the hole marked '5' and (iii) Displaced Persons.

Hence it will be seen that the sample is not a sample of the total population but of the latter excluding the 'Displaced Population'.

The check factors for the sample population are:—

1,000 S/G Rural Total = 110·9

1,000 S/G District Total = 110·9

A 'Displaced Person' was defined by the Registrar General of India as follows :—

A "Displaced Person" means any person who has entered India having left or being compelled to leave his or her home in Eastern Pakistan on or after the 1st March, 1947 or his/her home in Eastern Pakistan on or after the 15th October, 1946 on account of civil disturbances or the fear of such disturbances or on account of the setting up of the two Dominions of India and Pakistan."

INSTRUCTIONS FOR TABULATION OF VILLAGE NOTES.

The important information for every village was separately recorded on printed forms and has been incorporated in columns 3 and 4 of Primary Census Abstract using the symbols given below :—

1. Floods :—Make no entry if the village is not liable to flood, write "f" if it is liable to flood of any category.

2. Epedemics :—No entry if the village is not subject to any epidemics. If you find entries like Cholera, Small-pox, Kala-azar, Malaria, write Ch, Sp, Ka, or Mal. For all other epidemics mentioned in this column, enter it in full.

3. Water-Supply :—

(a) The village has a source of water supply provided by the Government or Local Board.

(b) Natural sources of supply like rivers and bils.

(c) Private supply.

(d) Acute scarcity.

Underlined, it will indicate that quality of drinking water is bad.

4. Medical Facilities :—

(a) The village has a Local Board or Government regular dispensary within 5 miles radius.

(b) There is no regular dispensary but a Public Health Dispensary within 5 miles radius.

(c) There is no dispensary but a private qualified doctor within 5 miles radius.

(d) No medical facilities of any sort.

5. Educational Facilities :—

(1) Served by a Local Board or Government School within 2 miles radius.

(2) Served by a Private Venture School only within 2 miles radius.

(3) No educational facilities of any kind (Mission Schools have been generally treated as private Schools although in some areas where they get grant-in-aid they have been shown as Government Schools by Enumerators)
